Dear Sally,

Just heard about your Mother's passing. I've known her all my life, and I'll miss not seeing her anymore — when I go to Hayward. It's a shame she had to suffer so much. I hear that a great number of friends attended the services. I'm sorry that you were not well enough to attend. By the time you read this — I hope you will be feeling much better.

I guess all the children are grown up, and settled in a ^{away} life of his own, but not too far to visit you. Hope your sisters are doing okay.

The veg. garden and yard keep us busy, (I frozen a lot of string-beans and zucchini squash and sugar pod peas) and my flower garden keeps me quite occupied.

Please take good care of yourself.

Sincerely,
Yukie
