

MEASLES DECREASE 25% SINCE OUTBREAK

60 CASES AT PRESENT, PUBLIC HEALTH DEPARTMENT REPORTS

The Public Health department is winning a battle against measles.

The department headed by Mrs. Chiye Yamada has reported a 25 per-cent decrease since the outbreak of the disease. At the highest peak, some 80 quarantine signs were on the doorways of colonists.

This number is constantly being reduced by the department's preventive program. At present, there are 60 cases of measles.

Measles like any other contagious disease, is spread by exposure and contact, it was explained. Pre-school age children are more susceptible than their elders because some adults have at one time or another had measles which immunizes them.

Measles can be readily cured, but complication with Pneumonia can be serious. Symptoms are usually running nose, sore throat, red eyes and red rashes over the face and behind the ears.

FIRE DEPARTMENT

ICE RINK CONSTRUCTION NEAR BARRACKS HAZARDOUS

The fire department has requested the further construction of artificial skating ice rink between the barracks be discontinued.

"They are hazardous to firemen in emergency and will hamper fire fighting," the dept. said. It has been noted that already accidents have occurred when strangers have visited blocks with rinks. The chances of aged persons slipping and injuring themselves after dark is very likely, the dept. said.

So as to not deprive the skaters of their new winter pastime, the rec. department is laying plans for huge rinks to be built in each of the four firebreaks.

"RED INK" SOCIAL LIFE

It has become increasingly apparent that our social life in the Center is far and above the ordinary income of the evacuees here.

Candidly speaking, the Tuleans are spending too much; they are not balancing the budget.

When the family budget is unbalanced and finds it to be in the red at the end of the month, this family cannot be considered as being in a healthy economic status. The same can be said of the economic life of any one group.

WE SPENT $200,000 LAST MONTH

Although we have no official figures, it is said that our evacuees spent somewhere around $150,000 last month in the community stores. The amount they spent for making purchases through mail orders and through their friends on the outside is incalculable, but is believed to have run into tens of thousands of dollars. All total, the Tuleans must have spent more than $200,000 in the month of December. In an ordinary month, the community stores take in about $95,000 as gross sale. Added to this amount is the tremendous sum of money flowing out of the Project through mail orders, and into the hands of a lot of profiteers engaged in illegitimate business.

When Dick Reeder, the fancy men's clotheirs from Klamath Falls, came into our camp last week, our zoot-suit boys and dandy fellows are reported to have cleaned up almost everything the merchant had brought in here over-working the cash registers at No. 5 canteen to the tune of $2500 in one day. A lot of the boys spent all of their WRA wages of $16-a-month or more.

Adult residents of the Colony, who kicked about children spending 5 cents for movies at the time of the theater building referendum, are now allowing their youngsters to buy piles and piles of 10-cent comic books at the news stand.

OUR AFFAIRS TOO ELABORATE

Some time ago, "Our Town" columnist, Eugene Okada, wailed about our dance affairs being "too elaborate." Not only our dances, but our wedding receptions are getting to be too elaborate.

All this is not in consistency with our way of living here.

It is well for our colonists to come down to earth again --- remembering the days immediately following the evacuation --- and look down at the dusty road on which we walk today.

In appearance, keep clean and neat. In mental outlook, be alert and objective. Lead a life of Spartan simplicity.

This is war. And we live in a camp.
