Less Labor On U.S. Farms

The total number of persons employed on farms on May 1 was 10,492,000, or about 304,000 less than on the first of May 1942, says a report from the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Employment of both family workers and hired workers was lower with hired workers down relatively much more than family workers. Compared with a year earlier, hired employment declined 153,000 to 2,244,000 persons employed on May 1, 1943, while family worker employment declined 151,000 to 8,248,000 persons employed on that date. The total number in farm work is about 3 percent less than a year ago.

All geographic divisions showed decrease in farm employment, except the Pacific Coast states, where there was a 4 percent increase (cont. on page 2)

WRA ANNOUNCES REASON WHY NYA AGREEMENT CANCELLED

The War Relocation Authority announced today that, following the recent unfounded allegations made by an investigator of a Congressional committee, it has been notified by the Administrator of the National Youth Administration of the cancellation of arrangements made early in April for the training of American evacuees of Japanese ancestry in resident training centers of the NYA.

Within recent weeks a total of 275 young men and women in relocation centers, all of them American citizens whose records and reliability have been carefully checked, have enrolled in vocational training courses conducted by NYA with the objective of preparing themselves for war work.

Approximately 215 of them had moved to NYA centers for their training. All those enrolled will be required to leave NYA centers at once.

The War Relocation Authority is making arrangements to relocate the displaced trainees outside the relocation centers in jobs or in training courses under other auspices than NYA. War Relocation Authority officials feel that it is not in the public interest for these young people to return to the relocation centers.

EVACUEE'S DIET DEPENDS ON PROJECT FARM PRODUCTION

WRA project directors meeting in Washington last week were told bluntly that the diet of evacuees this year will depend largely on the success of the agricultural program at the relocation centers.

"We must face the facts in the situation," Mr. Ervin J. Utz, chief of the Agricultural Division, told the gathering. "I do not think I am being an alarmist in saying that the nation is facing one of the most critical shortages in its entire history. WRA is going to experience increasing difficulty in buying certain types of food. Moreover, public opinion just will not allow any group such as the center residents, with access to plenty of land and other facilities for home production, to further burden the already critically short commercial food markets. The civilian population is fully conscious of the day's Dispatch because it was interpreted by some that gasoline had been supplied to evacuees. This has never been the case.

The Department of Agriculture says that unprecedented numbers of women are helping in the fields and that, in many cases, various (cont. on page 3)

WRA Regulation Bars Evacuee Owned Cars

WRA regulations have never permitted evacuee owned automobiles on the Project. Anyone contemplating bringing his automobile to this center must make other arrangements, according to Mortimer C. Cooke.

Apparently unadvised of this, an evacuee had his car sent to the center for storage until time for him to go out on indefinite leave. The car was not admitted and is now in storage in Klamath Falls.

Not only privately owned evacuee cars are not, and never have been allowed on the Project, but the ORA

Ration Boards in Klamath Falls and Tule Lake refuse to supply gasoline to owners of such cars because evacuee owned cars are prohibited from this area.

The Project, naturally, has not and will not supply gasoline to the evacuee owners of cars. This announcement supplements the one in yester-

Less Workers This Year

crease resulting from the employment of more family workers, and the New England states where a very slight increase was shown.

Comparisons for different sections, figures in nearest 1,000's follow:

	May 1, 1942	May 1, 1943	Inc. or Dec.
New England	245	246	↑ 1
Middle Atlantic	619	590	- 29
East North Central	1518	1437	-181
West North Central	1666	1626	- 40
South Atlantic	2175	2083	- 92
East South Central	1817	1750	- 67
West South Central	1811	1802	- 9
Mountain States	433	427	- 6
Pacific States	512	513	↑ 1

Probably the most surprising fact revealed in the farm labor figures from the Department of Agriculture is the increase shown in the Pacific Coast states. This is largely accounted for by employment of a greater number of family workers.

The Department of Agriculture report recognizes the contribution to the farm labor supply of the country being made by evacuees from the relocation centers. Much of this labor, it is indicated, is in the sugar beet fields of the mountain states and farther south in the production of vegetables.

The need for experience workers in ranch work continues to cause concern, the report states.

Must Raise Farm Foods

(continued from page 1) members of farm families from grandfathers to school girls are taking turns to keep the tractors rolling. Unless center residents produce at least as much food as is called for in the 1943 agricultural program, the quality and quantity of food on the mess hall tables is quite definitely going to decline."

Mr. Utz mentioned several reasons for his prediction of a decreased civilian food supply this year. He said that an 11 million man army, together with probable increased military activity in Europe, is expected to drain off large stocks which last year went into civilian channels. As additional areas are occupied by our invading armies, the United States will have to feed great numbers of starving peoples.

Bumper crops for the last three years have made possible the plentiful supply of food for United States civilians up to now, according to Mr. Utz. But recent crop production reports of the Department of Agriculture indicate that this situation will probably not prevail in the 1943 crop year. Crop prospects already have been lowered as a result of bad weather conditions throughout the United States during the early spring. A drought in the Southwest, frosts in Florida, and unseasonably cold weather in the Northeast have affected early vegetable crops, and the recent floods in the mid-western feed crop states are expected to have severe impacts on crop-hog

WARD LEAGUES CROWNS AT STAKE THIS WEEK-END

ALL TITLE RACES ARE CLOSE

While Block 13 in Ward I, Block 21 in Ward IV and Block 47 in Ward V sit safely as the respective Ward champions, the other league races are still in a muddle with games this week-end to decide the title winner.

As of yesterday afternoon, the picture in Wards II, III, VI and VII were as follows:

WARD II

Block 36	6	0	1.000
Block 22	5	2	.714
