

SIXTY TEACHERS REPORT FOR WORK

Sixty teachers have reported for work on the project and are under training in the teaching institute. Fifteen teaching and three supervisory positions are yet vacant in the high schools, and seven elementary school positions are yet unfilled.

To meet the required quota of instructors, Kenneth L. Harkness left Tule Lake today to comb ten districts including Manzanar and San Francisco.

MERIT SYSTEM GROUP TO MEET

The Merit System committee will meet at the recreation room in the administration canteen building Saturday morning.

The committee is headed by Joe E. Hayes, acting assistant project director, and includes Frank Fagan, Fred Waller, John Fukuyama, Ted Nakamura, Shidaichi Kubo and Harry Mayeda.

An immediate need for an executive secretary was announced by the committee. The applicant must be over 25 years of age, experienced and with command of both English and Japanese. All interested are asked to report at the Placement office.

FARM HARVEST IN FULL SWING

With fall and frost approaching, all manpower on the Tule Lake project farm is being concentrated towards harvesting of mature crops. The list of dozen various vegetables being harvested includes beans, Chinese cabbage, daikon, lettuce, green onions, radishes, rutabagas, spinach, swiss chard, table beets, and turnips.

The daily harvest, besides others, includes 5000 pounds of beans, 1000 dozen bunches each of green onions and radishes, 200 sacks of daikon, and 100 sacks of potatoes. Twenty acres of strength-building spinach will yield 10,000 pounds daily during the harvest season.

Last week saw three shipments of fresh vegetables shipped to other relocation centers from Tule Lake.

All produce is prepared for shipment at the packing houses situated far south of the Colony where the vegetables are washed in four huge tanks and packed in two-pound bunches by 30 women. The bunched vegetable is then packed with ice into crates by a team of four packers and loaded on

VOLUNTEER CREWS SHOVEL COAL

A crew of about 200 colonists, composed of block managers, members of the Community Council and a resident from each block, hauled coal on a volunteer basis from 7 p.m. to midnight Wednesday night.

Five carloads were cleared by the crew in about three hours. Sandwiches and warm meals were served the volunteers by the night kitchen.

Fifty carloads of coal destined for Tule Lake are reported to be laid idle somewhere between here and Salt Lake City. Empty freight cars must be returned before the Colony is able to receive further shipments, it was said.

Another volunteer crew worked Thursday night to facilitate delivery of coal from the side-track to 62 blocks in the City.
