LONDON COVENANT IS SIGNED BY FIVE LEADING POWERS

Agreement Based Upon Three Nations' Pact With Italy, France Restricted

NEW PARLEY IN 1936

LONDON — The conference ordeal to effect a five power naval disarmament treaty is now a matter of history and the Washington naval pact of 1922 is to be augmented by the London covenant agreed upon and signed on Tuesday noon.

In the famous Queen Anne room of historical St. James Palace, the delegates of the five leading maritime nations convened for the final plenary session of the conference, which held forth from Jan. 21, until Tuesday, to sign the document limiting and reducing the naval tonnage of the United States, England and Japan and holding France and Italy to the spirit of the treaty.

Delegates Sign

The final session, lasting shortly over three hours, concluded its business for the conference when several minutes before 1 p. m., the document was agreed upon to be signed. The treaty was signed by the American delegation headed by Col. Stimson, Aristide Briand for France, Admiral Siriani for Italy, Premier MacDonald for England, Reijiro Wakatsuki for Japan, and their respective delegations followed in order to place their signatures on the covenant. Each delegation expressed their satisfaction over the accomplishment of the conference's work, previous to the signing.

The five power agreement is based upon the three power pact entered into by the United States, Great Britain and Japan and opens the way to another conference in 1936. Through this treaty the United States and Great Britain have concluded an arrangement to arrive at parity while Japan, in making reductions attains a proportionate degree of parity based upon a principle of security. Both France and Italy are not tied to the reduction and limitation arrangements of the treaty but are restricted from building capital ships while they must, also, adhere to the humanization clause of submarine warfare.

Contingency Clause

The one other part incorporated in the treaty is the contingency clause which safeguards the three capital nations from the naval competitions of non-signatory nations of the three power pact. This clause allows the three nations to build to greater advantage in any category that the other powers might enhance with larger tonnage.

On capital ships, the United States is to scrap three of her vessels, the Florida, Utah, and either the Arkansas or the Wyoming. England is to scrap the Iron Duke, Benbow, Marlborough, Emperor of India, and the Tiger. Japan, the Hiei.

However, the three nations are allowed to retain one of the ships as a training vessel and the United States may either retain the Arkansas or the Wyoming while Britain will keep the Iron Duke and Japan the Hiei.

China, Japan Sign Tariff Agreement

TOKIO — It has been learned here that the recently concluded Sino-Japanese tariff agreement was approved by the Privy Council last Friday.

The negotiations on this convention had been proceeding for number of months, and was finally concluded by C. T. Wang, Chinese Minister of Foreign Affairs, and Consul General A. Sugimitsu, at the capital of China.

Assassin Sentenced To Year in Prison

TOKIO — Tokujii Kuroda, who assassinated Senji Yamamoto, Labor member of Parliament, last year, while the latter was dining in a hotel, was sentenced to 12 years imprisonment by the court of appeals here last week.

Senators Against Parker Approval

WASHINGTON — President Hoover will remain firm in his nomination of Judge John J. Parker for Associate Justice of the Supreme Court, it was learned here, in spite of the objection of the Senate judiciary committee.

The judiciary committee led by Sen. Norris, has decided to make an unfavorable report on the Parker confirmation. The Judge, if he does not desire to be made the target of the committee's objections to him, will be forced to request that his name be withdrawn. This is felt will happen under the present circumstances. President Hoover, however, will stand firm on his nomination, unless this step is taken by Judge Parker, himself.

KWANSAI UNIVERSITY NINE HERE ON STUDY TOUR OF PACIFIC COAST

Arriving here on a twenty-seven day study tour of Pacific Coast cities, the Kwansai University baseball team with its coach and manager stepped off the Arabia Maru of the O. S. K. Line on Monday.

The party has been here a week and tomorrow evening they will leave for Portland from where they will go to San Francisco and parts South. The team which is being led here by Coach Takamatsu of Waseda University fame and Yoshikawa, manager, took on this coast tour purely for study and although they will engage in games, all the demands will not be filled. They are to leave for Japan aboard the Chichibu Maru of the N. Y. K. Line on May 17.

The Kwansai University is in Osaka and is regarded one of the best institutions offering law in Japan. Takamatsu, the coach, was the first baseman of the Waseda team which made its trip here in 1921, and was regarded as Japan's outstanding initial sacker for a long time.

U. JAPAN GROUP HOLDS BANQUET

Consul Okamoto and Ashley E. Holden Speaks At Gathering

The first organization of its kind to be founded on a university campus in this country saw its inaugural banquet, with students, professors, businessmen, a diplomat, and Japanese athletes breaking bread in festivities at the University of Washington Japan Society Banquet at the College Center, Tuesday evening.

More than seventy people attended to hear the report of the Society's organization made by Frank Packard, as well as the principal speeches made by Consul Sumemasa Okamoto and Ashley E. Holden, Executive Secretary of the Seattle Japan Society. Among the guests were the thirteen Kwansai University baseball nine, now on a study tour of the Coast with their coach and manager.

Consul Gives Talk

Opening the evening's program with an appropriate gesture, Consul Okamoto felicitated the charter member students of the campus Japan Society, for the purpose of a better understanding to be promoted by them among the Japanese and American students.

It is significant, he said, that the University of Washington should take the lead in founding such an organization on the campus, since it is rightfully being maintained these days that Seattle is the gateway to the Orient. The Japanese Consul also commended the work of Mr. Holden, who helped in the formation of the campus society.

In his address Mr. Holden pointed out four great characters whose names would be indelibly recorded in Pacific history, namely Commodore Perry; Viscount Shibusawa, Japan's grand old man and the friend of America; Judge Thomas Burke, who in time of anti-Japanese sentiment on the Coast had asked for justice and peace for Japan; and Horace Greely, who laid so much stress on youth going west to make for the Pacific era. Quotes Old Poem

Portraying the campus Society as one road to peace and harmony, he quoted from a Japanese poem, that all roads at the foot of the mountain are different and far apart but at the summit they reached to the same moon.

The evening's entertainment was furnished by Tomeu Takayoshi, who rendered vocal solos midst popular accord, while the Kwansai nine rendered their alma mater song.

The election results for the next academic year installed John Trullinger as president. The other officers chosen were as follows: George Otsubo, vice-pres.; Maynard Pennell, vice-pres.; Jean Kurosaka, secretary; Sally Sue Allen, treasurer.

Board of Trustees, Belva Harris, Margaret Stanchfield, Shigeaki Ni-nomiya, Mildred Logg, Marian Klemme, Tomi Tsukuno.

Prince and Princess Takamatsu are expected to go on a one year world tour.

Commercial Cable News

TOKIO — The Tokyo Stock Exchange suspended dealing on April 11th in order to ease the situation of certain bears versus bulls, but opened business next day, April 12th, as usual, indicating firmness.

The Osaka Stock Exchange and other commodity Exchanges were not at all affected by the incident, all continuing business in a regular manner.

JAPAN IS RICH IN SPIRIT ALTHOUGH POOR MATERIALLY

Westerner Who Sneers At Or Belittles Nippon Has Another Guess Coming

By AUSTIN E. GRIFFITHS (Retired Superior Court Judge)

Japan is dominant in the north-west Pacific basin. With regard to Japan we must set aside prejudice, if there is any, and admit realities.

Japan, compared to our country, is infinitely poor in material things. But Japan is rich in spirit and purpose. Her strength is present and potential. It lies in her political unity, her frugality, her enlarging democratic liberty and the cohesive self-sacrificing quality of her national character.

One of our traveling men said to me, "Every Jap you see on the street is set on doing something." A sea captain lately said to me, "We have to hand it to the Japs. They work. They save. You can't keep those fellows down."

Japan's proximity to the mainland, her special interest there are actualities. Her 63,000,000 people on the island and her 90,000,000 or more in the empire are also facts.

Extensive Program

Intensive industrialization and commercialization are to be expected. I am quite sure that the program of electrification, water power, irrigation, good roads, rapid transit and the increasing use of modern machinery will add to her domestic resources and capacities and much enlarge the agricultural production of the main islands.

The fear of excessive population, the spectre of the Far East, I am satisfied will be removed by the good sense of the Japanese by means of rational birth control.

The use of automobiles, the motorization of Japan since I was there nine years ago is most striking. While there are a thousand walkers to be run over there to one here, the pedestrian keeps his way and lets the machine do the dodging. We are apt to believe Eastern lives are cheap, but their solicitude toward children shows a tender regard for human life.

Japan Grateful

The reconstruction of Tokyo and Yokohama region compels our admiration. Here I pause to say how often the Japanese express orally and by diagrams their deep gratitude to the people of the United States for help given to them in that terrible disaster.

The mayor of Tokyo told me that the official cost of public construction would be $350,000,000 or more. That program is near completion. This work illustrates their fine character and grim resolve to stand up. The new work is solid, modern, permanent.

The street area of Tokyo before the disaster equaled 12 per cent of the total city area; it is now 25 per cent. Many new parks and playgrounds have been laid out. School playgrounds to the number of 53 have been added and others are planned.

New Constructions

Even outside the zone of the 1923 disaster, in cities such as Kobe and Osaka, I saw that new buildings, new railway construction, city improvements are built in defiance of both earthquake and fire.

I have not the time to go into detail. The people are progressive. They are not imitators. They have the sense to subordinate their pride in order to choose from anywhere whatever they deem will be good or useful.

The big machine and business consolidations are making inroads in Japan. They are concerned about the future living of their swarming millions. In order to have their children become skillful workmen of some sort as well as intelligent citizens their public schools are taking on more industrial-occupational education. They foresee that all persons cannot wear a white collar as clerks, salesmen, lawyers, doctors and legislators, but that some of their children must do the real work of the country.

In 1875, the government gave direct attention to seafaring and maritime education. See the results to-day. Their ships are on every sea. Let me suggest that we should do the same here. There is not a trade or industrial or full occupational school in the state of Washington. We should from now on give heed to early training in aviation, seafaring, sea business and the stabilized industries as well as to the cultural subjects in our public schools.

The Japanese tell me they want the common man in some way to master the mercile machine and to survive big business and not to sink into a state of mental, social serfdom.

The American or Westerner who sneers at the Japanese or belittles their efforts at self improvement, has in the language of the street, another guess coming.

My own judgment is that despite anything which may be said to the contrary, the people of Japan will gladly co-operate and collaborate with America and Britain for the normal peaceful evolution of all the Pacific countries.

Ruler's Birthday To Be Celebrated

"Ten-cho-setsu," the birthday of H. I. M. the Emperor Hirohito of Japan, falls on Tuesday, April 29 and will be marked by nationwide celebration in the Island Empire.

That celebration will be echoed in Japanese communities throughout the world wherever Japanese reside. In Seattle a formal ceremony will be held at the Japanese Consulate at 10 a. m.

A simple celebration and a entertainment to mark the occasion will be held at the Nippon Kan in the evening.

This is the second anniversary of the Emperor's birthday since his coronation.

PLANS PROGRESS FOR BIG CONCLAVE

General Canvass and Tag Sale De-cided At Citizens' Meeting

The general plans are now progressing for the coming convention of the National Council of Japanese-American Citizens Leagues and beginning sometime next month an intensive campaign for funds to finance the conference, will be launched, it was agreed at the Citizens League meeting held at the Japanese Chamber of Commerce last Saturday evening.

The inaugural convention under the entity of the National Council is to be held on August 30, 31, and Labor day, tentatively, and delegates from nearly all the Japanese-American citizens organizations of the Coast, as well as from Honolulu, are expected to attend. The convention will be the first of its kind to be held in this city and due to this reason much importance and prominence is attached to the occasion.

General Canvass

The meeting last Saturday evening, presided over by George Ishihara, vice-president in the absence of Clarence Arai, chiefly discussed ways and means to carry out the campaign to raise funds for the convention and two methods were virtually adopted. First a general canvass is to be made, starting sometime in May, while a tag sale will also be instituted just prior to the convention week.

At the present time the exact number of delegates to attend the event is not known but early next month a general invitation will be sent out to the California organizations as well as Hawaii and some of the leading businessmen and citizens on the Coast. The money to be raised is to help finance the expenditures to be incurred during the stay of the delegates and guests here.

Annual Dinner

Another important event discussed last Saturday was the coming annual dinner of the league, at which time it is possible that it will turn into a regular get-together affair to start the ball rolling for the convention funds campaign. The time of this dinner has not been decided as yet but a special committee already selected will begin work soon, it is understood.

Clarence Arai, president, is scheduled to arrive back in this city sometime during the first week of next month and the next meeting of the League to discuss convention plans further is to be held on May 17, at which time he expected to bring out some helpful suggestions in bringing the delegates here for the convention.

CONSIDER CHANCES BEFORE LAUNCHING NEW PROPOSITION

Build Up Business Started By First Generation; Look Before You Jump Blindly

RESPECT ESTABLISHED

By Rio Kashiwagi

"Business" seems to be most popular among the young men who are attending high schools and universities. A business of some sort seems to be the chief aim of the high minded youths of today.

Some picture immediately an office, two or three stenographers and thousands of dollars exchanging hands. Others think about the smaller lines, pawn shops, drug stores, haberdashery, etc. It certainly would be wonderful if things were as you think it is and not as they really are.

Consider Chances

A position in a large American or Japanese concern may be all right for some, but we all can't have white collar jobs. Consider the chances you have to make a comfortable amount before diving for a clerk's position.

What's the matter with considering foundations the first generation has made for you?

They came here with almost nothing and now their wealth per capita has grown to a respectable position among the races here in the United States. Why should you young people look for and dig your own foundations and go through the same hardships your parents went through? Why not build up the businesses the first generation started?

Reputation Built

Do not forget dairying and truck farming are businesses which can be easily made into a well paying proposition now that the older folks have built up the reputation, respect, and good-will.

Think of the young proprietor of a newstand and confectionary store in a little "Crack-in-the-wall" on a popular street, before you go after a small position in a large concern. He is employing a clerk and you are being employed; he is a proprietor and you are a wage earner; he commands respect and consideration of all other businesses and you do not; he can experiment and build up his knowledge of business and you can not, for one blunder will put you in the street; he makes two to three hundred dollars a month clear and above expenses and you get your eighty to a hundred dollars a month minus your carfare and meals.

Capital Can Double

His capital can draw the same dividends in stocks as anyone's and it can double just as easily even though his business is small. In other words, he is a man on wheels and you are not.

Not every one can be a pioneer in business and get some place. Someone must continue to build on what the older generation has already started. Consider again your chances of squeezing into the business world with a new proposition and do not fail to appreciate the good works done by the first generation. Look before you jump.

KWANSAI U. TEAM TO TACKLE C. P. S. AT TACOMA TODAY

Honda, Star Hurler, Leads Japan University Nine In Tour of Pacific Coast

TWO GAMES PLAYED HERE

With Honda, one of Japan's Big Four pitching aces, assuming the mound, the Kwansai University nine, now in this country, is scheduled to meet the College of Puget Sound of Tacoma at Recreation Field today from 4 p. m.

The Kwansai nine engaged the University of Washington diamond squad on Thursday noon and yesterday tackled the Taiyos at the Civic Auditorium. With these two games under their belts the Japanese college stars are getting away from their sea legs and the Puget Sound College nine is expected to be given a tussle which may be surprising.

Honda, the pitching ace, ranks with Miyatake of Keio University, Ogawa of Waseda, and Nakamura of Meiji, the three leading collegiate baseball teams of Tokyo, known to be the strongest in Japan. As relief men, Kojima and Sakurai have already proved their mettle and the nine from Japan is not expecting any trouble.

Besides his pitching, Honda is a veritable Bambino with the stick and with Sakai, r. f., batting in third place just ahead of him, the star southpaw twirler will have a good opportunity to win his game today. After the game today, the Kwansai nine is expected to leave for Portland where they will undoubtedly, meet Fuji team of that city either tomorrow or Monday.

WASHINGTON WINS OVER KWANSAI NINE

In their first engagement here, the Kwansai University Baseball Team went down to a 7 to 1 defeat at the hands of a strong University of Washington aggregation Thursday at the University field.

Washington drew first blood in the third inning when Harper scored on Nelson's timely bingle over second. The Nipponese tied the count in the fifth when Miki drove in Oda with a triple, but the local boys immediately regained the lead in their half of the inning when Brannon counted on White's triple.

The score remained 2 to 1 until the eighth when after two down a costly bobble by the Kwansai second baseman paved the way for an additional five runs which cinched the game.

Nelson and Barberis cut off two seemingly safe hits with spectacular plays. For the Kwansai team the battery and Sakai, right fielder were the best. Gaw led the hitters with two rousing triples, White and Miki also got triples. The score:

Washington	7	9	1
Kwansai	1	4	4

Batteries: Harper and Brannon, Honda and Kageyama.

Diamond Hits

By TANGE

The Green Lake team won their first win of the season, and how they did win! It must have given the boys a thrill to topple over the strongest contender of the league championship, White River. They say George Nishitani owns the Green Lake district since he hit that home-run in the last inning after two were out with the score tied.

Don't tell me that the little fellows can't hit. Terada of Auburn is what I would call a half-pint centerfielder. Small but how he can pound the ball and sock them at the plate. In the Auburn-Bellevue game he hit a home run for the Auburnites.

There is much gnashing of teeth in the Ginsei Jr. camp as they lament the fact that they lost to the "kozos", meaning the Taiyo Cubs. The Cubs are well named, that is as Cubs, for they are young, peppy, eager to learn and serious-minded. They take their baseball seriously. More power to them that deserve it.

Sunday was a red-letter day for the Taiyo A. C. as all three of their teams came through with victories: the Taiyo first-team trimming Western Electric, Taiyo Reds taking into camp the strong Holland Hardware team, and the Cubs downing Ginsei Jrs.

K. Tanaka, catcher for the Ginseis, is named Kame or in English Turtle, because of his slowness in his traversing the spaces between bases. Last Sunday found him caught between third and home in a pickle. His legs failed him at the right moment for he fell down. This so excited the fielder that he missed the ball. He was safe at home. It isn't the fast ones that always get their surest.

K. Nishimura, Ginsei pitcher, is getting better every game. The first game he struck out 7; the second game he struck out 10; the third game he struck out 13. He is hoping it will be 16 against White River!

TAIYO CUBS BEAT GINSEI JR. TEAM

Auburn Downs Bellevue in Wild and Woolly Tussle, 10-9

The Taiyo Cubs and the Ginsei Jrs. put on a wild and woolly game, with the Cubs holding off the Ginsei and winning a well deserved victory. The Stars started things interestingly by scoring four runs in the opening inning, but the Cubs came right back to shove over seven runs.

Not to be outdone the Stars came back in the first half of the second to score four more, putting them into the lead, but the Cubs came back to score one to tie it again. The Stars took the lead again in the fourth smashing in 5 runs to put the game more or less on the ice.

Cubs Finish Strong

The Cubs' four runs in the fifth looked like the Indian sign for the Stars. The seventh inning opened with the Taiyos having a 8 run lead. The Stars got 7 runs in that inning. Six errors and three hits told the story that might have meant defeat for the Cubs.

The Cubs finished strong as they held the Stars blanked thereafter to win the game.

Masuda, Ogishima, Hagihara, and Iseki hit well for the Cubs; Masoda getting a triple and a two-bagger to lead the extra-base hitters. Iwami, Kadaya, Yoshida, and Hasegawa hit well for the Stars.

The batteries were for the Taiyo Cubs Tanaka, Tsujimoto, and Ogishima; for the Stars Nishimoto, Yoshida, and Nishimura.

Auburn Wins Tussle

Auburn and Bellevue put on another wild-and-wooly game, with the former emerging on the long side of the score 10-9. Auburn started out strongly by getting 3 runs, but the Bellevue nine came back to get 6 in their half of the first inning. Auburn tied the count in the second inning by getting three runs on no hits. Auburn scored 2 runs in the fourth and eighth innings to get a comfortable lead of three runs.

The last inning found the score 10-7 in favor of the Auburnites. With two outs A. Hominaga singled to be followed by a rousing triple by Matsuzawa. Sakaguchi and M. Tomimaga singled to score Matsuzawa.

Kaneshige Whiffs Man

With the tying and winning run on the bases, Kaneshige bore down and struck out the last man to win the game.

Terada, Iseri, Kono, and Sakagami hit well for Auburn. The hitters for Bellevue were Hirota, Matsuzawa, and M. J. Tomimaga. Terada and M. Tomimaga got home-runs.

Batteries: Auburn Sakagami, Kaneshige, and Yamashita; Bellevue M. Tomimaga, A. Tomimaga, Hirota, and A. Tomimaga, Matsuo, and A. Tomimaga, Matsuo.

DOPE SPILLED AS GREEN LAKE WINS OVER WHITE RIVER

Kumagai, Ishida, Kashiwagi, and Nishitani Hitting Stars of Lakers' Victory

GINSEI TOPS "A" LEAGUE

Green Lake upset the dope by defeating the strong out-of-town contender for The Courier championship, White River, giving them their first defeat 12-13 on the Green Lake playground Sunday.

White River went into the lead in the opening inning as they scored three runs on three base-on-balls and one hit. The second inning found the Whites with the score 4-0 in their favor.

The Lakers pushed over 5 runs in their half of the second inning to take the lead. Whites scored 2 in the fifth to take the lead but the Lakers came back strong as they counted three, putting Green Lake 2 runs to the good.

Things Look Dark

The seventh inning found the score 7-9 in favor of the Lakers. White River came back strong for the finishing innings as they knocked in 5 runs in the eighth, taking a three run lead over the Lakers. Things looked dark for the Lakers but Kumagai's homer with two on tied the count.

The Whites were blanked in the ninth inning and with two outs for the Lakers, George Nishitani came up to pinch-hit. His home-run won the game for the Lakers.

Hitting Stars

Kumagai, Ishida, Kashiwagi, and George Nishitani were the hitting stars of the Lakers. Takeshita, fourth-batter for the White River team, got four out of five.

The winning battery was Kashiwagi and Abe. The White River battery was Iseri, J. Okimoto, and Tsukamaki.

By defeating the Market nine, Ginsei went into the league leadership as White River bowed to Green Lake. Market gave the Stars a scare for three innings as they held a one run lead over them, 3-4. In the fourth inning the Star's big guns got going and they pushed over 11 runs on 9 hits, including a three-bagger by I. Niimi and a home-run by Ken Kuniyuki.

Stars Get Going

In the seventh inning the Stars got going again and pushed over seven more runs. This time they featured four hits, including a home-run by I. Niimi. Ginsei got 23 hits all told with Suzuki getting 5 out of 6 tries. Kuniyuki and Niimi also bombarded the Market offerings.

Ginsei battery was K. Nishimura and Tanaka. Market line-up with Hisamune hurling and Chihara catching. Market was held down to 5 hits; Kumasaka getting 2 of them.

The batteries for the Tacs were Kawaguchi, Koyama, Sakamoto.

SAIKI TROPHY TO BE SHOWN

A beautiful trophy with a base and handles of green stone, for the three year winner of The Courier Class "A" Baseball League will be shown in the window of the Kelly Yamada Sports Store on Jackson Street today.

The trophy was donated to The Japanese-American Courier by Dr. Saiki, local physician and one time diamond athlete. In presenting the trophy to The Courier Class A League, the doctor expressed his opinion that he desired to see greater enthusiasm as well as better playing on a clean basis of sportsmanship among the second generation.

The trophy is to be presented to the winner of this year's Class A competitions for a year. Three years of championship is required for permanent possession.

PORTLAND JUNIORS DOWN MONTAVILLA

Gresham Troutdale Nine Wins Over Old Timers, 10-7

By GEORGE OCHIKUBO

PORTLAND, — A double header was played on the Benson field last Sunday before a large crowd of Japanese fans, with sensational fielding marking the contest.

Portland Juniors won from Montaville nine, 10-8, in a see-saw contest. The stick work of Moto Kobayashi of Portland and Mike Saruwatari of Montaville featured the contest. Woodrow Shioki pitched a brilliant game for the losers, striking out 12 men but his support failed him in the pinches.

Art Somekawa, who relieved Paul Abe in the last canto, pitched into a double play and the third out was made easily.

In the second game, the Gresham Troutdale Juniors won from the Old Timers, 10-7 in a sloppy game. Ochikubo, Kobayashi and Tsuboi did the hurling while "Doc" Kayama, ex-Asahi flame, did the back-stopping.

Elmer Nishimoto played an unexpected game at first, while Hirata did some sensational fielding at third base.

LOTUS PLAYS TACOMA

Journeying to Tacoma, the Lotus Seniors tied an extra-inning game with the Tacoma Buddhists, 7-7 last Sunday. The Lotus Juniors defeated the Tacoma second team, 5-4.

NIPPON INTER-CITY TEAM LOSES, 10-2 IN TILT SUNDAY

Community League Nine Downed in Hard Tussle by West Seattle

The Nippon Inter-City team lost its opening game at Upper Woodland to the Ballard Merchants 10-2. Hits coupled with errors paved the way for the defeat. The battery for the Nips were Taiji Takayoshi, Okada, and Arizumi.

The Nippon Community League team had a hard tussle with the West Seattle team, coming out on the short side of the 7-6 score. The Nippons went into the lead in the third with three runs pushed over, featuring Kay Hamada's push bunt and his home steal as Cunningham walked towards the pitcher's box.

The West Seattle team pushed over three runs in their half of the third inning to tie the count. The Nippons lost a good chance to score on Yasui's three-base hit when the squeeze-play failed.

The Nippon infield looks very fast as they line-up with Aoki, first base; Kuniyuki, second base; Roy Yamamura, short stop; Kay Hamada, third base. The batteries were Okada, K. Arai, Nagamine, and K. Nakayama.

This Sunday's schedule finds the Nippons opening the Community League season at the Civic Auditorium at 12 o'clock against the Queen Anne entry. The Inter-City team travels to Monroe.

THE LONDON TREATY

The trials and tribulations of the London conference have been portrayed prominently in the news sheets with doubtful credit to haggard diplomats, but the real work of the conference seems to have been accomplished, in two phases, one contingent upon the other.

It is obvious that the London treaty sprang from the three power accord on reductions between the United States, Great Britain and Japan. These three powers augmented the work of the Washington deliberations, 1921-22, by bringing other categories of naval vessels into the limitations columns and in furtherance of the policy of peace inspired both France and Italy to join the pact in its second phase, for a naval holiday until 1936.

Under the circumstances of the present world naval situation, no other formula could probably have been laid which would satisfy the powers concerned. First the conference took a five power agreement turn but this became impossible of deliberations when France balked at parity with Italy. The drawn out negotiations proved of no avail. France remained adamant on her stand for a greater navy than that of Italy's. The five power treaty was to have been the first and only part but this was wrecked on this shoal of dispute between the two latin powers on what they believed was a necessary requirement in tonnages for security.

The only way left open, if the conference was to be fruitful of success, then, lay in the three power treaty. This accord, which was the foundation of the treaty, was a happy coincidence in that it sponsored a formula for absolute parity between the United States and Great Britain while at the same time it satisfied Japan's demand for a larger ratio, in a measure. All this, however, was engineered with the motive of reductions in view and departed none from the spirit of the conference.

This accord between the three greatest maritime nations of the world had a telling moral effect upon both France and Italy and it paved the way to the five power agreement originally proposed.

The truth of the London treaty is that it is in fact two separate treaties combined harmoniously. Therein lay the genius of diplomacy today and it automatically formulated a convention whose two significant phases are contingent upon the other. In the lay man's words, the three power accord would mean nothing if the other two nations were not to abide by the spirit of the treaty and maintain the naval holiday proposed in the treaty until 1936. The United States, Great Britain and Japan, under a special clause in the draft, have reserved the right to build ship for ship by mutual consent if any of the two other non-signatories to the first phase, instituted a naval building program. That is the safeguard in the treaty and which joins the five powers into a common accord, simply stated.

Whatever, the criticisms to the London treaty may be in any of the five countries, it is obvious that under the trying situation of endeavoring to appease one and all and not satisfying any, the three power accord forming the basis for the five power agreement, was the only alternative, if the conference was not to go to the way of the Geneva parley of 1927.

If the London conference has brought out that the problems of peace are complicated and difficult of solution, it has, also, left a deep impression that the causes of war, deep-rooted as they are, must be eliminated. The London treaty, with its contingent phases, if it can mean this, has been a well worthwhile attempt.

STOP! LOOK! LISTEN!

Since the Americans of Japanese ancestry have come to win attention in the forum of Japanese activities on the Coast, it is, probably, no less true, that they have come to be a natural target of some of our most venerable but highly judicial critics who are wont to make every utterance a sharp fanged and short sighted criticism of the second generation.

The reason that the younger generation are heading into boiling water, is due not only because of their failings but, primarily, because of their growing age and the duties of existence which forcefully beckons them. First there is the question of vocation and how to adapt oneself to the conditions of progress, as they are, today. Then there is the marriage problem, which has only recently come to win a prominent spotlight, through the maturity of some of our Americans of Japanese ancestry of both sexes. There are other problems as well but these two, undoubtedly, take up the limelight.

On every one of the questions, the first generation critics have been wont to profess more knowledge and information than those who must actually contend with the situations presented. No doubt, these critics are versed in the trials of existence, but it is also true that the younger generation are not asleep to the call of the times and the demands it makes. Conditions, today, if not vastly different from yester year, are at least, peculiar to the present age and they must be met under the codes and the theories practiced in the present.

Furthermore, it must be considered by some of our critics that the Americans of Japanese ancestry are yet in their stage of development and not the finished product which would, probably, justify criticisms on their failings. True enough, the younger generation may lack some of the hardiness of our first generation pioneers, from Japan, but we are left to wonder whether any race, in this country, possesses the physical stamina of their fathers. If they do, we do and as much, cannot be denied since the trials of the second generation are, probably, innumerable more than that of any other American race. The critics should have no ground for argument, on this point, under present day circumstances.

The great majority of the second generation are still in their teens or younger and in them reposes the hopes of the second generation. That day when these hopes will materialize has not yet arrived. The older group of Americans of Japanese ancestry, worthy enough were forced to give up some of the opportunities which came their way owing to the circumstances of their parents and if they cannot measure up to the ambitions forced upon them, it is an unfair argument to brand the entire generation of young people as failures and to score them for not being successes overnight and prematurely.

What must be born in mind, is that the second generation, which means the great number of young people still in their stage of development, is still immature and constitutes an uncultured field. The critics must look ahead in their protests lest they curb the mind of the young to desperation and hopelessness. For critics "Stop, Look, Listen," is not a bad warning.

TRADES

White collars are often discarded for overalls at a belated time and we find that on too many occasions the misfits are holding down jobs and positions thereby affecting the entire economic system.

Just as the trend of urbanization started immediately after the World War, there seems to be an evident penchant for the young people of the country to consider nothing less than a white collar job. This is unfortunate since the trades of the day are urgently in need of trained workers while white collar positions are besieged by a preponderance of office-seekers.

As Judge Griffiths has pointed out in his article appearing in this week's issue, not any man can become, a clerk, salesman, lawyer, doctor or legislator. He also, states, that in Japan a number of industrial occupational educational schools are being founded to train the young in various industrial lines.

This is a solution to the situation, here. By training the young in our high schools for some special trade, the interest will be created and a number of them will find what is to their interest, in trade. The trained worker is the assurance of efficiency and the economic system of the day is guided by the policy of efficiency in its greater progress.

The real trouble is that too often the trades are belittled but they are, as one prominent speaker mentioned once, "the salt of the land," in meaning the people who work them.

A back to the farm movement should give a proper start to the encouragement of trades. Every soldier cannot become a general, neither can everyone and anyone hold down a white collar job.

MIDAS HAD A DAUGHTER

The mansion of Burton W. Smythe, successful business man, is a dwelling of which any man could be proud.

Every detail of the castle, from the garage with its limousine to the spacious living room, reflects the owner's prosperity.

A marvellous collection of books stands on the shelves of Mr. Smythe's library. The fact that most of them have never been opened or read does not bother him. The volumes are all gilt-edged, expensively bound, and make a showy display.

His acquaintances envy Mr. Smythe as a man who has achieved success. At times he is harsh in his methods and not always scrupulous, but that's business acumen. His son, losing a mother's care, has become a wild and shiftless spendthrift, but then, you know these modern youths!

Yes, there are many men who would like to be in the shoes of the wealthy Mr. Smythe.

Even John Jones, the young salesman, who works so hard for him. John Jones, who lives in a little bungalow with his pretty wife and the cutest baby daughter, making just enough to be comfortable and save a little for a rainy day. John Jones envies Mr. Smythe, the 1930 Midas.

The real King Midas had a daughter too. It was not until he had almost lost her that he realized his folly and returned to the gods the gift that he had asked for and received, the gift of the Golden Touch.

It's a poor policy for a father to knock another man's son who is a friend of his own.

Instead of an "Eye for an eye, a tooth for a tooth", why can't it be a smile for a smile and a hand for a hand, in a firm clasp of friendship and understanding.

What some people need is not opportunity but a little common sense backed up by hard work.

Because you work for Rockefeller or a millionaire concern the millions do not concern you nor does it place you above your fellow-man.

Glimpses of India

(The following is an extract from a personal letter written by K. U. Narasinga Rau, a highly-educated India student now attending the university in Madras.—W. T. S.)

Madras, March 1930

All westerners come to the East with a prejudiced mind and take back with them false notions. This they go and spread in their own countries. These people who visit India form hasty conclusions. From particular instances they generalize.

They never think that there is a black sheep in every flock. They generally go to the slums to find out the social or economic condition of India; and if they find a drunkard beating his wife, they jump to the conclusion that the Indian women are treated ignominiously. I should cite Miss Mayo as one of this tribe.

But my motherland is not without blemish; but no country is without blemish. To enlighten you I will enumerate the evils prevalent in India.

Cites Major Evils

Child marriage is the worst of all evils. You might not believe me, but I can show you thousands of cases where girls of 14 and 15 are mothers of a couple of children; also instances where children between the ages of 4 and 8 are married.

A law has been now passed which forbids the marriage of any girl before 14. I hope it will be raised to 18. The absence of widow - marriage, the caste system and the conservation of Indians can be said to be some of the other evils.

But matrimony in India is not matrimony in England or rather Europe. The love and undivided attention which an Indian wife shows to her lord has no parallel. Once the marriage knot is tied, then the Indian wife thinks herself to be a part of her husband and is even prepared to die; and the system of sati, where the wife perished alive with her dead husband, was not born out of compulsion.

The Indian wife does not think marriage to be a piece of convenience. Nor does she throw off her husband in the divorce court, just as she throws off her old dressing-gown. An Indian woman is not like a rose which can be enjoyed by every one. In this respect, we can boast of having more of chastity on our side.

I study in a Catholic institution. The way they carry on conversion goes against the spirit of Christianity. They are rather unscrupulous and sometimes employ not straight-toward methods.

Five Religions

Being in a country where religion is the sine quo non, I am most familiar with all the religions. Though the main religions here are only five in number — Christianity, Hinduism, Buddhism, Jainism, and Mohammedanism, — the number of sects that have sprung up is simply bewildering. In Hinduism alone there are at least 100 sects, each quite distinct from other, each prohibiting inter-marriage or intercourse of any kind.

This is the cause for the domination of the Britishers over us. They know, and believe with the Romans in the mixim, "Divide et Impere." But now there has been an awakening and India is now laboring under a peaceful revolution — a revolution which will ipso facto bring about the freedom of India. This is the contribution of Mahatma Gandhi to his motherland. In the course of a few years the glory of India will ring throughout the world.

Indian Architecture

You seem to be fascinated by our temples. The workmanship is splendid. The type of architecture in India is very peculiar. The Indians love showy and gaudy things. Hence all the temples are built in a grand style. Most of the temples were built before the Mohammedan invasion, say, before the 11th century.

Mohammedan style is different. It abounds in towers and the whole building is covered with marble. The Taj Mahal is an example of such a kind of architecture.

Easter Program

By SATOSHI HOSHI

A Easter program was held at the Japanese Baptist Church last Easter Sunday. The church was quite full with children and fathers and mothers.

Katsumi read the scripture from the Bible about Easter when Christ arose from the dead. The First Year Junior girls sang. After the song the Second and Third Year girls gave a recitation.

The Second and Third Year Junior Boys took part in the play and their part was called "The Gift of God". After the program the Baptism was given.

A o-sushi dinner was held at the Japanese Baptist Church on the same day but after the Easter Program. People from South Park, from Bothel, and from many other places were invited to this o-sushi dinner and many children, too, were invited to this dinner.

I think there was about a hundred and seventy-five people including the children were there. The o-sushi tasted very good. I ate about one plate full. I was so full I couldn't eat another mouthful.

On the same day the children went over to the kindergarten building to have a meeting. A man talked about what Easter meant. He said that Easter meant when Jesus was crucified on the cross and died and rose from the dead three days after his crucifixion. Miss Hird said that some children say that Easter means to hunt eggs.

The tickets to the indoor carnival, selling at twenty-five cents, are numbered and the holders of the lucky numbers will be awarded prizes. Tickets may be secured from any Waseda member.

George Walks But Gets Coupe Back

Whether it was a hoax or someone really did try to make a watch charm out of George Ishihara's Ford Coupe, the owner of the car who lost it on last Friday night and regained it through the benevolent auspices of the Police Department, was not able to say, when interviewed.

The incident, however, should serve as a warning to car owners who leave their cars unlocked. Ishihara stood his car outside of the Main Pool room while he stepped in to buy a package of satisfying Chesterfields, and lo! when he came out his coupe had gone through a disappearing act. On Saturday, after the local police had made a diligent search it was discovered on Fourth and Jackson standing somewhat lonesomely, awaiting George's experienced piloting. Ishihara's feet are not yet recovering from the blisters.

SALMAGUNDI

By W. T. S.

IN ALL ALMANACS, April 18, 1930 was designated as "Good Friday."

But perhaps "Bad Friday" might have been a more appropriate name.

In the first place, the Yesler Cable got indigestion and refused for a while to work.

Then there was a big slug-fest outside of Nippon Kan, disastrous for all concerned, including the one unfortunate fellow that accidentally got bit in the leg.

FAITH, they say, is slowly disappearing in this age of science and materialism.

But on Easter morning, when Aurora streaked her rosy fingers against the morning sky, thousands were assembled at Volunteer Park for the sunrise service.

What greater proof that faith and religion are still very much alive?

YOUNG HOKKARI got fooled at the Methodists' sunrise breakfast.

A supposedly hard-boiled Easter egg turned out to be a soft-boiled one. Had it been just a little softer, a new suit might have been ruined.

WITH THE BUDDHISTS to Tacoma, on their annual excursion:

Lotus Juniors definitely prove that they're a bridge-mad bunch.

Kode proving to be the dummy in the rummy game.

Tokuyoshi Kwasaki half an inch taller now, thanks to a bump on his head.

Jack Yamaguchi the cynosure of envying eyes and proving that Spring is here.

Hideo Tomita the hitting star of the Lotus Seniors' game.

Joe Matsusaki getting temperamental and refusing to sing "Sonny Boy."

Tacoma Buddhists insinuating that Seattleites are nothing but a bunch of cake-eaters.

MITSUKO HINO tried to show us how expertly she could drive a car. But when we started, we thought for a while that we were on a buck-

Had Kelly Amano been there, I would have bought some life insurance sure. Methinks he could have sold some to Mabel Inouye and Shizue Fukutani too.

We'll let Mitsuko practice driving again, but not in heavy traffic. And the road's got to be ab-so-tive-ly straight.

MYSTIC SOCIETIES are growing up on all sides of us.

Although the Filthy Fives' group has now become quite defunct, other societies are coming to be almost as famous.

Of course you've heard of the Gue-donkers, the Chocolate Eclaires Club, and the Caponians.

And now may we introduce the "Pak-kui Eaters Society," with Shenie Miyagawa at its head?

CHAIN LETTERS are one of the greatest nuisances ever invented by the mind of man.

But recently, myself was honored by such a letter, sent by some unknown.

"Send this letter on to 9 persons at once or you will have bad luck!" So the letter read.

Presuming that the writer himself had penned similar missives to 9 of his acquaintances, a little sleuthing discovered that the following had received letters, exact duplicates of mine: Ishi Hamada, Rose Hamada, Shizuko Iwami, Shigeko Sese, Lindy Uyebara and Takeo Yoshijima.

Wonder who the other two links in the chain could be? Wonder also who the sender of these letters could be?

SAB IWANA of the Taiyo Reds is most assuredly a success.

He can now tie a bow-tie in seven minutes and a half.

Even Joe Ichihara, who goes to the University, can't do it in less than 30 minutes. And Tad Kunyuki hasn't got a bow tie, but he's sure to take a couple of hours.

When Sab can accomplish the feat in five little minutes or less, he says that he's going to treat himself to a Chinkish feed.

GEORGE OTSUBO, president of the J.S.C., is a middle-sized man.

And his size, you know, is mostly in the middle.

KATSUHIRO KODA is now a chairman of the chairmen.

In other words, he is in charge of those who will carry chairs up from the basement, when the entertainment starts at the J.S.C. Open House.

LAST YEAR'S J.S.C. Open House was quite a success.

And Norio Wakamatsu and Yone Ota will always remember it.

KOKKO CLUBS GIVE INTERESTING BILL AT JAPANESE HALL

Large Crowd Attends Performance Of Japanese Language School Pupils

"EISEI RYORI" BIG HIT

With a large crowd attending the program, an entertainment was given by the members of the Kokko Clubs of the Japanese Language School, at Nippon Kan on Friday evening, April 18.

Although the entertainment was neither as spectacular or as elaborate as some of the programs preceding it, the settings were colorful and the many bright spots in the bill gave the audience their money's worth.

"Eisei Ryori," a Japanese comedy, was one of the best numbers on the bill and kept the audience in a continual state of merriment through its burlesque situations and clever dialogue. Sansaku Sugiyama as the doctor and young Sunio Ishihara as the country man gave the best performances, supported by Noboru Nishisaka and a good cast of Kokko boys.

The Kokko girls had their inning in "Gakko Kirai," another light play. Kiyo Ishikawa was very natural and effective in the role of the girl who disliked school. Mary Yoshijima played the part of her aunt and others in the cast were Lillian Ozaki, Shigeko Sese, Tamie Tanabe, and Chiyeko Uyeiki.

A waltz number "KinKajou," a magic act by Welly Shibata, and other short skits were included on the program. A Kokko Club Orchestra, directed by Y. Miyashita, played for the performance and between acts.

"Tennen-no-bi," a tableaux, with the Kokko girls dressed in beautiful costumes against a colorful background proved an effective and striking finale.
