EMPEROR HIROHITO WRITES SIGNATURE ON APPROVED PACT

Council, After Unanimous Vote, Gives Government Responsibility Of Carrying Out Provisions In Message

FURTHER STRUGGLE SEEN

Using the Japanese "fude," Emperor Hirohito affixed his signature to the London Naval Treaty Thursday, bringing to a close long months of argumentation that has been waged between the Hamaguchi administration and the treaty foes. The Emperor's action came the day after the pact was unanimously approved by the privy council and sent to him with the recommendation that he sign it. The ratification was officially approved when the imperial seal was impressed on the document.

The approval of the pact by Japan leaves only Great Britain to ratify it, the United States having given its approval a few weeks ago. As yet the Irish Free State and India have not signed the pact, but they are expected to do so.

Experts state that the ratification of the pact means a saving of $260,000,000 in projected naval construction for Japan in the next five years.

While the pact has been despatched to London, where Ambassador Matsudaira will deposit it, fighting is expected to continue over the pact. Naval officials contend that $225,000,000 will be required to maintain Japan's armaments, including the expansion of naval aviation. The pact means that this sum will be cut down to $175,000,000 enabling a tax reduction of $50,000,000.

The examination committee of the privy council held 13 sessions over the time extending from August 18 until September 26. That the government would be responsible in carrying out the provisions and limitations of the London treaty, was implied in the council's message to the Emperor, which read as follows:

"Relying upon the government's pledges that it assumes full responsibility for executing an efficient naval replenishment program, at the same time lightening the nation's taxation burden, the council deems it right that the Emperor ratify the treaty."

JAPANESE GOOD CITIZENS, CLAIM

During a strong plea made by former governor of Hawaii, Wallace R. Farrington, that Hawaii be granted statehood, he disposed of the Japanese citizen bogey by saying that American citizens of Japanese ancestry were slowly being molded into the American nation and expressed the opinion that they would be more loyal to the U. S., because they had to prove themselves.

The Hawaiians, the Chinese, the Portuguese, he said, had been fused into the plan of American life. They were being elected to office in the Territory, he claimed, and doing great work.

Then he asked, why not citizens of the Japanese? Hawaii, he averred, is not sitting back doing nothing. It is going ahead solving the problem by accepting the American citizens of Japanese parentage in full faith.

No prejudice exists in the schools, and the different races on the islands are becoming a homogeneous group, was his contention. All of them, he stated, will become good American citizens.

International House Includes 25 Nations

BERKELEY, Calif. — Representing 25 different nations of the globe, nearly 400 students are now residing in the International House, the $1,800,000 structure built by John D. Rockefeller, Jr., to encourage friendly relations between foreign and American students on the University of California campus.

In making known these figures, Allen C. Blaisdell, director of the house, states that countries represented are as follows: Australia, Bolivia, Canada, China, Egypt, England, Germany, Hawaii, Hungary, India, Iraq, Italy, Japan, Latvia, Mexico, New Zealand, Palestine, Persia, Peru, Philippines, Russia, Scotland, Turkey, West Africa and the United States.

Speaking of the scope and purpose of the house, Director Blaisdell states, "International House is a social and residential center for American students and students of other countries, without discrimination as to race, color, sex or religion.

"Its program of activities will be directed toward elimination of prejudice and toward the creation of world peace through understanding."

ELLERY SEDGWICK, EDITOR, TELLS JAPAN IMPRESSIONS IN ATLANTIC

"What union of opposites make Japan! Cherry and battleship, screen and railroad, kakemono and modern newspaper, Nippon, land of the fan and factory, feminine in manners and customs, masculine in courage and power; proud as Lucifer, but full of distressful doubts. Before her the road runs East and West. She ponders, and slowly turns her face to the setting sun."

With this summary contrast Ellery Sedgwick, editor of the Atlantic Monthly, concludes the second of his two articles on Japan, "Made in Japan," in the current October issue of the Atlantic. Revealing a well-informed mind and appreciative sense of the country which he visited during the last winter and spring, the noted editor tells with humorous touch poetic phrase and specific revelation the legend-beautiful culture of Japan. He tells of Yokohama and Tokyo, of sukiyaki and sake, the home life which he shared, the bargaining in quaint stores, of the Shinto and Buddhist—all that form the nerve, the fibres and heart of Old and New Japan.

In his September article, "The Japanese Mystery," he reveals the psychology and human nature of the Japanese people. He tells of the reverence with which they treat the memory of General Nogi, and gives a humorous illustration of the sensitiveness of the Japanese, and how ridicule may blast it. He gives pride as the other main deep-seated characteristic of the Japanese.

Mr. Sedgwick passed through Seattle on his way East on June 25, having arrived on the same boat with Ambassador Adachi.

TARDIEU DEMANDS FRENCH SECURITY

England, Germany, Italy Declare General Disarmament In-sures Safety

PARIS—Disarmament must come on a basis of security, was the defiant note in an address made by Premier Tardieu here, last Sunday afternoon, in connection with a political speech bearing upon appropriations to be made by the French government.

Despite the opinions of the statesmen of England, Germany and Italy, he inferred, France has set the pace for disarmament after the world war in keeping with the aims of peace.

The disarmament question has been one of the poignant issues at Geneva and this remark made by Premier Tardieu emphasizes the French attitude held at the London naval conference. Italy, it is understood, is willing to cut down her armament to the lowest minimum compatible with safety, and this has strengthened the argument for disarmament in Europe. Both England and Germany are also of the opinion that there must be disarmament and the French attitude has been made the target of their stands.

Security First

It could be inferred, however, that France does not intend to reduce her armament until some safe guarantee of security is agreed upon to ensure a disarmament program, through the address of the French Premier who supported war minister Maginot's stand of three weeks ago that security must be the basis of reduction. As M. Tardieu puts it two fundamental steps are first necessary before any disarmament can come. They are security first, and arbitration second.

The opposite stand favoring disarmament held by England, Germany and Italy is that should there be a disarmament on the part of all nations it would automatically constitute a basis of security.

It was implied from the address of the French Premier that the government budget would be reduced, but there will, undoubtedly, be larger appropriations for the army and navy.

TROOPS SKIRMISH IN HONAN SECTOR

SHANGHAI—Fighting still persists in China, although the Northern alliance forces have been driven back into Shansi province by Gen. Chang Hsueh-liang, the Manchurian war lord.

The skirmishes have been occurring between Chengchow and Kai-feng in Honan province between the troops of President Chiang Kai-shek of the Nationalist government, and Gen. Feng Yu-hsiang, the ally of Gen. Yen Hsi-shan, who have been fighting for the so-called Kuomintang, or the People's Party's cause.

According to present indications, with the victorious march of Gen. Chang from Mukden to Peiping, who is allied with the nationalist cause, a Nanking victory seems to be in sight, although there is no assurance that the trouble in China is over by any means.

Right now banditry is flourishing and according to late reports many small towns in various districts outside of the fighting zones have been pillaged by bandit armies, and the reason for this is due to the provincial units being in the war area instead of at home to protect the villages and towns.

ECUADOR REVOLT SETTLED

BUENOS AIRES — Reports received here from Ecuador stated that the revolt which sprang up against President Don Juan Capistequi subsided almost as soon as it first showed its head to overthrow the government on Monday. The president is reported to have smoothed over the differences with his party leaders, although the basis of understanding has not been revealed.

DELEGATES TALK OF DISARMAMENT AT BRITISH MEET

LONDON—Sitting in secret session, delegates from the dominions of Great Britain convened with Prime Minister MacDonald and his colleagues in the foreign office's Locrano room Wednesday to inaugurate the quadrennial imperial conference.

Mr. Ramsay MacDonald rose to address the gathered delegations as Big Ben, a tower clock, struck ten o'clock. In his speech, it was reported, he stressed the important part the dominions could play in bringing about disarmament and establishing means for furthering peace.

With the press excluded, and the meeting in strict privacy, the various delegates expressed their views. Premier Bennett of Canada and Premier Scullin of Australia followed Mr. MacDonald with speeches. Among those present were: Premier Bennett, Canada; J. H. Scullin, Australia; J. B. M. Herzog, South Africa; G. W. Forbes, New Zealand; Sir Richard Squires, Newfoundland; Patrick McGilligan, Irish Free State, and the Maharajah of Bikaner and Wedgewood Benn of India.

All those present were dressed in formal attire, the delegates, the associates and British cabinet members.

Greece Demands Halt To Armenians' Entry

GENEVA—Registering a politely worded protest over the influx of 30,000 Armenian refugees, causing further complications in the present unemployment situation, Greece has asked the League authorities to provide some means to take care of this surplus in a note late last week.

The protest indicated a firmness in their demand, but was couched in terms friendly to the Armenians. Greece's unemployment problem is considered grave, and this influx of refugees is causing a certain gravity in her economic condition.

Due to the exclusive law Turkey has set upon Armenian refugees these numbers flowed into Greece.

LEAGUE ELECTS 15, INCLUDING ADACHI, KELLOGG TO COURT

15 Judges To Take Office January 1 For Nine-Year Term; Five Members Re-Elected For Second World Court

LATIN STATES HAVE TWO

Former Ambassador Mineichiro Adachi, Japan's candidate to the permanent court of international justice, who passed through Seattle in June on his way to Geneva, was one of the 14 men who were elected by the Assembly and the Council of the League of Nations to the World Court bench. The election was the first under the new statute, which provides for 15, instead of 11 judges, as formerly, and the second election since the inception of the league.

When passing through Seattle, Doctor Adachi expressed the wish that the Orient would be represented on the Court. Two of the foremost leaders of the Far East will sit on the Court, the other judge being Wang Chung-Hui of China. Persia and Siam are the only other Eastern nations in the league.

Frank B. Kellogg, former secretary of state in the U. S., was elected to the World Court, receiving 35 votes. James Brown Scott and George W. Wickersham, both American candidates, received eight and two votes respectively.

Has Two

Latin America is represented by two men Antonio Sanchez de Bustamante of Cuba and J. Gustavo Guerrero of San Salvador. Nine other judges represent the main countries of Europe.

The complete complement of the Court is as follows:

Frank B. Kellogg, United States; Antonio Sanchez de Bustamante, Cuba; J. Gustavo Guerrero, San Salvador; Mineichiro Adachi, Japan; Gafael Altamira y Grevea, Spain; Dionisio Anzilotti, Italy; Willem van Eysinga, Holland; Henri Fremageot, France; Sir Cecil Hurst, Great Britain; Demetre Meguliscu, Rumania; Baron Rokin Jaeguymyns, Belgium; Count Michael Rotworski, Poland; Walter Schucking, Germany, and Wang Chung-Hui, China.

Term Starts January 1

The Court will start its nine-year term January 1. Previous to the election, a resolution raising the salaries of the judges to $14,000 a year, plus $20 daily expense money was adopted by the assembly.

The judges were elected from the candidates put up by the 56 nations in the league.

Wang Chung-Hui of China, Sanchez de Bustamante of Cuba, Gafael Altamira y Grevea of Spain, Henri Fremageot of France and Sir Cecil Hurst of Great Britain were re-elected.

At last reports two candidates from South America and one from Europe were battling for the fifteenth position on the Court, deadlocks preventing the decisive election of either one of the three.

Stop Opium Traffic At Root, Says Lyle

LONDON — The illicit traffic of opium can only be discouraged by placing restrictions on the production of narcotics at the source, it was asserted by L. A. Lyle, chairman of the Permanent General Opium Board and a member of the league opium advisory committee recently at Geneva.

According to Mr. Lyle the illicit traffic will go on, and if drastic steps are not taken to stop the amount necessary for medicinal and scientific use, it cannot be regulated. In some countries, he asserted, the traffic finds a fecund field, and these nations must place strict regulations in order to prohibit the traffic.

It is expected that on October 16, when the League opium commission will hold its hearings, Mr. Lyle will forward his demand that production of opium be cut down from the source.

JAPAN-U. S. PACIFIC INTERESTS SAME, AMITY AID, SAYS FORBES

Upon his arrival in Japan, William Cameron Forbes, the new Ambassador to Japan from the United States, was given a royal reception by the American-Japan Society at a welcoming dinner in Tokio.

When called upon to speak he expressed the belief that all the objections to amity between Japan and this country were slowly being worn down. He specifically stated that feeling in California and along the Pacific Coast had changed since the time of the exclusion law and stated that he had not heard one comment directed against the Japanese in California. Most remarks, he said, were favorable.

Interest of the two great nations on the Pacific Rim were almost

Yamagata States California Chance For Hawaii Young

Tasuke Yamagata, Hawaii's representative to the Citizens' League convention held recently in Seattle, upon his return to the islands, has been advising Hawaiian-born Japanese who are not afraid of manual labor to migrate to California and start independent farms.

He expressed the belief that there was opportunity in the Coast state for ambitious men agriculturally inclined to build big businesses. The nursery field, he also declared, offers opportunities.

While on the Coast Yamagata looked over the field and talked the situation over with those best informed on farming. He became interested in the chances offered. Hawaiian-born Japanese, he said, have the greatest opportunity because they have American citizenship and may own land.

WORLD ROAD MEET WILL OPEN OCT. 6

60 Nation Represented At Sixth Confab Seeking To Improve World Transportation

Japan's road specialists, representing the Empire, will be among the delegates from 60 nations who will convene in Washington Monday to hold round table discussions on the problems of roads and their connection with transportation at the Sixth International Road Congress. Experts believe that it will be an important aid in bettering the social life of nations, for opening new trade facilities and for furthering world amity.

The representatives will be specialists on the problem of highway building. They will exchange views on their subject, and learn how each nation is working out road construction, upkeep and regulation problems. Millions suffer annually in China for lack of good roads, critics claim, and it is felt that by furthering the construction of good roads, suffering and inconvenience will be lessened in many countries.

Started In 1908

The Road Congress movement started 22 years ago in 1908, when the Permanent International Association of Road Congresses was organized in Paris. This body carries on the work outlined and planned during each session of the Congress. Meetings were held at Brussels in 1910 and in London in 1913. The War interrupted the meetings until 1923, when the fourth Congress was held in Seville. Milan was the city chosen for the 1926 Convention.

There is a strong possibility that President Hoover will make an address at the opening session. Matters for discussion have been prepared during the past year. Duplicates in English, French, German and Spanish have been made.

Delegates will be given demonstrations of latest methods of testing materials and construction.

GERMANY ASKING LOAN; MAY MEAN PAYMENT DELAY

BERLIN—By virtue of her request for a 100 million dollars from the International Bank at Basle, Switzerland, it is felt that this step will mean Germany's request for a postponement of reparations until the time comes when her economical, financial condition has been strengthened to finance such payments.

In order to make such a loan if the International Bank accepts Germany's request, the body will act as a mother institution for other foreign bankings.

Just how Germany's request will be accepted by the reparations board remains a question, but it is believed a step will be taken to study Germany's financial condition, and upon investigation a reply will be made.

V. C. L. BANQUET TONIGHT WILL OPEN NEW POLITICAL LIFE

Organization, Outgrowth of Citizens Convention, Inaugurates Era Of Political Consciousness; Civic Leaders To Speak

TAKAYOSHI WILL SING

AUBURN, Wash.—The newly organized Valley Civic League, as an outgrowth of the Japanese-American Citizens convention held in Seattle recently, is to get under way with an inaugural banquet this evening at the local Chamber of Commerce from 6:30 p. m., when Sen. Lunn, 30th state senatorial district, and Mayor McKee of this city will participate in the inaugural ceremonies for this organization to stimulate a proper political interest among American voters of Japanese ancestry in this valley.

It is a significant fact that a political consciousness has been awakened among Americans of Japanese ancestry in this valley district, which is being taken as an augury of the day when these young people will take the place of their parents and become a contributing factor in the civic life of their respective communities and sections.

Consciousness Growing

This political consciousness seems to have been aroused since the Seattle convention and has been in the ascendancy with definite and practical turn in the formation of the Valley Civic League nearly three weeks ago at Thomas.

As its first president, the 16 charter members elected John Arima, a University of Washington graduate, to assume the executive office, with George Yasumura as secretary and Fred Okimoto, of Kent, as treasurer.

The two vice-presidents were elected later and have been the first of the women to join the organization. They were Mary Maeda, first vice-president, Kent, and Fumi Yamana, second vice-president, Christopher.

Interest Well Laid

The interest in this citizens' movement has been well-laid by these officers and charter members, and the propitious moment taken to sponsor this league is indicated in the figures compiled for three of the main townships in the Valley. It is estimated that there are some 441 Americans of Japanese ancestry in the three towns of O'Brien, Orilla and Kent, of whom 235 are men and 206 women.

Of this number 61 and more are at or above high school age, while 209 and more are of grammar school age. If the Thomas section and this city, together with Algona and other towns, are taken into consideration, the number of American-born Japanese might be placed at more than 600, of which number more than 100 would be of voting age.

The start made by the Valley Civic League is being heralded in all nearby centers as a good one, painting an optimistic picture of second generation activity in the civic life of their respective communities.

Unity Sought

The inaugural banquet this evening is intended to bring the citizens of Japanese ancestry into closer unity in the stimulation of greater political interest that their participation in the political life of their district may be assured.

For this reason Sen. Lunn who remains unopposed in his district for the state senate, is to be the principal speaker, and it is believed that in his address he will point out the necessity of living up to the rights held by American citizens. Mayor McKee is to open this banquet with an address of welcome, as he will also administer the oath of allegiance and pledge to the members of the League.

The affair is to be a big one and besides the members of the new league, representatives from the various sections are also expected to attend. Among the guests for the evening will be the officers of the Seattle Progressive Citizens League. Clarence T. Arai, president of the Seattle league, will be one of the speakers while Ashley E. Holden, of Seattle, will also be a speaker on the program.

Welly Shibata will be on hand with a surprise up his sleeve, while Tomeu Takayoshi will sing several songs.

Berkeley Police Get Lessons In Yawara

Under the coaching of Professor Frank Matsuyama, 50 Berkeley policemen are taking the post graduate course of yawaga in jiu-jitsu, taking two lessons a week from Japanese expert.

The Professor claims that a 200 pound man can easily handle a fifty pounder with ease, breaking off fingers, gouging eyes, tearing off limbs and other pleasant pastimes.

UNO TO LEAD FAST ELEVEN IN OPENER WITH GEORGETOWN

Coach D'Vorak Has Men In Fine Spirit, Shape, For Tomorrow's Fracas

BACKS BEHIND STRONG LINE

Getting right behind Coach Charles E. D'Vorak the Japanese-American A. A. grid squad, which has been in heavy practice session for the last week, will go into action in the opening of the Community Football League season against the strong Georgetown eleven at the Civic Stadium tomorrow from 12 noon.

Instead of two teams representing this district in the Community League this year, the J. A. A. was organized to enter an eleven representing the Japanese community, and Coach D'Vorak of Franklin and Roosevelt high school fame, was elected to lead the squad.

The Coach and the squad has had to face a handicap in not getting a larger turnout, but if the practice sessions within the past week are any indication at all, the spirit behind the eleven being peppy and good, it is believed that the team will go out to turn in a victory tomorrow.

For tomorrow Chick Uno has been selected as captain of the team by Coach D'Vorak, filling in at full. For the two halves Kaname Kuniyuki, Kelly Uno, Yukio Kuniyuki and Kimiyu Hirose will, undoubtedly, all be given chances, while at quarter Choppy Umemoto and Kats Nakayama will probably enter the game.

Tajiri Out

A new face out for the practice session this week was Jimmy Tajiri, the stellar end, who performed in a scintillating manner for the Auburn high eleven several years ago when the valley eleven won the state championship. He, together with the fast Roy Sakamoto, Mike Iseri, the deadly tackler, and Maeda, strong defense man, will undoubtedly take up the wing posts. For the tackle posts, Goichi Moriyama and Tak Arai, with the possibility of Hirose getting in at that position, will start the game.

The steady and stellar performers of this eleven might be said as being Sam Takahashi and Frank Hattori, who have shown consistency in their position at guard berths. Both men are heavy and fast, and together with Jack Yamaguchi, Husky Yoshimura or Shigeno at center, form the backbone of the team with the two tackle men beside them.

Mochizuki and Hank Arai are also showing to advantage in their positions at end and guard, respectively, and both men, coming out late, are conditioning themselves for active and hard competition.

In Fighting Trim

The squad now seems to be in fighting trim, and besides the players mentioned Sus Watanabe, end; Paul Muraoka, right tackle; H. Okubo and K. Hamada, guard, are also ready for the contest on the morrow, and the coach is relying upon them to put the necessary punch in offense plays.

The jerseys the men will wear tomorrow are: Chick Uno, 25; K. Kuniyuki, 39; Roy Sakamoto, 40; T. Takashita, 22; P. Muraoka, 43; S. Takahashi, 31; S. Watanabe, 30; Y. Shigeno, 35; T. J. Tajiri, 38; Jiro Mochizuki, 42; K. Uno, 37; H. Arai, 44; H. Yoshimura, 33; K. Hirose, 34; Maeda, 41; G. Morimatsu, 26; S. Miyagawa, 45; K. Nakayama, 36; S. Arai, 27; Y. Kuniyuki, 21; H. Okubo, 46; F. Hattori, 28; S. Umemoto, 23; T. Arai, 32; M. Iseri, 29; K. Hamada, 47; M. Yamaguchi, 24.

GRIDVIEW

By TANGE

See you tomorrow at the Civic Auditorium grounds at 12 o'clock to see the Japanese Association tackle the strong Georgetown eleven. I wish somebody would find a nickname for the Japanese-American Athletic Association football team to save time and space. The way the fellows are practicing for the game Sunday the Japanese Athletic Association, pardon me, I left the American out that time, are going to give a good battle to the Georgetown outfit.

Football must be here when one sees the gang on Jackson and Main streets, painted with mercury-chrome, stinking with iodine, taped with adhesives, and carrying around a glorified limp.

Famous words on Sunday afternoon, "Get to the furo before the football gang get down there."

It was a big topic among the parlor coaches of the University of Washington at the Japanese Student Club why Bagshaw didn't use Hurdford in returning punts. The parlor coaches were right, the way Hurdford romped in the Whitman game in returning punts.

What's the matter with the present football youngsters? Coach D'Vorak says they don't walk enough. The present young football player hasn't the feet and legs of the past football generation. The football players of today with their weak underpinning can't stand the gaff. The cause of it all is the automobile.

Did you ever wonder how the economic status of a football player may determine the nature of his play. There are exceptions but I believe that the fellow from a relatively poor family has the guts when the going is tough. The rich fellow can stand the gaff when the game is going against them but usually take the easier way and give up. Maybe I am wrong.

GIRLS GIVEN FIRST ARCHERY LESSONS

Exponent Of Japanese Archery Pleased At Interest Shown In Practice

With Professor Shiga expressing enthusiasm at the keen interest being shown in Robin Hood's sport, 12 members of the Japanese Girls' Club were on hand at the Japanese Archers' Club Monday evening to take their first lessons on bending the bow. Several of the archers from the men's organization were on hand to assist Professor Shiga.

The girls were taught the correct posture to assume in shooting, the way in which the bow should be bent and the arrow drawn, and the way to aim. While there was no wand to split at forty paces, the girls made their preliminary attempts at the regulation targets.

The girls present were: Ruth Ite, Sunako Teramaye, Chiye Horiuchi, Mrs. Moriji Takei, Sada Seki, Chizu Kurokawa, Beulah Kimura, Teru Watanabe, Mina Kimura, Billee Tashiro, Miko Matsuda and Jackie Nakagawa.

Practice sessions are to be held every Monday evening from 7 to 9 o'clock at the Japanese Archer's Club on Maynard and Weller.

COURIER GRID LOOP TO SET 4 ELEVENS IN ACTION SUNDAY

Bellevue, Waseda, Taiyo Juniors Have Experience From Last Year's League

NEW TEAM OF INDEPENDENTS

The Courier Football League is again to get under way when the four elevens meet in action a week from tomorrow, it was decided by the captains of the Waseda, Taiyo and Bellevue teams and Director Hito Okada at a meeting held on Monday evening.

Another meeting day after tomorrow is to be held in the Courier offices to complete the schedule at which time all players will be registered and the various rules will be gone over once more.

This year's Courier League elevens are reported as being fast, and with last year's experience to help them along the plays will be both exciting and interesting, is the comment along the sidelines.

With the exception of Lotus all three teams, the Taiyos, Waseda and Bellevue are again signed up and a fourth grid squad made up of unattached stars are expected to join the League.

Four Team Affair

Last year the League was a four-some affair, as it is to be again this year, and if past indications are of any account this year's contests will be eagerly awaited by fans.

The Taiyo Juniors were the winners last year of the Courier Trophy, which was presented to them at the Nikko Low in a get-together banquet. Coach Charles E. D'Vorak and Bobby Morris addressed the meeting at that time.

The Waseda were a close second and the Bellevue eleven came in third with the Lotus team holding up the end, after making a gallant fight throughout the season.

All through the season last year the interest seemed to mount with each game, and this year the demand has been sufficiently strong to form the League. The fourth team in the circuit will undoubtedly be made up of players unattached to any of the teams and from among this group it is believed a strong aggregation might be made up.

The league meeting Monday evening is to begin from 7:30 p. m., at the Courier offices, and all players with their registration fees and team deposits will be placed on file.

Holder Of Olympic Leap Title Retires

Mikio Oka, who established the world record of 51 feet in the hop, step and jump event at the 1928 Olympics, declared his intention of retiring from active participation in track sports recently.

The Waseda track star plans to devote his time in developing young athletes.

Seattle Tailors Clothes Mart, of which Rio is the head, is offering one hundred dollars worth of merchandise checks to the three outstanding players in tomorrow's game, as an incentive for each man on the Nipponese team to do his fighting level best.

Three judges, whose identities will not be disclosed until next week, have been chosen to glue their eyes on the game and to select the worthy three.

First prize $50, second prize $30, third prize $20.

Need a new suit or topcoat, gridster? Then hop to it!

YAMASHITA, KICK NATORI, TURN OUT FOR FROSH TEAM

Ed "Kick" Natori, who hails from Sumner and starred on the Auburn championship grid machine a few years ago, and Frank Yamashita, husky grid star from Wenatchee, are turning out for the yearling squad at the University of Washington.

The former prep stars were among 125 candidates who reported to Pest Welch, Frosh coach, Wednesday. Practice starts this coming week.

Kick Natori is trying out for the signal barker's post. He scales in the neighborhood of 140 pounds. Yamashita, who tips the beams at about 165 is the big boy who starred in the valley conference during the last few years.

LONG DISTANCE SOCKS HELP A'S

Before the heavy cannonading of the Athletics that brought them two sorry reverses, the St. Louis Cardinals retreated to their dugouts prepared to fight it out on the home grounds in Missouri today. Set back by Lefty Grove in the opener, 5 to 2, and blinded to a 6 to 1 loss in the second tilt by Earnshaw, the Cards were set to go.

Grimes, with two blows in three attempts, and Lindsay, one for one, lead the hitters in averages. Both are Card regulars.

Of the regulars, however, Gelbert, Cardinal shortstop, and Simmons, A's left fielder, lead the pack with three blows in seven attempts. Simmons has the edge, having smashed out a homer in the initial tilt and a double in the second. Cochrane and Fox, both A's, with two hits in six tries, follow close behind. Both of the catcher's connections were for homers, while Foxx slashed out a triple and a double.

In the first encounter the Athletics got two homers, two triples and one double, all they connected for, but they were enough. In the second tilt they got six blows, one homer, three doubles and two singles. The Cards could account for only a brace of doubles in the first game and a double and a homer in the second.

TIE AGAINST REPS MARS WIN RECORD OF JAPAN RUGGERS

Nippons Come Back In Seventh Tilt To Witewash U. Fifteen, 27-0

PLAYER BREAKS CLAVICLE

After establishing a record of five straight victories on Canadian soil, the Imperial Japanese Rugby fifteen struck a tartar in the British Columbia Reps Saturday, getting a 3-to-3 draw in the most bitterly fought contest of their Dominion stay.

The Reps were formed of the pick of rugby players from the two coast cities, and showed a brilliant attack and a stubborn defense that kept the Japanese from scoring several times during the second half when the Imperials tore past the 25-yard line. A black eye, a broken collar bone and several times out for knocked out players testified to the fierceness of the struggle, which lacked the thrills and spectacular plays of former encounters.

Japanese started the first half as if to repeat their former wins, Kitano scoring the first try near a corner. The kick was wide. The B. C. Reps came back to tie the score, but boot- away a win when their kick went wide.

Break Fast

Quite a few fumbles marked the Reps' play, but the Japanese played cleanly, cleverly and broke with speed. During the second half play they drove down the field, but were always stopped short of the goal line.

Last Friday the visitors were the guests of the University of British Columbia students. In the afternoon they were shown around the University campus. Saturday noon they were guests at a luncheon held at the University Grill.

Then, very inconsiderately, in the afternoon, the ruggers tackled the University fifteen, administering a 25-to-3 beating.

This game gave them six victories and one tie, an impressive record. The last four encounters were played on successive Saturdays and Wednesdays, giving the ruggers but two or three days rest between scuffles.

Beauty Expert Has Novel Job Catering To Sumo Wrestler

SAN FRANCISCO-It's not news in this day and age when a man steps into a beauty parlor to have his facial treatment. But news it is when a Japanese sumo wrestler, 6 feet 5 inches, walks into a beauty parlor to have his hair dressed.

Hitachidake, local professional sumo wrestler, nonchalantly stepped into the Moonlight beauty parlor on Laguna street the other day. His long hair was mussed. What happened inside the parlor we do not know.

But when he again stepped out of the place, looking unconcerned, his "chon-mage," a traditional pistol-like coiffure on top of the Japanese sumo wrestler's head was well oiled and sleek.

Apparently, the beauty expert knew how to make a "chon-mage."

CHICAGO HOOPERS WIN TOKYO-A basketball game played between the Chicago University team and Waseda Thursday in the wrestling arena at Meiji Jingu resulted in a victory for the Americans, 28-26.

THE AWAKENING

It is a happy moment to note that in spite of the youthfulness of Americans of Japanese ancestry there seems to be the open desire on the part of these people to educate and to inform themselves on subjects concerned with politics that they may as citizens discharge their public duties.

Although a majority of the some 60,000 Americans of Japanese ancestry have not as yet attained voting age, the satisfaction is derived from the fact that already a number of citizen's organizations have come to flourish on the Pacific Coast. These bodies have federated themselves into one entity to develop and to stimulate political interest that this generation of American-born Japanese may have the right intelligence in politics.

The primary reason that this citizen's movement deserves credit and recognition dwells in the fact that no such work has been undertaken by any other race of Americans outside of the Chinese citizens of this country. In this, the Americans of Japanese ancestry may well take pride.

The fruit of this labor will not be reaped in the present, but by the time a decade and a half passes, the Americans of Japanese ancestry will be rewarded for what they have done today in winning the recognition necessary and due them in American life.

In this city alone there are today nearly four-thousand American-born Japanese of whom a great number are still in their teens or below. In the White River district where the Civic Valley League was established there are some six to eight hundred new Americans of Japanese parentage. The fact that the majority of these people are still below voting age is the important reason why these citizen's organizations are necessary to educate and to train these people to take their right part as an enfranchised people in the life of our country. These people are the potential voters of the coming day, and that the duty of carrying out the responsibilities in a most capable and intelligent manner may be entrusted them, the citizen's movement is justified for the importance and prominence with which it is recognized in Japanese communities on the Coast.

Heretofore it has been noticeable that among the second generation there has been a woeful lack of public spirit. This may have been due to the reason that there were no citizen's organizations, to develop leaders and to create an interest in public affairs. This, of course, can be understood if it is considered that the new Americans of Japanese parentage have been very young. However, the progress these people are making today is not of a casual moment in the fine work which is being done to train and develop these new Americans. In developing upon this work the Japanese-American Citizen's League which recently held its convention here and the Nikkei Shimin, a citizen's publication of San Francisco, deserve commendable mention. Today this national body and this citizen's paper have helped to create and develop a public spirit among the young people, and it should not be long before more leaders come up to support and to push ahead the citizen's movement.

In 1932, the convention of the Japanese-American Citizen's League is to be held in Los Angeles, and before the time approaches the various chapter-organizations will have become a larger and greater thing in their respective communities. By that time their number of voters and members will have grown and the convention itself will take on a greater light of meaning in promoting the work begun today.

Thus it is that the citizen's movement cannot be belittled. What will be reaped tomorrow will depend upon what is sown today, and in the making of the coming voters of Japanese parentage the citizen's organizations on the Coast must shoulder the principal responsibility.

That these organizations have sprung up on the coast as educational centers and training grounds for politics should be a source of satisfaction in watching the development of the Americans of Japanese ancestry to fit themselves properly in the life of their country. The time has been most propitious in beginning this intensive work for a better and greater citizenship.

THE FRENCH THESIS

The French thesis that the principles of security and arbitration must first be established before any disarmament can take place is logical enough in its argument, but it is obvious that disarmament would become merely an idle dream under this attitude, since there is no accepted basis upon which to adjudge what proportion of armament constitutes security.

As the world is today the security of one nation depends in a great measure upon the non-aggressive policy of other nations, and, therefore, it can be assumed that the real basis and rule in deciding what constitutes security is through a general and uniform standard of disarmament.

To say the least, the French thesis is now antiquated. Before the world holocaust of 1914 it was this very same idea that guarantee of security must be based upon armament and greater armament which led to the tragic drama. In analyzing the psychology of that period before 1914, it is apparent now that the heaviest mail was not armor enough for security and against military aggrandizement. It aroused fears with an accentuated rivalry in armaments.

This has been the foolhardy experiment of security before disarmament, and the toll that is being exacted still has not justified security by arms.

It is now possible to judge, then, that what constitutes security cannot be measured in terms of armament. The actual disarmament by nations guarantees security, and at the same time paves the way toward permanent world peace.

The French attitude is based upon the old thesis that security through armament must come before disarmament. The new thesis is disarmament for security and security without armament.

GERMANY'S MOVE

Germany has made a request for a $100,000,000 loan from the International Bank, and if this is given a hearing, it will undoubtedly bring about another change in the reparations payment.

Just at the present time Germany is experiencing an economic difficulty which is expressed in her depressed financial condition. This is forcing the government to cut down taxation, and instead of paying out to her former enemies the need of a large loan has become urgent.

Of course, to the loan of the $100,000,000 France and Belgium will, without a doubt, register the main protest. If the loan means that a part of it is to be used in keeping up Germany's reparations payments, the harshness of the protest might be slightly tempered, but both France and Belgium are not so optimistic as to believe that any part of this large loan would be used for such a purpose.

Furthermore, with Germany in such an economic strait at present her request for the loan can mean only one thing: Germany is unable to meet her payments and her financial difficulties will force another change in the reparations program.

Since the Young plan was agreed upon, an overwhelming change in the financial tides of the world has occurred to upsetting various budget programs. With Germany the source of the reparations revenue, wallowing in financial depression as to force a drastic taxation postponement, it can only seem likely that a change will be made in the payment schedule, or some remedy found to adjust matters, until the time should approach again when the program may be carried out without financial obstacles to surmount.

If Germany can be loaned the $100,000,000 to set her economic condition on a more stable and better level, it can be concluded that her financial resources will be that much developed and strengthened to ensure carrying out her obligations.

France will not take kindly to the loan but if she is expecting to receive all that has been guaranteed her by the Young plan it would not be a poor and impractical business idea to feed the goose that lays the golden egg.

STOPPING THE SOURCE

At Geneva some interesting discussions are soon to take place on the opium evil and how to stop its traffic in the most effective manner.

The drive against this evil was begun some time ago by the League, but so far no real remedy for the situation has been found. The blame for not finding a solution to this problem has been laid at the door of the League, but as a matter of fact the hands of the League are tied without the earnest and active cooperation of the nations themselves.

Yet again the governments, themselves, are finding difficulty in crushing out this traffic within their own provinces. Thus the blame, cannot be placed at any particular spot. The remedy for the situation is nowhere in sight and the solution is thin as air, since the problem is that of smuggling the dope within the border and that cannot be controlled.

What the League commission on dope will discuss and recommend as an effective remedy for the situation after its hearings which begin on Oct. 15, is a matter for conjecture and will always remain puzzling unless the solution is so direct that it will hit at the source of the supply. The only way to effectively crush out this illicit drug traffic is to restrict the production of narcotics at their source, to allow only amounts necessary for medical and scientific needs. If this can be recommended by the commission and accepted by nations producing an over-supply of drugs, it should be the surest and the quickest way toward stopping this illicit traffic.

TALK ABOUT A DUMB GOOF—HE THOUGHT "CASCARET" WAS SOMETHING TO SMOKE.

Adorning the most prominent part of your face—certainly located and fairly accessible at all times; in fact a necessity as a part of your countenance, slightly elevated and made by super-duxe artist to avoid screening your vision—always in the presence of somebody else when others are near—but constantly passed up without much credit day after day unwept, unhonored and unsung—"Your Nose." Now that we understand the prime importance of our nose, which partly constitutes our make up whether going in or out, why is it that it gets the rotten end of everything. Be it a dead cat or a stale fish—you always insist on "Your Nose" to do the reconnoitering to verify the fact and state of affairs. Some go the extreme to think it is a bugle the way they "blow" on it, ta-ta-taa!

QUOTATIONS WE KNOW

I am not only witty in myself, but gee, look at the face!
An habitation giddy and unsure, that two can live as cheap as one.
A poor woman with plenty of everything, but worry for what to wear for the morrow.
I'll tickle your catastrophe and scratch your tonsils.
I do now remember the poor creature, small beer—'twas many years ago.
With all appliances and means to boot, girls are getting bolder and bolder.
Uneasy lies the head that wears a crown, and husbands know that their's especially doesn't last very long.
Accommodated; that is, when a man is, as they say, accommodated; or when a man is, being, whereby may be thought to be accommodated—which is an excellent thing, providing for his other half and staying up all night walking the floor with baby.
We have heard the chimes at midnight, oh daughter, oh daughter, come home.
A man can die but once and women dye their hair from one shade to another.
His cares are now all ended—I'll have ice in mine, please.
The oldest sins the newest kind of ways; missing the cuspidor and smearing the rug.
What wind blew you hither? That furry animal in the woods!

Lovelier than Juliet,
Always says, "Like fun!"

But she—she depreciates
My praises with "Like fun!"

Although I insist:
"You're the only one
I have ever kissed,"
She answers: "Like fun!"

With love's madness and pain,
I must be done;
I'll not see her again—
But she says, "Like fun!"

GAME TOMORROW

By SATOSHI HOSHI

In order to be in shape for the future games the Japanese eleven held their second tryout at Liberty Park, Sunday.

Their first game is scheduled for this Sunday at the Civic Stadium against the Georgetown A. C. The time will be at 12. I am quite certain that this game will be a snappy one for the Japanese eleven in their first tilt, because of the way Coach D'Vorak handled them at Liberty Park in their tryout, Sunday.

I think he is a fine coach and a good one to win a game with all of his clever plays. I wish that the majority of you may have the opportunity to see the Japanese eleven play their first game and I hope that you might have great enjoyment in watching them play.

I wish that next Sunday may be a fine day with the sunshine in the sky instead of a rainy and muddy day to play. You could see the colors of Stanford's football team of last year, red and white, in the field all over.

Let us hope that the Japanese team may win this game and the others too, and I wish that I might see many of your faces in the grandstand seats yelling your head off to help win the game.

Wow, that gave me another headache.

ONE EVENING, while Frances Scarce was studying Japanese at the Katherine Blaine Home, a Japanese woman dropped in and said politely: "Kon-ban-wa!"

"Oh, yes," replied Frances, "Come Bow Wow!"
