A need for a greater sense of humor between Canada and the United States was expressed by Damon C. Woods recently...

The facts had been prepared by the massive GOP braintrusts. By a queer accident, a great many facts were left out by the Republican white house...

It seems a brain combine felt the intellectual integrity had been pretty much kicked around and he considered resigning...

So fashionable has the practice of rousing red-scars become, that the very democratic institutions which are supposedly in danger are being slowly squeezed in the close embrace of the intellectually unwashed...

Anent Earl Browder's arrest in Terre Haute; says Harry W. Colmery, new national commander of the American Legion...

The sole purpose of his arrest was to prevent him from speaking. It is contrary both to American principles and to the principles on which the Legion stands...

This interpretation of Americanism should interest zealous JACL orators...

JACL FUND DRIVE BOARD IS PLANNED AS 70 PLEDGE AID

Endowment Program Given Boost to Indicate General Approval

SET UP INCLUDES HEADS: SAN FRANCISCO—The national endowment fund of $100,000 for the Japanese-American Citizens' league took another boost here this week...

Plans for the campaign for the next two years were also tentatively being set with the formation of a board of directors to push the fund drive...

According to present plans the board will include the national officials with Dr. T.T. Yatabe of Fresno, past national JACL president, in the chairmanship...

Originally the endowment committee appointed included but three members, namely, Dr. Yatabe, Saburo Kido and Dr. E. Hayashi as the treasurer...

With this board setup and Togasaki as managing director, assistant campaign directors in the three district council chapters are soon to be named...

Arai Asks Young To Register For Coming Elections

"An obligation of every citizen if he is to participate in the protection of his individual as well as community welfare, is to register for voting..."

The registration books, it was explained by Arai, will close at 5 p.m. next Saturday for the November general elections...

Concluding his appeal Arai made known the fact Seattle has reached an all time high in registration having hit the mark of more than 195,590 registered voters...

His organization will do its part toward enrolling a second generation voters, he said.

RUSSIAN DEMANDS RAISE WAR FEARS IN SPANISH CRISIS

Portugal, Germany, Italy Hit for Allegedly Violating Neutrality Pacts

SOVIET IS DETERMINED: LONDON—Fears of a general European war were expressed in diplomatic circles following Soviet Russia's demand that alleged fascist aid to the Spanish rebels be stopped at once...

Russia declared herself ready to speed aid to beleaguered governmental forces in form of airplanes and war materials unless further aid to the insurgents by Italy and Germany were not curbed...

This report made by diplomatic sources in Geneva where the League of Nations is holding its session promised to plunge Europe into another crisis late this week...

Hits Fascist Powers: Russia's protest came as a direct challenge to Hitler and Mussolini...

A protest against Portugal's violation of neutrality agreements followed another which was sent earlier this week to interested powers...

The 27 nations on the international committee of non-intervention in the Spanish civil strife were to have met yesterday to discuss the Soviet debate...

Britain to Open Debate: Great Britain is expected to open discussions on the subject of the Spanish government's recent charges that fascists aided the rebels...

Russia's determination to seek prompt action on the matter seemed strong, according to official advisers...

All the nations in Europe will be drawn into the squabble that might follow. Doubts were expressed in informed quarters here whether Premier Leon Blum's popular front government could continue French neutrality...

While Germany withheld comment pending official conferences, Italy replied, by calling Russia's threat as a "bluff"...

Secretary Swanson Says U.S. Will Match New Forts If Pact Expires

WASHINGTON—With the Washington naval treaty expiring Dec. 31, Secretary Swanson warned against disrupting the present status quo of fortifications in the Far East after the treaty has expired...

America is ready to match fortification with fortification, the secretary said.

He also discussed the London proposal for extending the portion of the treaty which curbs the building of fortifications or bases in the Pacific...

The navy department had no news that Japan had already begun construction of new fortifications on her mandate islands...

With the secretary was William H. Stacey, chief of naval operations. Both men indicated that the United States would take no initiative...

Opinion Voiced In Nippon to Heavy Naval Arms Step

TOKIO—France must spend 10 billion francs within the next four years for defense purposes, according to the Japan Times...

Judging from the way the nation are strengthening defenses, it is difficult to understand if they truly wish to make preparations for defense or for war...

Instead of using such sums of money for self-destruction it seems that the intelligence of the people today is high enough to understand that the money could be better used for a useful and patriotic purpose...

More propaganda should be given to peace movements and little attention or notoriety should be given to movements pertaining to warfare.

THE PROBLEM OF INTEGRATION

Much has been written and said about the integration of the second generation into the life of these United States.

But taken as a whole the problem is not nearly as serious or as difficult of solution as it sounds at first hearing.

But there is no particular reason why much concern should be lavished on this group. As a matter of fact, it is composed of those individuals who are truly maladjusted to their environments...

And now how about those who can and in all probability will be integrated into American life? There is nothing to prevent their becoming so except themselves.

These American citizens of Japanese ancestry may simply be able to act and to talk like their fellow Americans.

The solution of the problem of integration for American citizens of Japanese ancestry lies simply in their being ready to take an active part in community affairs with their fellow American citizens.

These American citizens of Japanese ancestry may simply be able to act and to talk like their fellow Americans.

There is nothing inherent in the American citizens of Japanese ancestry which would automatically bar them from acceptance by their fellows.

Let the members of the second generation follow, either individually or as a group, the general citizenship policy of the Japanese-American Citizens' League...

In the fields of education and of business there are many opportunities for the development of closer association between American citizens of Japanese ancestry and white American citizens.

THE PROTEST VOTE

The current political battle over the presidency does not seem to be so much a struggle between the Democrats and the Republicans as it is a battle between the New Deal forces and the anti-New Deal people.

If Governor Alfred Mossman Landon happens to be elected president next November 3 he can thank his opponent probably as much as he can thank his campaign managers.

Roosevelt for creating the various unpopular agencies of the New Deal.

It seems that the presidential battle for 1936 is narrowing down into a battle between the conservatives as represented by the Republicans and the liberals as represented by the Democrats.

The question should be, for most voters, have the benefits of the New Deal outweighed its faults? If the New Deal has succeeded in making a mess of things as some of the Republican orators would have us believe, then there should be no question about turning Roosevelt and company out of office.

Much stress has been placed by the Republicans on the asserted Democratic attitude toward the Constitution of the United States.

But unless the American people have become as spineless as some of the dictator-ridden peoples of Europe, any administration would have not a little difficulty in declaring the Constitution of the land null and void.

After hearing Republican fulminations against New Deal expenditures, one's reaction is that what this campaign needs is a sound program for balancing the budget.

It would seem that the problem that a good many voters will have to settle for themselves is whether or not the New Deal's errors are great enough to swing their votes against the Democratic regime.

THE FASCIST MENACE

Much has been written and said about the menace of Communism to the world. It has been declared that the triumph of Communism will mean, among other things, the "crash of civilization".

But under the cloak of this attack on Communism has grown up another political philosophy which, if unchecked, can become just as dangerous if not more so than the Communist menace.

Last week-end there were riots in both Great Britain and France in which Fascists figured prominently. The rebel faction in Spain is composed of Fascists in the main who have had the support of the Fascist regimes in both Germany and Italy.

The stories of persecution, suppression and confiscation that have leaked from both Germany and Italy hint that a dictatorship, no matter whether it be Communist or Fascist, is to be abhorred by any democratic people such as the Americans profess to be.

Fascism has apparently grown up much more quietly and less spectacularly than has Communism. Perhaps this is because it started more as an "anti" movement directed against Communism.

Both France and Great Britain should follow their policy of opposition to the Fascist groups in their midst if they wish to escape the dictator-ridden fate of other European Fascist nations.

ONE WEEK-MORE

But one week remains for those eligible to get their names on the registration books so that they can vote in the highly crucial November elections.

Members of the second generation in Seattle have responded fairly well in getting their names on the registration books, according to officials of the local chapter of the Japanese-American Citizens' League.

The second generation voters in Seattle are not many and will probably never be a decisive factor in any city election, but that is no reason why they should shirk their civic duty.

A Nisei Melodrama . . .

I LOVE LIFE

By Buddy Uno

(Dedicated to those who have a hard time understanding life and every so often have to be "begged" to keep smiling.)

Florence sat at her writing desk, reading a chapter from Darragh Aldrich's "Earth Never Tires". The room facing the east, opened itself to the world through a large studio window bordered by a gold-colored drapery which was enriched by the glow of the sun that poured into the room.

The room, a large one, was bare except for the writing table, a card table in the far corner, a studio couch against the darkened wall, an old rocking chair basking in the sun in the studio window which overlooked a miniature garden.

Flowers in gay colors, dashing red hollyhocks, spear-like gladiolas, then gay mixture of larkspurs, cosmos and zinnias, all bordered by bright red begonias and blue lobelias.

There were pictures and paintings in oil neatly hung on the wall . . . one a Cezanne reproduction.

Florence turned the page, only the sound of the crisp paper gave sign of life . . . then a sudden buzzing of the door bell.

A hearty welcome by the hostess and the three guests were led into Florence's room upstairs. The guests, their first visit, felt uneasy and stood about awkwardly looking at each other and waiting for Florence to speak.

It wasn't long before the strangers became accustomed to the surroundings and the hostess. And then they began to speak to one another as if they had known each other for years.

During one of the pauses, she retired to a rear room and came back with a large tray overloaded with cups of mixed fruit juice and a dish of homemade cookies.

"This is my hobby. I make a collection of hand-made handkerchiefs. I have them all over and among my prize handkerchiefs are the ones I received from a friend who bought them in Paris during the Great War . . . Don't you have a hobby of some kind?"

She asked and each of the guests replied "yes" and they learned that there was among them collectors of stamps, smoking pipes and autographed movie stars' pictures.

Florence is not only self-supporting, but also giving substantial aid to her family, who are deservedly proud of their elder sister. Florence is a lover of literature, an earnest hobbyist in collecting hand-made handkerchiefs, loves to sew and cook, would rather spend an afternoon playing with children than going to a picture show . . . an ideal girl, loved by all . . . who are fortunate enough to know her . . .

Florence, who is totally deaf, replies when asked what makes her so happy: "I love life and am happy. I'm alive. It is so beautiful. I often get scared when I think of death. I'm afraid to die . . ."

And who would want her to give up anything, especially when one has gained it after such a heroic struggle as Florence?

The world never needed so much as it does today, women of large hearts and large minds, whose home and sphere are capable of embracing something beyond the four corners of their kitchen.

Random

Rambles

Foolish are the expressions on the faces of those who habitually attend programs and other functions in Japanese time. A half hour tardy, only to realize those concerned have started that particular program promptly.

Often they are speaking loudly as they approach the entrance, the sudden termination of animated conversation marking the dawn of realization and the birth of self-consciousness for being tardy.

Quietly, they try to tip-toe into the hall, but to find the floor refuses to be silent, but squeak and creak and moan. A chair blocks the way, and is sent skidding and clattering.

Heads turn, bodies shift as members of the audience crane to see what late-comer is responsible for the commotion.

Meanwhile the actor, singer, or chairman, whoever he may be, bravely carries on, wondering if it were worthwhile to satisfy pride and begin on time, or whether it would have been better to follow tradition, stalling until the house was well filled.

Cinema entertainment for inmates of the federal penitentiary at McNeil Island, Washington, seems to be chosen with extreme care. A news item in the Island Lantern, weekly penitentiary newspaper, reads:

"Mr. and Mrs. Frog and Master Tadpole Frog, were centers of interest at last week's Educational Picture showing in the Auditorium. A full turnout found both entertainment and instruction in the mysteries of nature by watching the development of the frog from the egg, through the various stages, to maturity.

This was followed by two reels devoted to highway beautification, showing many worthwhile shots taken from highways in various parts of the country.

"Education served in so active a manner as this, is bound to prove increasingly popular with the inmate body."

This week's pictures are "From Desert Sand" illustrating the making of glass; "How to Get Rid of Rats"; various methods of rat control; "Roads from Surf to Summit"; scenic wonders of the national forests of the Pacific Coast states.

Campus

By Rube Hosokawa

(Dedicated to those who have a hard time understanding life and every so often have to be "begged" to keep smiling.)

Two weeks here and we've learned the ways of the campus. Five hundred and fifty students walk the dusty narrow paths from building to building.

The classes are comparatively small. There are but twenty in our speech session. Seven of us struggle through Latin in the eight o'clock class with a smiling instructor who has a pleasant accent.

In the dormitory everyone knows each other. The head of the house is an elderly woman who is mother to all of us.

The campus itself is beautiful in every respect. With huge, old shade trees and thick green grass, the atmosphere is like that found in a park.

We were shown the very ground on which they were massacred by Indians. We listened to the stirring story of heroism in the winning of the Northwest.

We saw the sun smile on the stone monumental shaft and felt the spirit of Marcus and Narcissa Whitman. We turned and watched the sun melt into the prairie . . . and were too inspired to speak

Credit should go where credit is due. Despite whatever shortcomings there may have been, the Minoru Tai-Tamiko Yokoyama wedding ought to be commended for the following:

1. The ceremony was started promptly at 4 p.m. as announced.

2. The reception was started promptly, and everything was over by 7 p.m., leaving the entire evening free.

3. Congratulatory speeches were kept short, and the number of speakers at a minimum. The program did not drag.

One has not to attend many weddings before he becomes hoarsely tired of waiting and waiting, and waiting for something to happen. And once they do begin to happen, they all too often keep happening ever so monotonously 'till every uncle and second cousin has congratulated and repeated the same stories of the happy but bored young couple who are yearning to get away.

So often second generation speakers misconstrue the word "marital", making it sound like "martial".

By the mere transposition of the "it" to "it" in that word, its meaning becomes changed to a word used in reference to the military. Surely, there should be no intended connection.

Never in his years as dean of men at the University of Washington has Herbert T. Condon had to take disciplinary action with students of Japanese extraction. In all his experiences with the Nipponese, he believes he has seen no racial group with better trained and behaved young folk. These thoughts, he brought out in an interview this week.

The record and his opinions speak well for Joe College, a la Nipponese, spectacles, cleanliness and all, for Dean Condon has carved his niche at Washington, the state as well as the school.

Discomfort, uneasiness, and perhaps a little nervousness are written in bold letters on that part of the young man's face which is visible as he lies in the dentist's chair.

Stuffed into his mouth is a sheet of rubber, an apron to catch grindings or whatever else may drop while the dentist is working. Held by horribly large and shiny clips, the rubber looks stuffed into his mouth, and serves as a most efficient gag.

Gagged, pinned to the chair by the threat of the drill, mouth pried open and propped in that position by the dentist's muscular hands, the patient can only stare at the movable working table on which are scores of cruel looking instruments, probes and pokers and jabbers with needle-points, snub-nosed with gnarled and twisted business-ends, all in shiny surgical steel.

Horrible, isn't it? But it's necessary, and the sooner one gets around to it, the lighter will be the ordeal. The Occasional Rambler sat through 4 1/2 hours of it last week, with as much more time in the chair coming up.

Pink Tea

Consul and Madame Isakuro Okamoto, Mr. and Mrs. B. Sawada and Mr. and Mrs. M. Makers of Japanese Civilization

ENDOO MORITOO

The true story of the priest, Mongaku forms a romantic tragedy the like of which one does not often find even in fiction. Originally Endoo Moritoo, an officer of the guards in Kyoto, he fell in love with his beautiful cousin, Kesa (generally spoken of as "Kesa Gozen"), the wife of a comrade called Minamoto Wataru.

His addresses being resolutely rejected, he swore that if Kesa remained obdurate, he would kill her mother. From this dilemma the brave woman determined that self-sacrifice offered the only effective exit. She promised her husband, Wataru with wine until he fell asleep.

She would then wet his head, so that Moritoo, entering by an unfastened door and feeling for the damp hair, might consummate his purpose surely. Moritoo readily agreed, but Kesa, having dressed her own hair in like fashion and wet her head, lay down in her husband's place.

When Moritoo found that he had killed the object of his passionate affection, he hastened to confess his crime and invited Wataru to slay him. But Wataru, sympathizing with his remorse, proposed that they should both enter religion and pray for the rest of Kesa's spirit. It is related that one of the acts of penance, performed by Mongaku—the monastic name taken by Moritoo—was to stand for twenty-one days under a waterfall in the depth of winter.

Subsequently he devoted himself to collecting funds for the reconstructing the temple of Takao, but his zeal having been betrayed him into the palace of Go-Shirakawa, (1156-8), he was banished to Izu, where he obtained access to Yoritomo and counselled him to put his fortune to the test.

At last, in his sixty-fourth year, he returned to Kyoto, but found all changed; neither his home nor his family was left, and he gave vent to his feeling in a tanka (a Japanese poem of 31 syllables arranged in five lines thus, 5, 7, 5, 7, and 7):

"Frail and weak have I become, And yet I have survived much: Whither have they gone, My home and loved ones?"

Nine years later he died, in the spring-time, as he had wished "in the month of spring, under the open blossoms, While the full moon shines above, would I lay down this life."

SAIGYOO HOOSHI

Saigyoo (1118-1199), whose name was originally Saotoo Yoshihiko, was of noble parentage, and when quite a young man succeeded his father in his position at court. He distinguished himself by his mental and physical abilities, studying Chinese and Buddhist writings, and earning such respect as a poet that he was admitted a member of the regular company of court poets.

The Ex-Emperor Toba was his especial patron, and the young courtier served in his bodyguard. He was leading a healthy and happy life, free from care, when, shocked at the sudden death of a friend, he decided to abandon his wife and little daughter, leave the world, and become a monk.

During the remainder of his life he was for the most part a travelling priest, first calling himself Oni (ghost), and finally Saigyoo, "Wanderer to the West" where the Buddhist paradise lies. He lived up to his name, roaming far and wide in Japan, with no set time, but preferring the more beautiful and romantic districts; for over and above his Buddhist beliefs he was filled with a deep love of nature, which exerted a profound influence on him.

At last, in his sixty-fourth year, he returned to Kyoto, but found all changed; neither his home nor his family was left, and he gave vent to his feeling in a tanka (a Japanese poem of 31 syllables arranged in five lines thus, 5, 7, 5, 7, and 7):

"Frail and weak have I become, And yet I have survived much: Whither have they gone, My home and loved ones?"

Nine years later he died, in the spring-time, as he had wished "in the month of spring, under the open blossoms, While the full moon shines above, would I lay down this life."

Medley

By Toyo Suyemoto

Among papers bearing our momentary scribbles, we come up on a sheet of a town with emphasis on the Oriental district: "the west end of placid Capitola breathes forth an Asiatic atmosphere, for here along elm-streets the Chinese, Japanese and few Koreans reside."

"The chaotic affairs that shake and move the foundations of their homeland scarce disturb their equanimity. Life and death, their own to view and death, seen the only matters of importance that influence them, for the other subordinate clauses of existence are accepted without much show of emotion."

"And in the west end they have managed to continue their own traditions for each succeeding generation to inherit and keep."

"Capitola is likewise known as the River Town, because the west end lies beside the sluggish, muddy river that sweeps past its Front Street marked by lone-ly warehouses. The bridge which spans the river enables the truck farmers, living on the other side, to bring their produce to the town markets, some daily and others twice a week on special market days. "The Japanese district occupies a prominent place in the west and adjacent to the Chinese sector, and there is no sharp, distinguishable line of demarcation. The shops are clustered along two streets, gradually thinning out toward the residential territory, and here are colorful signs and quaint posters, presenting their purpose in ideographs and English. These shops have a certain air of gaiety, yet also of efficiency."

"But it is the residential section that one wanders to on casual walks. No fashionable buildings of any remarkable design attract attention here, for there is no room for them. Only weather-beaten houses stand along these quiet streets, and they have seen many black-haired and dark-eyed babies come and grow up, and the old and young depart to never return."

"Yet, shouldering the years together, they keep their secrets close, and even the teasing wind at dusk cannot evoke any responses to its urging. The stars watch over their peace and ease their age."

Who Knows the Unos?

You know the Unos? Sure, they're almost tradition at Foster high school, where the fourth and the last of the athletic Unos is doing his darndest to bring gridiron glory to his school.

Paul Uno, tall and just starting to fill out, holds down the regular quarterback position for Foster with all his 145 pounds. Foster is entered in the Snoqualmie Valley league, a secondary conference of smaller high schools, and the town itself is located near Renton Junction, just south of Seattle.

It all started back in 1925 when Masaru 'Chick' Uno, made the varsity as a sophomore. And next year, Paul will be playing his last year, the last Uno at Foster.

Chick halfbacked from '25 to '28 when he weighed between 145 and 150 pounds. Kelly came next, fullbacking in his battering-ram fashion from 1928 to 1930. Totsy was the third Uno to perform in Foster spangles, playing end in 1929 and '30. And now, Paul.

Foster fans remember Chick as a fleet, tough runner, with a bullet pass in his right arm. Totsy weighed but 135. Kelly, who bucked opposing lines for many a yard with his 150 pounds, has gained both muscle and beef since, and now is a 175-pounder with a san-dan rank in judo. Lifting a 100-pound sack of rice overhead with one arm is no trick at all for Kelly. He'll be one of those heading south with the Seattle judo team.

But Chick's athletic history is most interesting. Out of 200 freshmen that turned out for the Washington State College frosh team, Chick was among the 40 in 'A' squad. Uno broke in for several games, but missed out when numerals were distributed as only 22 were passed out.

In college, however, it was the ring and not moleskins that brought fame for Uno. For three years Chick wore the Crimson and Gray on the varsity boxing team, first as a welterweight, then in the middleweight class. Even with the tough mitt schedules that W.S.C. faces annually, Uno managed to win most of his bouts, with boxing skill rather than slugging power. Today he carries not a single scar from his collegiate battles.

Maybe . . .

A wealth of pugnacious, underslung and efficient guards are available at the beck and call of Jimmy Phelan at the University of Washington, while backfield timber is also numerous and talented. It may be that unless something unforeseen pops up, Roy Nakagawa and Harry Yanagimachi, sophomore aspirants for the Purple and Gold varsity, may be kept out of intercollegiate competition a year.

Both are still shy of 20 years, although their growth has practically stopped. But still, a year's experience would polish off a lot of rough spots that still stick out on their gridiron technique.

Early in the season, Phelan declared to the squad a few would be kept out of play. If a man so much as reports his name as substitute to the umpire, regardless of whether he plays or not, that man automatically loses a year of competition. Phelan ran in substitute after substitute against Idaho last Saturday, but Nakagawa and Yanagimachi were among a handful of third-stringers who failed to get the call. Neither did they make the travelling squad to UCLA. He hasn't said so in as many words, but it is highly probable the two Nipponese will be saved for another season.

It might be remembered Max Starceovich, all-coast guard last year and heading for the same honor this season with the Huskies, was kept out of play in his sophomore year, and rose from mediocrity.

Thank the Tomatoes . . .

The tomato season ended rather abruptly this fall, so for the first time since 1932 the smiling sportsmen from Bellevue across the lake join in the annual tussle for the Courier football championship. Toki Hirota, who ripped off yardage and bolstered a crumbling line in "the good old days", is organizing the team, and will probably climb into the moleskins again at fullback.

Win or lose, and they lost most of the time, Bellevue always came up grinning. It won't be hard to referee when they're playing. But with men such as Akira and George Funai of Bothell, Taki Sakaguchi, and Hirota himself, perhaps Bellevue won't be on the losing end so often this year.

Vital Statistics . . .

ARTHUR ASAO 'SOOR' SUZUKI: Up from Los Angeles last week, hurried back down after announcing his engagement to Miss Setsuko Matsuzaki. Sour is a one-time Seattle basketball star, took a fling at scribbling in sport lingo, ran for some time "In the Arena" in The Courier, a sports column devoted mostly to boxing and wrestling. As a writer, he was accepted as an authority on Japanese boxers.

FRANK AKIRA YAMASHITA: He made gridiron history as "Little Frank Yama" the first Nipponese to break into football at the U. of W. Wenatchee high school star, frosh end at Washington, member of the varsity travelling squad, local basketball and baseball luminary, Mr. Yama's oldest son stands out. He'll walk the aisle with Miss Pauline Nakata, who becomes Mrs. Yamashita tomorrow.

SAKAI 'SAKI' ARAI: Joy reigned in the family Arai, for Saki's a daddy, and the little one will don britches and try to equal the feats of his sports-loving papa. If heredity has anything to do with athletic ability, watch for the name Arai 15 or 20 years from now.

2 GAMES TOMORROW OPEN 8TH COURIER GRID SEASON

Defending Champs Face Grizzly Eleven; J.S.C. Squad Meets Marmots

The shrill of the referee's whistle shortly after one o'clock tomorrow afternoon sends local gridirers into their eighth annual Courier league football season. Five teams, one less than last year, start their chase for the league crown, with the Grizzlies and University District opening the season.

An hour and a half later the Marmots and the Japanese Students' club clash in the second half of the Sunday doubleheader. Bellevue, entered in the Courier pennant chase for the first time since 1932, draws a first round bye.

All teams will be under the 140-pound weight limitation, with two men allowed up to 145 pounds. Exceptions were made for Bellevue's Takeo Yamaguchi and Ben Yamagiwa since the Lake-siders are short of men, and for several youthful heavyweights.

A single round of games will be played, two per Sunday, lasting until November 8. A round-robin playoff will follow among the first three teams with the then existing standings to remain in effect. In case of a tie for third place, a novel 10-play playoff plan will be tried. Details will be announced later.

The Waseda Hornets, who furnished tied for second last year, dropped out of the race because of lack of players. Parental objection caused many of their men to forsake football this year, they reported. The Tigers gave the same reason for not organizing this year.

In case of a tie at the end of the round-robin playoff, the standings will be left as such since the basketball season is expected to start early in December or in late November.

All insurance fees must be paid, and all doubtful players must be weighed by the director before they will be allowed to participate tomorrow.

Once-Over Shows Teams Practicing

Teams, according to reports, have been hard at work this week preparing for the season. The Marmots have been running through plays almost every other evening, and are expected to prove a serious threat this season, especially with the addition of Shinji Kozu, former Garfield high school halfback.

Bellevue has an untried squad of both veterans and youngsters working with Toki Hirota, led by such men as George and Akira Funai of Bothell high school, Hirota, Taki Sakaguchi of Bellevue high, and Ben Yamagiwa.

The Japanese Students' club, playing with a small squad, have found time to break away from books evenings for short workouts. Backing their two backfield stars of last year, George Yamaguchi and Kumeo Yoshinara, will be Joe Tomita, three-year letterman on the 145-pound Tacoma Lincoln high school eleven.

Shortage of reserves, plus lack of practice and organization is expected to handicap the Collegians who can boast of numerous individual stars within their lineup.

University District, defending champs, have found reserves to bolster their 13-man squad, but will go into the first game without benefit of a practice scrimmage. Using the Notre Dame shift, their attack will center around Frank Fukano, elusive and versatile halfback.

The North Enders hope to blossom out tomorrow in new gold and blue jerseys. Little has come from the Grizzlies, who will be short Hiroshi Teshima, their triple threat fullback last season. Harry Yanagimachi gave them a set of plays to work on late this week.

LOCAL PREP GRIDDERS SLATED FOR TUSSLES; HIRAHARA STARS

Former Asahi Men Slate Dinner, Wed.

As Garfield and Cleveland high schools engage themselves in their third prep game of the season next week, two stocky Japanese gridmen will hurl themselves against bigger and heavier opponents.

Mike Hirahara, running guard of Coach Leon Brigham's Garfield Bulldogs will pit his chunky frame against the Ballard Beavers Thursday at the Civic Stadium. On the following day on the same field, Mako Mochizuki, two-year letterman and quarterback for the Cleveland Eagles, will match his wit with the kicking of Edo Vanni of Queen Anne.

Described as "the boy with all chest and nothing between" the radio announcer, Hirahara, proved a "Stonewall Jackson" to the Cleveland Eagles last Saturday as Garfield copped their first prep encounter, 14-0, at the Civic field in a downpour.

He played a great offensive game as a blocking interference runner as well as stopping many Cleveland plays. Mochizuki was handicapped by a muddy field and a slippery ball as many of his passes were incomplete.

News Boys Trounce Gakusei Nine, 24-8

SAN FRANCISCO—The New World Sun newboys didn't have to be told to peddle their papers as they overran the Gakusei nine, 24-8, to cop the local baseball championship last Sunday.

Iwao Tanaka chucked no-hit, no-run balls in the innings he pitched for the newboys.

12-Run Rally Spills Alameda Nine, 16-13

ALAMEDA, Calif.—Although leading 11-4 at the beginning of the ninth the Alameda Talibus, reputed California state ball champions, dropped a 16-13 tussle to the Oakland Stewart Warner semipro Sunday.

The semipro scored 12 runs in the last inning.

Fishing Flashes

Anglers will find Camano Island a very good spot for blackmouth, says Ike They are swarming around Onamarc Park in great quantities.

Cutspinners are good bait for silvers in Elliot Bay. Stream fishing is in good condition. Saik never near Derring-ton and the Sully are the spots for trout, reports say.

FIFE TO FACE PREP ELEVEN TURKEY DAY

By Shigeo Wakamatsu

FIFE—Interest in the first turnout of the season Sunday afternoon of the Fife Young Men's Club football team received an extra boost when it was learned definitely they will play a Thanksgiving Day game with the strong Fife high school Trojans.

Practices will be held every Sunday afternoon for the local team.

Former football players as Daitchi Yoshioka, the hardy perennial who used to smash the lines in 1928, Ken Sagami, who captained last year's football team, and others will return to the line-up.

Seattle teams desiring a game with the Fife griders, it was announced by the club, would be welcome.

Mike Hirahara, running guard of Coach Leon Brigham's Garfield Bulldogs will pit his chunky frame against the Ballard Beavers Thursday at the Civic Stadium. On the following day on the same field, Mako Mochizuki, two-year letterman and quarterback for the Cleveland Eagles, will match his wit with the kicking of Edo Vanni of Queen Anne.

Described as "the boy with all chest and nothing between" the radio announcer, Hirahara, proved a "Stonewall Jackson" to the Cleveland Eagles last Saturday as Garfield copped their first prep encounter, 14-0, at the Civic field in a downpour.

He played a great offensive game as a blocking interference runner as well as stopping many Cleveland plays. Mochizuki was handicapped by a muddy field and a slippery ball as many of his passes were incomplete.

Japan Enthusiastic Over Tilden, Vines

TOKIO—It seems as if Babe Ruth isn't the only player of the athletic world that always gets mobbed by enthusiastic Japanese fans.

The arrival of Bill Tilden and Ellsworth Bines, internationally professional tennis players in Japan was met by a storm of enthusiasm on the part of Japanese tennis fans.

The two are on an exhibition tour of Japan, China, and the Philippines.

YANKEES COP WORLD SERIES

NEW YORK—Gibham's nickel world series saw the slugging Yankees of the American League annex world title honors in four games out of six from the National League Giants this week.

The Giants behind Carl Hubbell's hurling opened up the series with a 6-1 win in a down-pour. But the Yankees made it look like a storm in the second game of the series when they pounded out an 18-4 victory. Although the Giants outhit the Yankees, "Iron Man" Lou Gehrig's homer gave the latter the third game by a 2-1 margin in the third game.

Again Gehrig's bat played a decisive role in the Yankee's third victory as Hubbell was turned back, 5-2. The Giants kept in the series running with a 6-4 victory. However, the Yankees came through with the deciding game of the series, 13-5.

The men were chosen from various Northwest schools after weeks of intensive training. Those named on the squad are: Yasuyuki Kumagai, go-dan; Chuzi Sakata, go-dan; Yasutaro Mitsuura, san-dan; Ichiro Sakano, san-dan; third grade black belt Kaname Kuniyuki, Kiyoshi Uno. Second grade black belt Seisaku Takito, Hisato Takeshita, Susumu Nitta, Masato Tamura, Takeo Horiuchi, Mitsuo Hirahara, Kenji Kamada.

First grade black belt Matsuo Sakagami, Hiroshi Kato, Yoshio Ohashi, Mitsuru Yano, Akira Nakayama, Hisao Osaki, Hikaru Tamura, Toshio Higashi, Hisashi Kumagai, Toshi Takeshita, Kaneko Abe, Takuzo Teuchiya, and Kawasaki Koichi Furukawa is alternate.

Hirai Makes Dashes for 2 Touchdowns

ENUMCLAW—As the Enumclaw Barons meet Bremerton tomorrow at Enumclaw in a Northwest League engagement, George Hirai, former Auburn high school flash, will be calling signals for the Barons.

Hirai made two long runs averaging 40 yards to score touchdowns to aid in his team's victory over the Alt Headberg eleven of Tacoma last Sunday.

Kashino Plays Back for Garfield Frosh

A Japanese will again fill the quarterback position on the Garfield freshman eleven which plays its first game of the season against Queen Anne Wednesday. He is Shiro Kashino, who will be filling the shoes of George Okamura, last year's freshman signal barker.

Kawasaki Grid Star for Tacoma School

TACOMA—Daiya Kawasaki, diminutive grid star of the Lincoln high school junior varsity eleven here, led his team to a 13-0 victory over Stadium high school recently in inter-school competition.

KASAI TO DISCUSS ASIATIC POLICIES; JAPAN'S PROBLEM

Member of Diet Slates Five School Lectures, Three Local Talks

TO ARRIVE SUNDAY EVE

Japan's population problem and the political situation in the Far East will be discussed when Jiuji Kasai, member of the Japanese Diet, arrives by plane from Los Angeles tomorrow at 6 p.m. Mr. Kasai, a former resident of Seattle and a graduate of Broadway high school, is on his way back to Japan. He attended the World Olympics committee sessions in Berlin as one of Nippon's representatives. He also visited Cambridge during the recent inter-tenentary exercises at Harvard where he was a graduate student.

Welcome Planned A community welcome for the visitor is planned with a banquet by the Japanese Association on Monday evening at the Kin Ka Low at 6:30 p.m.

At 8 p.m. Mr. Kasai will address a mass meeting at the Nippon Kan lecturing on present day Japan.

Monday morning he will be a speaker on Japanese-American relations at Broadway high school during two assemblies from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. Tuesday morning during the same hours he will address the assemblies at Lincoln high school.

Monday afternoon Mr. Kasai will appear before the political science class of Dr. Maxim von Brevern from 1 p.m. to 2 p.m. lecturing on the political situation in the Far East. From 2 p.m. to 3 p.m., he will address Dr. Jesse F. Steiner's sociology class on a phase of Japan's over-population problem.

To Meet Friends

Old friends will tender him a welcome when the Seattle club holds a banquet in his honor at the Gyokko Ken 6:30 p.m. following his arrival tomorrow.

Mr. Kasai, on his graduation from Broadway, attended the University of Washington. He was also a student at the University of Chicago where he received his Master's degree, before entering Harvard. He is known to have been one of Seattle's leading high school orators, having won a city-wide oratorical contest while at Broadway.

Following his return to his native country, Mr. Kasai has filled many official positions in Tokio. At present he is a Diet member from Yamaguchi prefecture as a member of the Seiyu party.

Wednesday afternoon Mr. Kasai is to leave for Japan aboard the M.S. Hiye Maru.

Reverend Hoshino Leaving for Japan

Receiving word Wednesday of his father's death in Yokohama, the Rev. Mitsuo Hoshino, pastor of the Japanese Congregational church, is to depart today aboard the President Jackson for Japan at 11 a.m.

The late father of the Japanese pastor was 86 years old and funeral services are to be held immediately upon the Rev. Hoshino's return to Yokohama. Although not stated in the cable received, it was assumed the death was caused by sudden illness.

Last evening a farewell gathering to the Rev. Hoshino and a memorial tribute to the deceased was held at the Japanese Congregational church.

Kono, Auto Victim, Returns to Seattle

Confined for several weeks in the Arlington hospital following an auto smashup beyond Everett, Yuki Kono, local second generation auto repair shop owner, was returned to this city last Sunday.

Kono, who suffered a fractured skull, was found to have sufficiently recovered to be moved and is at present remaining at the home of his sister, Mrs. T. Yoshida. Another occupant of Kono's car was Alice Sakura, who suffered facial injuries and was also confined at the hospital. Miss Sakura is at present convalescing at her mother's home in South Park.

Fuyo Kai to Pledge 18 at YWCA Tonight

COMMUNITY GOES OVER TOP AGAIN FOR CHEST FUND

Community Raises Victory Flag for Sixteenth Consecutive Time

Waging a successful battle along all fronts, the Japanese community raised its banner of victory in the Community Fund campaign this week.

Commanded by Colonel Buhel Nakasone the Japanese regiment offered fifty sectors of the business and residential sections of the community to bring home the bacon. The quota of $4,120 was over-subscribed to by $78.40.

This means during the past sixteen years of Community Fund campaigns in Seattle the Japanese community has gone over-the-top each time and is the one district keeping its slate clean.

Young Aided Drive

Within the past several years, the younger generation have been taking an interest in the campaigns but this year the part played by them is regarded as having been much more prominent.

Leading off with a pre-campaign dance the Girls' club took an active part among the young groups while the women members of the Kibei Shimin Kyokai, a society of American born Japanese who have returned here following residence in Japan, together with other second generation members also played an important part.

Next year it is expected more younger generation groups will participate.

Sixteen Years' Record

The record of the past sixteen years of the Community Fund campaigns made by the Japanese community is as follows: (Goal $5000) 1921-$6,063.35; 1922-$5,723.79; 1923-$5,545.00; 1924-$6,013.99; 1925-$5,822.40; (goal $6000) 1926-$6,883.88; 1927-$6,616.45; 1928-$6,674.15; 1929-$6,555.50; 1930-$6,414.72; 1931-$6,284.99; (goal $8000) 1932-$4,530; 1933-$4,140; (goal $4,400) 1934-$4,408.00; (goal $4,000) 1935-$4,020.80; (goal $4,120) 1936-$4,198.40.

Maryknoll Features Carnival in Bazaar

Featuring a carnival air, the annual Maryknoll bazaar is to be held at the school auditorium tomorrow from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m.

Booths for Japanese and American refreshments, novelties and games will be set up. The feature of the entertainment is to be a movie.

With all Maryknoll groups participating the proceeds from the bazaar are to go toward the school fund.

Groups Taking Part Among the groups taking part will be the recently organized Maryknoll Girl Scout troops. Headed by Mariko Gertrude Kondo, troop leader, the girl scouts are to make a special display.

The boy scouts under Brother Adrian are to manage the booths while the Young Ladies Sodality and the Mothers Club will handle refreshments.

Jitsuzo Hara is general chairman, with S. Egashira and S. Kinoshita, assistant chairmen; Mrs. Shimizu and Mrs. Sasaki, refreshments; Francis Chujo and Paul Suzuki, booths; Kimi Matsusaka, young people's entertainment, on his committee.

Cannery Laborers Slate 3-Day Confab

What is understood to be a cannery workers' convention was to open for three days starting yesterday at the headquarters of the union local at 200 5th Ave. So.

Members of the cannery workers' local were declared to number some 3000. The membership is made up of Filipino, Negro, white American and Japanese workers.

The Japanese members were reported to number some 600. At the convention various measures including the revision of the local's constitution, minimum wage scale and food were to be discussed.

YPCC MEET PLANS SET WITH FORUM AS NEW FEATURE

"Building New World" to be Theme; T. Sakahara Presides, Thurs.

MISS TAKAHASHI ACTIVE

Preparations for the Young People's Christian conference of the Northwest were given an early start with a kickoff banquet at the Gyokko Ken Thursday evening.

General enthusiasm met an outline of the conference program and its theme, "Christian Youth Building A New World", announced by Toru Sakahara, this year's YPCC chairman and toastmaster at the banquet. Reports of new features by Miss Elizabeth Takahashi, young people's worker at the Japanese Methodist church and program committee chairman also added to the general enthusiasm.

Takahashi Suggests Forum

The conference this year will be organized toward asserting Christian leadership in community life. Discussions practical solving problems arising in the vocational and social fields.

Following the opening session on Saturday evening, the Northwest board delegates will be the guests of the Portland chapter at its dance to be held at the East Side Commercial club from 9 p.m. to 11 p.m.

With Hito Okada, local chapter president, taking the lead, the affair is to be made one of the biggest events of its kind here. Arthur Hirayama, chairman of the dance committee, is understood to be shaping a colorful program.

Tickets are to be at 40 cents each for ladies and gentlemen with the music to be furnished by Bob Briggs seven piece orchestra.

A ceremony upon the presentation of a banner to the local YWBA chapter of the Northwest Federation was held at the Buddhist church last Sunday. Reiko Sugahiro and Roy Matsunaga were representatives, respectively, of the YWBA and the YWBA. The fifth birthday of the YWBA was also celebrated at the same time.

Resignation of Roy Matsunaga as chairman of the joint meeting was accepted with Bill Oda elected to fill the position. Others on his cabinet are Florence Oda, secretary and Masumi Ninomura, treasurer.

New members of the YWBA are: K. Murakami, M. Kasahara, Y. Kunihiro, T. Takase, S. Murakata, M. Yagawa, S. Saruwatari, A. Tamiyasu and N. Arai.

Kabuki Play Given by Seattle Group at Eatonville Fete

EATONVILLE, Wash.—Celebrating the reopening of the Eatonville Lumber Mill, a colorful Japanese dramatic presentation featured the program here last Saturday evening.

It was probably the first time a Japanese Kabuki play was presented here. The presentations were Kotobuki Shiki Samba and Awano Naruto.

The artists were second generation girls from Seattle directed by Onoye Tamiji and her husband, Nakamura Niseldayu, well-known Japanese dramatic stars.

Walking through the streets of the slum district revealed the actual conditions prevailing there. Indications of sickness and disease were common. The clothing of the children, and the older people as well, was so ragged and scarce that it would be practically useless in providing protection from the heat or cold.

People were sleeping on the floors of shacks, on the ground outside shacks, and along the side of the road. Every scrap of clothing for those which are no longer wearable. A large bath room is provided and all men are required to cleanse themselves thoroughly upon entrance.

The Rev. Tanaka received his education at Duke University, Durham, North Carolina; Clarke University, Worcester, Massachusetts; School of Religion at Yale University, New Haven, Connecticut while Mrs. Tanaka is a graduate of Kobe College and attended a musical institute in Tokio.

A reception is to be held by the Methodists honoring the Rev. and Mrs. Tanaka this evening.

The annual Four L and Buddhist church tomorrow from 11 a.m. to 11 p.m. Japanese and American delicacies will be on sale while there will also be numerous concession booths.

Mrs. J. Mizuta of the Fujin-ka and Masato Yamamoto and Mori-yuki Yonemura are in charge.
