

BOARD TO LAUNCH CONVENTION PLANS

Council Session At Hood River On Next Week-End Expected To Set Forth Tentative Tacoma Program

INSURANCE PLAN REPORT SLATED

HOOD RIVER, Ore.—Early action in mapping the program for the Fifth Biennial Northwest District Council convention of the Japanese American Citizens League will be marked when delegates of the board of seven chapters meet here next Saturday for a two-day session.

The convention, to be held in Tacoma over the Labor Day holidays, is expected to draw a record attendance, with the majority of the chapters located in the Puget Sound area. With this in view the board is hastening plans to facilitate the drafting of a working program, to promote the welfare in various fields of the second generation citizens.

The opening event on the Council's program will be a brief preliminary session Saturday evening, at which the delegates will report and give a short outline of conditions in their respective chapters.

The main session of the gathering will be held on Sunday, when the board is expected to complete the tentative plan for the Tacoma convention.

At the last meeting the board prepared a list of speakers for the Tacoma gathering, and it is understood this has now been completed, and that formal invitations will be issued to them.

The central idea of the session will be to launch finally the program for the district session, as details have now been fairly well worked out.

The subject of fraternal insurance will be fully discussed. A detailed report will be given on the subject by Tom Iseri, board treasurer, and national chairman of the Fraternal Insurance Committee.

The local chapter is making plans for entertainment, and will hold its third anniversary dance, at which the delegates will be guests of honor.

Many Problems Set For Southern Board

LOS ANGELES — The forthcoming meeting of the Southern California District Council of the Japanese American Citizens League here, Sunday, May 28 will have a full program, with a number of important issues. The program was released this week by Kiyoshi Higashi, of Santa Ana, chairman of the Council.

The membership census of all chapters will be presented at the meeting, the chairman said. Work pertaining to the solidification of the Council machinery will come up. There also will be discussion of the admission of new chapters.

The local committee is under the direction of George Mori and Michi Bessho.

Tokio Claims To Be World's Second City

TOKIO—This is now the second largest city in the world, exceeded only by New York, according to statistics released by the Metropolitan Police Board authorities. The total population in the metropolitan area is 6,830,523, with 1,468,196 households.

When compared with the corresponding period of 1937, the city's population increased by 184,957 and the number of households by 44,540. Of the total, the male population was 3,521,894 and female, 3,308,629, recording an increase of 80,661 and 104,296 respectively as compared to the previous year.

Since the natural increase of population in Tokio during 1938 was 41,238, the increase in population was mainly caused by migration from other localities, chiefly by those seeking employment at various munitions factories in the metropolitan area. To prove this, a tremendous increase was witnessed in population in factory zones. In the districts under the jurisdiction of the Kamata Police Station, for example, a rise by approximately 40,000 was seen in population during the year.

In Tokio, there are 2,244,905 office workers and students. Of the number, 1,465,040 are male and 781,865, female.

In spite of this remarkable swelling of the city's total population, the number of newly-constructed residential houses decreased by 1,410 in 1938, compared with 19,356 for the preceding year.

In comparison with similar figures for 1936, prior to the outbreak of the China Affair, the construction of new houses decreased by 16,888, resulting in an acute shortage of living quarters for the increasing population.

SHIP FIRM MOVES INTO NEW OFFICE

Manager Announces Resumption Of Direct Service Under U. S. Flag

Resumption of direct shipping service between Puget Sound and the Orient under the American flag on June 15 was announced this week by Loring L. Bates, general manager of the Pacific Northwest Orient Line, Inc., as the company prepared to move into permanent offices at 805 Exchange Building this week-end.

Temporary offices have been in the Green Building, where organization work has been carried on. The ships of the company will be operated under the direction of the United States Maritime Commission.

First ship of the line to sail will be the steamship Coldbrook. Following, there will be sailings every three weeks, Mr. Bates said.

The Coldbrook passed the Panama Canal last Sunday, and will call at San Pedro for fuel oil. She is coming from Norfolk, Va., in ballast.

For the present the ships of the new organization will carry freight only. Whether there will be passenger service later will depend on developments.

Service Discontinued

There has been no direct Puget Sound-Orient service under the American flag since the American Mail Line ships were laid up.

Manager Bates is a veteran in the shipping business on Puget Sound, with service for nearly 30 years. His first job was with Dodwell Co., in Tacoma for the Blue Funnel Line. He was transferred to Seattle in 1914. He later entered the Alaska trade, and then came back to the Pacific Steamship Company.

KONZO, YOUNG TACOMAN, ATTAINS MAJOR RANK AS SCIENCE AUTHOR

Customs, manners and methods in Japan differ widely from those in the United States, said Saburo Hisayasu, speaking over The Courier radio broadcast last Tuesday evening. However, each people seeks a common goal of happiness, security and prosperity. A true understanding between the two can be had only by appreciation of each other's motives, as well as actions.

Hisayasu has just returned from a visit to Japan. He is a graduate of the University of Washington, class of '37. He took a law course, and was active in debate at the university, as well as at Cleveland High School previously. In his address this week he said:

I am an American citizen of Japanese parentage and am about to give you some of my reflections upon returning to my native land after a five-month visit in Japan.

Last October, for the first time, I sailed for the land of my parents. Recently I returned to America, with a firm conviction of an imperative need and a greater possibility for a better understanding between the people of Japan and the people of America.

My contact with the Japanese people, and the things Japanese, convinced me that a true understanding can be predicated only on the appreciation of each other's motives, as well as actions.

While in Japan I was invited to many luncheons and dinners. Invariably the hostess would say, "Please eat it, though it doesn't taste good."

To us these words are strange, indeed. It would seem that the hostess was insulting the guest by serving food she professed to be unpalatable. But the reason for these words of thinking that not even the best food is good enough for the guest. To the American

SECRETARY HULL RAPS EXPORT BAN ON PLYWOOD LOGS

Holman Bill Would Hit Plan To Build Foreign Trade, Says Cabinet Head

NATIONAL DEBT GAINS

WASHINGTON—The controversial question of restricting export of Douglas fir plywood logs from the Pacific Northwest took on a new angle this week when Secretary of State Hull submitted a letter to the Senate committee. He is opposing the Holman bill.

The secretary said that the Holman bill would be inconsistent with the administration's trade program, and possibly lead to retaliatory measures.

Under the reciprocal trade agreements program the country is making progress in restoring and expanding foreign commerce, which is of importance to the prosperity of the country.

The secretary also denied the Holman bill would be a conservation measure. He said it would simply shift the use of logs from foreign to domestic users.

As the questions of debt and deficit grow, the interest centers more and more on the reports of the Treasury Department.

Monday of this week the national deficit for the year crossed the 3-billion-dollar mark, with a month and a half of the fiscal year to go.

In the budget it has been estimated that the deficit this year would be 4 billion dollars. However, receipts have gained somewhat under the new taxes, and the government has cut down expenses.

The deficit this year will, however, be more than double that of last year, it was said.

The federal debt is now $40,203,666,919. This takes no account of the several billions which experts say will be lost by the lending agencies.

After Alien Incomes

Chairman Martin Dies of the un-American activities committee of the House has complained of lack of co-operation on the part of some of the agencies of the federal government. He wants to look at the income tax returns of some of the reputed Communists and Fascists in this country. Consequently, the President has issued an order permitting such inspection. Information may be submitted to Congress.

Supreme Court Decisions

The Supreme Court after a two-week recess this week gave a number of decisions. Among them was one holding constitutional a section in the National Firearms Act which bars sawed-off shotguns and machine guns from interstate commerce, unless registered with the federal authorities.

The court held the act does not usurp the police power of all the states nor infringe on the right of the people to bear arms.

President's Coming West

Indication that there is not likely to be an early adjournment of Congress was seen this week with the announcement that President Roosevelt plans to leave for the Fair at San Francisco about June 15 if it seems Congress will remain in session until late in July, or early August, as seems probable.

The President had expected an early adjournment, but with the developments in Europe there is demand that Congress stay here. As there is no political need for the solons to rush home.

Gets Highest Salary

The highest salary yet reported as paid by a corporation last year was that of George W. Hill, president of the American Tobacco Company, who received $331,348.

The highest salary previously reported was $209,000 paid to Walter Gifford, president of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co.

Tokio Chamber Asks Lower China Duties

TOKIO—The Chamber of Commerce and Industry in Tokio recently issued a recommendation to the Japan Chamber of Commerce and Industry that import duties on goods necessary for industrial development and stabilization of national life in China be reduced.

The group also asked that the anti-Japanese tariff be abolished, including the lowering of the tariff on cotton yarns over 28 count and that the formalities for passing customs be simplified.

The national commerce group was expected to petition the China affairs board on the recommendations.

KING AND QUEEN were delayed two days by fog at sea as they neared Canada on their visit, but the political fog over Europe has held up Premier Chamberlain about six months.

Henry Tatsumi Made Assistant Professor

Advancement in his career in connection with the Department of Oriental Studies at the University of Washington came this week to Henry S. Tatsumi, M. A., to the rank of assistant professor. He will take over his new duties with the beginning of the term next year.

Dr. Eldon Griffin launched the course in Japanese in the department in 1925. Since that time it has grown steadily. Mr. Matsu-shita was the first to give instruction in that language.

Professor Tatsumi started teaching Japanese in 1928 as a teaching fellow. Several years ago he became an instructor, and has continued until his appointment this week as assistant professor.

PRODUCE GROWERS GET WAGE DEMAND

Manager Floyd Oles Asserts Prices This Year Cannot Bear More Burden

The shadow of possible differences between growers and shippers of produce and the labor unions representing shed workers fell over the fresh vegetable deal this last week, according to Floyd Oles, manager of the Washington Produce Shippers Association.

The Association includes both independent shippers and cooperative growers associations, and represents all grower and shipper groups in Western Washington.

Broad Demands Made

Recent proposals of the Teamsters' Union have included a demand for a strict closed shop in all sheds, deduction of union dues from workers' pay, signature to union membership application before start work, and various restrictions as to work on Sundays and holidays.

Representatives of growers and shippers have met on various occasions with union officials, and have agreed in substance to all of these new restrictions, but have refused to concede additional demands made upon them by the union as to increase of the hourly rate of pay, feeling that in this connection would have to be borne by growers in the form of reduction in the price received for their produce.

Growers Getting Little

"Growers are getting little enough for their production at the present time," said Mr. Oles in a statement today. "We feel that it would be very difficult, particularly for the member shippers who are cooperative societies, to explain to their farmers any increase in the pay of shed workers when farmers themselves are not in a position to demand and cannot receive assurance of any increase in the price of their products."

"At a time when freezing plants are largely expected to receive..."

BANK DEPOSITS UP; SILK PRICES GAIN

Finance Ministry Reports Heavy Gains In Cash Bring Total To 19 1/2 Billion Yen; Carries Out Program

COCOON RAISERS ARE OPTIMISTIC

TOKIO—Rising bank deposits and a booming silk market featured the financial, industrial and commercial situation during the latter part of April, bringing a spirit of optimism in most circles of the Empire. Unsettled conditions abroad were watched with interest.

There was a feeling in some quarters that the political situation in Europe might have a favorable effect on efforts for peace in Asia. This was reflected in aggressive buying operations on the Tokio Exchange, with Tokio Exchange new issue taking a sharp rise. NYK shares also rallied strongly under the news that came here from Europe.

NIPPON DECLARED 'HAVE GOT' NATION

Reports that the British ambassador to China and the British ambassador to Japan had held conferences, and that a peace proposal had been made to the Chiang Kai-shek regime, had little effect on the financial community. It was held that European developments would have the most effect on the financial world for some time.

Day-to-day accommodations remained about the same, as did the dollar-yen exchange rates.

Bank Deposits Rising

Total bank deposits in all the institutions throughout the country April 1 reached about 19 1/2 billion yen, according to reports from the Finance Ministry.

In comparison with the month before this was an increase of 294,960,000 yen, but compared with the same date of the previous year it was again of 746,000,000 yen. This is in line with the program of the Finance Ministry to build up the financial resources of the country.

Aggregate loans were nearly 13 billion yen, which was a gain of 1,291,997,000 over the previous year.

To Aid In Production

Funds for increasing productive facilities throughout the country the first quarter of this year amounted to 653 million yen, which was an increase of 8 million yen over the same period last year.

Loans were made to the mining industry, manufacturing, agriculture and forestry, transportation, commerce and other activities.

Interest Cuts In Silk

While the silk production and industry six months ago was at a low state, and there was talk of subsidizing the cocoon growers, the sudden spurt in the price in New York in recent months was held to make that unnecessary, and the talk has stopped about that.

Farmers To Plant More

Sentiment among the silk cocoon-raising farmers in Nagano Prefecture is now one of optimism, according to reports from there. That is the most important silk-producing center in the country. The farmers are reported to be planning to increase production, in belief that higher prices will be maintained for some time to come.

The farmers are said to expect that the Spring cocoon prices will be at least 4 yen per kawm higher than last year.

On The Yokohama Market

The latest available report from Yokohama says: "Reflecting the belief that there will be an unprecedented acute scarcity in supply at the between season, raw silk prices, which have been constantly on the upgrade recently, registered further sharp advances in Yokohama."

In the spot market, the white D grade 13-15 made a rise of as much as 30 yen to a new high of 1,135, which is above the high of 1,110 yen at the end of August, 1932 and approached the level of 1,190 yen at the end of January, 1930.

"On the other hand, prices in the liquidation trading showed all-round gains of 10 yen to 20 yen and ascended to new high levels in past several years. Many trade observers are thus of the opinion that the raw silk market will rise sky high on the basis of the prevailing relative position of demand and supply, while doubt as to whether the Government authorities will leave the situation to take its own course just because raw silk is an export article and has not much of direct influence over the commodity prices within the country."

RIGHT TO BEAR ARMS

The United States Supreme Court this week handed down a decision upholding the right of the government to restrict the transportation of sawed-off shot guns and machine guns in interstate commerce unless registered with the federal authorities.

While his was declared by some to be a violation of the second amendment to the Federal Constitution, the argument would seem not to be well founded.

A well-regulated militia being necessary to the security of a free state, the right of the people to keep and bear arms shall not be infringed.

The point to be remembered is that during the gangster regime of prohibition days the sawed-off shot gun and the machine gun were the particular weapons of the gangster.

Carrying this out further, it also is a fact that the police departments adopted these weapons, as they had been found effective. But, the difference is that the gangster used the weapons to war on society, while the police used them to protect society.

The Constitution does not guarantee to the criminal the right to maintain and utilize arms which are particularly adaptable to his purposes.

The lower court had dismissed indictments against two men charging them with transporting a short-barrel shot gun from Oklahoma to Arkansas without registering it.

The decision of the court in this instance seems not to restrict the right of the people to bear arms, but to protect society.

LIGHT ON PLYWOOD PROBLEM

The deliberations now going forward in the United States Senate on the proposal to restrict export of Douglas fir plywood logs is of interest to the Pacific Northwest.

The measure pending before the Senate Commerce Committee was introduced by Holman of Oregon.

The question at issue is whether the ban on export would be of benefit to the industry and to the public.

This week a new and vital development came about with the introduction of a letter from Secretary of State Hull which placed it all on an international basis.

As with men, so with institutions. An organization that counts 40 years behind it is a pioneer one with us.

After all, the spirit of a man or an institution is what counts most.

How well the pioneers laid the foundation, and how well those who came after them wrought, is amply demonstrated by present day surroundings.

Secretary Hull as usual presents a sane and comprehensive statement, and everyone will hope that it may help lead to a satisfactory settlement of a problem that is of so much interest out here.

DELAY IN HIGH COURT

It quite reasonably follows, with so much legislation going through Congress in the past half a dozen years of a somewhat different angle, that there should be more than usual dissent when the Supreme Court comes to pass on measures.

A case in point comes up this week. It involves the question as to whether a decision of the high court is final, or is to be sent back for debate and conference.

Briefly, the federal court in Kansas City ruled in a case involving $586,000. Secretary of Agriculture Wallace had declared that his was in excess of fees that should have been charged by livestock commission men for selling stock there.

The local court ruled the money should be returned to the commission men. The case was appealed and about a year ago the Supreme Court held Wallace's order invalid.

Then the government contended that Wallace should again pass on the question. He is making a further study, and the high court this week says nothing can be done until he reports.

The point at issue here is whether the government should be allowed to defer action of a Supreme Court decision from time to time. If this principle is established then the government could delay litigation indefinitely.

Such conditions might possibly arise in any part of the country, and in any industry. It takes long enough at best to get a case through the Supreme Court, and obtain a decision.

BRIGHTER SIDE OF LIFE

Although the news reports continue to emphasize war, unemployment and international strife, the casual reader of the newspapers cannot have failed to detect a nappier note from time to time.

It is a pleasure to turn from the darker side for a moment and take notice of the social development, as it were.

In the first place this community, in common with all others in the state, is giving attention to the celebration of the Golden Jubilee of Washington, and the program is just now being accelerated.

Perhaps there may be a little emphasis laid on the reports, but a careful check seems to bear out the statements that the Washington State exhibit, and the Japanese exhibit at both of these great fairs are drawing their share of attention and praise.

Here in Washington this week the citizens are being asked to send picture postcards to their friends in other sections, in the "invite a million" campaign.

Among the events the coming week are two that should prove of interest to Seattle people. Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday the people of Bellingham will hold their Spring Festival, which will stress ten important episodes in the discovery and development of the Northwest.

Next Friday and Saturday there will be the Rhododendron Festival at Port Townsend. The festival there is famous for its programs, and no doubt it will be unusually good this year.

Then having accomplished what she had so steadfastly set out to do, the new woman doctor went back to her native village to practise what she had learned.

After one year at Saisei Gakusha, Dr. Yoshioka passed the preliminary examination for a doctor's license. Of the 16 women who sat for the examination, only four were successful.

JAPAN'S IDEAL WOMAN

Story of Dr. Yoshioka reads like a romance

By ZOE KINCAID (In The Japan Times Weekly)

PART TWO

One of her brothers studying in Tokio returned home on a vacation, and she realized that the time had come which might lead to the goal she had set before her.

When the Saisei Gakusha closed its doors to women students, Dr. Yoshioka made up her mind to open a school for women.

In 1900 her long cherished plan, a medical college for women, was established, and will soon celebrate 40 years of usefulness.

It was in April, 1889, when she was 19 that she left her home for Tokio. From the father's purse was sent 8 yen to the eldest brother, 7 to the younger, and 6 to herself.

During Dr. Yoshioka's long association with the college there were many financial handicaps to overcome. When funds allowed she added on rooms connecting them with corridors, and in consequence the college was nicknamed, "the corridor school."

Attends Medical Lectures The Saisei Gakusha became a co-educational institution in 1884. The male students had not been able to overcome their prejudices against women, and showed discrimination.

After one year at Saisei Gakusha, Dr. Yoshioka passed the preliminary examination for a doctor's license.

Now she is to again depart for the United States where she will join her son who has been doing research work at John Hopkins University.

THE POETS AND THE PENWOMEN

In celebration of National Poetry Week, the Seattle Branch of the National League of American Pen Women, with Johanna Prada as their poetry chairman, the following short history of Seattle Pen Women and the program is given for the Poetry Week, May 21 to 28.

The Seattle branch of the National League of American Pen Women was established by Mrs. Otis Floyd Lamson in the year 1927. From then on to 1933, Mrs. Lamson served as its president.

MODES DIFFER, BUT GOAL IS SAME

mind it would seem difficult to appreciate this modesty of the Japanese people. But without the ability to understand so simple a custom, one would be at a handicap to properly interpret the motives and actions of the Japanese people.

Deference To Women We in America are led to believe that the women in Japan do not receive the courteous treatment which American women enjoy. I have observed that while the Japanese man seems to slight the woman in public, this is not due to a lack of consideration, but merely a custom.

In domestic life the Japanese woman enjoys as much devotion and consideration as a woman in any other country.

To the Japanese way of thinking, the woman's place is primarily at home. In public there are people more important and more deserving of attention than one's wife or girl friend. But this custom should not be mistaken for neglect or discourtesy, for deep down in a Japanese man's heart lies sincere love and devotion.

Standard Of Living As a visitor from America, I could not help but notice the difference in the standards of living. Food daily consumed by the average American is only for the rich to enjoy in Japan, or a rare treat to the average Japanese.

Japanese homes are flimsy affairs which provide little protection from the winter's cold or the summer's heat. There is little or no heating facilities to speak of in the average home.

Hang-Overs

By Yoichi Matsuda

On The Come-Back Trail . . .

Have you heard the story of a slug-nutty pug who hit the fight game because he just couldn't get up higher than a "ham-and-egger" class? After a few years of retirement, this so-called fighter donned his gloves again and staged what he called a "come-back."

"You'll never make it," they warned him. "Even the former greats can't weather the tough bumps on the come-back trail."

But he was filled with the fool's confidence. He jumped into the ring and faced his opponent. I haven't the heart to describe what happened in the next few minutes. Anyway, now he sits on the moaner's bench and bewails the death of his come-back ambition, as he nurses his bruises and scars.

Let us switch the scene and focus our lens on another "ham-and-egger." This time our hero is a hash-writer. Not long ago he squeezed the printer's ink out of his system and went into retirement. Hiding is a more apt word here.)

Now, this scribe is cocky enough to think he can stage a come-back. I fail to see where he is going to come-back to, because he had never "arrived" in the first place. But, here he is, making initial attempts to get back into the newspaper business. Whether he will get his ears pinned back or not remains to be seen. Only heaven can tell what shape this scribe will be in when he gets through struggling up the come-back trail.

Skin Deep . . .

If beauty is only skin deep, so is ugliness. In other words, the surface appearance does not always tell the whole story.

Take that Taiyo-Viewland game last Sunday for example. As soon as some smart-aleck sees in the sports page the final score, 7-0, he will undoubtedly sneer: "Another shut-out. Those guys ought to quit baseball."

Those who sat on the side-line, however, will have a different idea. It was a dandy game, in spite of the score. It was a pleasure to watch George Kimura pitch. Those Viewlanders almost broke their backs trying to slug George's slow floaters. That boy George isn't very big, but I suspect he had more above his neck than just a purple cap. To put it in plain English, Four-eyed Georgie is plenty smart.

Fishing and Golf . . .

Here's a hint for you folks who want to start a conversation with almost any young business man around this end of town.

Ask him, "How's fishing?" He'll open up and tell you all about that big one he might have caught if his so-and-so line hadn't snapped. If he doesn't respond to the fish question, toss him another bait. This time ask him, "How's your golf?"

If the first question doesn't get him the second one is sure to hook him.

This is a round-about way of telling you that this is the season of the year when every one, from the truck-drivers up to the lawyer concentrate either on fishing or golf.

Lady Golf Bugs . . .

I'm not too old to recall the days when the ladies preferred to chatter about dresses, hats, men and other women. But, alas, those genteel days are gone.

The other day I happened to tune in on a conversation between two ladies. At first their language puzzled me.

Now and then such words as "green" and "slices" drifted into my ears. Naturally I took it for granted that they must be discussing the color of some dress, or perhaps how to slice a cake, or something.

But when one of them brought out a score-card and bragged about shooting "54" the first nine holes, it dawned on me that these were the feminine clan of golf-bugs.

I don't go in much for prophecies, but I'll make an exception this once and predict the extinction of the species known as "Golf-widows" in a short while.

Things I Have Seen . . .

Down in Astoria, Ore., last summer Bob Wong, who caused much grief to his Courier Basketball League opponents several years ago, picked up several more Nipponese scalps.

His latest victims were Portland's Bob Takami, Tom Mita, Kay Ito, Newton Uyesugi and company. At that time we were all working for the Columbia River Packers. One evening after we had canned our last salmon we went down to the "Y" and watched Wong's Chinese hoopsters ring up enough baskets to defeat Master Takami's playmates. Even the re-enforcement of Tom Hayashi didn't help to hold back Wong's sharp-shooting basketeers.

Those L. A. Nippons . . .

Last Fall, while I was in Los Angeles, Jiro Mochizuki, former Cleveland High School right fielder, took me out to watch the Los Angeles Nippons mix with an American team.

Maybe I was expecting too much. I had heard so much about those Nippons that I took it for granted I will see the finest collection of Japanese baseball players on the coast.

What I actually saw was a big disappointment, to say the least. Of course, judging any team on just one game basis isn't exactly cricket, but, I'm just going to tell you what I saw.

I'll say this much for them. Those Nippons are sluggers. Almost every player holds the end of their bat and swings like Coast League sluggers. They collected more extra base hits than any other Japanese team I have seen playing against "haku-jins." In that game I saw they failed to hit in the pinches.

Their fielding was nothing sensational, but there were very few errors chalked up against them. I thought they had a nifty little center-fielder, Kodama, I believe they called him. He was fast on his feet and over plenty of territory. I forget his name but that first sacker was pretty classy, too.

As for their base-running . . . I'm sure some of our Courier "B" leaguers could run around those bases much better than the Nippons did in that one game. Several times they got a man in scoring position, but each time they were picked off. They over-ran their bases and took too many useless chances.

Information, Please . . .

Who is going to beat Fife? To date those husky ds from the Puyallup Valley have the situation pretty much their own way.

Now that G. K. is gone, who is going to shoulder the burden of running this year's Fourth of July tournament?

How in the devil am I going to run this column? I'm pretty busy with my regular job, too busy, in fact, to go around digging up material to fill this column. The interested readers of this column are going to send in some dope to help me out, I don't suppose.

The Bruins played good ball and gave their pitcher, Fujimoto, good support.

OLYMPIAD CADETS BEAT FIFE NIPS

In a nip and tuck pitcher's battle the Olympiad Cadets of Seattle took the call from the undefeated Fife Nippons in the Class AA feature till 7-0 at the Columbia playfield. Shig Urakawa limited the powerful Nippon attack to four measly singles and didn't allow a score. The Cadets had difficulty scoring their lone tally. In the seventh inning the Cadets punched three hits to score. Sam Kimura doubled, scoring Mush Kuroiwa who had previously singled.

The Fife Nippons played good defensive ball, making two double killings and two miscues.

Sunday's second feature hit found the W. R. Bruins besting the league leading Comet A. C. in a game which was fought to the finish. Tamura the Bruin center-fielder drove in the winning Bruin runs with a terrific triple in the first half of the ninth. John Kawaguchi had the Green Lake nine handcuffed for six innings as he did a swell job of relief pitching for the Plebes. Shigeno and Tenna, Auburn's sluggers led their teammates in the victory over the Fife Jrs. Shigeno hit a triple and three singles, while Tenna got a double and two singles. I. Nagantani whitewashed the Waseda Hornets for seven innings as the Bainbridge team defeated the Hornets. Nakata of the Bainbridge nine hit two homers to lead his team's batting attack.

In a vital Class C game the Lotus Ashuras were beaten by Nakashima who did a swell bit of pitching for the Indians. Nakashima fanned seventeen Ashuras.

Yoshino Takes Over Third Sack Position

In this week's prep league games which were played on Tuesday, three Japanese players saw action. "Dutch" Takegawa and "Yowge" Yoshino saw action for the Broadway Bengals in a game against the Cleveland Eagles. Pitching 1 and 1-3 innings for the Tigers "Dutch" struck out to Eagles and issued two free passes. "Yowge" played good ball on the Broadway third-sack.

TENNIS GAME PLAYED

In six singles and several doubles matches, the J.S.C. and the Nippon Tennis club members were to have cross rackets this morning on the latter's court for the supremacy of the Japanese community tennis teams.

Say you saw the ad in The Courier.

Action will pick up this week as all of the AA League teams swing their warclubs. After being rudely upset by the Olympiad Cadets the Fife Nippons should pick up their winning ways when they meet the Western Giants this Sunday at the Georgetown ball grounds. The Fife nine, defending champions, are very determined to repeat this year. The second-place Bellevue nine will entertain the lowly Taiyo Tigers on the former's home grounds. The Bellevue team will add another loss onto the Tiger's ever-growing list of losses. In the last game of this league the Olympiad Cadets will be the Waseda team on the Columbia playfield, and continue their way toward the top spot.

Sunday should find the two top Class A teams coming out on top in their games. The Comets should very easily whip the Tacoma Nippons to retain their league-lead. The Bainbridge nine will keep time with the leading Comets when they tackle the Tacoma Bussels on the Bainbridge High grounds. The "hot" Bruins will best the strong Plebe nine on the Bruin home field in another A League encounter.

The B League leading Marmots should add another game onto their win column when they tangle on the Thomas grounds with the W. R. YMBAs. The Lancers should have little difficulty thrashing the Kibel boys to keep up with the Marmots. The W. R. Cubs will keep up with the leaders by beating the Taiyo Giants.

In the Class C playoffs the Indians should manage to win over Bellevue, and the Maroons will outslug the W. R. Jrs.

BAPTISTS FETING FOUR DECADES OF CHURCH SUNDAY

Special Service With Lunch On Program; Rev. Okazaki To Be Remembered

TABLET TO BE PLACED

In commemoration of its 40th Anniversary, a special service and luncheon will be held by the Japanese Baptist Church tomorrow, starting at 11 a. m.

A band of youthful first generation Christians on May 23, 1899, founded the church which was to become the oldest landmark in the religious life of the Community today. From its humble beginning at 418 Jefferson St. to its present structure at 901 E. Spruce St. and its properties including the women's home and kindergarten building, has been a story of trials and struggles that corresponds to the pioneering efforts of the parent generation.

Rev. Okazaki Was Pastor

The band of first generation, led by the Rev. Fukumatsu Okazaki, were: Imajiro Kudo, Takasaburo Kusumi, Tamejiro Watanabe, Toyozo Sakura, Sokichi Hoshide, Inosuke Kawahara, Yoshio Sakuma, Keitaro Yamada, Katsuro Nakamura, Takesaburo Hironsaka.

Before its present home, the church was also located at 624 Jackson St., and at 661 Washington St.

Tablet To His Memory

At tomorrow's service, a tribute will be paid to the memory of this pioneer Christian leader, and a tablet in his honor will be placed in the building.

Other pastors succeeding the late Rev. Okazaki were the Reverends, Shimesuke Hara, Shiroku Fujimura and Shozo Hashimoto.

Warren To Address Presbyterian Folks

"Six Steps To a Throne" is the text of the final sermon to be delivered by Prof. Frank Warren of the Seattle Pacific College in this season's series of union services at the Japanese Presbyterian church tomorrow, starting at 7:30 p. m.

Proceeds from the special offering will go toward the expenses of Miss Frances Maeda of Portland, who will represent Japanese Christian youth of the Northwest at the World Congress of Christian Youths in Amsterdam, Holland, in August.

Professor Warren, who resided in Japan from 1925 to 1932, taught at the Free Methodist Theological Seminary in Osaka, and did evangelistic work on the island of Awaji. His sermon will discuss the six necessary steps toward living a successful and full life.

Catholics Planning Affair At Seminary

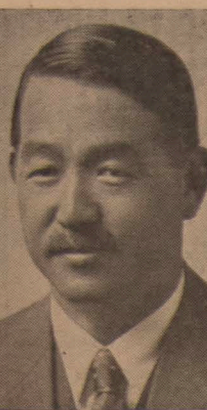

Crowning the statue of the Blessed Virgin Mary as the highlight, a May Day celebration of the Catholic Diocese of Seattle will be held on the grounds of the St. Edwards Seminary at Kenmore Station on Lake Washington, tomorrow at 3 p. m.

Each year the celebration has been drawing a larger number of people, and this year, a special invitation has been extended the public by Bishop O'Shaughnessy.

Among those to march in the procession during the celebration will be Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, and members of the Ladies Sodality from the Maryknoll Church, led by Father L. H. Tibesar.

The celebration program is to be under the supervision of Father Thomas Mulligan, President of the St. Edwards Seminary.

ATTENDS FESTIVAL

CONSUL YUKI SATO, who with Madame Sato, was a guest at the Iris Festival held at the Methodist church in Auburn, Wash., last Tuesday evening where many American friends from Thomas, Kent and Auburn attended.

CONSUL OUTLINES BOY DAY CUSTOMS

Speaker Tells Auburn Folks Of Celebration; States Its Real Meaning

AUBURN, Wash. — The Iris Festival for Japanese boys proved the theme of a feature address by Yuki Sato, Japanese consul here, at a celebration held at the Methodist church in Auburn, Wash., Tuesday evening. The following are excerpts from consul Sato's address explaining the significance of the Iris Festival:

"As you all probably know, Boy's Day is celebrated in Japan annually on the Fifth of May. The fifth day of the fifth month has been Boy's Day every year since the Hojo period in 1282. In fact, some authorities trace back as far as the seventh and eighth centuries."

How Day Is Observed

It is the custom on this occasion to hoist up the giant paper carp that swims about in the spring breeze like real fish in water. Tall bamboo poles are set up before every house where there are one or more boys in the family, and the toy fish float gaily from their tops.

"They are not merely toys; they have their lesson, too. The carp symbolizes courage. It is the bravest of all fish, the Japanese stream despite the current, even mounts waterfalls, and never gives up without a hard struggle."

Gives Japanese Name

"But Boy's Day has another name in Japan. It is 'Shobu-no-Sekku,' which means Iris Festival. The iris flower is used on Boy's Day as a means to health. The Japanese boy begins the Festival by getting up early in the morning and bathing in water in which iris flowers have been soaked. The Japanese people say that it teaches the boys to be strong, because it grows so deep in the soil. At any rate, no Boy's Day celebration would be traditionally complete without the iris."

main idea, and when the canners, both cooperative and independent, are using every endeavor to avoid the necessity for reducing wages rather than planning increases, we doubt the wisdom of further burdening growers in order to give union leaders something about which to boast to their members, and with which to justify themselves in the collection of dues.

"We feel, in fact, that we will be fortunate if we are able to maintain without reduction the present scale, which we earnestly hope and mean to do."

RECEPTION GUEST

DR. HERBERT H. GOWEN, authority on Oriental history, literature and culture, who together with Mrs. Gowen will be the guest at a reception in their honor to be tendered by Consul Yuki Sato next Tuesday afternoon from 4 p. m. to 6 p. m.
