SPEAKER WARNS OF DEFEATISM POLICY

Warning against a spirit of defeatism on the part of the second generation, Miss Florence Tateoka, senior at the University of Washington, told a radio audience Wednesday evening that perhaps ancestry has been overplayed, and that personality possibly has caused some of failures.

THINKS AMERICANS GOOD SPORTS

Miss Tateoka followed Miss Toyo Nishimura, a freshman, and thus two sides of university life were presented. Miss Nishimura is finding university life worth while. Miss Tateoka told the young people to accept their status, and make the most of it. She said those who did so were the ones who were succeeding most markedly. Following is the text of the interview:

JOINT INAUGURAL HONORS DRAFTEES

TURA.—Tonight on this 363rd weekly broadcast, we have with us two students who stand at the opposite ends of a four-year college education — Miss Toyo Nishimura entered the University of Washington last October, while Miss Florence Tateoka will be graduating next June. The two will speak on the vocational and social opportunities of the American citizens of Japanese ancestry known as the Nisei, with special reference to college education. What are you majoring in at the University Miss Nishimura?

TOYO—I am a major in education.

TURA—You were the valedictorian of Cleveland High School last year, and didn't you appear with the American-born Japanese honor graduates of the high schools and the University of Washington?

TOYO—Yes, Mr. Nakamura, I and some of the valedictorians and salutatorians of the high schools, and Phi Beta Kappas at the University of Washington, appeared on one of your broadcasts last June.

TURA—I understand you were one of the debaters who represented the Fuyo Kai, the campus organization of American-born Japanese coeds, in a debate held at Vancouver B. C., recently. What was the topic?

TOYO—The topic was: "College education is advantageous to the Nisei girl in obtaining vocational opportunities." Ironically enough, we had to take the negative stand. I have wanted to have the opportunity to express the opposite view, for I sincerely believe that a college education is an asset.

TURA—This is your opportunity, then, Toyo. Go ahead.

TOYO—Thank you, Mr. Nakamura. Going to college is, to a boy or a girl, an adventure into a new world. Unless the student has a definite vocation or a specific purpose to enter college, entering into this strange, small world will be difficult, strenuous and tiresome.

I can remember when we were still high school students last June we became aware of a fact that we must establish a sound foundation for our future, and I remember we all thought and thought whether we should go to college or not, because many of us were uncertain of our future vocations. Four years of studying seemed very long for us; also there was considerable expense connected with it. We often contemplated the question "Whether a college education will provide desirable employment."

However, after spending about three months in the University, most of us Freshmen have realized the practical values obtainable from the institution, and whether we will be able to pursue our heart's desire after graduation cannot be answered now, but college has certainly aided the development of character, personality, and poise.

Through the organization for the American citizens of Japanese ancestry, the YMCA and the YWCA and certain honoraries to which many Betty Coeds and Joe Coeds are elected, we are able to come in contact with various people, and we all treasure the friendships we have made. I am quite sure we have made a profitable investment in entering the University, for we all possess a valuable asset which is difficult for non-college friends to get.

TURA—Thank you, Toyo. Now let's skip about three years and pry into the thoughts of a senior at the University of Washington, Miss Florence Tateoka. What are you majoring in?

FLORENCE—I am majoring in Oriental Studies. I always had an interest in things Oriental, especially of things Japanese, but it was not until I was a freshman at Pomona college, in Claremont, Calif., that that interest began to take definite form in the way of a college major.

TURA—Florence, I understand that you also graduated from the Yakima High School, and that you were the editor of the high school paper?

FLORENCE—Yes, Mr. Nakamura, I had the honor of being made the valedictorian of my graduating class, as well as to

CAN GOV. LANGLE DO IT?

If the people of Washington expected Gov. Arthur B. Langlie to step to the microphone and tell them in his inaugural address that he found the administrative set-up in the state satisfactory...

The new governor not only found a lot of things he thinks need changing, but he spoke right up and suggested how to do the changing.

Financial matters, of course, took the spotlight. The governor said he proposed to balance the budget, and to pay the $40-million pensions called for by Initiative No. 141.

The state revenue is to be increased $19,951,500 in the biennium under the plan suggested. Here, briefly, is the plan: Improved business conditions will bring in $8,251,500; control and consolidation measures will save $3,500,000; another $6,000,000 from taxes on pinball games, revised fuel oil and inheritance taxes; to save $2,200,000 to general fund by reorganization of highway departments.

By a vote of 97 to 45 the Legislature declared Langlie duly elected governor. The contest on behalf of C. C. Dill was given short shrift. By this action the governor's election is cleared of any taint.

The governor's address disclosed that he is well informed on matters of public business. His address dealt with practically every industry of importance. His first suggestion was for a general revision of the labor and industries department.

It remains to be seen whether Governor Langlie can carry his program into effect. When it comes to consolidating departments, doing away with duplications, and levying new taxes, there is a lot to be said and done.

HULL SERVES NOTICE

Any doubt that may have existed as to the unanimity of administration officials on President Roosevelt's lend-lease program on the democracies must have been dispelled Wednesday. Secretary of State Hull, in a remarkable statement before the House Foreign Affairs Committee...

There was no immediate reaction from the Axis powers in Europe, as was to be expected. They have long accepted the fact that the United States government opposes their policy.

On the other hand, there was prompt reply from the Tokio press, which was, of course, entirely unfriendly. That is to say, a certain section of the Japanese press. It is unfortunate that such trident remarks should come from that source in a time of international tension.

BROAD LEAGUE PROGRAM

Copies of the official program for the Japanese American Citizens League for this year, which have been distributed by the national headquarters, indicate that the National Board senses the idea that the coming year will be one of greatest importance.

District Council boards, and individual chapters, must work out their own problems, but these should be made to dovetail in with the national program.

As President Kido says, there is greater need for League leadership right now than ever. This is true simply because of the growth and importance of the League and, also, because of national and international conditions.

but that they are made secure in their rights and privileges as American citizens.

As President Kido points out, the place to begin is in the individual chapters. They must put their houses in order. Election of strong and enthusiastic officers is necessary.

For the past several years stress has been laid on the need of finances, not only in chapters, but for the League nationally. Prompt and efficient action often depends on a war chest.

But again, we wish to emphasize the policy of President Kido that the place to begin is in the chapters. No super-structure can be stronger than its sub-structure.

HONORING YOUNG SOLDIERS

Action of the Sonoma County chapter of the Japanese American Citizens League in California in arranging a special reception for three men who have been called to the colors is to be highly commended.

There are two aspects to this, as we look at it from here. In the first place it shows that the Japanese people of that county are proud of the young men who have been called in the service of their country.

On the other hand, the program arranged leaves no doubt about where the Japanese people of that county, both of the parent generation and the second generation, stand in the way of loyalty to the nation.

We have no doubt that the attitude of the people in Sonoma County is typical of the attitude of the Japanese people in other counties along the Pacific Coast.

NO JAPANESE CONSCRIPTION

The action of President Kido of the Japanese American Citizens League in challenging the statement that second generation along the Pacific Coast and in Hawaii are being conscripted for the Japanese army brings out sharply the service that the League can be, not alone to its members, but to the nation at large.

No one with any knowledge of the situation believes the report. The statement has been spread by an organization of an unfriendly nature. Yet the fact that it reached a member of the United States Senate, and was given publicity shows how precarious is the status of Americans of Japanese ancestry.

As President Kido says, circulation of such a report places the young people in an unfavorable light. Kido tells the Senator that "We are just as much interested as you in ascertaining" whether any such activity is being carried on.

If any such instances should be brought to light by federal officials, we can assure them that they need only inform the League officials and every possible assistance to remedy the situation will be forthcoming.

STATES CALLED TO ACTION

A new note was sounded in the national capital this week in connection with the defense program that may possibly indicate a swing away from centralization, which has been so marked in recent years.

In a word, the federal government warns that the states will be called on to take up certain duties and activities in preparing for the program of training a vast number of men for the armed forces.

Immediately after the inauguration of the President, shortly, the Office of Production Management, headed by William S. Knudsen, will confer with the governors about assistance on the part of the states. The federal government will bear the cost of constructing training camps, plant expansion and like projects, it was said.

However, it was pointed out that the states might well take over the providing of highways, water supply, electricity and sewers. Presumably the state authorities would bear the cost. It seems reasonable that state officials should be in a position better to undertake such work.

In the past half a dozen years the tendency has been to call on the government at Washington for almost every need. This has, of course, led to the rapidly mounting national debt.

Another sacrifice the states may be called on to make, if reports are correct, is in the matter of local taxation. This was brought out sharply in the inaugural address of Governor Sprague of Oregon. He warned that the Legislature should not levy any new taxes, because the federal demand will be heavy, in order to meet the great cause of national defense.

NARRATOR—When William Penn was released and inherited wealth, he established a colony in America based on the principle of absolute freedom of conscience.

And to every country of Europe he sent pamphlets—offering land for sale and freedom to the settlers.

GERMAN VOICE—You see, what it says here—the people in Pennsylvania elect their own rulers.

Europe we have 30—or 40. SEVERAL VOICES—If we could go to Pennsylvania...

The oldtimers in town swear there is a definite connection between the temperature and old Judge Wilson's bearskin fur coat.

Every year when the cold east wind whips over the barren plains from across the river and shrinks the mercury down to the freezing point, old Judge Wilson gets his big black fur coat out of the moth balls.

In less than three days after the good judge makes his appearance on the town street wearing this enormous coat, the wind suddenly changes and the mercury shoots up to a more comfortable temperature.

The natives swear this has happened every year for the last 20 years. I've seen it happen, too. Early this winter when the mercury dropped to 14 degrees above, I saw the old gentleman walking about in a black bearskin coat.

A few days after that slightly warmer west wind came up and the mercury climbed up to 24 degrees.

Well, sir... it's snowing again... I'm hoping the good judge will don his bearskin coat again.

It isn't that I don't appreciate this slivery beauty of the winter scene. I can see even the unslightly vacant lot next door brightened into a field of frosty white. I can see the snowflakes settling on the leafless trees, creating an alluring illusion of trees in full bloom.

Yes, they are very beautiful to see, but each little fluttering flake reminds me of lumps of coal I have to buy... chunks of wood I have to chop... and sheets and sheets of fuel bills I have to pay.

I'll bet I'm not the only one who grumbles at the coming of the winter. Look at that motorist. Every now and then he has to get out and wipe the snow off his windshield... and then he has to drive slowly and carefully lest he skid into the ditch.

But... in this as in anything else "what's poison to one is medicine to another."

Look at that kid coasting down the hill on his sled. I'll just bet he wishes it kept right on snowing forever and a day.

See that cheerful glow on that farmer's face. This blanket of snow is going to protect his crop until the spring comes. And then, too, this moist snow is going to soak into his soil and help him to produce a better crop. No wonder he smiles.

I guess that old law of compensation works on almost anything.

Just the same... from my selfish standpoint... I sure wish the venerable judge would strut out, his ancient bones warmly wrapped in his bulky bearskin coat.

Mr. and Mrs. Takasumi, who arrived in town last week-end, returned by motor to their home Wednesday, accompanied by Mr. Masao Takasumi.

Blue skies above, and the sunny clime of Los Angeles are now being enjoyed by Mr. and Mrs. George Kashiwagi, who are on a leisurely motor vacation.

Visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Ryo Kashiwagi and Mr. and Mrs. George Isoda, (Mrs. Isoda being Mr. Kashiwagi's sister) the couple also attended the recent nuptials in Los Angeles of Miss Yuri Okazaki, erstwhile Seattleite, and Mr. Satoru Sugimura.

AGGIES TO MEET LYNX, WEDNESDAY

Troys Katsuyama's high-riding Aggies will face Plymouth Lynx on Wednesday night at Cleveland in what promises to be one of the best casaba games so far this season.

Aggies have won five straight games to date to share the loop lead with White River Bruin Juniors. However, this coming game will be the first real test of the offensive power of the Aggies.

The probable starters are: AGGIES: Lynx, Nakagawa, Yasuda, Yoshida, Kurimura, Katsuyama.

RAIDERS SCALP REDSKINS: Mits Shimada jumped into the scoring lead by gathering 16 points against Redskins on Wednesday night at Cleveland.

Bill Nishimura and Mam Uomoto played a good game for the Raiders, while Takeo Shimizu was high for the losers with 4 points. Akira Yoshimori, ace scores of the Redskins, was held to 2 tallies.

AGGIES KEEP ROLLIN': In an abbreviated affair, Aggies defeated Auburn, 25 to 6 at Baptist on Thursday night. George Nakagawa was the chief point getter of the Aggies with 6 to his credit.

Auburn was not able to penetrate the tight defense of the opponents. Tsuji, Hangai and Kanda saved Auburn from being blanked by scoring their respective field goals.

A PITCHING DUEL: Raymond Takasaki and Hiroshi Kano engaged in a pitching duel when Maryknoll invaded White River to meet Bussels on Tuesday night. Takasaki outscored Kano, 15 to 12, to take the scoring honor.

White River Bussels staged a last quarter rally with Hiroshi Kano leading the attack. However, the lead which the Seattle five held was too great and the Valley team yielded by a 36 to 22 score.

FIFE GIRLS TO MEET W.W.G. TONIGHT AT FIFE; T. KASAI VERSUS F. INOUE

Can Fife Girls break the win streak of the title-bound Baptist W. W. G. Girls? This question will be answered tonight at Fife when the two sextettes meet in one of the season's highlights. The Baptist six is leading the league at the present time with a clean 9-game record, while Fife is out to add its fifth straight.

The probable starting lineups of the two teams are as follows: FIFE: Kasai, Yoshida, Itami, Dogen, Wakamatsu, Fujita. W.W.G.: Inoue, Uchida, Okada, Takakoshi, Sakamashi, Hayashi.

Coach Chick Uno of the Seattle team will pin his hopes on the scoring abilities of little Frances Inoue, Amy Okada, Yurii Uchida and Kuniko Wakabayashi, while Fife will bank on Sumi Itami, Tsuyako Kasai and Fumi Yoshida to outpoint the opponents.

In the first game of the season, the Dubs eked out an 11-10 win over Fife.

WHITE RIVER ANNEXES TWO: Selko Iwasaki and Louise Okimoto led White River to two additional victories. On Friday night, the Valley six outpointed Alderton, 20 to 19, in a hard-fought game, while on Tuesday Bellevue also fell by a 26 to 16 score. Iwasaki was responsible for 14 counters, while Nellie Aramaki tallied 8 for Bellevue.

Here are the scores by quarters of the two games: WHITE RIVER 4 7 11 20 Alderton 4 10 15 19. WHITE RIVER 5 7 15 26 Bellevue 3 5 7 16.

The Packers were leading the loop with a clean 4-game record until Maryknoll five came along. The defeat leaves the Bee class title-race wide open.

Local Bowlers Plan Huge Meet In March

A gigantic bowling tournament, open to all Northwest tenpin artists, will be sponsored by the Seattle Japanese Bowling League on either Sunday, March 2, or March 9.

According to Sam Kimura, in charge of the meet, the tournament will bring together keglers from Wapato, Vancouver, Tacoma, Portland, Puyallup Valley, White River Valley and Seattle.

Bowlers will vie for the men's singles, men's team, men's doubles, women's singles, women's team and mixed doubles events. Ideal's Alleys will be the focal point of the Northwest strike-and-spare enthusiasts in March.

The new team high was short-lived, however, as the Fife sextette came back on Monday night to claim a new scoring record. With Fumi Yoshida and Sumi Itami hitting the basket for 18 and 14 points, respectively, Fife Girls toppled Lotus Asokas, 45 to 18 at Baptist.

Quarter scores at a glance: FIFE 10 18 26 42 Tacoma 4 6 6 12. FIFE 12 30 35 45 Asokas 2 2 16 18.

STILL UNBEATEN: Baptist W. W. G. sextette added its eighth and ninth straight victories at the expense of Tacoma Girls. Frances Inoue, fast Seattle forward, hit the twines for 12 counters, while Kimi Fujimoto scored all of Tacoma's 11 points in the first meeting.

W. W. G. 6 20 22 28 Tacoma 4 6 9 11. Going into the second round, the Baptist six scored a 23-11 win over Tacoma Girls at Tacoma on Wednesday night. Yurii Uchida, Amy Okada and Frances Inoue shared in the scoring.

W. W. G. 6 10 15 23 Tacoma 1 9 9 11.

Spokane Nisei Hoop Teams Lead League

SPOKANE, Wash.—Too much speed spelled defeat for the White River aggregation as the Japanese Class A five ran over and around the Collegians to ring up a 28 to 12 win.

The winners, leading 18 to 7 at the half, continued to turn on the heat and refused to lose any of their lead. Shingo Hirata led the Japanese with 8 points.

Japanese No. 2 team defeated the Euclid Avenue five, 16 to 12 in the C class competition. George Yoshida led the team with 9 points. Sam Hirata led high-scoring Linden to one lone point.

Both teams have won two straight in as many starts in the regular league play.

PARK BOARD PLANS ROLLER HOCKEY

Hockey steps out in a new dress in the sports parade of the Seattle playgrounds as hundreds of boys take to the concrete courts throughout the city in the fast and furious pavement version of puck pursuit known as Roller Hockey.

Tennis courts that in former rainy periods lay dormant for days at a time are finding additional justification for their existence by serving as rinks for dozens of enthusiastic hockey aggregations entered in city-wide competition for the Seattle playground rollerhockey championship.

There are more than fifty teams entered in the league with approximately five hundred boys preparing to wage a desperate campaign with their trusty war clubs. The teams are divided into ninety, one hundred and ten, one hundred and twenty-five weight divisions. Sectional playoffs in each division will determine the local playground championships and these winners will meet for all-city honors.

The Recreation Staff of the Work Projects Administration will assist in supervising these activities under the sponsorship of the Seattle Park Department, and any boy under the sponsorship of the Seattle Park Department, and any boy under nine years of age may bring along his skates and join the fun by registering and weighing in at his nearest playground. League games will not start until Saturday, January 18, but boys who wish to play should register at once.

FIFE NIPPONS AWAIT LOTUS TROYS; TEAMS MEET TONIGHT AT FIFE GYM

Tonight from 9 o'clock at Fife, Lotus Troys will attempt to get back in the win column when they meet Fife Nippons.

At the present time, Troys, Celtics, Fife and Chinese are tied for the lead with 4 wins and a loss each. Hornets are still in the title-race, trailing the leaders with a scant half a game margin.

Those who are likely to start tonight's game are as follows:

LOTUS TROYS: Nishimura, Kusakabe, Okazaki, Yamaguchi, Kimura. FIFE: Itami, Takeuchi, Kasai, Yoshida, Uchida.

Troys have lost their only game of the season so far to Chinese Community, while Fife maple men were victims of Langendorf Bakers.

CELTICS DOWN COMETS: Ted Kurimura, forward, sank 18 points to lead the Celtics against Baptist Comets on Wednesday night at Cleveland. Celtics won the tilt by a score of 50 to 15.

At the half-time period,

HUSKIES TO FACE MONTANA CAGERS

By ED HILLYER: UNIVERSITY OF WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—Lightning fast, "fire department" basketball is scheduled on January 17th and 18th at the University of Washington Pavilion when the Huskies entertain the University of Montana quintet. Both Washington's respected, gum-chewing Coach Hec Edmundson and Grizzly Coach "Jiggs" Dahlberg are specializing in a driving game and each has built up a team with that theory in mind.

Guiding hand of the Montanans is Co-captain Red Greene, noted for his "dead English" shot and tight defense play. His running mate is 6 foot 4 inch Joe Taylor, a sophomore specializing in long shots from deep court. Forwards are Bill DeGroot and Bill Jones, while center Bill Hall is balance wheel of the attack with his sure ball handling.

The Grizzlies have lost only one man from the team that almost upset the Huskies last year by a 34 to 33 score and held them to only a slightly larger margin on the second night. Later they went to the national hoop tournament at Denver losing only to 1939's world champions, the Denver Nuggets.

Dahlberg's maplecourt team could do football suits and make a very creditable showing on the gridiron as 10 of his squad of 15 are recruits from the football team. They average 6 feet one inch in height and 175 pounds on the scales.

ALDERTON BRUINS: Yonemura, Komoto, Okubo, Yamamoto, Uno. BRUINS: Fujishin, Okimoto, Hori, Nakauchi, Shimoyama.

RAMS UPSET BOMBERS: Johnson Drug Bombers, without the services of Paul Hayama, failed to rally in the final quarter to lose a close 28-25 battle to Rams at Cleveland on Wednesday night. This was the first defeat of the Drugmen in six starts.

SPEAKER ASSERTS ALL SHOULD SHUN DEFEATISM SLANT

Second Generation Told It Is Better To Cease Any Ancestor Apologies

STAND UPON OWN FEET

"That instructor simply detests Japanese. You just can't get a good grade from her." Or, "I really should have gotten an A, but he's prejudiced against the Japanese so I only got a B." No doubt there were other factors involved in the final grade, but the one spectre "race prejudice" has haunted the student so long through his contact with dissatisfied young folks and discouraged first generation, that he tends to take refuge in that phrase.

To take the point a step further. How often has been offered the phrase, "If I weren't a Japanese, I could have gotten to job." I grant that the physical characteristic may have had something to do with the unemployment of the youth. But the factor is over-emphasized. In many cases it is a matter of personality, not prejudice. Have you ever been in a discussion group mulling over vocational opportunities, social opportunities, race distinction? In most cases, in fact I could say, in all cases, the youths who seemed to have the least trouble getting along with the Americans, rated high in their personality quotient. Their attitudes were usually a healthy, aggressive one.

One can look at the situation through rose-colored glasses, I suppose, and say "Everything is going to be just fine." Others can be a perfect bore and say "Nothing will ever come out right for me because I am of Japanese ancestry."

But the ones who will most likely succeed will probably take the attitude, "What is, is, might as well make the most of it."

Those are the ones who accept the fact that they are of Japanese ancestry. They use that background to disseminate useful information to their American friends. They are pretty good sports, and, as a prominent American citizen of this city said to me, "The Americans, too, are pretty good sports; if the Nisei can offer something, we'd recognize him for his merits."

TURA—Thank you Miss Tateoka and Miss Nishimura. A special offer is now being made by The Japanese American Courier. For $3.50, the cost of the book, you can receive, "From Many Lands" by Louis Adamic and a one-year subscription to The Japanese American Courier.
