JAPAN STANDING AT CROSSROADS, STATES TEUSLER

Need Of Hospitals Stressed In Talk At Luncheon On Monday

ASSISTANCE IS URGED

Remarking that Japan is at the crossroads in her relations with America, Dr. Rudolph B. Teusler, director of the St. Luke's Episcopal Hospital of Tokio, who arrived here last Friday, gave voice to the urgent need of hospitalization in the Island Empire, at a Japan Society luncheon tendered in honor of himself and Michio Ito, noted Japanese dancing master of New York City, at the Olympic Hotel last Monday noon.

Though Japan is not behind in medical science with valuable contributions made by such notable men of medicine as Doctors Noguchi, Aoyama, Hata, Miyajima, etc., Dr. Teusler said, she is lacking and in urgent need of hospitalization. America, he said, leads in the service and system of hospitalization and in direct contrast, Nippon places far below the standard.

What Japan needs today, the St. Luke's director remarked, is a genuine system of hospitalization with service and efficiency to disseminate the knowledge of medical aid and science among seventy millions of her population.

Emphatically declaring that it was not so much the need of the buildings as it was the proper dissemination of medical knowledge, Dr. Teusler stated that America's assistance in founding a hospitalization system in Japan, such as the St. Luke's hospital, would constitute a genuinely noble contribution made by the Christian civilization.

Especially at this time, he said, this assistance would come in handy toward establishing a firmer foundation of understanding, since Japan stands at the crossroads, wondering which way to turn, and questioning which hand America is proffering to her. Japan could not be entirely blamed for this, he told the audience, when an American statesman could say after the legislation of the Exclusion law that a "touch of cold steel" would bring reason to the Japanese people.

CULTURES TO JOIN, DANCER BELIEVES

Two Civilizations Find Balance In America, Ito Says

Voicing his opinion that the cultural civilization of the world is finding its root of equilibrium in America, Michio Ito, noted Japanese dancing master of New York City, prophesied the crystallization of a unique but combined material and spiritual cultural civilization in the coming Pacific era in a talk at the Japan Society luncheon held last Monday noon at the Olympic Hotel.

Starting from Japan, Ito went to Paris to become an artist but failed in his ambition when he failed to find art and to understand art there, he declared. From there he went to Egypt because Egyptian room in a Paris museum had taught him that the cultural civilization of today found its origin in Egypt.

When he went to Egypt, Ito said, he found art and learned that the cultural civilization starting from Egypt spread to the East and to the West. The American civilization, he affirmed is an off-shoot of the European cultural and civilization which found its material root in Greece after it had spread there from Egypt.

So following the course of art and material civilization, Ito came to America and reaching New York City, he was impressed by the seeming balanced cultural civilization of America. Here, he said, was the balancing point of civilization which spread to the East and to the West, one taking a spiritual course and the other a material one.

SOCIETY HONORS "LINCOLN'S DAY"

Prince Chichibu Attends Tokio Group's Banquet

TOKIO. — Lincoln's birthday was given proper observance when the American association of this city and Yokohama held a banquet to commemorate the event and had as its guest of honor the heir presumptive to the Japanese throne, on Monday, to which date the celebration was postponed from February 12.

This was probably the first time when a prince of the Imperial blood was a guest at a banquet held by an association comprised entirely of Americans. In clear and fluent English, Prince Chichibu paid respect to the memory of Abraham Lincoln, portraying him as "the greatest American Citizen", whose noble virtues of character have come to be the cherished ideals of young manhood in Japan as well as in America.

Prince Chichibu also commented on the building of the new library with American assistance for the Imperial University and the building of the St. Luke's hospital, as a permanent gift of America which Japan will never forget.

The dynamite was wired to explode just as the engine and the string of cars passed less than half way.

Japan, China Settle Tariff Rate Problem

Commercial Cable News

TOKIO. — The question of so-called differential tariff rates, which has been under discussion between Japan and China has been solved and the new China tariff became effective on February 1.

The recent development in the settlement of the Tsinan-Fu incident, in addition to this agreement in the enforcement of the new tariff, is looked upon to give a favorable effect on the Sino-Japanese relations, so that the long sustained anti-Japanese boycott agitation will abate and the trade of Japan with China will be enhanced in the near future.

LETTER RECEIVED BY JAPAN SOCIETY IN APPRECIATION

Acknowledgement Made Of Good Wishes Sent To Tokio

FOREIGN OFFICE WRITES

In acknowledgment of the message of congratulations and good wishes sent to His Majesty, the Emperor of Japan, on the occasion of his recent enthronement, the Japan Society of Seattle has just received a letter of appreciation from the Foreign Office in Tokio.

The letter addressed to A. E. Holden, secretary of the Japan Society of Seattle, from Shigeru Yoshida, vice-minister of Foreign Affairs, follows:

"It affords me much pleasure to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of November 19th, 1928, in which you were good enough to extend to His Majesty the Emperor the congratulations and good wishes of the Japan Society of Seattle on the occasion of the His recent Enthronement.

"I lost no time in taking steps to lay the message of your Society before the Throne, and the Minister of the Imperial Household now informs me that His Imperial Majesty, highly pleased at this manifestation of cordial sentiments by the Society, has graciously commanded that a sincere expression of appreciation should be conveyed to it. I should be grateful if you would kindly bring this information to the knowledge of your Board of Trustees.

"I should not fail to take this opportunity of expressing my gratitude to your Society for its constant and indefatigable efforts to strengthen still further the bonds of friendship uniting our two countries, and I trust that its exertions to that end in the future will be as successful as in the past."

By that time it is believed that treaty of peace between the Vatican and the Italian State will have been concluded, and the royal visit of the King is expected to seal the treaty. The Italian parliament, which will be in session during the preceding weeks of June, will undoubtedly deliberate to a conclusion before the intended visit of the Italian King.

TOKIO. — The specie holding at the end of last year is reported at 1,191,000,000 Yen of which 108,000,000 Yen was held abroad. The money market has been dull and the call loan dropped sharply. On the other hand the bond market has been prosperous.

The associated banks of the Eastern and Western territories lowered the interest rates on deposit money since February 1, by one-half percent on fixed deposits and by one-tenth sen per day per 100 Yen on other deposits, thus the rate on the former prevailing at 4½ per cent — 5 percent.

BAPTIST HI-STARS DEFEAT BUDDHISTS IN CLOSE CLASH

Waseda Hoop Quintet Downs White River Squad To 39-20 Tune

INDEPENDENTS LOSE GAME

The Baptist Hi-Stars cinched themselves for at least a tie for a championship last Tuesday when they defeated the Lotus quintet at the Baptist gym in one of the closest and hotly contested tilts of the season 30 to 22. At White River, the Waseda five kept right on their trail by defeating White River 39 to 20.

As to whether these two top fives will be tied for the top or not will be decided next Tuesday when the Hi-Stars and Waseda tangle. A win for Waseda will tie them for the top with the Hi-Stars but if the Baptist boys win they will be the undisputed champs for this season.

Independents Lose

In the other two games played at the Baptist gym, the Independent five lost to Pike, 25 to 18 and the Winslow boys barely nosed out the Taiyo Jrs. 21 to 19.

The Independents led in the first three quarters of their game but a last quarter rally for the Pikes brought them out from behind, giving them the victory. Tai and Yoshida were the two stars of the game.

Winslow had a hard time of it trying to keep their lead on the Taiyo Jrs. who were pressing against them throughout the game but could not find the punch to put over a win.

Baptist Threatened

Baptist stepped out ahead of their opponents in fast fashion and kept up their good work throughout the game although they were threatened in the last few minutes of play by some spectacular long shooting of the Lotus five. The game contained plenty of thrills and plenty of action was seen on the maple court.

Okazaki and Kaneko were the scoring threats for the Hi-Stars while Ishida and Matsuzaki stood out for the Lotus court men.

"Jumbo" Okamura was the individual star in the Waseda-White River affair while his team mates, Sasaki and Yamaka accounted for most of the remaining points. Okimoto and Takeshita were the only two White River men to find the hoop for the Valley boys.

The fast passing and accurate shooting of the Waseda five enabled them to win easily against their larger but slower opponents.

It was a contest of youth, stamina and pluck against age, craft and experience that drove Jack Shea, a nineteen year old youngster, across the finish line ahead of a field of older skaters.

The young man won the much coveted outdoor speed skating title of the United States and Canada at Saranac Lake, N. Y. recently. Shea captured the half, three quarter, mile and two mile races for the skating crown.

OLD TIMERS LOSE TO TAIYO JUNIORS

Age Bows To Youth, 32-29 In Basketball Contest

Basketball should not be played by "Old Men", at least that is the way it looks from the results of the game last Saturday when the Old Timers played with the young Taiyo Jrs. The younger boys won from the Old Timers 32 to 29.

"General" Arai lost plenty of weight when he put in a hard night's work on the maple court and accounted for ten points while Takayoshi scored seven and Yorita six.

For the Taiyos, Kimura, Ueyehara and Masuda were the main scoring threats while Iwana and Shiraiishi helped to outwit their older opponents.

Lineup:
Old Timers (29) Taiyo Jr. (32)
Arai (10) F Iwana (4)

Thompson (11) F S. Arai (11)
Boone (10) F Okada

WASEDAS WIN

In a practice game last Saturday in the Baptist gym, the Waseda five downed the Bachelors 16 to 6 in an uninteresting tussle.

Yamaka and Sasaki were the heavy scorers or Waseda, and Tsukuno and Miyagawa were the only ones to score for the Bachelors.

FATHER VS. SON IN CREW RACE

What is believed to be a unique record in the annals of athletics will be made when "Old Dick" and "Young Dick" Glendon, father and son will match their crews in a regatta. The date is set for April 27 on the Harlem River.

The Naval Academy is coached by the elder Glendon while his son is the crew mentor at Columbia. Brothers have fought against each other in various athletic endeavors but when the Glendons, father and son, splash it out, a new chapter will be added to athletic history.

A WORD TO THE WISE

Looking over the sport pages of the daily press, news of the Cubs training camp, reports of the Pirates, and other baseball clubs are becoming more numerous. From the looks of the things, "old man sunshine" will soon be here. Of course, it is a little too early to play ball but it won't be long now.

As a word of advice to the over enthusiastic ball players, it would be well to remember that too much practice in the Spring has more harmful effects than the practice gained. It would be wiser to take it easy now and practice harder when the weather is warmer.

JAPANESE BOW TO QUEEN ANNE

The Japanese Girls' club hoop five lost a hard tussle to the Queen Anne Midgets last Saturday at the Baptist gym 22 to 15. The clever shooting of McNorghton and Vollen was too much for the Nipponese girls.

Plenty of action was seen during the first half with both teams pretty evenly matched, but in the second half, the Queen Anne girls hit the hoop too often to the few made by the Girls club.

Takayoshi, Kurokawa and Tashiro, the forward line of the Girls club five were the only ones to score during the game.

The game was played according to the boys rules. The girls' club hoopers will clash next with the Y. W. C. A. team on Wednesday, Feb. 27, 8:30 p. m. at the Y. W. C. A. gym.

Lineup:
Queen Anne (22) J. G. C. (15)

MILWAUKEE BOSS TO BE A WOMAN; GETS A THRILL

Florence Killilea Plans To Be Active Head Of Brewers; Feels Competent

WAS FATHER'S ASSISTANT

By Frank Sugiyama

The men who have long considered baseball management as one field exclusively masculine have had to swallow a bitter pill. The gall came with the announcement that comely Florence Killilea had decided that she would retain the stock of the late Henry J. Killilea, her father, who owned controlling interest of the Milwaukee club in the American Association.

Of course, Miss Killilea is not the first woman to enter this field but she is believed to be the first to take an active part in the management of the club. Other women have been owners but they were less ambitious and chose to let men run the clubs for them.

Intention Serious

Not so with Miss Killilea, who does not believe in back seat driving. Women enjoy baseball, but it is essential a masculine game, especially the managing end. Nevertheless, Miss Killilea, who is blonde and 25 years old, plans to take the Pullman Trail south with the Brewers soon for spring training camp.

Undoubtedly, she knows her stuff as far as the business end of the game is concerned.

Father Talks Ball

"My father talked baseball to me ever since I was a child," stated Miss Killilea.

Because she was her father's assistant during the years of Killilea's connections with the Milwaukee club, she believes that she has a knowledge of the problems before her.

THE REPARATIONS ISSUE

The peace of the world may not be dependent upon the outcome of what the Reparations Committee of Experts may deliberate upon, but it is a surety that without a mutual spirit of concession, on the part of the Allies and Germany, the necessary equilibrium of amity in the harmonious condition of international relations, cannot grow out of the Paris conference. No matter what the experts may say, the reparations issue cannot be limited strictly to a question of business readjustment. The question if anything, has its political aspects from which the Committee of Experts cannot digress.

In so far as France and Germany are concerned, the pure and utter superficialities of a pedantic reasoning alone should be sufficient in proving that the question cannot be entirely negligent of the political phases of the issue. The causes leading to and the war itself, of 1870, between France and Germany, have not been a forgotten factor in keeping the friendly relations of the two nations at a distance. The occupation of the Ruhr Valley by the French, chiefly, and the allies after the World War, assisted none in reconciling Germany to the fate and to carry the penalty of a defeated nation.

The subsequent Dawes plan based upon the German economic and financial budget which was adopted in 1925, by Germany and the Allies, and the limited restriction of French and allied occupation of the Ruhr, seemed to assuage German aggravation, but with the strength of German economy at ebb tide as indicated by the low and decreased potentiality of the Mark, the demands made upon Germany by the Dawes Agreement did nothing to allay the feelings of antipathy against France, primarily. Under this psychology of being pushed to the limit of her minimized economic capabilities and with the brand of penalty always in her face the German nation and people could not but help suffer to picture the mailed fist of the allies with France in the lead, threatening to cut short her very existence.

As the reparations problem is, today, France stands on one extreme with forceful demands of payment as originally agreed upon. Germany, however, stands on the other extreme with an appeal for a reduction, that her payment may be made reasonably.

Therein lies the friction and therein lies the root of misunderstanding which can do no good for the peaceful equilibrium of the world's conscience. Where the goose that lays two golden eggs is faced with the possibility of laying only one or none at all through coercion, it is better, possibly, to exercise a bit of business acumen and discretion, if France and the allies hope to derive a substantial amount of the final reparations payment.

JAPAN AT THE CROSSROADS

It was more than the ordinary statement of truth, which Dr. Rudolph B. Teusler made in virile tones, when he said that Japan, today, was standing at the crossroads scratching her head and puzzled at the attitude of American friendship.

In 1853 Commodore Perry and his black fleet of American warships sailed into Yokohama Bay and virtually pried open the gates of Japan to world commerce. In 1886 or there about after prolonged negotiations with the Japanese government, American plantation owners successfully imported Japanese labor to the Hawaiian Islands, after a series of failures through inhuman treatment of the laborers who had gone there before. In 1889, through the offers made by American capitalists on the Pacific Coast, the first Japanese laborers were shipped to the mainland from Hawaii. Until then Japanese immigration did not start to America and that only after inducements were made for Japanese laborers.

Then in 1907, the Gentleman's Agreement was concluded, laying the burden of restricting Japanese immigration upon the Japanese government, which, the State Department records indicate, was faithfully kept and observed. Even a wholesale entry into Mexico and Canada was restricted by the Japanese government to ensure against surreptitious entry into America. Then, however, the Exclusion Law was legislated in 1924 injuring Japan's natural pride.

With these facts in mind it is not difficult to fathom Dr. Teusler's statement that Japan was standing at the crossroads puzzled over the attitude of American friendship. Is it any wonder? It may not be, but still it is the truth which must be faced with intelligence and with a proper recognition of the facts which lead to Japanese immigration to America.

Faint heart ne'er won fair lady, but faint heart has done many a man a lot of good.

There are some people who can get away by talking turkey but others are usually forced to talk money.

There are many girls who believe in class, but the majority of the so-called elite believe in vanity.

Andenoids: The installment plan?
 Tonsils: Yes, a little down each week.

THE PESSIMIST

They tell me life's like a game of cards,
 An' I guess perhaps it's true;
 I keep on drawing deuces and treys
 Just as I used to do.

The cards have been stacked against me,
 When I play for the hands of maids,
 If I cast my lot for a Queen of Hearts
 I draw the deuce of spades.

I'd do a lot if I had the chance,
 To think of it gets me rilled;
 What a play in the game of life I'd make
 If the deuces were only wild.

He (over the phone): I love you more than I love anybody.

Operator (breaking in after a moment's silence): Have I your number, sir?

He: No, you haven't listened long enough yet.

A soul there was
 A student fair
 Who came to school
 To study there.
 She pledged a house
 Met men galore
 She's not now what
 She was before.
 A soul there was!

Nurse: Now go to sleep, Johnny, Remember that there is an angel watching over you.

Modern Child: Angel! don't be so damn conceited.

Caller: Is the editor in?
 Office boy: No.
 Caller: Well, then throw this poem in the waste basket for him, will you?

He: Is that your steady girl?
 He! He!: Well, she seems well balanced.

Handy: What's your girl like?
 Andy: Most everything --- wrist watches, too.

Frankie: Papa, what is a gold digger?

Papa: A woman who not only robs you but robs others too.

Frankie: You ain't a rich man, are you papa?

"Grace dreamt she was dancing with you--"

"You thrill me all to pieces!"

"And when she woke up her brother was pounding her feet with a hammer!"

Captain: Now I'll take you up to see my first mate!

Captain's Sweetheart: Oh, were you married before?

NEW GOVERNMENT OF CHINA DESIRES TREATIES REVISION

By T. SAKURAUCHI

(Contd. from Last Week)

Yamagata analyzed public sentiment after the first diet, resigned his premiership in favor of Matsukata, a financial expert, to effect an adjustment in the financial situation, which was very acute, in May, 1891. A new cabinet was formed by Matsukata with Yenomoto as Foreign Minister. This administration, however, faced unsurmountable difficulties during its life.

Right after the formation of the cabinet on May 11th, Crown Prince Nicholas of Russia, who had been visiting Japan, was attacked by a policeman of the guard, and was wounded. This naturally brought forth a critical international situation. Then occurred one of the severest earthquakes, in the provinces of Owari and Mino on November 28th. Thousands of people were killed; vast and rich territories were destroyed. A second diet convened in December, but was dissolved on account of the reduction of the government budget.

Difficulty Arises

In the general election which came soon after the dissolution another difficulty appeared in public resentment against government interference in elections. Thus in the life of Matsukata's cabinet nothing was accomplished toward the treaty revision. Ito, veteran statesman, again appeared as the head of the cabinet to restore the confidence of the nation, on August 8, 1892 with Mutsu as the Foreign Minister.

Mutsu was a samurai from Kiushu, outside of influential clans such as Choshu and Satsuma, and even more, he had been imprisoned five years for treason for attempting to oust the clan government right after the Saigo rebellion. He was, however, picked out by Ito again, and was sent to Washington as Minister, as mentioned before. His four years in Washington, from 1886 to 1890 were quite successful.

New Facts Drafted

Since he had become the Foreign Minister of Ito's second cabinet, Mutsu had an ambition to succeed in the abolition of unequal treaties. Reflecting upon previous failures, he began to draft new treaties to the satisfaction of popular opinion. He thought that if new treaties were thus made popular, support would remain with the administration even in case of failure.

So it was that new treaties were drawn after the fashion of the commercial treaties signed between England and Italy in 1883, and also of the Japan-Mexico agreement. He took up the tariff question and extra-territoriality together. He did not intend to recover tariff autonomy at once; he raised instead the tariff rate from the former 5 percent to the highest 15 percent and the lowest at 5 percent, in the form of the conventional tariff.

Scanning the Lines

"The Japanese poem is the dew-drop that holds a rainbow in its heart."

So affirms Ken Nakazawa in an article, "The Spirit of Japanese poetry" found in the February issue of the ATLANTIC MONTHLY.

In phrases vaguely reminiscent of Lafcadio Hearn, Nakazawa leads his Occidental readers to an understanding of the why and wherefore of Japanese verse.

"Japanese poetry is the record of emotion, and not of facts. Being emotional, the Japanese are most interested in the feel of things," the writer declares.

"Japanese poetry is like the song of a wild bird. It is simple and short and seemingly artless; but behind it lies the mystic world where all our dreams come true."

Ken Nakazawa is guest lecturer on Oriental Art and Literature at the University of Southern California. He is also the author of "Weavers of the Frost," a collection of original fairy tales. -- (DRACHE)
