You Too, Can Stay Young and Beautiful

"Cheeklet stiffness is the spine" is an often-used phrase in England, possibly meaning life. This we refer to it as "a red badge of courage."

In war time or peace, a woman's greatest weapon is her femininity and beauty. Of course cosmetics isn't all, sweet-smelling spirit's that come out of bottles can never replace the important spirit that comes out of one's heart. But outward appearance has surprising effect on the inner spirit.

Even in the center it is wise to make the most of nature's feminine endowments. It is more important that women make the best of their looks on what little they have because of the danger of the setting and background. By that, it is not advocated that one should spend all of one's time and income on one's face or hair, but the wise use of what is obtained.

BEAUTICANS ADVISE

Interviewed, the Shimo sisters, Mogy and Toshi, former cosmetologists from San Francisco, and Yoshiko Hayashi, a former nurse in this town, presented many valuable hints on how to keep one's beauty for Heart Mountain residents.

Used to the mild and scented air, our hair has become rough and chapped, hands are harsh, legs have begun to peel and the body is covered with dryness and cracks.

Two important "musts" are lotion and tissue cream. The lotion should be used on the hands after each contact with water. An occasional application on chapped legs and body will relieve the pulling, uncomfortable feeling. Lotion also makes a good powder base and is protection on the face against the wind.

After the nightly soap and water cleaning, followed by a cold rinse, tissue cream should be applied with upward strokes. Don't overlook the important neck in the beauty rituals.

Many like soap and water cleaning again in the morning and although it is good for those with oily skin, a cold rinse is sufficient for most in this dry weather. Follow this with a lotion or foundation preparation for protection and color base.

Bi-weekly shampoo are recommended so that your crown will be a shining crown. For those who have dandruff, oil scalp, or work where the hair becomes extreme dry, wash your hair once a week. Too much frequent shampooing is damaging. When shampooing, use a shampoo especially adapted. Don't rub your scalp. When you have chipped lips, probably because of the lipsticks they contain in its place.

Any chopstick, such as animal and vegetable oil, is good for rough, chapped skin. Pare or mix with cream and dry out the skin.

An excellent substitute for war-utility powder aluminum is a ray. Make your curls and tie them under a ray and smoothly and soundly on them.

Give your hair at least 20 strokes daily with a soft-bristled brush kept clean with frequent washings.

Driftless powders are good for blackheads. Wash off occasionally.

Mall-ordinate permanents should be given only by competent expert. A home perm, even following directions explicates, may ruin hair. Drink plenty of water; this is important for one's well-being.

Above all, remember neatness and cleanliness. Keep clothes, home, and you as clean, smooth, and shiny, and anywhere, the best face you can manage for your care and best is face on many a dull outlook.

The Virtue of Patience

Administrative personnel last Friday night probably learned the virtue of patience, an attitude that is common to many American-Japanese and Japanese nationals than at any other time since the founding of Heart Mountain. The meeting was attended by the officers of the corporation, and on this occasion, the reasonable and understanding nature of the people present was never more clearly demonstrated by the evacuees, gained the opportunity to present the broader picture through an invitation of the blackboard to the discussion.

The meeting came at an opportune time when construction of the barbed wire fence around the immediate center area had created a wave of consternation among the evacuees. The barbed wire fence, it is true, created definite ill-feelings particularly among those who have never been in their lives confined by even psychological barriers.

Yet, a healthy, respectful attitude between Heart Mountain residents and the administrative personnel was evident to such an extent that both groups were able to discuss their problems without any ill-will.

The Administration has admitted that it does not always have all answers to the complex problems that arise from time to time. At the same time, officials of the temporary government and the administrative personnel have been cooperative to work with the Administration to solve the problems.

The virtue of patience in this fast-moving picture of relocation probably is one of the fundamental assets that elevates Heart Mountain above other centers in many respects and accomplishments.

Serious problems exist and undoubtedly will continue to exist for some time, however, the ability of American-Japanese and the Administration to work together and to discuss these problems indicates that progress can and will be made.

With both the Administrators and the Administrators expressing the desire for closer cooperation, the future course seems clear.

Serving the Nation

The announcement in recent weeks of the establishment of a ceramics plant at Heart Mountain to supply WRA and Army needs is good news in the current depression. A number of the evacuees have been assigned to this plant, which will be another medium through which the residents of this community can help the nation’s war effort. Administrative officials have been in touch and arrangements have been made for forces as barracks, clothing or other basic materials.

During the past months more than 1100 residents have gone out to the sugar beet fields to help harvest a crop that will provide the necessary sugar. The plant is now being turned over to the WRA for operation.

Nonagenarians Remain Active In Spite of Age

On Christmas eve, Eka Inouye of 76 years of age had a good time. He had been at work all day, he was active and healthy. He smoked a pipe and enjoyed a good time with his family. He is one of the oldest residents of Heart Mountain.

Letters of An Evacuee

Well, I got to thinking about what I was going to write this week about what life was like this week in Heart Mountain. I got to thinking about what I was going to say about getting evicted, and maybe, just maybe, I should have been more patient.

When the war started, I, like many others, was evicted from my home. I had to pack up my belongings and move to a new place. It was hard, but I did it.

But this week, I had a chance to think about what I was going to write. I decided to write about how life is at Heart Mountain. It’s not easy, but it’s not as bad as it could be.

I'm still living in Heart Mountain, and I still have a lot to be grateful for. I have a job that I enjoy, and I have a place to call home.

But I still wish I could have had a chance to live in a normal way. I still miss the feeling of living in a normal way, of being able to do things that I used to do.

I still wish I could have had a chance to live in a normal way. I still miss the feeling of living in a normal way, of being able to do things that I used to do.

I still wish I could have had a chance to live in a normal way. I still miss the feeling of living in a normal way, of being able to do things that I used to do.

I still wish I could have had a chance to live in a normal way. I still miss the feeling of living in a normal way, of being able to do things that I used to do.

I still wish I could have had a chance to live in a normal way. I still miss the feeling of living in a normal way, of being able to do things that I used to do.

I still wish I could have had a chance to live in a normal way. I still miss the feeling of living in a normal way, of being able to do things that I used to do.
I'd Like to See . . .

In several relocation centers we know of the existence of continual friction between Jews and Poles in their effort to better the evacuees’ position.

There may be several reasons for this interference. Maybe it is caused by the policy of the WRA, which decrees that all relocation attempts be in self-government procedures or in the hands of the evacuation committee, wherever the initial urging of the young man to accomplish things of this kind is a product of self-government. It is essential that we have no friction, no suspicion, no lies, no jealousy and son and mother and daughter.

Let us forge onward for the betterment of the Jew and Jewess and Jewess Jew in this great emergency. We must unite with all our hearts and strength, for the purpose of establishing an ideal community which will give us peace and security here. It is just such self-co-operation that will enable us to attain the objective of our endeavors and desires and which can be recorded in the history of Wys管网 and the contributions of the members of Pioneer Buffalo Bill Cody . . .

Another important matter is going on in the WRA at present, the preliminary plan of the commercial cooperative committee. After the plan is compiled the working committee includes an annihilation by 97 representatives. C. E. Rappaport for approval, election of permanent delegates, the formation of commercial and by-law, and the final approval of the commercial and securing of a charter from Washington.

These plans which must be taken before we can take over the present community enterprises. Under the excellent supervision of Douglas Todd, head of community enterprises, and government, the plan is expected to be netted approximately $6,000,000 in the next 40 days, and is well within the reason to expect an additional few hundred dollars. If so, we are ready to assume this enterprise.

The careful foundation laid down by the WRA provides a sound commercial and community cooperative plan. The continual supervision by the project director, the existing cooperative committee and the guarded cost of living by the government will give the advantages which we now enjoy.

Strained economic conditions, small incomes, uncertainty of future status, increased hardships, are some of the discouragements and bases by which we carefully analyze those points, there is no comparison to the great benefits we expect to receive from the cooperative enterprise.

I'D LIKE TO SEE this plan in effect before Christmas, as a Christmas gift.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Thank you for sending me the first copy of the Heart Mountain Sentinel. I think with the story of this paper it is an excellent piece of work and have not only enjoyed it but have learned quite a bit. As I should like very much to keep in touch with the experiences of the Heart Mountain Sentinel, I am enclosing my check for $1.00, which I think is heartening to see how gallantly many of you are taking the Sentinel at a time when many papers have a splendid, or, from the way it worked, you must have about 500 subscribers. I will pay for the most complete and well-written WRA newspaper I've read yet.

Yours sincerely,

We Should Be Thankful

Away from ordinary cities we don't have to worry about many things. Food and gas rations here are not limited to our life. People who are here are taking a living in the future and are living looking on.

I'm happy to see how people are getting along. I think it is a great idea for the Sentinel to keep us connected with our fellow evacuees though we are apart.

Yours sincerely,

Petition To WRA Director Requests Removal Of Barbed Wire Fence

(5) That according to our understanding, the WRA relocation center at Issei Farm site is not intended to serve as a concentration camp; and
(6) That unless the residents in response to the call of our government, have assisted in the harvesting of sugar beets, beans, and other crops so vital to our war effort, and the army authorities are also now seeking volunteers for the Intelligence Corps from among the said American of Japanese ancestry; and
(7) That the petitioners have cooperated in every respect with the asserted good intentions of the WRA, in the assumption that, wherever duties and obligations are required of them, there also exists one right; that of rights and privileges; and
(8) That the residents having been removed from those areas of primary military importance, there is no reason for the proposed barbed wire enclosure and the watch towers; and
(9) That the said fence and the towers are ridiculous in every respect, an insult to any free human being, a barrier to a full understanding between the administration and the residents; and
(10) That the speeches delivered by the block adminis- trative officers at the joint meeting of the Caucasian administrative staff and block adminis- trators held on the evening of November 13, 1943, are hereeto attached and requested to be made a part hereof to depict to you the sentiment of the residents herein.

Now therefore, we the undersigned, request that you, as the Director of the WRA, exert every effort to eliminate the said barbed wire fence enclosure and the watch towers.

Turkey Day Tussles Set
Rabbits to Clash With Sportsmen

Studied with former high school luminaries, the well-built and fast-chasing UCI footballers, formerly of Santa Anita, are favored to undermine the Valley Sportsmen this afternoon in the feature attraction of Thanksgiving day’s classic gridiron on the administrative area field next Thursday, Nov. 26, at 3 p.m.

In a preliminary tilt, the high-flying Talions, flashy 140-pound aggresors, and the Valley Sportsmen coalesce in a crucial meeting.

The Jack Rabbit’s offensive power was built around Babe Norma, former Hollywood heavyweight star and Akira Shirakawa, 1941 all L. A. city blocking back. Ms. O’Mara and McCrenchy remained1’s corner menace.

Leading the “Rabbits’ line back is Omer Khakati, rugged 185-pound giant, occupying the center and guard. Other probable starters are Kui Sugiyama, Lomo Shinji, and Horo Yokogawa, who will spearhead the defense.

Anaso Fast, Shiftly

Anaso Fast and Toshi Asano, all Southern California Jaycees backfield, will carry the victory hopes on their shoulders. Inside, beside calling the signals, Anaso is expected to handle the running attack with accurate passing. Ready for service in the half-backing department will be Chang Sakamato, field backfield block.

Jack Miyakawa, coach and captain of the Green and White, is known for his brilliant tackling and his first-class rushing game as fullback. Probably getting the nod to start at the right half post in George Miki

Also available for firing-line duty are Chic Morin, 160-pound hard-driving back, and Fred Myers, passing back on the path for the Valley Sportsmen ball carriers, Fred Saito, tackle, and Shig Yamamoto, outstanding running guard. Other linemen for the underdog ef- fort of Ted Oki and Larry Shimamura, the expectedWhite’s three four-quarter backs; Yano Hatae, guards; and Frank Tsuchida, center.

This event is one of the highlights of the block 10 gridiron, outfitted an hour earlier to set the stage for another tilt between blocks 20 and 15 which will furnish the thrillers. Both games will start at 2:30 p.m.

Turkey Day...
Heart Mountain Residents Join In Thanksgiving Day Feast

7500 Pounds of Turkey On Menu for Thursday

Thanksgiving will come to Heart Mountain with roast turkey, dressing, cranberry sauce, ice cream and all the trimmings. It was announced by Fred Haller, chief steward. To feed the 10,000 residents 7500 pounds of turkey and 6000 gallons of ice cream has been ordered. The rest of the menu will be left to the individual mess halls.

Haller said that turkey may be the favorite meat of Christmas dinner but if it is decided to celebrate New Year's Day instead, the colonists will have to forego the second turkey dinner since the meat left for the 150 mess halls is fixed by army quartermaster that when all foodstuffs have been depleted no other items will be decreased in the near future.

In the meantime, such commodities are being distributed to mess halls in limited quantities so that they will be available throughout the month. At present sugar is rationed to each mess hall according to the daily tally. Half a pound per week or approximately 500 pounds are used weekly.

Haller added that these food will be served as long as the necessary items are available.

WRA POLICY DISCUSSED AT JACL-MEET

It is not unusual for discussions of medicine to be conducted informally during meal-time. Sessions are to be continued with the cooperation of the national JACL and general problems confronting the Japanese community.

In the opening session Tuesday, Mike Matsuda, a national JACL executive director of the council, reviewed the work his office had done during the year.
