

Clarification on Visitors Subsistence Charges

Visitors arriving at the gate who are eligible to visit will be charged for an advance period in all cases except those who have advance approval from the Relocation Officer, in whose area they reside, for the purpose of making relocation plans with members of their family who are in the center or with former or potential agriculture or business associates.

Persons who are eligible to visit and who will be charged on entrance at the gate are:

1. Persons visiting on account of the serious illness or death of family members.
2. Students at the end of a school or college term.
3. Soldiers on furlough, relocatees who have passed pro-induction physical or have been inducted and placed on the enlisted reserve.
4. Evacuees who have plans for relocation of family members or former or potential agriculture or business associates, but who have not obtained approval from their Relocation Officer before coming to the center in which they will be charged in advance for a two week period even though there may be a subsequent approval from the appropriate Relocation Officer.

Persons who are eligible to visit and who will not be charged on entrance at the gate are:

1. Persons of Japanese ancestry who were evacuated (including involuntary evacuees) and soldiers on furlough who have the approval of the appropriate Relocation Officer of the area in which they reside for the purpose of relocation planning with the members of their family or former or potential business or agricultural associates.

The only time a refund will be made (except in the case of a collection which was made in error) will be when a person departs from the center before the date to which the subsistence was paid.

Post Audit of Applications for Travel Assistance

The question has been asked about the need for checking on any travel grants that may have previously been issued to evacuees now applying for relocation assistance. For purposes of current administration, the applicant's statement on his application form (WRA-303 Rev.) will be taken as sufficient evidence that he has not received previous grants. All these applications, however, will eventually be post-audited and any person who makes a false statement about previous assistance will be called upon to make a refund or will be prosecuted under the appropriate Federal statute.

Transportation of Evacuee Property

Regulations prepared at the time of rescinding of evacuation orders provided that no further requests to pick up, pack and crate, personal property of an evacuee held in private storage would be accepted for compliance. Revised regulations now provide for the acceptance of such requests as heretofore, which include packing, crating, and moving of household and personal effects from place of private storage within the evacuated area to common carrier depot nearest point of relocation.
