

Miss Gally Wilson
3039 Boulder Street
Los Angeles, 33, Calif.

L. Igasaki
5478 1/2 So. University
Avenue

Chicago, Ill.

July 20, 1944

Dear Trolly:

Hi! I certainly hate to dis-appoint you, but I'm here in Chicago! You should've told me sooner, and I would have changed my destination! I was able to see Landie, while she breezed in and breezed out at the railroad station! I guess you've heard from her from Oberlin, Ohio. You know that Sabae is out in Minneapolis, don't you?

Thanks for the congratulations! Yep, it certainly feels swell to be out of school, but it shore looks like I'm headed for another.

physic!!

I've been bowling too.
I'm not good tho, but it's fun - yeah. I almost went with the ball once.

More fun! Been down to the beach bicycling - It'd be less warm to walk instead of pump. By the way, do you still ride on your bike, or have you outgrown
that stage?

I've seen lots of old acquaintances since the good ole days in L.A. They've all changed so much. Jander seems so much more taller and

Don't ask me where, cuz I really don't know. At present I'm working, but I hope to quit by Sept.

How's everything back in L.A.? Having your fun?
I'm just beginning mine,
but it'll be shorter since my man will be on swing shift next week and I hardly ever see him.

Last nite I went to see
"Stars and Spars" by the Coast Guards (on stage)
and saw "Going My Way."
Vic Mature was there.
He certainly had a nice

She's lost that tom-boy look. In fact, she seemed like a lady.

Say, Mally how about a picture book? Come on now — Maybe I'll give you one? Say, did I? Have you had a chance to see our annual?
I don't know who'd have one, but —

Well, I better get some work done. Be good and write again.

Love, Lillian