Dear Molly:

Guess you didn't I was already in college. It's a college for Christian workers who want pastors, deaconesses, social workers and such. It's going to be a nursery school teacher. Boy! is it tough.

There are a quite a number of Japanese people here. I knew some of them back home. It's really swell out here because everyone is so nice. I bet it would be tough for us in L. A. eh? What do you think?

Remember Tom Robinson? He's in the army now. Can you beat that? A guy doesn't get a break anymore does he?

I hope you're doing alright by meeting. When you get to college you'll wish you could sleep more.

It's really supposed to be studying now so I'd better sign off. It's really, busy. I can't even draw my own put because I haven't got the time

there is long - "minutes."

Love,
Eve

P.S. I've ^{just} been away from home.
Very home sick
