Dear Mollie:

How is you? Working everyday? Well, Mollie, you sure lucky to be going to college. I always knew you go, but that seemed like only yesterday you were in the 10th grade coming Roosevelt. Remember those good old days? What is your goal, Mollie? Right now the only thing for me to do is to try to be a secretary or a bookkeeper.
I'm want to be a stenographer.
That seems to be the only line for the Japanese girls now. Most of the girls that are relocating seem to be

Thursday Morning
8:45

Hellow Agnes. Sure rough it rained last night good and ~~hard~~ ^{clouds} hard. We had lightning and thunder. Its a little cooler this morning.

I am sending you a picture that I took just before graduation its not good, but the only one I have. It may not look like me, but you'll have to say does look a little like me. The dress I have on in the picture is a little thing I found in Jernar.
One of those small dress shops. That was the only thing I could find.

in that line, so I guess I'll follow.

Yes, mallee its been so hot. It goes up to about 130 degrees everyday. We just sit and we're wet, just plain wet. (drip drip drip) I can hear thunder now I guess were in for some rain. Yes, we have rained in the summer. We have those cloud bursts pretty often.

I'm sorry mallee I'm getting sleepy, as you can see I can't even write and I'm missing it up so I'll continue tomorrow
Good night

It was windy the day I took the picture that's why my hair is all up in the air.

Well, mollen I guess that's all for this time.
I'll always remain —

Sincerely your friend,
Dial
