Boundaries of the out-of-bound area in the Center were announced today by the administration.

The boundary limits begin with the fence on the south side of the racetrack which starts at the westerly point on 8th avenue, east to a point on the east side of the turf club where the fence running between Barracks 13 and 14 intersect with Huntington drive and all of the area in District 7 north of Barracks 14. This includes the ramp between the race-track and the Grandstand.

The ramp and the Grandstand will be available for religious services and entertainment programs by special permit, it was stated in the announcement.

Only warehouse workers, the burning crew and the trash crew will be permitted beyond the boundary limits, it was said.

According to the announcement, the entire dining floor of the Grandstand has been closed.

An office has been established at the bottom of the stairs leading to the Executive offices and will be the only entrance to

BEET WORKERS HEAD FOR MONTANA FIELDS

BAGGAGE LIMITATIONS

As much as possible of the residents' belongings should be shipped by baggage or freight and only essential items should be carried as hand baggage, advised Henry E. Scofield, evacuation coordinator, today.

Excess baggage in the coaches has caused inconvenience to passengers in the past, Scofield warned.

Belongings May Not Be Sent In

Baggage which is being sent in from the outside positively will not be accepted here, stated William H. Barber, Supply and Warehouse superintendent, today.

Evacuees may have their belongings shipped to them after reaching the relocation centers with expenses paid by the WRA, it was advised.

First Group Leaves Center

In the first departure of sugar beet workers to Montana, 34 Center residents left last night to harvest the crop in the Chinook factory district, Mont.

There will be one more recruitment from this Center, according to W. J. O'Bryant, representative of the Utah-Idaho Sugar company. The number of workers from Santa Anita has been limited because of the number of volunteers from the relocation projects, it was said.

Interviews for sugar beet harvesting work are being conducted by J. S. Miller of the United States Employment service at 21-1 Gillie avenue, adjacent to the barber shop.

Besides transportation fares to Montana and back to the relocation projects where they are scheduled to go, prevailing wages will be paid workers, said O'Bryant. Work will begin late this month and continue until the middle of November.

Model Builders Donate $21.14

The sum of $21.14, accumulated from the sales of model airplane supplies at the Handicraft Haven, was recently turned over to the Social welfare department of the Center.

Henry Ohye was director of the model airplane division and Tommy Uragami was president of the model airplane club.

The money, originally to be used for the airplane club, was turned over to Amy Murayama of the Social welfare club when members of the model-builders received their relocation notices.

The time was 4:45 p.m.; children between the ages of five and seven years were swinging hilariously from a clothesline strung between two barracks.

It was now 4:50 p.m. and the faint note of "To the Colors" from a Boy Scout bugle drifted down from atop the Grandstand.

The five boys sprang down from the clothesline and stood at attention as the flag slowly descended down the staff.

The hospital staff made those attractive leis of asters and marigolds you may have seen on departure days last week.

Among the health staff leaving was Dassie Yasunaga wearing an engagement ring.

Granada will have some capable girls' club leaders from Santa Anita. Jaine Oi, president of the presidents, left Monday.

Alice Suzuki, coordinator, and Hana Uno, secretary of the girls' clubs left last week.

Bill Hatanaka and Fred Yamamoto, former PACEMAKER feature writers, write that Louise Suski, formerly head of the writers' project here, will be city editor of the Heart Mountain bulletin.

We know that she will be happy to go back to her old (pre-evacuation) grind, a lot of fun despite the hectic tempo of a newspaper office.

Mr. and Mrs. James S. Yoshinobu's little girl was born last Sunday, Sept. 20. The birthday is the same as that of her mother, Toshi Yoshinobu.

We think Agnes would be a good name for the baby.

PACEMAKER Building -- Phone: 63

Dear Ken,

Received Vol. I, No. 1 of the Gila News Courier and we assure you that it was read ever so carefully here. We liked the column 'Gila Tom Tom' and we got your reference to marbles.

But we had not finished with No. 1 before No. 2 arrived. We see that typographic errors haunt you as well as us. Your editorial calls us Santa Amita.

But we had a bad butch on our front page in our last issue. In writing about paychecks, we said July 16-July 15 instead of June 16-July 15 which we meant.

Please say hello to all our friends there.

W.P.S.

Doing all reet

News of former Santa Anitans now in relocation centers begin to filter in with some regularity. We hear from Tom Tajiri in Poston that Yutaka Shimbo who pitched for the Huskies here is winning games for the Falcons along with Killer Takeshita.

And from Heart Mountain comes news that Joe Suski is temporary head of their athletic division.

And Willie Funakoshi is block chairman at Poston while Joe Koide holds the same position at Heart Mountain.

Scaredy cat

And our Art editor messed up the biggest assignment of his career yesterday a.m. at the evacuation enclosure.

Asked to kiss a beautiful girl goodby for the camera and posterity, he shied away and held her at arm's length.

We would have gritted our teeth and with a do-or-die look in our eyes, shouted, 'Pour l'honneur du PACEMAKER!' and thrown ourself into our work.

RELOCATION VIGNETTES

'Learn how large America is'

Sunday morning marked the first departure of Center residents for Rohwer, Ark., the farthest East relocation center.

Some evacuees gasped when they thought of the great distance they would travel--more than halfway across the United States. Many of them had never been outside California. Many had never been on a train before.

Most of the evacuees, however, were resigned to being closer to New York than Los Angeles, and agreed that they would like the train ride and Arkansas.

Waiting patiently in the Visitor's house to have their group number called was the Ota family, formerly of Norwalk, where the father ran a grocery store for the past 22 years.

● This trip is going to be just like a vacation

Said Yoshio Ota, the father, "I'm leaving California for the first time. It's a wonderful thing, this trip. Just like a vacation. In Arkansas, I'd like to try my hand at farming--my first love."

Mrs. Ota sat silently beside him, clad in a black fur overcoat with a black hat. She was holding a zinnia in her hand. She explained, "A neighbor of mine gave me this zinnia. She raised it in her garden."

Frank, their son, had been east before. Nonchalantly he said, "I've been in New Orleans, Kansas, Oklahoma. I was with a college wrestling team, barnstorming through some of the Mid-western states. I'll never forget the fine reception the people gave me everywhere I went."

Frank's brother, Johnnie, who was born in San Gabriel and was graduated from Excelsior high school, was very matter of fact. "All I know is that I'm going."

● I'd like to get in on some real farming

Then there was husky John Maruki and his attractive sister, Yuki, both formerly of Montebello. John was a timekeeper in the Grandstand for the Red mess.

"I didn't like sitting in that cramped office all day. I'm used to farming and when I get to Arkansas, I'd like to get in on some real farming," he said.

As their numbers were called, the people filed through the exit of the Visitor's house to the waiting train. Most of the evacuees lugged suitcases, overcoats, extra sweaters, blankets and other odds and ends.

One boy carried a fishing pole. Another kid yelled, "Hey, what do you think you're going to do? Go fishing in the Mississippi?"

"Why not?" answered the boy with the rod.

● I'm glad I'm going to Arkansas

"One good thing about the people," said a philosophical youth near them, "is that once they make up their minds to go to a certain place, they decide that they are going to like the place.

"I'm glad I'm going to Arkansas. We'll cover a lot of territory from here to there. These evacuees will learn how large America is..."

"When we go through the small towns, everyone will wave at us. We'll see soldiers and sailors at the station and passing through the country we'll see the housewives, farmers, cowboys, kids--a good cross-section of the American people..."--J.O.
