THIS IS THE CITY THE SOVIETS BOMBED: Helsingfors (Helsinki, native spelling) seemed like a second Warsaw today as Russian warplanes invaded the Finnish capital at four different times and dropped incendiary bombs, transforming the city into a seething mass of flames. Moscow had launched a sudden undeclared war on Finland.—IIN photo.

government heads of Europe administrations? The other day we examined the texts of recent communications we found.

Addressed to French Premier Daladier's under date of August 28, he addressed: "My dear Minister President." The letter, dated two days earlier, contained the signature of Esteemed Herr Reich Chancel-

Prime Minister Chamberlain in a formal agreement on September 30, at the Munich conference, they said the following words: The British Chancellor and the British

Keep premises free from rubbish, rock piles and other places affording rat harborage.

Keep the space under houses free of lumber piles, boxes, etc.

Close all avenues of entry into the house such as ventilators, gaps around pipes, holes in the roof, etc.

Cut back branches of trees overhanging the house and place a smooth piece of metal at least 10 inches wide around tree trunks to keep rats from climbing trees.

Take all climbing vines away from the house since they furnish an effective ladder of which rats avail themselves to gain access to the house.

Guard telephone and light wires.
