

The flagship Kent of the British Squadron,

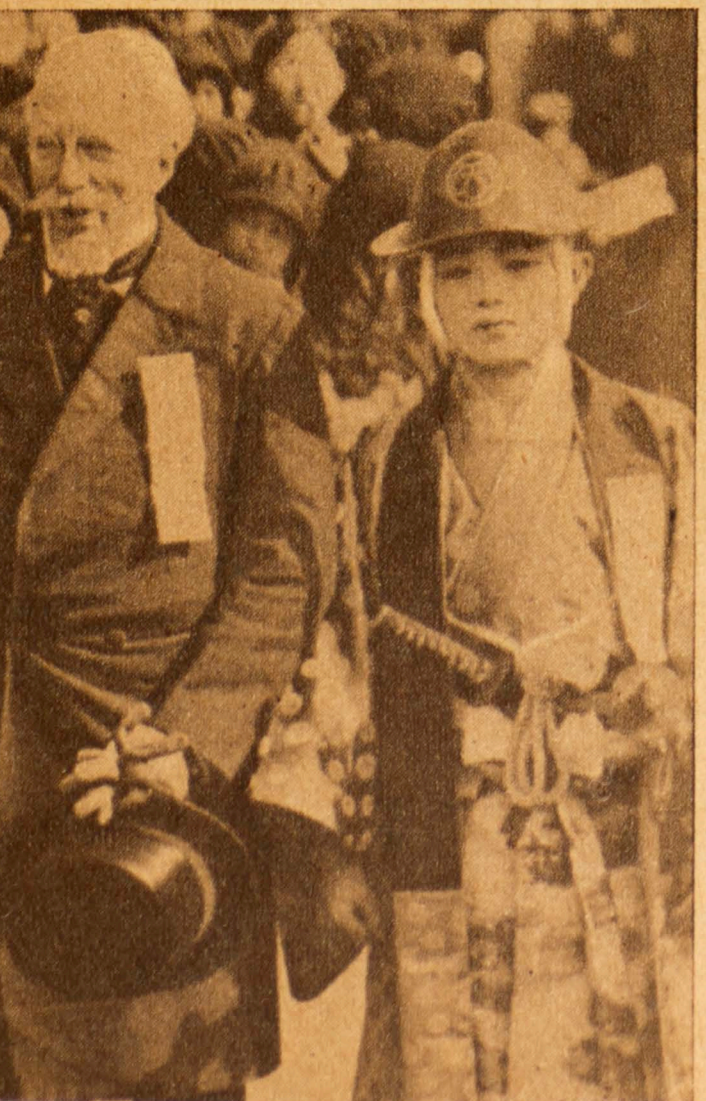

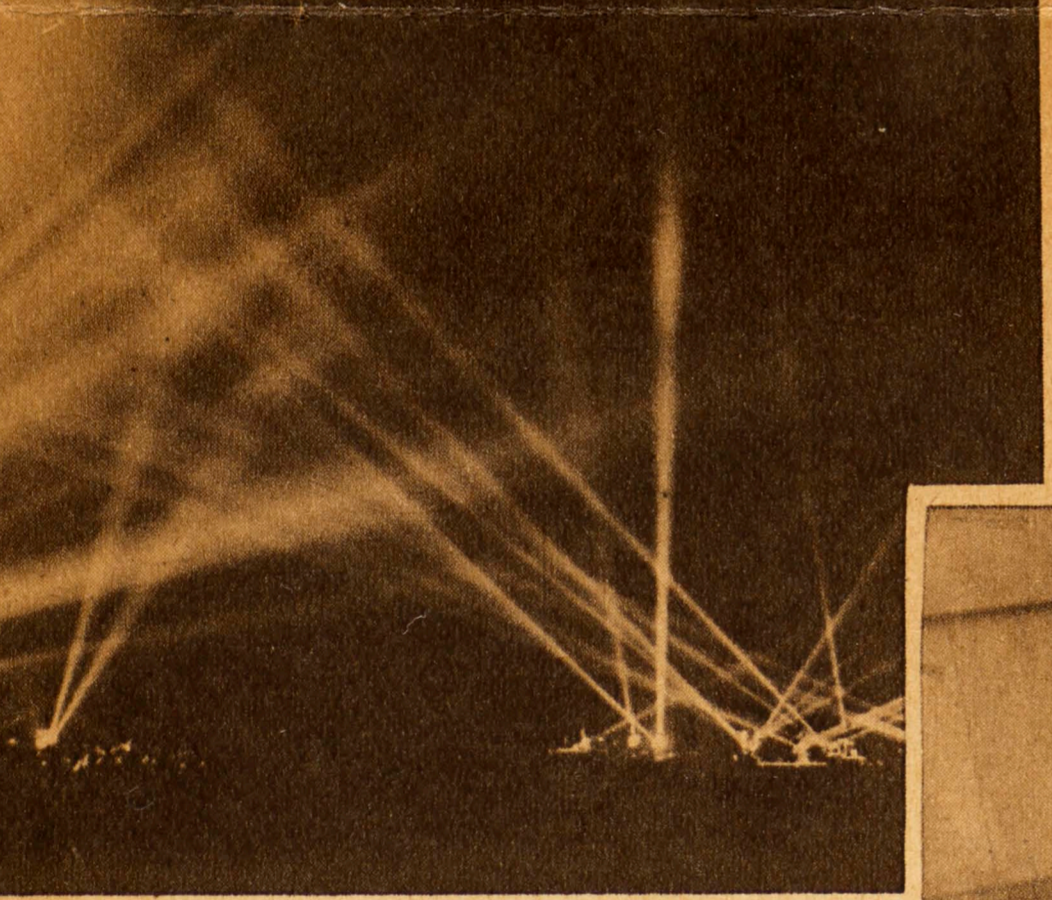

Searchlight demonstration at night outside the harbour of Yokohama by the warships of the Japanese Navy, participating in the Grand Naval Review of August 25.

Under the supreme command of H.M. the Emperor, the 1933 Fall Special Military Manœuvres, lasting three days, got under way on the Echizen plain and in its vicinity early on the morning of October 24. The photo shows infantrymen advancing under the protection of a smoke screen.

An anti-air raid drill on an unprecedented scale was held in the Kanto region with Tokyo as centre on August 10 and 11. The picture shows thick smoke screens protecting the Nihonbashi neighbourhood, Tokyo, from an attack of 'enemy' planes.

MP211,002

