

CHRISTMAS 1998

Dear Mack and Dixie

Somewhere along the line you have heard of the Pyatt-Kida connection to our family. Maybe you knew George Kida.

George died in November and was honored at a well-attended funeral. I was sick and unable to attend but daughter Jan said he went out with the usual George Kida flair -- a smile on his face and two $100. bills in his hand.

I felt a compulsion to write something to supplement the bland obituary that appeared. It was printed in The Enterprise week before last -- and maybe you would like to recall this unusual family connection. Sade Pyatt was Grandma Waldron's sister.

Lucy and I send our holiday greetings to you two special ones -- and hope that all is well with all Temples!
