Not Just Any Old Way

Voter's registration time in California recalls an old saying: "It doesn't matter how you vote — but vote!" But it does matter. If the saying means, "Let your voice be heard at the ballot box," it's a different matter.

Too often, a slogan like the first one gives the impression that if every voter marked his ballot blindly, government in this country would be fine. But it does make a difference "how" a voter casts his ballot. If he's informed on the issues or candidates, if he really knows what the election is all about, then he is casting an informed ballot according to his convictions.

On the other hand, if he remembers a slogan or two pitched by one side or the other; if he accepts a campaign speech without asking himself if the facts bear out that speech; if he is swayed by the sheer volume of appeals in press, radio and TV — then he's not casting a truly informed ballot. The mere act of visiting a polling place does not make a good citizen; a good citizen is one who informs himself before he gets there and then votes his conviction.

But even worse is the informed voter who fails to vote. He does the community no good by staying home and then grumble about the outcome.

These generalities apply to all elections. As JACL — since its founding in 1930 — is committed to good citizenship, getting members to be registered voters and holding meetings to inform them of issues and candidates, it is well to remember that an informed voter is a criterion to be sought henceforth.

With the 1960 presidential campaign going full speed now, JACL chapters should expend every effort to assist their members in voting and information—H.H.

Two women event records broken in Nat'l JACL kegfest

BY MEACH NOGAMI
(Special to Pacific Citizen)

DENVER. — Denver bowlers proved to be rude hosts as they copped six titles and shared in another in the 14th annual National JACL Bowling Tournament just concluded this past week.

Mats Ito and Shun Nakayama, both representing the Mile High city, took the big all-events crowns to make a clean sweep of that event for Denver. Denver also swept the singles events with Mats Ito and George Otsuki taking the title from their more heralded competitors.

"L.A." got into the swing of things by taking the first and second places in both the men's and women's doubles events.

New Record

Holiday Bowl of Los Angeles set a new women's team score of 2679 to easily take that event. Team members were Dusty Mizunoue, Mari Matsuzawa, Beverly Wong, Kayko Harada and Judy Sakata.

An unheralded Granada Fish Market team from Denver copped the team title with a fine 2953 team total. Their members were George Nagai, Sam Inai, Willie Hasegawa, Jim Ota and Shun Nakayama.

Judy Sakata broke her own four-game sweep record with a 823 total and Dixon Ikeda of San Francisco took the only title for the Bay Area by firing a 1219 six-game sweep series. Miki Toda and George Tomomitsu from Denver paired to cop the ragtime doubles event. Mats Ito and Harold Sogi of Hawaii were the mixed doubles top twosome.

Freezing Weather

Tourney entrants of the warm areas of California and Hawaii shivered in zero weather for most of the week and it wasn't until Saturday that the thermometer climbed to a warmer temperature of 32 degrees. Denverites remarked that they ordered this unseasonal cold weather so the visitors from the South would have an opportunity to see snow on the ground for the first time.

TOKYO.—George Togasaki, currently preparing for the International Rotary Convention in Tokyo, will become first Nisei grand master in the history of Freemasonry. The Grand Lodge of Japan, which the pioneer Nisei will head, becomes independent at its April communication.

FATHER WITNESSES HIS JAPAN-BORN CHILDREN BECOME NATURALIZED

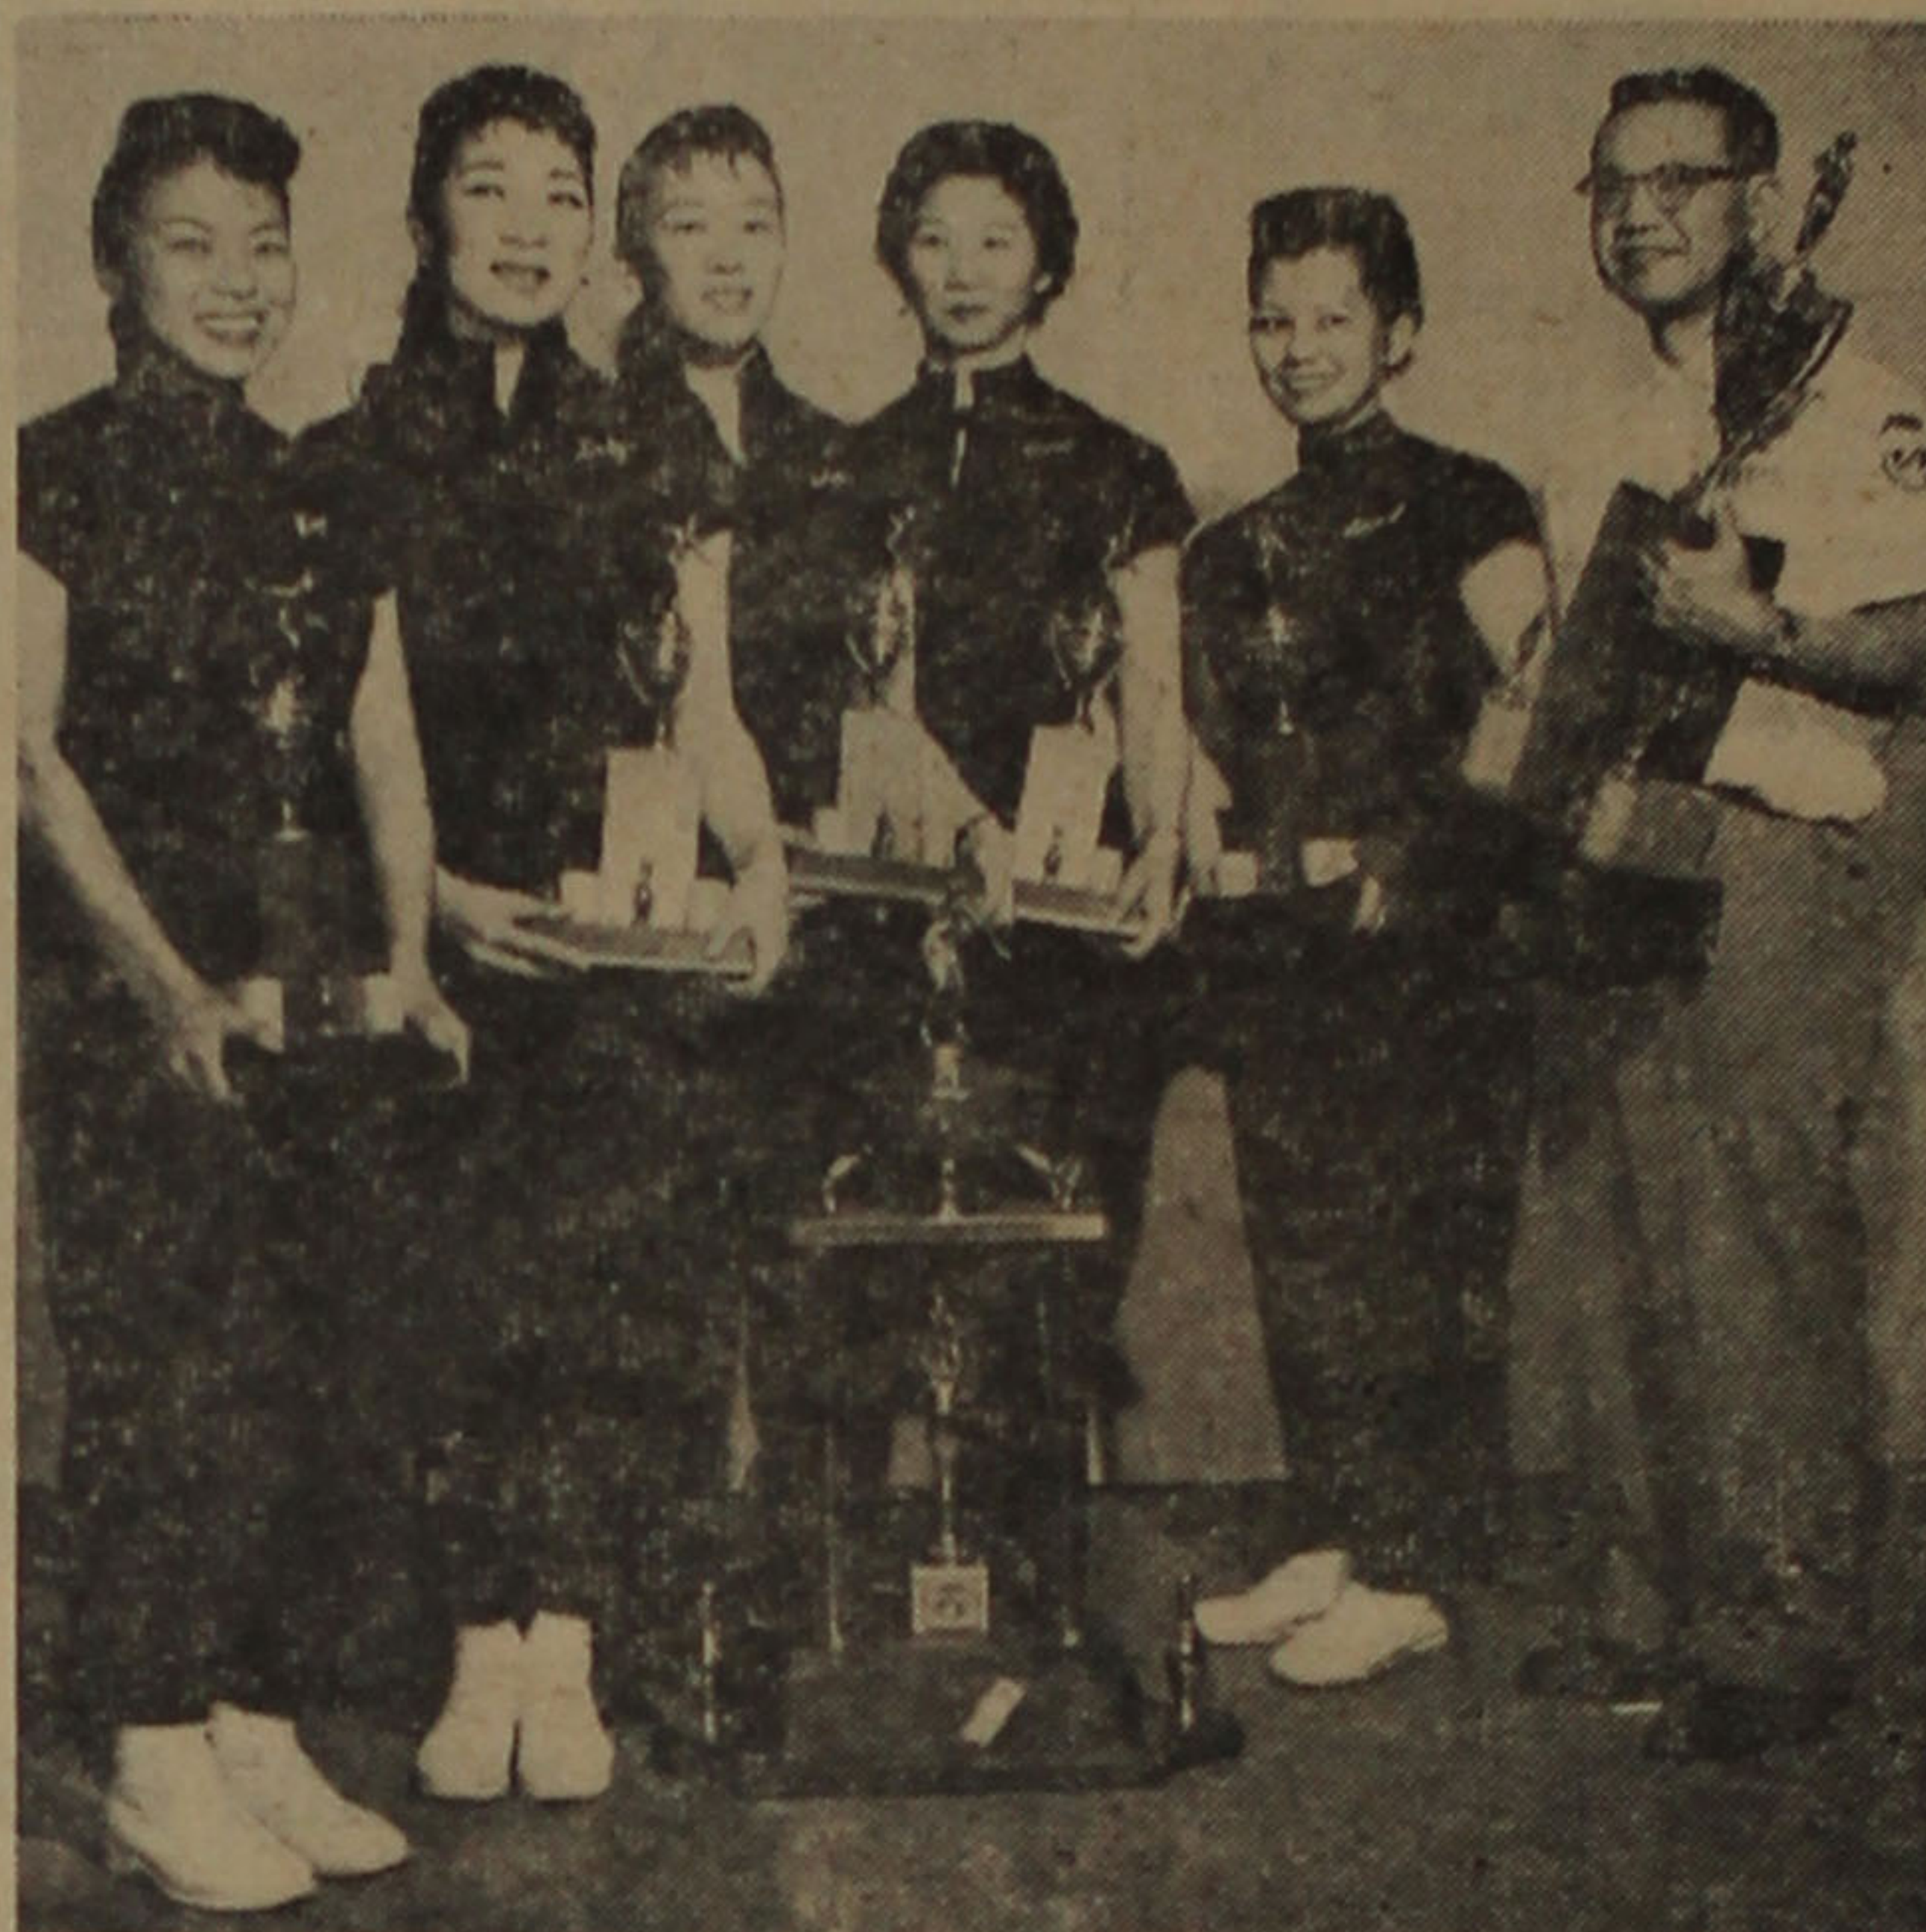

SAN DIEGO.—Henry Kodama, 42, of 1628 Thomas St., a former Japanese soldier who survived the A-bomb blast at Hiroshima, last week saw his two children, Mitchell, 16, and Sachi, 13, take the oath of allegiance to the United States.

The two Japan-born youngsters were among 63 persons from 22 nations who became naturalized citizens in a ceremony in U.S. District Court. They are both students at Pacific Beach Jr. High School.

Kodama did not need to take his oath because he was born in California. He moved to Japan in 1935 and in World War II was drafted into the Japanese army. He returned to America in 1946 with his family. Mrs. Kodama is studying to become a citizen.

No racial, color discrimination case reported during Squaw Valley Olympics

LODI. — State Attorney General Mosk, in addressing a luncheon last week of the combined service clubs of Lodi, said he was happy that "there were no reported incidents of racial or color discrimination during the Winter Olympics at Squaw Valley."

"We may all be proud of the warm hospitality given to athletes and spectators at the Winter Olympics in both California and Nevada. Although the State of Nevada has no civil rights statute comparable to that in California, the owners

Mosk commended the hotel and restaurant owners for keeping their pledge, which was made at a meeting in December when it was pointed out that such discrimination may create serious international complications reflecting upon the United States.

Calden who fought alien land laws in California dies

SAN FRANCISCO. — One of the names closely linked with the fight against the anti-Japanese movement of California was Guy C. Calden, attorney at law, who had his law office in San Francisco, who passed away on March 5. He was 89.

As a partner of the firm of Elliot and Calden, he went to Sacramento in 1913 to ascertain the sentiments of the legislators regarding the passage of the first California Alien Land law. His report was that the situation was hopeless.

He had a part in all the major court battles on the various aspects of the constitutionality of the alien land laws. It devised the trust agreements, corporations, and guardianships which enabled the Issei to continue to operate farming and to buy real property for their citizen children who were still minors.

Guy C. Calden was a mailman when he first met Albert H. Elliot who was a honor graduate of the Univ. of California and officer of the California National Guard. He studied and passed the state bar without going to a law school. The association lasted throughout the life of Mr. Elliot.

A few years ago, Calden retired from active practice and closed his office in San Francisco and became connected with his son, Gilbert, who had his own law office in Oakland, California.

Reports were current that Calden was to be cited by the Japanese government for his contributions to the welfare of the Japanese people in this country throughout the trying years when they were faced with the most vicious anti-Japanese agitation.

Nat'l JACL essay contest theme same as oratorical

SACRAMENTO. — Theme of the National JACL Convention essay contest is the same as the oratorical contest, "Our Role as Japanese American Youths in the Future of JACL", chapters were reminded this past week by contest chairman Eugene Okada.

The contest is open to young people between the ages of 16 and 21. Entrants can only participate in one contest: essay or oratorical, it was pointed out.

Essays will be judged upon the basis of content, originality of thought, effectiveness of presentation and grammar.

First place winner in the essay contest will be given a trophy by the National Convention Board and will also receive a $100 U.S. government savings bond from National JACL. The second place winner in the essay contest will receive from National JACL a $50 U.S. Government savings bond, and the third place winner will receive a $25 U.S. government savings bond.

Winners of the National Essay contest will be announced during the 16th Biennial National JACL Convention in Sacramento, June 28 to July 2.

A LEISURELY AFTERNOON

Ungrudging pride in one's Aima Mater (Loyola U.) probably excuses me to mention that camellias were named by the Swedish botanist Linnaeus in honor of George Camellus or Kamel, a Moravian Jesuit who traveled in Asia and wrote an account of the plants of the Philippine Islands . . . It was a leisurely afternoon for us at Descanso Gardens where over 100,000 camellia specimens, comprising more than 600 varieties gathered over a long period of time from China, Japan, England and southern United States, are in bloom. The Gardens cover 30 acres and once was the estate of Manchester Boddy, newspaper publisher who authored "The Japanese in America" in 1921—a sympathetic account at a time when the press was hostile to the Japanese.

The March issue of Sunset Magazine devotes its main article on gardens to camellias and notes that the first plants in the West were offered for sale in Sacramento in 1852 by a Bostonian who came in search of gold . . . Since then, beautiful examples of camellia hybridization have been produced and the variation of color, petals and form are hard to describe with words. It tasks one's ability to distinguish in chromatic terms the various hues and shades of red. We have a government color chart that divides the color Red into 24 parts—from pinkish white to vivid red and Roget's thesaurus lists a similar number of synonyms for red:

PACKAGE DEAL—Details about the package deal pre-registration for the 16th Biennial National JACL Convention are now pouring into our department. Mrs. Betsie Sanui, who is chairman of the registration committee, is right on the ball sending out reminders and letters to various chapters concerning the subject.

Mrs. Sanui writes:

Greetings Delegates and Friends, the Registration committee for the June 28-July 2 National JACL convention in Sacramento sincerely urges JACL members planning to converge on Sacramento to pre-register to insure the finest and most enjoyable JACL Convention in our history.

What does pre-registration mean:

1. Cooperation of the local chapters and individual members with the Convention Board and working committees.

2. Facilitating the proper arrangements and programming of the entire convention well in advance of the arrival of delegates and their families.

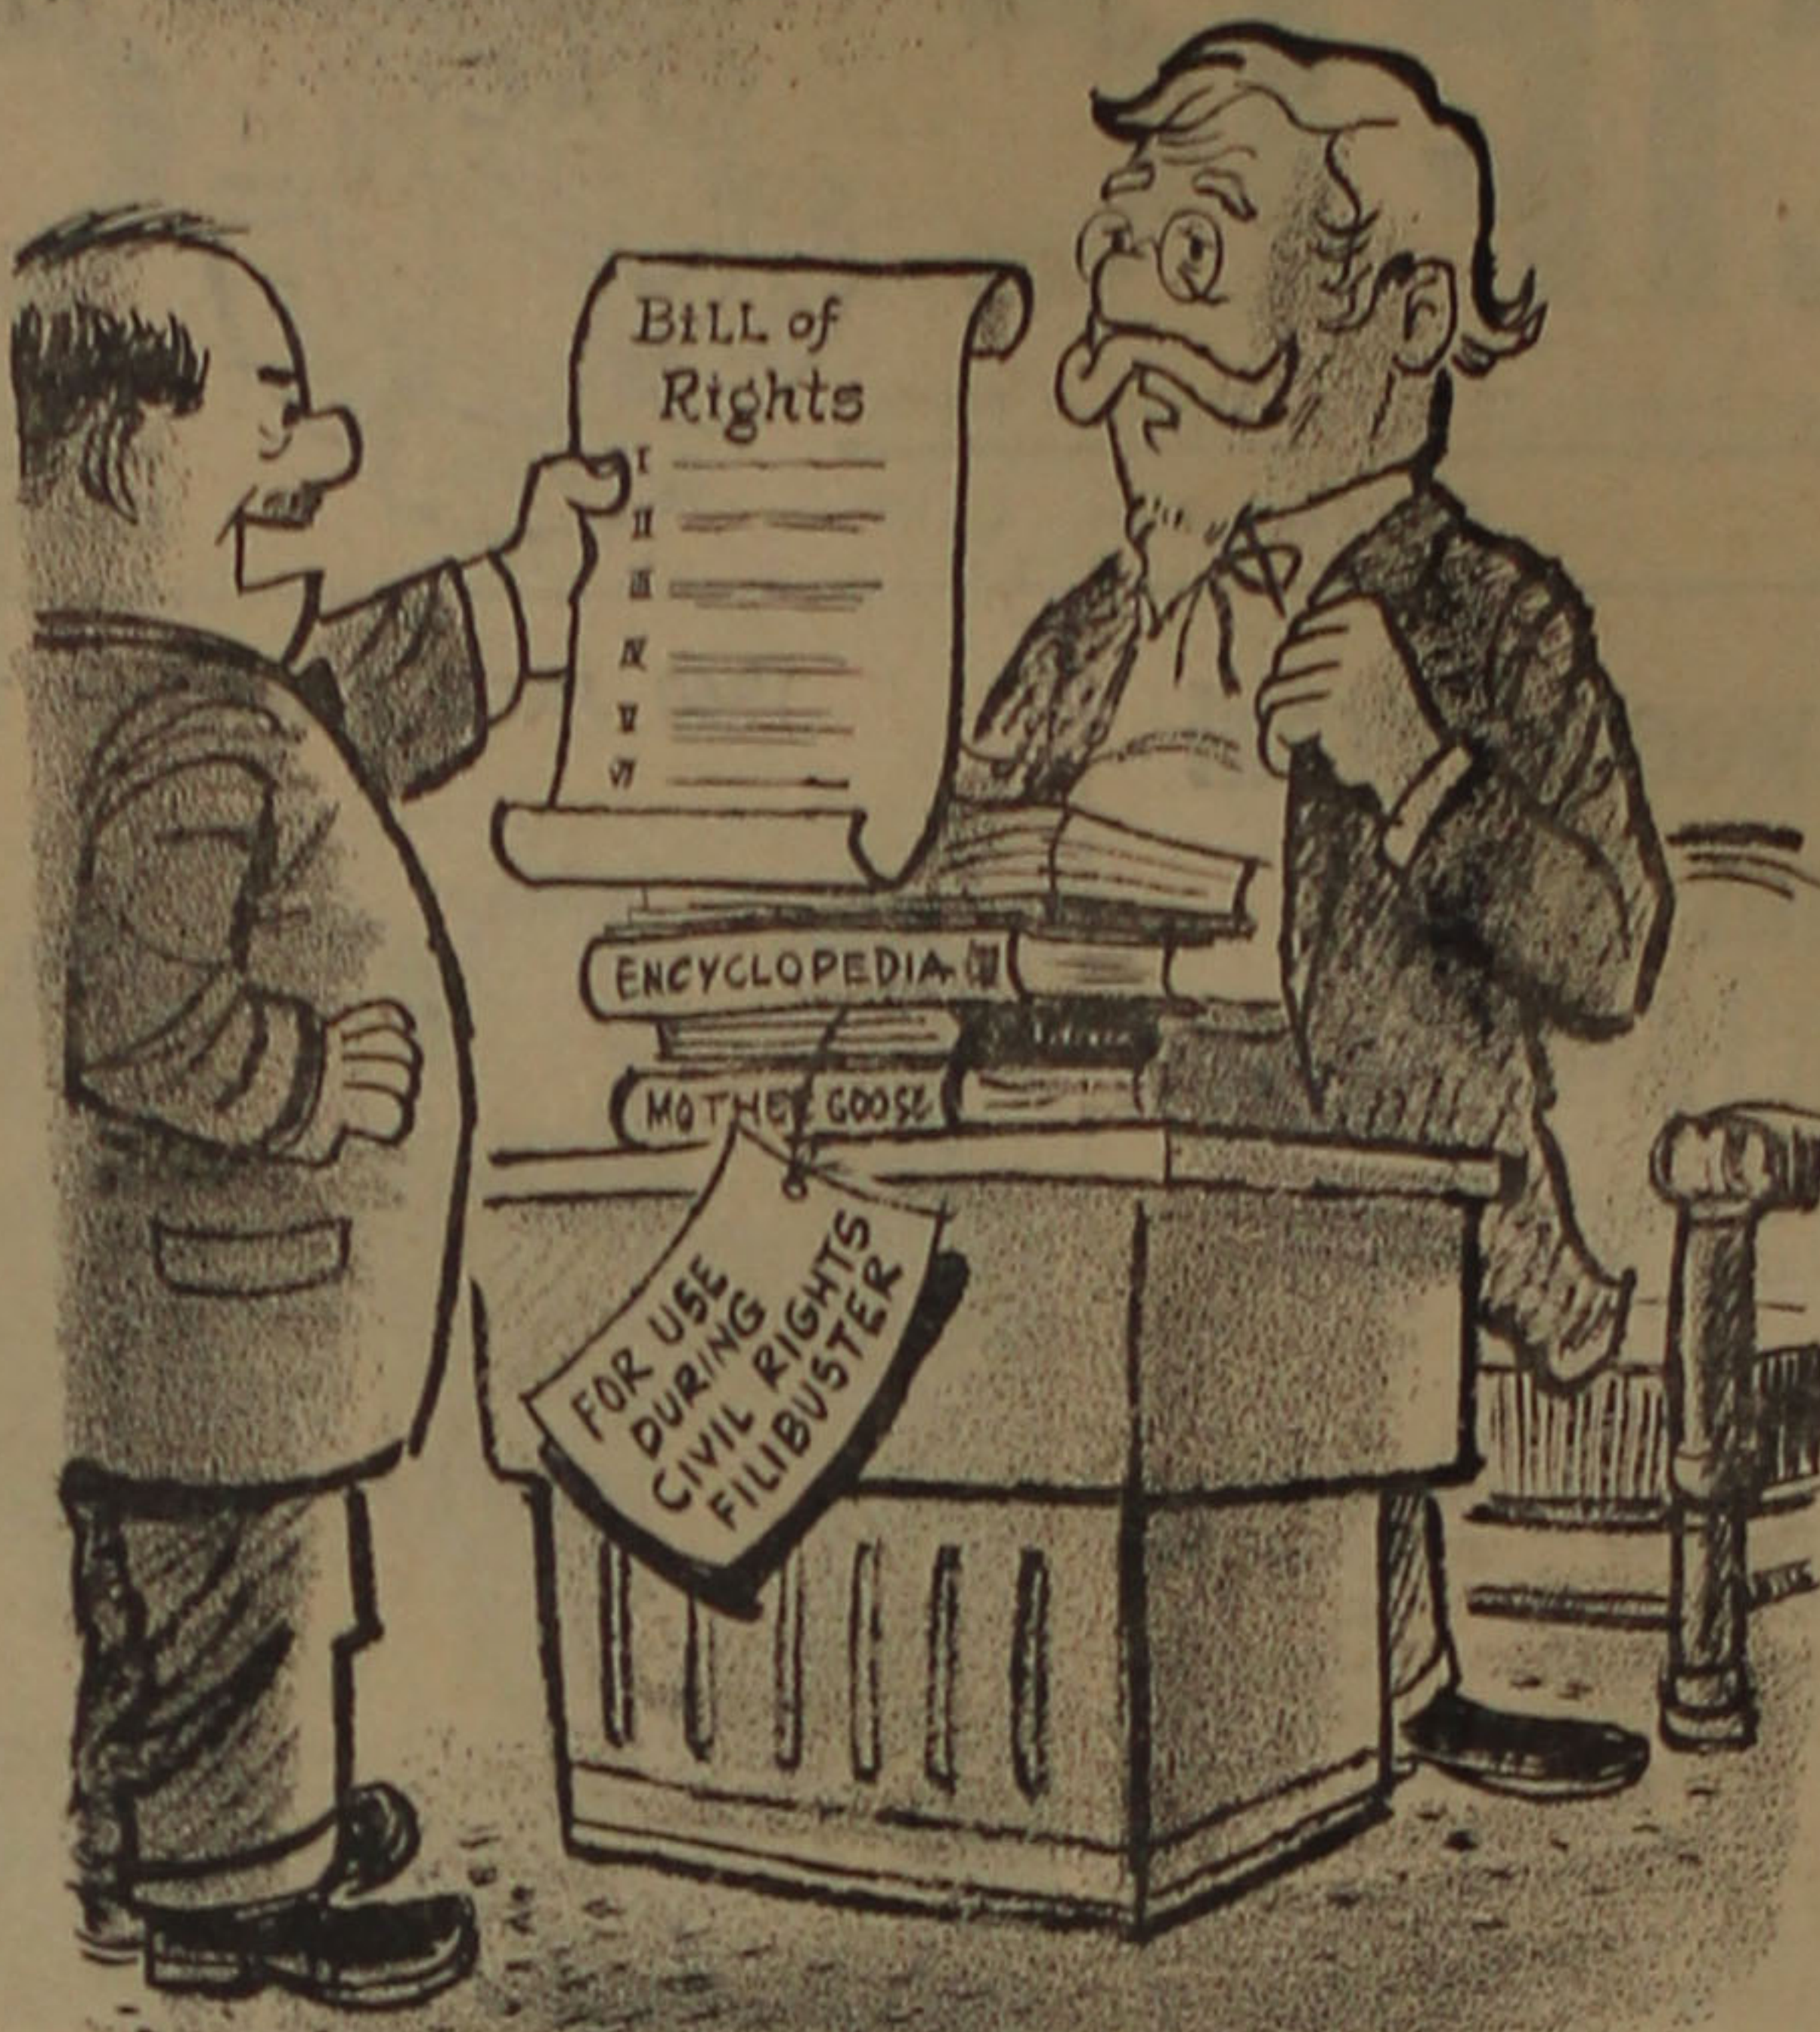

3. Insuring the orderly enjoyment of all participants, both delegates and working members.

Pre-registrants for "Package Deal" will also participate in a drawing for valuable prizes of $25 or more in value at the "Mixer" on the opening night, plus an $8.50 saving.

Mrs. Sanui also asks the cooperation from local chapters on these requests: (1) pre-register the "two" official delegates, (2) pre-register the alternate delegates, if any, and (3) urge chapter members planning to attend the National Convention to join in the pre-registration.

The pre-registration form should be returned to the Registration Chairman by May 1, 1960 (deadline), together with the

'East Wind Rising'

Denver, Colo.

Back in 1929 when Relman Morin was a student at Pomona College (he and Joe Shinoda were classmates), he became involved in a project inspired by a Chinese American student under which he and nine others were to go to China for a year to study and work. Morin, now one of American journalism's great reporters—winner of the Pulitzer Prize for Korean War correspondence—was 22 at the time. Although he was raised in Los Angeles, he knew little of the Orient or of persons of Oriental ancestry.

"I began looking at Orientals with a new curiosity," he remembers in his new book, "East Wind Rising" (Alfred Knopf), "especially the Japanese. What were the thoughts of the stolid little gardener edging your lawn for ten cents an hour? Was he really a spy? Did he, too, expect war one day between the United States and Japan?" What Morin learned, on his student trip to the Orient in 1929-30 and in his latest work as the A.P.'s bureau chief in Tokyo and as a reporter throughout Asia, is the sum of "East Wind Rising."

"In Little Tokyo there was a lunch counter run by a Japanese and his wife," Morin notes. "I attempted some research there under the cover of the pie and coffee. First I asked them how to say 'thank you' in Japanese and how to count to ten. Having then, as I thought, put relations on an easy basis, I asked some of the questions which were troubling me. They never answered. Mama-san would only smile and change the subject . . ."

When this writer was putting out the English section of the Japanese American News in San Francisco back in the 1930s, the phone rang one morning. "This is Relman Morin," the voice said. "I'm on my way to Japan and I am staying at the Kasu Hotel. I have a few days before the boat sails. Can you recommend someone who can teach me Japanese?" We gave the name of Joe Sano's father who used to give courses in the Japanese language.

Morin became chief of the A.P.'s Tokyo bureau. When the Japanese attacked Pearl Harbor, he was in Saigon in French Indo-China. There, despite the fact that it was not Japanese territory, he was taken into custody by the Japanese military and interned.

"In the raw hatred of the first days it seemed that all the weight of the responsibility (for the war in the Pacific) rested on the Japanese," Morin writes. During his imprisonment Morin reflected on the war and its causes. He had been raised in California during the years of the anti-Japanese campaigns and a picture of a different sort emerged. "East Wind Rising" is the result of those reflections.

Morin's long view of the Pacific crisis offers no excuse for Japanese aggression, but it roots into the psychological as well as the political causes of conflict. What he does find that is inexcusable is the denial of human dignity for long years to persons of Japanese descent in California, starting with the segregation of Japanese and other Oriental students in the San Francisco school system in 1906.

The Japanese reacted fiercely to school segregation as a suggestion that the Americans considered them an inferior race, and the seed was sown for counter-action. Punitive measures followed in California, climaxed by the adoption of the Alien Land law, prohibiting property ownership by persons of Japanese nationality. A decade later the Japanese Immigration Act was passed. ("Some twenty years later the most-decorated unit in the U.S. army was composed of Nisei, American-born Japanese," Morin writes, pointedly.)

Morin believes the California story—the long history of anti-Japanese activity—is important in understanding the recent history of the Far East.

"When recognition of human dignity is withheld from a man because of his race or nationality or religion, when he is scorned and persecuted, when his weakness is exploited, then the law of retribution is sure as fate."

Morin believes the law is operating today in China. The Chinese, long subjected to racial abuse by the carrier's of the white man's burden, are having their revenge on history. "They will have it in full measure," he concludes. "Then, but not before, we will restore friendship with China as we have with Japan."

AIR FORCE EMPLOYEE COMMISSIONED BY NAVY

OMAHA.—A civilian employee of the Air Force has joined the Navy as an officer candidate. She is Carol Doi, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred S. Doi, 1802 N. 32nd St., who reported last week at Newport, R.I., for eight-weeks training.

She will then be commissioned an ensign in the Naval Reserve and serve on active duty for two years. She is a 1958 graduate of Creighton University and was working in Des Moines, where she was sworn into the Navy.

Mother of JACler survives collision of train - oil rig

BAKERSFIELD.—Among the survivors of one of the worst train accidents in California this year was Mrs. Toki Sato of 6000 Lemon Hill Ave., Sacramento, and mother of Sho Sato, active Berkeley JACler and professor at Boalt Hall Law School at the Univ. of California.

Aboard the speeding Santa Fe Chief, which collided with a two trailer oil rig at a country road intersection west of here Mar. 1, Mrs. Sato suffered a broken collar bone and rib injuries.

She was enroute to Albuquerque, after being notified that her second daughter, Mrs. Terry Kiyoko Mori, had undergone an appendectomy to take care of the two Mori children.

Mrs. Sho Sato said that when they heard about the train wreck, they immediately contacted Kazuo Washino, former Sacramento Nisei now living in Bakersfield.

"He found her in a hospital there and we were much relieved to learn that she was safe," Mrs. Sato said.

"He found her in a hospital there and we were much relieved to learn that she was safe," Mrs. Sato said.

They learned that she was in one of the coaches which turned over on its side after the crash. The passengers were all trapped inside, but someone broke a window, enabling the survivors to crawl out to safety.

Santa Fe said there were 76 passengers and 15 crewmen. Sixty-five were injured and 14 killed.

Judge Aiso conferred honorary Doctor of Laws

ORANGE.—Hon. John F. Aiso, superior court judge in Los Angeles County, was conferred the honorary doctor of laws degree by Chapman College last week at its Founder's Day banquet at Disneyland Hotel.

The first mainland Nisei jurist spoke on the subject, "Towards Purpose and Destiny", pointing out that greater emphasis on the moral and spiritual values in contemporary life is needed.

Judge Aiso, a graduate of Brown University and Harvard Law School, was honored by his Alma Mater here 10 years ago when Brown conferred an honorary Master of Arts degree. It was the only honorary title conferred by the university away from its campus since 1768.

Newsman who sent to U.S. first story of 442nd in combat addresses Monterey JACL

MONTEREY.—Paul Ichijui is the new president of the Monterey Peninsula chapter of the Japanese American Citizens League. He was installed with the 1960 cabinet of officers at impressive ceremonies Feb. 28 at a dinner at the Spin-drift restaurant.

Edward Kennedy, assistant publisher of The Herald, told of his experiences while accompanying President Eisenhower on his goodwill tour of 13 countries.

Kennedy recalled that as a war correspondent in 1943 he had written the first dispatch to be published in America about the 442nd combat team, composed of Japanese Americans, when it went into action against German forces in Italy, acquitting itself with distinction.

"I know that some of you were there," he said. "Little did I dream then that 17 years later I would be speaking to you."

Kennedy said anyone having a Japanese American family as neighbors could count on three things: a handsome garden, tranquil home life and well-behaved and respectful children.

TOKYO.—Japanese color television may be the next item from that country to invade American markets. A spokesman for one of Japan's leading TV manufacturers said Feb. 26, "If we receive orders from abroad, I think we can bring our color TV price down to about $300 in the not too distant future."

The cheapest color TV set sold by American companies lists at $495. However, some distributors offer up to $200 for trade-ins of black-and-white TV sets on higher-priced color models.

CHAPTER MEMO OF THE WEEK:

JACL Future Topic of Forum

By Dave Aoki, Long Beach-Harbor District JACL

Long Beach

"The Role of the local JACL in the Community" will be the topic of discussion for the forum to be held at the first general meeting of 1960 of the Long Beach-Harbor District Chapter, winner of the 1959 "Chapter of the Year" PSWDC Award, announces General Chairman George N. Nakamura. The meeting is to be held from 7:30 p.m. on Saturday, March 19, at the Long Beach Community Center.

This enlightening forum will consist of a ten-member panel with Arthur Noda, a board member, officiating as the moderator. The panelists, all local leaders are Kojiro Kawauchi, Minezo Miyagishi, Mrs. G. Yomogida, Miss Y. Sell, Mrs. J. Odama, Mr. Kay Saito, Kenji Uyeno, Lloyd Nakatani, Frank Takahashi, and Fred Ikeguchi.

Many aspects of considerable interest concerning the modes and means by which JACL has and can live up to its slogan, "For Better Americans in a Greater America", will be discussed.

Perhaps you have thought "Just what is JACL? What does it do for me? What am I doing for it? In what way does it affect me?" All of these questions and many more will be enmeshed into a huge melting pot by these leading citizens of Long Beach Community. As these questions boil for a while, the moderator will ask the panel whether "the questions are well done, overcooked; are the necessary ingredients still in their raw stages?"

Perhaps at a later date, many of us will be served from this huge melting pot and then we can decide whether it was well-done; perhaps each of us may learn the recipe for better living, brotherhood, and good citizenship through our role in our community as a member of the JACL. Ask yourselves this one small question, "What am I doing, or what have I done for my community?"

Preceding the forum, a short business meeting will be chaired by the Board of Director Chairman Dr. John Kashiwabara, who will introduce the members of the 1960 Board of Directors. At this time, the 1960 Pacific Southwest District Council "Chapter of the Year" award will be formally presented to the chapter, winner for three straight years.

Chapter Board of Directors

Dr. John Kashiwabara, chmn.; Jim Okita, admin. v.c.; Frank Sugiyama, exec. v.c.; Dr. Itaru Ishida, treas.; Dr. Katsunai Izumi, rec. sec.; Mrs. Ruby Mio, corr. sec.; Roy Shiba, 1009 Club; Sumi and Kiyo Anne Fujimoto, membership; Cabby Susumu Iwasaki, Arthur Noda, Hiro Morita, Kazuo Takade, program; George Iseri, youth; Dave Aoki, publicity; Dr. David Mira, public relations; Sam Ichikawa, historian; Frances Ishii, Easy Fujimoto, bulletin; James Hayashi, supply; John Tachihara, George Nakamura, Allan Kobata, members-at-large; Hi-Co representatives—Ken Nishino, pres., Lloyd Nakatani, past pres.

Program chairman Cabby Iwasaki announces the following schedule of events for the year as prepared by his committee:

March 19—Forum-general meeting, Comm. Ctr.; April 16—"Oriental Fantasy" Dance, C.C.; May 21—Parents' Night, C.C.; June 18—Graduation Dance, C.C.; June 25—Coronation Ball; July 16—Beachcomber's Party (tentative) Royal Palms Grove; July 24—Harbor District Picnic, Recreation Park; Sept. 3—Carnival, C.C.; Sept. 17—General Meeting, C.C.; Oct. 15—Sadie Hawkins Dance, C.C.; Nov. 12—Baseball Awards Night, C.C.; Nov. 25—Basketball Tourney Awards Dance, C.C.; Dec. 10—Installation of Officers; Dec. 17—Christmas Party, C.C.; Jan. 1—New Year's Dance, C.C.

Hi-Co Schedules Forum on Religion

The Harbor Hi-Co youth group also plans a forum for its meeting this month, Mar. 26, from 7 to 11 p.m., on "Religion" at Grosinger's Drive-In Restaurant on the corner of Santa Fe Ave. and Pacific Coast Hwy. Dinner will be served from 7, the forum at 8, and a social hour from 10. Youth chairman Lloyd Nakatani will be in charge.

Serving on the panel will be a sociologist, a philosopher, a Christian minister and a Buddhist minister. The meeting is open to all local area youth, clubs and interested adults.

Some of the questions being anticipated include:

How do you define religion? What is the purpose of religion in the individual, in civilization? Is religion absolute of subjective? Why does man believe in the supernatural? What does an atheist substitute for God? What kind of a person believes in God? Is fear of punishment necessary in religion? Will science ever refute religion? Is man's faith in religion growing? Will there ever be a future without religion?

Certainly everyone should attend that possibly can for these are among the infinite number of questions so many wonder about and each involves everyone's life. Do not let your doubts stalemate your thinking, attend the forum and widen your scope of understanding toward religion.

Merriment spotlights Mt. Olympus JACL program honoring parent generation

MURRAY, Utah. — Mt. Olympus JACL honored the Issei in this area at their annual "Issei Appreciation Night" on Feb. 26, at the South Salt Lake City Recreation Hall. Each year the chapter makes a special effort to make this event a happy and enjoyable one for the Issei.

Issei in attendance and Nisei present to honor them were numerous, and the hall was filled with congeniality and laughter throughout the evening, but especially during the special awards presentation which featured gifts for the eldest Issei (83 years of age), the youngest Issei (54 years of age), the one with the shiniest bald spot, the tallest, the one with the largest shoe size (8½), the one with the most grandchildren (23), the whitest hair, the blackest hair, the heaviest, and the one with the most teeth (his own).

Among those receiving gifts were Mr. M. Cheba, Mrs. Jin Namba, Mrs. K. Okubo, Mr. T. Shimizu, Mr. T. Mayeda, Reverend C. Furuta, Mr. J. Tamura, and Mrs. Miyagishima.

Chinese American named chapter membership head

SALT LAKE CITY.—Al B. Ju, son-in-law of Salt Lake JACL president Henry Kasai, was elected first vice-president in charge of membership of the local JACL, succeeding James Konishi whose resignation for personal reasons was accepted.

Ju is the first JACler here of Chinese descent to hold office. Konishi will remain on the executive board as member.

Each board member is serving as team captain for the membership canvass, underway with "600 for '60" as theme of the drive scheduled to end by Apr. 1.

Gilroy JACL picnic date set for Apr. 10

GILROY.—Moose Kunimura, Gilroy JACL president, will be chairman of the Gilroy JACL picnic at Uvas on Sunday, Apr. 10, it was announced. Festivities will start from 10 a.m.

The chapter also decided to hold a memorial service on Saturday, May 28, and a barbecue outing for local graduates on Saturday, June 18.

SPEAKER ON FAMILY PROBLEMS SCHEDULED

SALT LAKE CITY.—Mrs. Imogene W. King, executive director of the Salt Lake Family Service Society, will be the guest speaker of the Salt Lake JACL Auxiliary meeting Mar. 25 at the home of Mrs. Alice Kasai.

Her talk will cover problems in the family, personal relationships and social adjustment.

drift wood with autumn leaves and Japanese fans and delightful favors reminiscent of the Japanese Kokeshi dolls with sequins and pearls on colorful kimonos and gay parasols held aloft decorated each table.

A delicious combination dinner of chowmein, shrimps, rice and Japanese salad followed by a variety of colorful manju was served prior to the showing of the film "Go For Broke" and a short subject on Hawaii. At intermission, tea cakes and tea were served.

Committeemen

Each member of the chapter gave unstintingly of time and effort to make the evening a success, but special recognition is given to the various committees and chairmen in charge of organizing this event.

Mrs. Dan Oniki, Ted Izaki, Tosh Iwamoto, Matt Tateoka, co-chmn.; Miri Matsumori, Maydelle Kawahigashi, Tomio Mitsunaga, ent.; Ted Izaki, Tosh Iwamoto, arr.; Joanne Sueoka, Lillian Sueoka, Patricia Kiyoguchi, centerpieces and favors; Mrs. Thomas Akagi, Tomi Tamura, reception; Mmes. Frank Yoshimura, Shigeki Ushio, Yukus Inouye, Mas Namba, Matt Tateoka, food.

Thomas Akagi, master of ceremonies, conducted the various events and kept a spirit of laughter and fun throughout the evening. All enjoyed the humor and entertainment as presented.

No single evening could in any way or manner express the appreciation and respect the Nisei have for the Issei and the wonderful manner in which they have pioneered in America and established themselves and their families with a spirit inspiring to behold.

"Issei Appreciation Night" is only one night in which the chapter members try to express their affection and respect.

- S—Seeking to learn and understand
- S—Steadfast in the face of trial
- E—Encouraging others in things worthwhile

World travelers to speak at Salinas JACL meeting

SALINAS. — Two teachers of El Sausal Jr. High who toured the world last summer will tell of their trip with slides at the next Salinas Valley JACL meeting at Lincoln Ave. Presbyterian Church gym on Mar. 16, 7 p.m.

Kiyo Hirano, chapter president, will conduct a brief business meeting before the talks by Alice Dawson, music teacher, and Patricia Rieper, foreign language teacher. The two globe girdlers met a former Salinas resident, a Mr. Kondo, who founded a girl's school in Moji. Henry Hibino is program chairman for the evening.

Placer County JACL community picnic slated Apr. 24

PENRYN.—Placer County JACL's 12th annual county-wide community picnic has been set for Sunday, Apr. 24, at the chapter's recreation park located by the Penryn exit off the new Highway 40 freeway, announced George Makimoto, general chairman of the picnic committee.

Co-chairman Frank Kageta will assist in making general arrangements, while Jeanne Nakagawa will serve as committee secretary.

As in past years major portion of the day's program will be devoted to a variety of children and teenage activities. However, there will be plenty of adult events to take care of participants of all age groups, promised George Nishikawa and Ted Fujii, co-chairman of events committee. In addition, a series of surprise events will be presented under the direction of Howard Nakae and Harry Hirakawa, special events co-chairmen.

All participants finishing in win-place-show positions will have their efforts amply rewarded with valuable prizes, stated George Hirakawa and Ellen Kubo, finance and prize committee co-chairmen. There will also be plenty of lesser prizes on hand so that nobody will go away empty handed.

Drawing for special prizes to be held under the co-chairmanship of Bunny Nakagawa and Hugo Nishimoto is slated to be the last event of the day.

For those wishing less strenuous picnic activity, there will be several game booths, according to Dick Nishimura and Ted Uyeda, concession committee co-chairmen.

Placer Jr. JACL will again take over the operation of shaved ice and soft drinks stands to augment its treasury to finance its activities for the year.

Boy Scout troops from Penryn and Loomis areas will handle public safety and traffic control duties under the supervision of Mack Tsujimoto and Jack Yokote. And first aid station will be maintained by Harry Sands.

In the evening there will be an Issei entertainment program presented at the Placer Buddhist hall at Penryn featuring first run Itow, Issei program chairman. He will be assisted by Frank Hata and Kelvin Mitani.

Co-chairmen of other committees are as follows: Kay Takemoto and Dick Nagaoka, program booklet; Jack Shinkawa and Muneo Masaki, arr.; James Uyeda and Joe Kageta, starters and judges; James Makimoto, booth; Tom Miyamoto and Bob Kozaike, refre.; and Homer Takahashi and Roy Yoshida, pub.

West L.A. Auxiliary outlines calendar

A full calendar of events was discussed at the last meeting of the West Los Angeles JACL Auxiliary, presided by Mrs. Kiyoshi Sonoda, at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Harold Harada.

The Auxiliary will participate again in the door-to-door drive for the American Cancer Society in April with Mmes. Sueo Hirashima and Frank Kishi as co-chairmen. More volunteers are to be recruited to widen the local coverage.

In early June, a visit with Issei senior citizens at Rancho Los Amigos has been planned.

The Auxiliary will also help select the West Los Angeles queen candidate for the 1960 Nisei Week Festival. Mrs. Sidney Nakanishi is in charge.

At the February meeting, Miye Yoshimori and Suki Ueno treated members to two travelogues. Miye showed her colorful slides of her trip to Japan with lively anecdotes, while Suki, who returned from her second trip to Europe, showed slides of her visit to Moscow and Leningrad in August, 1959.

The Auxiliary meets on the third Mondays of each month. Santa Monica Bay area women are invited to attend the next meeting, Mar. 21, 8 p.m., at the home of Maj. and Mrs. George Kanegai.

San Francisco

1960 BOWLING—The Denver National Tournament Committee, headed by John Sakayama and composed of members of the Mile-Hi JACL and the Denver Nisei Bowling Association, did a beautiful job in running and hosting our 14th National JACL Bowling Championships. The fact that the Tournament was not as large as those held on the west coast resulted in a closer and friendlier atmosphere, but the competition was just as spirited as in any previous National.

The Mile-Hi bowlers dominated the top prizes, even to winning the three ball-bag-shoes kit donated as door prizes by AMF Pinspotters, Inc. . . . Mats Ito, 1959 women's sweepstakes champion, continued her superior bowling to emerge as the bright star of the Tournament by taking the women's all events, singles, and teaming with Hal Sogi of Hawaii for the mixed doubles crown . . . Los Angeles bowlers took the remaining events with the exception of the men's sweepstakes where Dixon Ikeda upheld Northern California with his smooth and steady shooting.

As expected, the Holiday Bowl girls attracted the most attention in winning the women's team event with a record performance, and Dusty Mizunoue and Beverly Wong were pushed by Mari Matsuzawa and Kayko Harada into the doubles championship. Judy Sakata flashed her best form in coming back in the final three games of the four game sweepstakes for 665 after a slow 157 start, eclipsing her own sweepstakes record by nine pins established in 1957 . . . For a while it looked like Dorothy Andrade of Hawaii would come out on top with a big 269 third game, the highest in the Tournament.

Shun Nakayama chose the right time to win his second National Tournament all events title. In 1951, the only previous tournament when a gold watch was presented to the all events winner by the Eddy Co. of Los Angeles, Shun came through, and now he has a second gold watch from AMF Pinspotters.

Granada Fish Co. team had to come from behind to pass up Hawaii No. 2 which posted a 2931 in a previous squad as well as overtake San Jose NBA going in with 1968 and the 300 Roughriders team from San Francisco with a two game total of 1957. Granada's two game total stood at 1918.

Asa Yonemura, Co-chairman of our next Tournament in San Jose, banged out a nice 251 to win a lucrative high game pot in the last singles squad.

Sho, Torigoe, our Advisory Board member from Hawaii who has been doing a superb job in promoting our Tournament in the Islands, must have been affected this year by all the responsibility of bringing the Hawaii bowlers. First he forgot to include himself in the singles and the sweepstakes, then got all bawled up as to the time of his doubles—and after hitting a strong 600 in the team event. According to Sho, over 100 bowlers are already signed up for San Jose next year . . . We assure the Hawaii group they will not have to rent topcoats as they did for Denver this year. Our 1961 Tournament will be dedicated to the 50th State and the bowlers from Hawaii.

All the top prizes this year were won by veterans in National JACL Tournament competition, but a goodly number of newcomers were encouraged by winding up in the money in both the grand prize listing as well as squad money. Mtn. Plains 1000 Club Chairman Jim Imatani swore all week he was going to quit bowling, but then ended up in squad money and also high game pot in his final singles game.

Our special thanks and appreciation to AMF Pinspotters, Inc. for taking an interest in our Tournament, for the special trophies and prizes, and especially for making possible the appearance of Ed Lubanski for the exhibition match.

Hootch Okumura did an especially outstanding job on the Tournament Souvenir program booklet. Tournament veterans John Noguchi and Sally Sehara of our National Advisory Board on Bowling were most helpful in helping to guide this year's Tournament.

It has been exactly one year and one week since we held our installation for the 1959 slate of officers and board members. The selection of the 1959 board members proved to be a worthy one. With the aggressive, and yet tactful leadership present throughout the line offices, it drew forth the foremost efforts of each board member in every capacity they were called upon to serve.

Such has been the good fortune of the San Francisco Chapter. A multitude of business matters came before the board during the past year, but with the willingness, and concerted effort of a cooperative board, I can report that much was accomplished.

Now—with most of the major problems arising from the evacuation behind us, the JACL has its first opportunity to devote a substantial portion of its efforts toward programs which will assist the Japanese people in areas other than those concerned with evacuation. In this vein, National Headquarters requested that all chapters embark on a program to assist the Japanese youths in their own communities. In keeping with our national slogan—"For Better Americans in a Greater America"—the program would strive to instill in our youths all of the qualities we hold dear in our heritage and to promote and support even greater opportunities for youth in scholarship, leadership and good citizenship.

Youth Program

The San Francisco chapter, in its endeavor to promote these aims in our own chapter, area formulated a committee to look into the problems confronting our youth group. They were to investigate and determine the area in which the needs and wants of our youth group were void.

Based on this survey would be laid the foundation for the policies governing the program, which would fulfill a need and yet not necessarily duplicate any program already being provided by other community organizations. This survey has been conducted for approximately nine months, and it is nearly to the point where the committee will be able to make a complete report as to their findings.

Scholarship Fund

In keeping with this same policy, the chapter embarked on a program to establish a local scholarship fund. It was decided to establish the "San Francisco JACL Scholarship Fund", which would grant $250 per year to a deserving student.

It was decided to sponsor the showing of Japanese movies as an annual fund raising activity. This year's benefit movie yielded enough to provide the $250 scholarship. The recipient of this year's award was Toyoko Sumida, 17 years old, graduate of Lowell High and her intent is to attend the City College of San Francisco and later transfer to U.C. Her major is in biological science.

The panel of judges who had the difficult task of selecting this year's winner were Dr. Kazuo Togasaki, Yorio Wada, Fred Hoshizawa, Mrs. Edna Shiota, and Mrs. Alice Nishi.

Some of the other programs, which are aimed towards the participation of our youth group, held this year, consisted of the following:

1. San Francisco JACL Olympics—This is the track and field events, which annually draws the cream of the Japanese athletes from throughout the entire state. This year, we had 121 of the top athletes participating.

2. The chapter also sponsored comprised of high school students, to enter the bay area tournament held in Berkeley, which our team proceeded to win.

3. As most of you know—our organization will be holding its 16th biennial convention this June in Sacramento. It is customary to have a queen preside over many of the social functions at these conventions. Therefore, when the call came out for the national queen contest, our chapter went right to work to hold its own contest in order to select a queen to be entered into the national contest.

As mentioned before, the youth group—which our chapter has been endeavoring to formulate—was persuaded to assist us in putting on this function. Due to their efforts and that of the contest committee, a good number of contestants were entered. The selection of the chapter queen was to be made at the "Queen's Extravaganza", held at the Vista Room of the Whitcomb Hotel. With all the lovely contestants, it was difficult to select only one as the queen. However, we were very fortunate in having on our panel of judges: Guy Cherney of radio-TV, Mrs. Lefty O'Doul, Dr. Masako Baba, Frank Ogawa and Bill Matsumoto, who did make the final selection—and a lovely one at that. Having won our chapter queen contest, she went onto the finals held in Monterey, where she was crowned "Miss National JACL". She is none other than our own Miss Linda Yatabe.

International Relations

Another area—in which our local chapter has been quite active—is that of international relations. Although we do not have a specific program in such matters, it has been the policy of our chapter to assist and participate in any local function, which we feel would contribute to the better understanding of the Japanese people.

We also encourage our members to actively participate in civic functions in which the Japanese community is called upon to serve. I would like to mention some of the activities in which our chapter took part during 1959:

1. The Sister City project between San Francisco and Osaka.

2. The Pacific Festival Week, with the assistance of two other organizations in our community, the chapter designed and assembled a float, which we entered in the Festival parade. The float featured a Japanese drum bridge and a torii gate decorated with blossoms and enhanced by a bevy of Nisei girls in colorful kimonos. The float won first prize in the youth parade division.

3. On two separate occasions, our chapter members assisted the Red Cross in packing the thousands of blankets, which were being sent to Japan, under their Japan typhoon relief program.

4. We scheduled the holding of the annual community picnic, which is jointly sponsored with two other community organizations, so that we could host 150 members of the merchant marine training ship, the Kaiho Maru, which was docked in San Francisco on June 28, 1959.

5. We also hosted two dignitaries, who were touring the U.S. under the sponsorship of our State Department. The gentleman was Tadamas Hashimoto, chief of the foreign news section of the Japanese Broadcasting Corp. His purpose was to observe racial discrimination as it exists in the U.S.

The second dignitary was Mrs. Akiko Mori, who has been very instrumental in the movement for woman suffrage in Japan. I understand that this movement is growing very, very rapidly in Japan—much to the dismay of their male counterpart. She had been touring various parts of the U.S. to gain a further insight in ways to further advance the program of woman suffrage in Japan.

6. We are assisting in the coming celebration of commemorating the 100th anniversary of diplomatic service between the U.S. and Japan.

7. We also contributed to help sponsor the attendance of a Boy Scout from Japan to the international jamboree in celebration of the 50th anniversary of the Boy Scouts of America.

International relationship is becoming more and more important with the advent of jet aircrafts, which is making the world smaller and smaller. Undoubtedly, our future programs will include much in this area.

Community Projects

We have also been active at our own community level. Some of these functions are:

1. Staging a political rally together with the Nisei Voters League, which affords the voters as well as the candidates an opportunity to get together and get acquainted.

2. We were one of the community groups which assisted in holding . . .

AND SO TAKUWAN

New York

There was once a Nisei girl with a beautiful face, a flawless figure and impeccable taste (in clothes, I hasten to qualify; her taste in other matters was appalling since her criterion was the price tag). To this catalogue of virtues must be appended a word about her disposition; it was miserable. In this regard she was a carbon copy of most pretty Nisei girls.

She was, in the eyes of Nisei society, quite sophisticated; that is to say, her face was set in lines of permanent disaffection with everything and everybody. Her expression was such that, at any given moment, it could erupt into a snarl. And it must be admitted she snarled well.

She did have one small defect; she was nearly bald. Among her less charitable associates she was known as "The Surly With The Fringe On Top."

Her name, by the way, was Liberty Dollar Maeda. (Explanation of her name is perhaps in order. Her father, as a newly-arrived immigrant, had been much impressed by his discovery that the coin of the realm bore the image of a woman wearing the title "Liberty" on her headband. He had determined then that if he ever had a daughter she would be named "Liberty" in homage to this high priestess of power. "Dollar" was added as an afterthought to avoid ambiguity of reference.) Miss Maeda was very "popular," which, by Nisei definition, means anyone who is a satisfactory butt of gossip.

The chief reason for Miss Maeda's "popularity" was that she was the owner of a successful pickle factory. (The Nisei will tolerate "success" just so long as no one in their immediate circle makes the mistake of attaining this status.) Miss Maeda did not come by her pickling skills accidentally. While at UCLA, she wrote a doctoral dissertation on the subject entitled "Some Notes Regarding the Functional Abnegation and Logical Incommensurability of Brine as the Ultimate Pickling Agent, According to Methods Provided by Carnap and Wittgenstein, With Tentative Inquiries Into the Meaning and Necessity of Pickles Per Se." In the pickling industry this work was referred to as "Some Notes."

Until Miss Maeda's arrival on the scene, all takuwan made in this country was sickly yellow in color. But now, thanks to Miss Maeda, takuwan has a rich amber glow. Among takuwan aficionados the history of takuwan falls into two distinct periods—A.M. and P.M.—Ante Maeda and Post Maeda.

And I believe it is from Miss Maeda's success in turning takuwan into an object of golden joy that we get the phrase "Maeda's Touch."

YASAIMONO

One day some Nisei rutabagas, recent graduates of UCLA, announced to the vegetable kingdom that they no longer wanted to be considered part of the turnip family since they were superior to other turnips.

The turnips, who were mainly Stanford men, were outraged. They felt the rutabagas had pre-empted a piece of snobbery that was uniquely theirs. Shortly thereafter a gang of turnips caught a couple of rutabagas sunning themselves in a field behind a Westwood fruit stand. The Stanford turnips decided to put the rutabagas to a water torture.

An old bucket filled with water was brought out and a fire lit under it. As the rutabagas were about to be shoved into the boiling water, the leader of the turnips said, "We're sorry we have to use such inferior equipment on such superior beings as you two rutabagas. But I hope you'll grant us one request. As you stew away, please spare us the cliché, I don't mind the heat—it's the humidity I can't stand."

The Stanford turnips were about as humble - and hateful - about the whole business as only Stanford men can be. So, as the two rutabagas stewed away, the smaller rutabaga said to his companion: "I don't mind the heat—it's the humidity I can't stand."

Dorothy Andrade of Hawaii had the tourney's high game for both men and women with a sizzling 269 hit in the women's sweepster, stringing eight strikes in a row. Dorothy seemed heading for the singles title with the completion of two games but ran into a little tough luck in her last game with several splits.

Tourney participants and spectators were treated to a special exhibition after the last singles squad featuring Bowler of the Year Ed Lubanski and Judy Sakata against Fuzzy Shimada and Dorothy Andrade to climax a very successful tournament. Incidentally Judy and Ed easily beat a very weary Fuzzy and Dorothy.

SALT LAKE BID FOR 1962 NATIONAL JACL BOWLING TOURNAMENT ACCEPTED

DENVER.—The bid of the Salt Lake City Nisei Bowling Association for the 1962 Tournament was accepted by National JACL Advisory Board on Bowling which met here on Thursday of the Tournament to discuss various matters in connection with the National Tournament.

Hide Nakamura, president of the San Jose Nisei Bowling Association, stated that the dates for the 1961 Tournament at Futurama Bowl in San Jose would be from March 6-11. The tournament will honor Hawaii as the 50th State and the bowlers from Hawaii.

The Board decided to compile tournament rules and regulations which have evolved through the years, rules in addition to the ABC and WIBC Tournament regulations which govern.

Entry fees for the team, doubles and singles, in both men and women's division were raised 25 cents. The individual events will be $6.25 for men and $5.25 for women. In these events the tournament expense amounts were raised from 45 cents to 60 cents in the men's division and from 20 cents to 40 cents in the women's.

The Board also discussed the suggestion of a special award for the combined tournament game scores of veteran bowlers who have participated in 10 National Tournaments and are 40 years of age and over.

Participating in the meeting were Advisory Board members Nobu Asami, Gish Endo, Dr. Jun Kurumada, Sally Sebara, John Noguchi, Joe Tenma, Dubby Tsugawa, Sumi Kamachi, Easy Fujimoto, Sock Koima, Sho Torizog, and National JACL Director Mas Satow. Proxy representatives for absent Advisory Board members were Lois Yut, Ty Kajimoto and Koko Matsuda. Attending by special invitation were Hide Nakamura, San Jose NBA President; Asa Yonemura, co-chairman for the 1961 National Tournament; Bill Kenzie of Hawaii, and John Sakayama, 1960 Tournament Chairman.

Little Dempsey

Seattle

I've had it. There's no avoiding use of the first person personal pronoun in making that statement, but when it comes to relating such an event as this, we just have to give it straight.

Yesterday, a sweet young thing (about 16) offered me her seat in the bus.

The only package that I was carrying, was a box of 500 sheets of 8x10 photographic paper. True, it's the kind of package that is heavier than it would appear to be, and maybe the carrier of same appeared to sag it little too much, or the combination displayed an extra amount of inertia at the high powered stop and go of the trolley coach.

Anyway the determined young lady could not be swayed from her avowed good intentions, and as the Alphonse Gaston act drew the attention of more and more eyes, decided at long last to shut up and sit down and get out of the way and out of sight.

When the bus got to its Frye Hotel stop at 3rd and Yesler and Prefontaine Place, there were two guys with dark glasses and white canes waiting. One we recognized as cauliflower eared "Little Dempsey", a Filipino feather or lightweight of the middle 20's. But he was only there to see his friend to the bus.

The busy driver suggested that someone yield his seat to the white caner. Up jumped ol' uncle Elmer and promptly steered the sightless one to the empty space. Then the teenage chum of the first young lady wanted to give this infirm old slob HER seat. But she was not so purposeful and determined as the first one, so we were able to talk her out of it and started a conversation with the newcomer.

"Wasn't that 'Little Dempsey' who accompanied you to the bus stop?" Yes it was, and the sitter in my seat surmised that I knew him, and how come? Yes, we had seen little Dempsey around Jackson Street and sometimes had the chance to exchange a few words—fact is we first became interested in making the acquaintance of Little D because he was often mistaken for Jimmie Sakamoto, and by some coincidence his ears are scrambled in almost exactly the same pattern.

"What is Little Dempsey's real name?" It's Aurelio, we found out.

"Why did they call him Little Dempsey?" Well, it was because he was such a game aggressive fighter, the fans liked him, and tacked on the monicker of the fighting idol of the day, heavyweight champ Jack Dempsey.

Then followed a discussion of the fight game in the Dempsey era—the first fight in which he lost the title to Tunney in the rain at Philadelphia, the second fight at Chicago, the long count, dates and all. He knew his stuff, my new acquaintance, and he appeared to be an ex-fighter also without too many scars of the trade.

So I introduced myself, and he said that his name is Santos. Why sure, Sammy Santos, onetime Pacific Coast champ or something like that, and contender for the lightweight crown some 30 years ago, and sometimes to this day mentioned by Royal Brougham when he has something to say about how Orientals are especially susceptible to eye injuries in the fight game.

So did Sammy Santos know Jimmie Sakamoto? Oh, why sure, sure—"When I came to Seattle from California in 1931, I met Jimmie for the first time—he was editor and publisher of a newspaper" said he with some admiration and pride that a sightless ex-fighter could do things like that—and he knew all the details of Jimmie's untimely end as if the paper had been read to him only yesterday. Yes, I knew, I told Santos, but by then the bus had arrived at 12th and Jackson and that was the stop where this old relic had to get off.

ment practices at least on government jobs, as well as Title III.

MEANWHILE, THERE IS growing indication that once again Senator Lyndon Johnson (Texas Democrat), who is the Majority Leader, will come up with the compromise measure that will finally be passed, unless the House approved measure is substituted for any Senate bill.

Senator Johnson, it is believed, will come up with a compromise that will protect voting rights essentially, though some other moderate "fringe" benefits might be included in some kind of compromise package. It is known that he is unalterably opposed to the inclusion of Title III in any civil rights measure to be considered at this time.

The biggest show in Washington continues to be the civil rights battle, with the Senate providing more of the dramatics and the suspense than the House. Eventually, though, this corner has the feeling that the House passed bill, or something very much like it, will prevail.

We do not put on all community functions but, we do take an interest in mostly all activities and we do contribute financially to such events as bowling tournaments, baseball teams and ski club which we do not put on ourselves.

And as the grand finale of the year, we held our annual New Year's Eve dance, which again was a very successful event.

ICBM Trophy

As the final fruition for the year 1959, the San Francisco Chapter was again able to achieve the enviable position of having the largest membership of all of the 85 chapters. Having been able to sustain this status in 1958 and again in 1959, the coveted trophy known as the "ICBM Trophy" is ours now to keep.

Throughout this report, I have avoided any attempt to acknowledge the outstanding jobs done by any one person or group of persons, purposely. I feel that the whole hearted cooperation, hard work, and the personal sacrifice of each member of the 1959 Board of Directors under its capable leadership were responsible for this full and successful year. I would like to make one exception,

In behalf of the San Francisco Chapter, I would like to publicly acknowledge and thank our membership chairman who was able to place this chapter in the position of having the largest chapter membership for 1958 and again in 1959. Her feat of achieving this status for two successive years makes it possible for the chapter to retire the coveted "ICBM Trophy". In return for having accomplished this unprecedented achievement, I would like to single out Mrs. Yo Hironaka for special recognition.

In summation, I can honestly say we have had a very busy and successful year. The board should be commended for a job well done.

Civil Rights Showdown

Washington D.C.

AT THIS WRITING, it appears that a final showdown on the civil rights issue for this session of Congress is in the making.

After almost a week of continuous around the clock sessions, which set a record of 125 hours and 31 minutes for "unlimited debate", the Senate recessed for a Sunday breather last Saturday afternoon. But, this past Monday noon, the battle to exhaust one side or another to concede the right of the majority to end debate and to vote on civil rights was resumed.

THE HOUSE YESTERDAY (Thursday) began 15 hours of authorized discussion on a rather mild civil rights bill reported last summer by its Judiciary Committee. According to Capitol observers, this 15 hours allocation is about as long as any they can remember, for the House Rules Committee usually limits debate on even the more controversial issues to four hours, with two hours each to be divided between the Democratic and Republican leadership. For instance, it is recalled that the debate on the Immigration and Nationality (Walter-McCarran) Act of 1952 was limited to four hours and the consideration of the Japanese American Evacuation Claims Act of 1948 to two hours.

This 15 hours limitation, however, can easily be extended into several days by various parliamentary maneuvers, such as roll and quorum calls. Moreover, this over all restriction does not apply to amendments, which are supposed to be limited to five minutes for the proponents and an equal five minutes for the opponents. But, since the number of amendments are not limited and since any member may always move to strike out the last word or sentence in any amendment in order to gain "speaking" time, this could be an almost endless procedure.

As of this writing, it is expected that House consideration of this matter will go over until next week before a bill is finally voted and passed.

WITH HOUSE ACTION expected to be completed soon, once again there is talk that the Senate may substitute the House approved legislation for whatever it may be considering at that time.

Since it is anticipated that the House bill may be quite moderate in its approach, with only provisions for retaining voting records, curbing "hate bombers" of churches and public buildings, resisting school integration orders, and establishing schools for children of military personnel in areas where public schools have been closed to avoid desegregation, and with possibilities for some kind of "voting referees" section to be added by floor amendment, it may be possible to rally enough senators to it to impose cloture.

AS THE FILIBUSTER entered into its second week, Senator Paul Douglas (Illinois Democrat), leader of the strong civil rights advocates, conceded that the Southern opposition, by their well organized speaking schedules and the strategic threat and use of quorum calls at all hours of the morning (and night), was succeeding in exhausting the majority, rather than the minority. And, Senator Richard Russell (Georgia Democrat), leader of the filibustering 18 Southerners, warned that they had "just begun to fight".

Thus, it seems almost certain that the only way in which the Southerners can be forced to relinquish the floor and allow a vote on civil rights is to apply cloture, the parliamentary procedure under which the maximum 67 senators, or two-thirds of those present and voting, may vote to end the prolonged discussion.

AS THE WEEK BEGAN, civil rights advocates admitted that they did not then have the necessary votes to invoke cloture, though Senator Hugh Scott (Pennsylvania Republican) estimated that they were only about ten short of the required total.

A major factor against cloture is that there are some conservative Republicans and Democrats who are opposed to the kind of "meaningful" civil rights endorsed by a bipartisan coalition of urban-city liberals. These New England and Mid-western Republicans and Western Democrats will not vote for cloture so long as they feel that these "stronger" provisions may win out.

A LIKELY TEST vote may be arranged on an amendment to re-insert so-called Title III, which was eliminated in the 1957 Civil Rights Act and which provides authority for the Attorney General to seek injunctions to enforce all of the civil rights of all Americans, into the pending Administration bill that is sponsored by Senator Everett Dirksen (Illinois Republican), who is the GOP leader.

Indeed, there is even some talk that the liberal senators, who number about the same as the hard-core Dixiecrat opposition to civil rights, may engage in their own filibuster and refuse to sign any cloture petition unless the Senate is given the opportunity to vote on "meaningful" civil rights provisions, including not only some form of "voting referees" program but also features assuring recognition of the Supreme Court's decision in desegregating the public schools and statutory authority to the President's Committee to enforce fair employ-

D.C. JACLers study chapter board set-up

WASHINGTON.—The Washington, D.C., JACL is contemplating a board system of chapter administration from 1961, the D.C. News Notes revealed this past week in featuring a lead article by Harry I. Takagi on how it works.

It was noted that chapters in metropolitan areas including Chicago, San Francisco, Cleveland, Philadelphia, New York, Milwaukee and most of the chapters in the Los Angeles area have adopted the board system.

If a board system is to be adopted by the local JACL, constitutional amendments would have to be concluded by September, 1960, Takagi added.

Former congressman Pat Hillings, now chairman of the Los Angeles County Republican Central Committee, will be honored at a reception tonight at the West Los Angeles Buddhist Church in a function co-sponsored by the West L.A. JACL and Japanese Community Council.

Joe Noda, event chairman, said Hillings was being honored "because of his outstanding work in Congress which resulted in fair and just treatment of Japanese American citizens who suffered damages during World War II." Hillings authored the amendment to the Evacuation Claims Act which expedited the claims program.

Japanese artist completes 30-scroll set of Chinese scenes as gift to Columbia

NEW YORK.—A gift of 20 watercolor scrolls, each 40 feet long, the work of noted Japanese artist, Bisen Fukuda, to Columbia University was made last week. These scrolls, with 10 already in possession of the school, completes a set of 30 scrolls that represents 1,200 feet of paintings.

They depict "The China Scene" recreated by the artist after two earlier sets were destroyed, the first by fire, the second by bombardment.

The work represents a labor of more than 21 years, as more than seven years were required to paint each 30-scroll set. The scrolls unroll horizontally, each one in a paulownia wood box, and they show scenes along the Yangtze River.

The presentation to Dr. Grayson Kirk, president of Columbia, was made by Mitsuo Tanaka, Japanese Consul General in New York. Both Fukuda and Tanaka were born in the same region in Japan, and for this reason, the consul general made the presentation personally.

Fukuda was born Sept. 5, 1875, in Yano, Aioi City, Hyogo Prefecture. He studied at the Imperial School of Art in Tokyo. From 1909 to 1912 he traveled through every part of the Chinese mainland, making sketches of what he saw there.

Destroyed in Quake

Back in his studio Fukuda began his painstaking task and completed in 1920 the first set of his "Thirty Scrolls of the China Scene." They were destroyed in the earthquake and fire of 1923. However, a reproduction in book form, consisting of some 800 pages in two volumes, had been published before the earthquake and this was saved.

Undaunted by the loss of his scrolls, Fukuda made a second set of the 1,200 feet of paintings, but these were destroyed by bombardments of Japan in World War II.

The project was untouched for several years after the paintings were destroyed the second time. Meantime, Dr. Hideki Yukawa, the physicist, came to Columbia and in 1949 was awarded the Nobel Prize in Physics.

While here he was hospitalized for a time and had in his hospital room a water color Fukuda had painted for him. President Eisenhower, then president of Columbia, visited Dr. Yukawa at the hospital and expressed his admiration for the painting.

When word of this praise reached Fukuda, then 75 years old, it encouraged him to paint the "Thirty Scrolls of the China Scene" for the third time. When the first 10 scrolls were completed, Fukuda sent them to Columbia and they were presented by Dr. Yukawa to Dr. Kirk, then vice president and acting head of Columbia, in 1951. The two-volume reproduction was included in the gift.

Fukuda announced completion of the remaining 20 scrolls in a recent letter to Dr. Kirk.

"The people of Hyogo Prefecture and my family and I deem it a signal honor that the consummation of a Japanese artist's life work will be preserved for all time in your renowned university," the artist wrote.

"There would be no greater joy than to have this become a permanent bond of friendship between America and Japan."

The artist enclosed a letter from Masaru Sakamoto, governor of Hyogo Prefecture, who said that since the first ten scrolls had been sent to Columbia in 1951, the "painter has been devoting himself to completion of the remaining twenty."

"It is not only he, but also the entire 3,800,000 population of Hyogo Prefecture that wish these paintings by him, which are more or less characteristic of Japanese culture, will be of help in further strengthening friendly relations between Japan and the United States."

On several occasions Fukuda has been honored by special attention of the emperor and members of the Imperial family. His paintings on large sliding doors, which he was commissioned to do in 1924 and 1926, are preserved in two historic temples in Kyoto.
