SEATTLE. - Expo Lodging, Inc. the housing agency for Seattle's Century 21 world's exposition, this week revealed requests for information on lodging are running about 6,000 a week.

"We have sold commitments so far for about 35,000 room nights," Expo Lodging manager Ralph Lee declared. And requests have been heaviest for June, July and August as expected and spread fairly even over the other months. Seattle residents are being asked to rent their extra room or two to accommodate the anticipated influx of summer tourists. Many organizations are asking ticket selling, two campaigns of for block of rooms to handle con-bigotry." Well, I assure you, sir, the world over. Empire Printing Co. By Bill Hosokawa

From the Frying Pan

TIP TO THE MENFOLK - If your favorite newspaper distributes This Week magazine, grab it quick this coming Sunday (Nov. 5). Turn to page 15, and there you will find a story by Willie Snow Ethridge entitled "Madame Butterfly's Beautiful Revenge." Read the story, then be sure to leave This Week, opened to page 15, in some prominent place where your wife won't miss it.

For those of you who don't see This Week, we'll fill you in on some of the details. This is a report by a thoroughly charming southern lady (we met her once a long time ago) who is distressed in a witty way about the large number of American males who scorn American mates and marry Japanese girls. Since 1947, she discovered on a recent trip to Tokyo, more than 46,000 Americans lost their hearts to charming little Japanese women and sealed their love in holy wedlock. A list of these Americans starts with U.S. Ambassador Edwin O. Reischauer and reads like a Who's Who Among Americans in Japan.

Mrs. Ethridge sets out to find what made Japanese women so attractive and came up with a variety of answers. John Randolph, Associated Press chief in Asia, told her: "They are taught from childhood to be cheerful and pleasant." Stuart Griffin, another American newspaperman, said American men like to be pampered and fussed over, that American girls have become too masculine, independent and assertive, and indicated that Japanese girls fill the need.

Mrs. Ethridge's good-natured conclusion: "American girls must change their ways - and quickly . . . They must turn about face. They must look lost, defenseless, alone in the wide, wide world; they must be dependent, weak, destitute, subservient and wait hand and foot on the creature. It won't be easy. I know. I've tried it myself, lo these many years. But after Japan I'm convinced it's the only way."

THE NISEI WOMAN — Discussing the project to write the history of the Japanese in American (See page one), Frank Chuman observed recently that the complete Americanization and acceptance of the Nisei was a dramatic example of democracy in action. In view of Mrs. Ethridge's article, Frank might enlarge (if he dares) his remarks to include the startling difference in the outlook of Issei mothers and their Nisei daughters.

If Japanese women are traditionally subservient, Nisei girls are independent; if their mothers were obedient, their daughters have minds of their own and don't hesitate to speak out; if their mothers waited hand and foot on their male creatures, Nisei husbands make their own breakfasts and slip quietly off to work even as the Joneses next door. This, indeed, is a dramatic example of democracy in action.

I suppose this theme could be expanded on at considerable and bitter length, but it would lead to nothing but bloodshed so let us leave thesubject quickly.

BRIDGE TO THE SUN - We went to see the movie, "Bridge to the Sun" the other night and found it a moving experience despite Time Magazine's characteristically snide comment that it was "kimonotony." Incidentally, has Time's reviewer ever seen a picture he liked?

Oh, sure, some of the scenes were corned up, but that had to be expected. And some of the best parts of the book were left out. But it was a triumph of sorts that the book was recognizable in the picture as a warm and touching story about a very brave, very faithful, very human American woman's marriage to a remarkable Japanese. More than that, it was a strong protest against the insanity of war and a plea for understanding among the world's peoples.

I'm glad the picture was made and I hope it will be seen by many persons in the United States and elsewhere.

won the sweepstakes prize and first place in the community organizations division in the 29th annual Fowler Fall Festval parade last Saturday.

Amy Tokubo, the petite representative of the chapter, was crowned festival queen at the Friday night football game in which the host varsity and jayvees lost to Reedley High, 20-7 and 25-6, respectively.

There were thousands of persons on the curbs of the main business district, witnessing the parade. Many Nisei participated in the parade as members of bands from six Fresno county area high schools. There many Japanese American marchers representing local Brownie, Girl Scouts, 4-H, Cubs and Boy Scout organizations.

The Fowler JACL float depicted a rocket with Dean Hiyama and Ann Hirose in the cockpit. Four beautiful young ladies in kimonoes -Arlene Hashimoto, Janice Yoshimoto, Allen Miyasaki and Claire Kikuta-were also on the float.
