

HENRY KASAI OF SALT LAKE CITY CANDIDATE FOR 'NISEI OF BIENNIIUM'

LOS ANGELES. — Coordinator of the Japanese with the non-Japanese public for the past 50 years and one of the key individuals responsible for repeal of Utah's anti-miscegenation law last year, Henry Y. Kasai, 73, was nominated this week as a "Nisei of the Biennium" candidate by the Salt Lake JACL chapter.

The announcement was made here by Frank E. Chuman, national chairman, JACL recognition committee, who reminded that chapters have until May 15 to name candidates for this coveted honor presented by JACL at its national biennial convention.

The 1963-64 awards will be presented at Detroit, July 4.

Kasai's candidacy has been supported by the Intermountain District Council.

As a valued member of the Great Salt Lake Council of the Boy Scouts of America for the past 25 years, Kasai this year was presented the Silver Beaver Award "for distinguished service to boyhood". He was the first person of Japanese ancestry in the state to be so honored. He was closely related to bringing the famous Japanese cherry trees to the State Capitol grounds as part of the Good Turn between the Boy Scouts of Japan and those of the Great Salt Lake Council.

Naturalized Citizen

Kasai, who was born in Yamashiro, Japan, is a 1913 graduate of Idaho Falls High School and an agent for New York Life Insurance Co. since 1915. An Issei pioneer of Idaho and Utah in his own right, Kasai espoused the Nisei cause even though it was not until 1953 that he was granted his U.S. citizenship and his Americanism formally acknowledged.

In 1937, he successfully lobbied for reduction of alien fishing license fees from $7.50 to $2—the same as for resident citizens—in Utah. In 1949, he succeeded in permitting aliens to hunt with firearms. In 1955, he was responsible for having the Utah legislature amend state fishing and hunting laws affecting aliens as affected by enactment of the Walter-McCarran Act.

Kasai was also instrumental before the war in having the Utah alien land law invalidated, though it was temporarily restored during the war years.

His contributions were recognized in 1947, when he received the Jr. Chamber of Commerce Americanism Award—even though then not an American citizen in fact but in heart. This past year, he was specially recognized by the B'nai B'rith with the Anti-Defamation League Award "for his dedication to translating democratic ideals into a way of life for all Americans in our time".

1960 Chapter President

Today, Kasai continues to serve actively in various community organizations, including the Utah Citizens Organization for Civil Rights, the Univ. of Utah Intercultural Center Japan Society, the JACL, the Optimists, Mayor's Committee on Public Affairs, Utah Wildlife Federation and the Utah Assn. of United Nations.

Kasai assisted in the formation of JACL chapters in Salt Lake and Ogden. He also served as Salt Lake chapter president in 1960, when the group celebrated its 25th anniversary. That same year, the Japanese government honored him for his promotion of U.S.-Japan amity on the occasion of the 100th anniversary of the U.S.-Japan treaty.

He lives at 83 D St., with his wife (nee Alice Iwamoto) and family.

Director's Report: by Masao Satow Fiction Can Be Damaging

San Francisco

Our protest on the particular "Twilight Zone" episode on television reviving the old lies about Pearl Harbor has brought a rather unsatisfactory reply from William Froug, CBS executive producer.

Mr. Froug maintains that "Twilight Zone" is clearly established in the minds of viewers as dealing in the realm of the imagination. Its stories are not only fictitious, but fantastical, unrelated to reality. Surely the American public is sophisticated enough to understand that this episode was presented purely as dramatic entertainment, and would not in any way impugn the honor and integrity of a person or any group of people.

Apparently Mr. Froug is unaware that some of the representations most damaging to Americans of Japanese ancestry have been in the name of "fiction".

SUBORDINATE UNITS TAX EXEMPT

The efforts of JACL National Legal Counsel Bill Marutani, reported in this column in February, to explore the possibility of Chapters being included under the tax exempt status of National JACL, have proved productive. U.S. Internal Revenue Service advises that all our "subordinate units" now qualify under National JACL's tax exemption. This should be helpful to Chapters in setting up their Scholarships and receiving contributions for endowments. Chapters have been sent copies of the official Internal Revenue letter.

NATIONAL COUNCIL DELEGATES

Names of designated Official Delegates to the National Council are slowly dribbling in. With the addition of the following, 17 Chapters have named delegates to date:

Chicago — Mrs. Fred Odonaka
Philadelphia — Mrs. Hiroshi Uye-hara
Sacramento — Martin Miyao
San Francisco — President Eddie Moriguchi, Don Negi
San Jose — President Henry Uyeda, Dr. Tom Taketa, alt. — Elchi Sakayue, Grayson Taketa.

Meanwhile, National Council Memo No. 1 has been sent to all delegates regarding the National JACL Civil Rights Funds. Memo

No. 2 on the Pacific Citizen, and Memo No. 3 on the suggested formulas for the allocation of National budget quotas will follow this week. These memos are designed to point up the specific issues for National Council discussion as concisely as possible.

NISEI DOCUMENTARY

Latest assignment for the forthcoming Nisei documentary on TV was to try to uncover any home made films taken by evacuees during their sojourn in Relocation Centers. We were able to locate eight such reels in the possession of two evacuees, names withheld for obvious reasons, and spent an evening reliving the days way back when. We would appreciate any other leads to such films.

Incidentally, we find a great deal of interest in the Evacuation and postwar resettlement judging from the inquiries we receive especially from Sansei in college. Unfortunately, the best we can do is to supply a selected bibliography except for those within commuting distances of our JACL offices. Some of the inquiries come from sons and daughters of friends and JACLers.

Was a time immediately postwar when National Headquarters handled orders for just about every book on the subjects, but there was no rush for these. "Makes us mad all over again", we were told. Now with their Sansei offspring showing interest, they wish they had copies of these books, all of which are now out of print.

MEETINGS

We do double duty this coming weekend in meeting with the PSW-DC in San Diego on Saturday and coming back the following day to sit in with the NC-WNDC, both in Pre-Convention rallies and discussions. However, even with fast transportation, we will not be able to cover the PNWDC meeting in Spokane scheduled for this same weekend.

Ramifications of the recent grant from Carnegie Corporation will be discussed among other things at the JACL Executive Committee of the Japanese History Project with UCLA the weekend of May 22-24.

Homes builder to address NC-WN pre-confab rally

REDWOOD CITY.—Noted homes builder and staunch supporter of fair housing, Edward Eichler, will address the Northern California-Western Nevada District Council pre-convention rally banquet at Sakura Gardens, Mountain View, this Sunday evening. He is presently chairman of the Univ. of California Study on Community Development and is former chairman of Gov. Brown's special commission on housing.

Eichler will stress the importance of defeating the constitutional amendment initiative to the Rumford Fair Housing Act which, if passed, will repeal all fair housing laws in the State of California.

Registration will begin at 12 noon followed by the business session, presided by John Yasumoto of San Francisco, NC-WNDC Chairman. The business session will be primarily devoted to the issues of the coming election within the State of California and the resolutions and nominations for the National JACL Convention, Detroit, July 1-4.

Following a "coffee-break" at 3:30, the district finals for the National Oratorical Contest will be held. According to District Oratorical Contest Chairman, Frank Hiyauma of Sacramento, five young people will vie for the right to represent the NC-WNDC at the National Oratorical Contest in Detroit, July 1.

Youth Agenda

The Junior JACLers of the Northern California District Youth Council will hold their own business meeting, concurrently with the Seniors, but in a separate session from 1 p.m., presided by Roy Ikeda of San Francisco.

Following the "coffee-break" at 3:30, the youths will join the Seniors at the Oratorical Contest and later at the evening banquet to hear Edward Eichler.

Schedule:

12 - 1 p.m. — Registration
1 - 3:30 p.m. — Business Sessions
3:30 - 4 p.m. — "Coffee-Coke-Break"

He is a member of many committees, among them the League for Industrial Democracy, the Workers Defense League, the National Committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy, the Inter-American Association for Democracy and Freedom, and National Sharecroppers Fund. He is an honorary co-chairman of Iberia Publishing Co. He is a frequent speaker on radio and television programs. The population breakdown, as of Jan. 1, 1964, shows increase of nearly 60,000 Caucasians since 1960 with 260,953, followed by 207,950 Japanese, who comprised the dominant group since 1900. The Caucasian increase was ascribed to the number of servicemen and their families stationed here.

NORMAN THOMAS TO BE HONORED AT 18TH BIENNIAL

JACL to Pay Tribute to Americans Who Supported Nisei in WW2

(Special to the Pacific Citizen)

DETROIT.—Norman Thomas, for half a century a dynamic defender of civil rights and human dignity, will be one of the nationally prominent personalities honored at the Testimonial Banquet of the 18th Biennial National JACL Convention to be held in Detroit, July 1-4.

Thomas was the first American of national stature to publicly question the constitutionality of Evacuation.

"The Testimonial Banquet on Friday, July 3, will pay tribute to Thomas and those like him who fought for the civil rights and human dignity of the Japanese Americans during World War II," said Convention Board Chairman Frank Watanabe. "We owe a great debt of gratitude to these people who dared to speak out in our behalf. We can repay part of this debt by accepting the theme of this year's National JACL Convention: Human Dignity - Our Challenge."

Norman Thomas, noted editor, author, lecturer and respected leader of the Socialists, was born in Marion, Ohio, Nov. 20, 1884, the son of a Presbyterian minister. He was graduated as valedictorian of his class at Princeton, 1905.

After attending Union Theological Seminary, he was ordained and became pastor of East Harlem Church, 1911-18.

He married Frances Violet Stewart in 1910. He has five living children, 15 grandchildren, and three great grandchildren. His two sons were with the American Field Service in Africa during World War II, and when the United States entered the war, his younger son joined the Navy. His wife died in 1947.

Anti-War Stand

During WW I, Norman Thomas took a definite anti-war stand. He founded and edited "The World Tomorrow" and was one of the organizers of the Civil Liberties Bureau which became the American Civil Liberties Union. He joined the Socialist Party because he believed it was the only organization realistically facing the problem of war and the need for economic change.

During the next few years Thomas took part in many battles for free speech and other struggles in support of the rights of workers to organize. In this connection he won several important victories in court for civil liberties.

In World War II, Norman Thomas actively fought for a peace based on the cooperation of free peoples and rejection of both vengeance and imperialism. Since then he has campaigned for world disarmament, with international control and inspection.

He was a candidate for many offices on the Socialist Party ticket including those of the Mayor of New York City and Governor of New York State. He ran for the office of President of the United States six times.

Thomas is chairman of the Post War World Council and of the Labor Research Institute. He is a member of many committees, among them the League for Industrial Democracy, the Workers Defense League, the National Committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy, the Inter-American Association for Democracy and Freedom, and National Sharecroppers Fund. He is an honorary co-chairman of Iberia Publishing Co. He is a frequent speaker on radio and television programs. STATE SEN. PATSY MINK MAY BE FOURTH PROSPECT FOR U.S. HOUSE SEAT

HONOLULU.—State Sen. Patsy Takemoto Mink, 36, may become the fourth announced candidate for a Democratic nomination to Congress late this month, she indicated this week.

Already in the field are Democratic incumbent Rep. Spark M. Matsunaga and State Reps. Walter M. Heen and David McClung.

Though not ready to announce her candidacy for the U.S. House, she has been meeting with friends and supporters to explore the possibilities.

Rep. Thomas C. Gill (D) is leaving a House vacancy with his decision to challenge incumbent Republican Sen. Hiram L. Fong.

Nisei medic chosen Ark. man of year

LITTLE ROCK.—Dr. Masayuki Hara, professor of surgery and head of the Univ. of Arkansas Medical Center's open heart surgery team, was named Arkansas "man of the year" for 1964 in a public poll conducted by the Little Rock newspaper, Arkansas Democrat.

The San Francisco-born Nisei who is also member of the kidney transplant surgical team came to Arkansas in 1949 from Washington Univ. School of Medicine, St. Louis, where he served a four-year research fellowship. He is a graduate of Stanford Univ. Medical School, served internship at San Francisco County Hospital with residencies in St. Louis City Hospital and the Barnard Free Skin and Cancer Hospital, St. Louis.

(He is better known to prewar Nisei sportsfan for his prowess on the basketball court as star center of the powerful Mikado team. His brother Toshichika is now a resident of San Mateo.)

Pension rights for evacuee on ballot

SAN FRANCISCO.—First charter amendment ever prepared for the electorate of aid to a single individual, in this case the Nisei head gardener, will be on the San Francisco city-county ballot as Prop. "D" on June 2, according to the San Francisco JACL.

The amendment would restore to George Tanaka 39 months of pension credits lost while interned during World War II. If approved by the voters, he and other Japanese Americans would not break continuity of their city job for purposes of establishing pension rights.

Tanaka became head gardener at San Francisco General Hospital on May 12, 1924. He was interned April 1, 1942 and released July 1, 1945. Within a month, he was back on the job. Now earning $745 a month, his regaining of internment time would amount to 68 pct. of his salary in pensions.

CAUCASIANS OUTNUMBER OTHER RACES IN HAWAII

HONOLULU.—For the first time, Caucasians are the largest single ethnic group in Hawaii, according to the State Dept. of Planning and Economic Development.

The population breakdown, as of Jan. 1, 1964, shows increase of nearly 60,000 Caucasians since 1960 with 260,953, followed by 207,950 Japanese, who comprised the dominant group since 1900. The Caucasian increase was ascribed to the number of servicemen and their families stationed here.

442ND VETERANS JOIN NAT'L JACL IN MAY 30 RITES

So. Calif. Association
To Lay Wreath at Tomb of Unknowns

WASHINGTON.—The 442nd Veterans Assn. of Southern California will join with the Japanese American Citizens League in the annual wreath laying ceremony May 30, at the Tomb of the Unknowns, it was announced today by Ira Shimazaki, chairman of the JACL Committee for Arlington Cemetery.

The 442nd Veterans will be represented by Toru Hirose, former Los Angeles resident who was a staff sergeant in the 442nd's anti-tank company, in the tribute at Arlington National Cemetery.

Key Kobayashi, D.C. chapter president and veteran of the Military Intelligence Service, will represent National JACL.

Shimazaki also gratefully acknowledged a $130 contribution from the 442nd Veterans to carry on the annual Memorial Day visitations of the graves of 21 Nisei interred at Arlington. The gesture was most timely since committee funds were almost nil, Shimazaki added.

It was revealed that the committee had been operating on donations received from the families of the men interred at Arlington, from individuals and other organizations.

The 442nd group had requested the honor and privilege of participating, Shimazaki said.

San Bruno Rites

SAN FRANCISCO.—The Northern California JACL chapters and the Golden Gate VFW Nisei Memorial Post 9879 again co-sponsor the Memorial Day rites at Golden Gate National Cemetery at San Bruno from 10 a.m.

List of Nisei interred at San Bruno includes 81. The committee requests relatives of any others interred since last Memorial Day to notify National JACL Headquarters so that they can be included among those to be honored.

JACL chapters in Gilroy, Salinas, Salt Lake City, Pocatello and Denver are conducting or co-sponsoring local services in memory of the Nisei war dead.

Pat Okura among welcomers of Crown Prince Akihito

LOS ANGELES.—Prince Akihito and Princess Michiko, enroute to a state visit of Mexico, were welcomed Sunday by some 500 Japanese-Americans as they alighted from a chartered Japan Air Lines flight for an overnight stop here.

Among the dignitaries at the official reception line at the airport were Atty. Gen. Stanley Mosk, Mayor Yorty, Supervisor Warren Dorn, National JACL President Patrick Okura, other civic and diplomatic officials.

(The royal couple are ending their state visit today, stopping over in San Francisco this afternoon and overnight in Honolulu.)

(The JAL non-stop flight from Tokyo to Los Angeles, covering 5,468 miles, was made in a record 9 hr. 46 min. over the Great Circle Route. It marked the longest non-stop flight ever made by a Japanese commercial airliner.)

VFW post elects

LOS ANGELES.—Dwaine M. Monji was elected commander of the VFW Nisei Memorial Post 9934 for the coming year. Installation is slated May 16 at Chalon Mart. The post is celebrating its 15th anniversary.

JACL YOUTH PROGRAM AT CROSSROAD

Tracy, Calif.

I find myself again privileged to communicate with my fellow JACLers as a national officer. On the "eve" of another national convention, I feel a particular obligation to share some concerns with you.

Chief among these concerns is the area of JACL youth program, since this is my assignment as Chairman of the National JACL Youth Commission. At the risk of sounding tiresome, I really believe that we are at the proverbial "crossroad" in this phase of JACL program. We must get our stalled vehicle off the tracks and down one road or another. Or, to dig up another cliché, "fish or cut bait". Why do I feel this way? Let me briefly share some history with you.

The JACL's work in the area of youth program has been marked by occasional moral support on a national level, and scattered and sporadic local and district enthusiasm. However, considerable increase in the latter has been evident over the past several bienniums. This has developed to the point where we now find "pockets" of JACL enthusiasm for strengthening youth programs, and we are being pushed nationally for more support.

As national chairman, I am in agreement with those who feel that JACL cannot assume the role of a national youth agency, nor do I feel it is realistic to do so. However, I do feel a responsibility to point out that the national organization has committed itself to a course of encouraging organized JACL youth groups.

In three districts, this has led to the formation of district youth councils (NCWNYC, IDYC, MDYC).

In other areas we have a mixture of groups, some difficult to really identify. In the PSWDC we have some "Jr. JACL" groups, but we do not have an organized district. In Hi-Co we have a unique group that is not "Jr. JACL", but wishes JACL support, and has its own "indirect" philosophy of using its organization to support JACL membership.

In Portland we have a new "Jr. JACL" group, with considerable enthusiasm, but the extent of other interest in that district is unknown. In the Mountain-Plains area, there has long been an organization roughly similar to Hi-Co, but this district's official position has been that no formal JACL youth program is needed. At the joint EDC-MDC Convention in Cleveland last year, I learned that there is some interest in the EDC, but apparently the extent of that interest was difficult to pin down.

These are only some examples of activity around the country, but there is certainly reason to wonder about the truly "national" aspects of youth, with a full awareness of reality considerations raised by the Youth Commission. Several JACL leaders acted as consultants in discussion groups to give some guidance on these considerations.

Five "national" committees were organized then, charged with the responsibility of doing research and preparing reports on the following areas:

- 1-Purpose and Objectives.
- 2-Program.
- 3-Organization
- 4-Finance.
- 5-Constitution.

The objective of these reports was to expedite national organization at Detroit in 1964.

At the National Youth Commission meeting in Salt Lake City in June of 1963, some reservations and uncertainties about the Seattle mandate were aired. In the final analysis, the youth committee chairmen reconfirmed the mandate to organize nationally, although it was qualified by the terms of this program.

What Happened at Seattle?

In 1962, at the 17th Biennial National Convention, a large number of youth delegates passed a resolution to organize a "National Jr. JACL". The major spark behind this was the Intermountain youth, with support from the Northern California and Midwest groups. This resolution was read before, and approved by, the National Council.

This move was pushed by the caution that they should not rush into it at Detroit, if they were not ready.

How Much National Support was Promised at Seattle?

The National Council approved a biennial allocation of $2,000 for the youth program.

It also approved an annual budget allocation of $10,000 for an

History Project Calls: by Fred Taomae Carnegie Corp.'s Grant

Los Angeles

Recently, JACLers and supporters were gladdened by the $100,000 grant from the Carnegie Corporation for the JACL-UCLA Japanese American Research Project. It was the biggest news in a long time in the history project.

What is not generally known is that it was not the first time a Carnegie foundation has come through for Japanese Americans.

Dr. T. Scott Miyakawa, co-director of the Research Project, revealed that the Carnegie Corporation contributed $40,000 in 1934 toward the research for Dr. Edward K. Strong, Jr.'s "Second Generation Japanese Problem," which has become a classic work on the Nisei in America of that time.

Dr. Miyakawa praised the foundation founded by Andrew Carnegie for giving such a substantial grant for a work in race and ethnic relations.

"For some reason, some leading social scientists have in the past felt that race relations has not been popular with foundations," he said.

Long-Standing Interest

"But the Carnegie Corporation has long been interested in the problems of newly developing nations and peoples and a major work in that field under Carnegie auspices is Gunnar Myrdal's "An

HONORARIUM DONATED TO LEGIS-LLEGAL FUNDS

DAYTON, O.—Dr. James Taguchi, acting chief of medical service at Veterans Administration Hospital here, recently forwarded a $100 check to the local JACL. It was an honorarium for a course he presented on electrocardiography at Good Samaritan Hospital.

Dr. Taguchi specified that half be given to the National JACL legislative-legal fund and the other half to establish a Dayton JACL legislative-legal fund.

American Dilemma," a sociological summary of the American Negro in the late 1930. That work took six years with 150 people working on it and was published in 1944.

"Since the corporation has been concentrating on educational and overseas problems, the decision of its officers to advance $100,000 from its very limited unallocated funds is doubly appreciated," Dr. Miyakawa said.

"It might be of interest to Nisei to know that much of the high school Japanese and Chinese language program in Los Angeles is part of the overall Carnegie plan. Also at Seton Hall University in New Jersey, a language program for high school teachers has been offered for the past several years.

"Many important studies of Japan were made possible through the financial help of the Carnegie foundations," Miyakawa stated.

"The staff members of the project are grateful, both for making possible the research on important parts of the project and for the recognition of the significance of the contributions and experiences of Issei and Nisei in America.

"It is a challenge to all of us and we will put forth the best we can," Dr. Miyakawa concluded.

Evacuation Story

Attorney Saburo Kido, wartime National JACL president and now the publisher of the Shin Nichibei, said that the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace donated $7,000 during the war to help disseminate facts about the Evacuation.

Kido stated that Dr. Thomas T. Yatabe, a former national president,

ADVERTISING STATISTICS

Last year, the PC scaled the 240 column inch mark of advertising seven times (six during the last half of 1963). This mark represents 40 pct. for a 4-pager or 24 pct. for a 6-pager. This year, we've topped that mark three times—this week being our third.

The Mar. 6 issue with 48 pct. (317 in.) is our all-time high for a 4-pager. The Nov. 25 issue last year with 52 pct. (517 in.) is the all-time high for a 6-pager.

Ordinarily, we wouldn't hesitate adding two more pages whenever this mark is reached. Yet subscription income isn't carrying its share of the PC financial load (we estimate a $4,200 loss here for 1964). Advertising income must help (and it can, if we average 33 pct. regular advertising during 1964 and repeat last year's Holiday Issue effort of about $12,000 gross).

This steady rise in advertising was predicted with increased circulation, due to PC with Membership becoming effective in 1961—a policy spearheaded by Dr. Dave Miura, secretary to the National Board, at the JACL Convention at Sacramento.

If JACLers can be convinced now of paying a penny more per week to meet additional postal charges, it is quite conceivable that there will be more 6-pagers to better accommodate the material we receive as well as add new features and more news. Meanwhile, PC shall continue to promote its advertising program in the firm belief that merchants and businessmen want their message before the eyes of some 50-60 Japanese American readers across the country in the most economical way.

additional staff member, part of whose assignment will be youth service. No determination was ever made of how "part" is defined.

Where Are We Now?

I have often heard the "craving towel" about the limitations of a national committee's effectiveness. I frankly feel that I have been "spinning my wheels", writing memos, columns, etc. most often asking for, or even pleading for, feedback, with little response.

Now, believe it or not, I feel considerably encouraged, even stimulated, by the opportunities I have had to work with our new "Youth Director", Jack Mayeda.

If my information is accurate, the IDYC is coming to Detroit with definite plans for national organization. The MDYC, whose stand I assume through receipt of a copy of Abe Hagiwara's memo to Miss Marilyn Nagano, MDYC Chairman, believes in an ultimate national program. It now feels that more district and local program build-up is needed, and suggests more national service in these areas. I assume that they feel national organization now is premature. The NCWIDYC seems to feel similar to MDYC, but their recommendations will be finalized at a conference in mid-June.

Rewarding Meeting

On May 7, I conferred for several hours with Jack and together we came up with a suggested agenda for a Youth Commission meeting at Detroit. We feel it essential that the Commission and all youth advisers at Detroit meet to be sure that we know where we are going. Only then will we be able to give any guidance to the youth.

Tentatively suggested are reports from the five national committees and discussion, a brief clarifying report on youth programs, from the standpoint of the national JACL, a report by Jack on the possible contributions of a national youth organization (this report will stress program content and will bring in ideas that have not been implemented, as well as Jack's own thoughts), and a discussion on the feasibility of national organization, with two basic considerations—

- 1—The mandate to organize a National Jr. JACL at Seattle—Questions and Uncertainties and
- 2—Submission of tentative suggestions to the youth business meetings.

Youth Council Sessions

From the above meeting, we hope will emerge greater clarity and unity of purpose. The "guts" of the youth sessions, we then feel, may be a further airing along much the same lines of the Youth Commission agenda, but among the youth delegates, and with the benefit of suggestions filtered out of the Commission discussion.

Hopefully, the youth may then chart a realistic course, whether it be for immediate national organization, or otherwise.

Aside from the above, which is the "meat" of the youth convention, we may assume that the initial youth session will deal with the usual routine introductions, reports, etc.

We are also suggesting a panel entitled "Sansei and Civil Rights", which Jack feels would be a logical takeoff from the oratorical theme "JACL & Civil Rights". We are suggesting several outstanding JACLers, and the first three placers in the oratorical contest, as panelists. I think this idea is excellent.

We Need Feedback

By the time this column is in print, the above will be in the hands of all concerned. They are suggestions only, but if there are no additions, criticisms, questions, etc., they will constitute the structure around which the youth business sessions will be planned. We earnestly ask that comments be directed to Jack NOW!!!

The Initiative to Repeal the Rumford Fair Housing Act

This is technically a California issue, but it is in a real sense much more than that. The implications of this Initiative are such that JACL, as a national organization, is obligated to assume a strong leadership role. Steps in this direction are being taken.

May I suggest that this is an excellent chance for our JACL youth to join hands with us in taking on a fight, for which we are all uniquely fitted. JACL chapters with youth groups should make it a point to initiate a partnership with the juniors, through education if necessary, to work up effective community campaigns among the Japanese group in particular, to help kill this initiative!!!

Northwest Picture: by Elmer Ogawa Pat Suzuki's Coming Back to Town

Seattle It is good news that now comes up to brighten the summer evenings during the Nisei Vets Reunion and Seafair.

Pat Suzuki has been signed to headline this year's all new Aqua Folies show at the Green Lake Aqua Theater July 30 through Aug. 12. All the more reason for the hundreds of vets and their families to come early and stay late for it will mean to many a first chance to see in person, the vibrant and enchanting Pat.

Walter A. Van Camp, director of Greater Seattle, Inc., in making the announcement also assured fans in this area that they will be seeing a sparkling new Al Sheehan show this year in the lakeside outdoor theater.

Sheehan currently is touring the country in search of outstanding acts to supplement the considerable talents of the little girl with the big voice. The stage show part of the performance will have a completely new look, but the old flavor will be retained in the wonderfully synchronized swimming of the Aqua Darlings and the hilariously funny diving clowns with their surprise acts.

Her 'Hometown'

Although she was born and raised in California, Pat Suzuki calls Seattle her hometown, after getting her first real recognition in show biz at the Colony Club here. Although the story hardly needs retelling, Pat built up a large loyal following of enthusiastic Seattle fans during the 3½ years at the Colony. Now the multitude which was not able to get tables during her sellout nightclub engagement here last September, will find the problem easily solved at the 5,000 seat Aqua Theatre.

The outdoor show bit is not new to Pat. She played in the "Wizard of Oz" at Kansas City's outdoor theater just prior to the "Flower Drum" rehearsals in New York. On opening day at the Seattle Ball Park she brought down the house with her signing of the National Anthem, or at least she was credited with singing the National Anthem "as it was never sung before."

In considering Pat's array of athletic talents, she was the star pitcher when the "Flower Drum" cast beat the socks off the "Susie Wong" cast at softball. With a powerful grip, she can heave a football like slinging Sammy Baugh, and once was accredited with doing a scouting job for the Huskies.

We just missed catching this other act, but we once saw her coming out of the water so thoroughly wet and with a glowing radiance, (just like a pro) at a Cathay Post picnic, and on the theory that it takes one to know one, we just believe that bouncy Pat could even star in the water ballet.

"Aqua Folies" is but one of Greater Seattle's summer shows. It will be preceded by the Bob Hope Show June 24-27 at the New Seattle Coliseum on the Fair Grounds, now called Seattle Center, and the "West Side Story" July 9-15 at the Opera House in Seattle Center.

Watering Down Rights Bill?

BY AKI SANO

(Mike Masaoka is on a business trip in Japan.)

WASHINGTON. — Passage of the Mansfield - Dirksen jury trial amendment is eminent and may signal the beginning of other "compromises" to the pending civil rights bill currently in the Senate. Under this amendment, the judge would have the discretion to authorize a jury trial in all criminal contempt cases arising under the bill. If the accused were tried without jury, the judge would be limited in the penalties he could impose to 30 days in jail or a fine of $300.

Shortly before the Senate's debate of the Mansfield-Dirksen amendment, a series of meetings were held which could determine the final content and outcome of the civil rights bill as passed by the Senate. These meetings were held between Senate leaders and Justice Department officials to discuss Senator Everett Dirksen's amendments to the bill's Fair Employment Practices provisions.

Present at these meetings were: Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy, Deputy Atty. Gen. Nicholas DeB. Katzenbach, Asst. Atty. Gen. Burke Marshall, Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, Minority Whip Hubert Humphrey, Minority Whip Thomas Kuchel, Senate Republican Conference Chmn. Leverett Saltonstall, Senate Republican Policy Committee Chmn. Bourke Hickenlooper, Sen. Warren G. Magnuson (D-Wash.), Sen. George Aiken (R-Vt.) and Sen. Dirksen (R-Ill.).

Other meetings will be held among these individuals to further discuss Senator Dirksen's FEPC amendments and his amendments to the so-called public accommodations provisions in the pending Senate bill.

At these meetings, approximately 40 of Senator Dirksen's amendments have been discussed and analyzed. According to Senator Dirksen, his staff has divided his amendments into three classes—A, B, and C. Category A, consisting of minor technical changes are the least controversial. Those amendments falling in Category C are the ones most vigorously opposed by civil rights groups.

'Acceptable' Changes

Of the few "acceptable" amendments to civil rights groups, including the National Leadership Conference on Civil Rights, of which the JACL is a member, are Senator Dirksen's FEPC amendments which would: redefine "employment agency" in the pending bill to include a labor organization having a hiring hall or hiring office; make available technical studies of the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission to the public; and delete subsection 704(f) of the pending bill. This is the provision added in the House which would allow an employer to refuse to hire or employ any person because of his atheistic practices and beliefs. Presumably most of these amendments fall in Senator Dirksen's category A.

One of the most controversial amendments, presumably falling in category C, relates to the filing of discrimination charges. This amendment causes argument because it involves the basic question of enforcement in the FEPC section. Under the House-passed bill, the Federal Commission on Equal Employment Opportunity could sue on behalf of an aggrieved person after it had failed to persuade an employer or union to cease an alleged discriminatory practice. Under the Dirksen amendment, the aggrieved individual would have to file his own suit. It strikes from the pending bill provisions that would allow charges to be filed "on behalf of" an aggrieved person. The court, however, could give him free counsel and waive the usual legal fees. After filing these charges, if an employer or labor union failed to comply with a court order, at that time, and only then, could the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission proceed on the individual's behalf.

According to most civil rights groups, the net effect of Dirksen's amendment would be that individuals would have to file complaints, unassisted by the Employment Commission or interested organizations.

At the conclusion of the first meeting, Senator Dirksen said that "a good deal of agreement" had been reached. Senator Saltonstall commented that Dirksen's FEPC amendments would "purify" the comparable provisions in the pending bill. Senator Humphrey said that the meeting was an example of the "give and take of the legislative process" and "a finding of a general agreement to make the bill passable".

FEPC Enforcement

There were no comments of a "sellout" by the civil rights groups. Indeed, most groups felt that the Senate "floor managers", Senators Humphrey and Kuchel, would be able to carry the ball for the bill's supporters at these meetings.

Nearly all, including the National Leadership Conference, probably feel that Senator Dirksen must be "appeased" if the necessary votes to impose cloture on the whole bill are to be gotten. Thus far, however, only those amendments, mostly in category A, are "acceptable" and can be used as "compromises" to civil rights supporters.

The National Leadership Conference stated, immediately after these meetings convened, that in any negotiations worked out with Senator Dirksen and the Justice Department, the maximum enforcement machinery in the FEPC section of the pending bill should be kept intact. It was this group's fear that a few of Dirksen's amendments such as the one relating to the filing of discrimination charges would be put in such a form that a compromise might be worked out. Thus, the FEPC provisions, called as the "minimum necessary for enforcement" by the Leadership Conference, would be weakened considerably.

Another disturbing aspect of the current meetings for the Leadership Conference was that the six other "captains" of the bill's seven sections and other more "liberal" Senators were not present. Although Senator Magnuson, a "captain" of the FEPC section, was present, one Leadership Conference official described him as being more on the "periphery" in these proceedings.

Dirksen's leading role in these meetings is an indication of the highly advantageous bargaining position he is in because of his control of moderate Republicans whose votes could mean the imposition of cloture to end debate on the whole bill. Most of these Republicans are on record for some sort of civil rights bill. However, most have some reservations to key sections in the bill, namely, public accommodations, cut-off of Federal aid to state practicing discrimination, and FEPC.

Considered among the fence-sitting Republicans at the moment are Hickenlooper and Jack Miller of Iowa, Saltonstall of Massachusetts, John J. Williams of Delaware, Frank Carlson of Kansas, Roman Hruska and Carl Curtis of Nebraska, Edward Mechem of New Mexico, Len Jordan of Idaho, and Millard Simpson of Wyoming.

With the exception of Senator Carlson, who did not vote, all of these Senators voted in favor of the Administration-opposed jury trial amendment introduced by Thurston Morton, Kentucky Republican. This was the first roll call vote on the pending bill.

Cloture Needed

There is increasing comment in Washington that a civil rights bill will pass the Senate. However, cloture to end debate is needed so that a vote can be taken on the bill. Minority Leader Dirksen and his Republican followers can supply the votes to invoke cloture. What they ask for as the "price" for cloture may probably determine how strong the ultimate bill will be.

The Japanese American Citizens League concurs with the National Leadership Conference on Civil Rights' position that in these meetings concessions are not made "to sacrifice the effectiveness of the bill's seven sections". This is because the pending bill represents "a bare minimum necessary for the protection of individual rights and freedoms".

In view of the fact that the civil rights bill has entered in a crucial period, the Leadership Conference has again issued a call to its members, including JACLers, to wire or write Senators for strong support of the civil rights bill. Particular emphasis should be made with respect to those Senators who voted for the Morton and Cooper jury trial amendments and the "middle of the road" Republican Senators who, at the moment, have in their votes the power to impose cloture.

VOTER REGISTRATION campaign must not be confined to only the JACL members, but to every eligible voter of Japanese ancestry in the entire community.

From the Frying Pan

OUT OF THE SKY — Slightly more than seven hours out of Montreal, nine hours out of Chicago, the Scandinavian Airlines jetliner coasts down out of the morning sky toward the low profile of the island of Zealand, Copenhagen, rain-washed and green with spring, emerges from the mists. Thus started six fascinating days divided almost evenly among Copenhagen, Oslo and Stockholm.

There isn't much of a Nisei angle immediately apparent in these far northern climes other than that Japanese travelers are to be seen frequently, as they seem to be in all parts of the globe.

Larry Tajiri had told me that Dr. Scott Miyakawa's sister, Mrs. Mogens Pockness, was living in a Copenhagen suburb. She had gone to Denmark a decade or so ago on a silver smithing fellowship offered by the famed Georg Jensen jewelry firm, liked the country so well that she married and stayed.

The talk of the Royal Hotel, however, was a shapely Japanese masseuse imported from Tokyo to staff the sauna baths on the top floor. She was so popular—the customers for some reason seemed to prefer her services to those of the muscular male attendants—that I didn't even learn her name.

PROSPERITY — For one whose travels abroad have been confined largely to the less advanced nations, it is something of a shock to visit lands where living standards are so high that the residents don't give much of a hoot about moving to the United States. They have it better.

Copenhagen and Oslo streets are so clean it seems almost a crime to drop even a cigarette butt in the gutter, and Stockholm is only slightly less meticulously kept. I talked to a number of Scandinavians who had visited the United States. Most of them had found New York too huge and dirty, Chicago too huge and dirty, the rest of the country too monstrously large, the people in too great a hurry, the food scarcely up to Scandinavian standards.

Yet the three capitals are having their problems, too, ranging all the way from traffic jams (in Stockholm) to rising car thefts among juveniles (in Copenhagen) to soaring illegitimacy (in all three nations).

Full employment plus a social security system that provides medical and old age care have led to a high level of spending. There seems to be small incentive, or need, to save. Thus the stores are jammed with luxury items—art goods, exquisite jewelry, imported perfumes, Paris fashions, beautifully styled furniture, Swiss watches, and great stacks of food. Pears from Argentina, grapes from Israel, apples from Washington, salami from Italy, and of course wonderful Danish pastry and open-faced sandwiches.

LOOKING TO THE U.S. — If life in America fails to attract the Scandinavians, they are vitally interested in what goes on in Washington, D.C., especially the White House and the Pentagon. Living as they do in the shadow of the Russian Bear, who they find irritating but not particularly to be feared, they realize American policy toward the Iron Curtain countries affects each of them.

"We are so concerned about what America does," one newspaperman told me, "that I feel we should be allowed to vote in your presidential elections." But

PCEEO 4th regional conference slated in Chicago May 22

WASHINGTON.—More than 1,500 community leaders have been invited to attend a Regional Conference on Equal Employment Opportunity to be held at the Sheraton-Chicago Hotel in Chicago on May 22.

Announcement of the conference was made today by Hobart Taylor, Jr., executive vice chairman of the President's Committee on Equal Employment Opportunity.

The one-day conference is being sponsored by the President's Committee, of which President Lyndon B. Johnson has served as chairman since its creation in March, 1961.

Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz will give the keynote address at the conference.

The purpose of the regional meeting is to foster cooperation between minority group leaders and public officials, educators, employers and unions in the development of equal opportunity.

Invitations to the one-day conference have been mailed to key community leaders in five states—Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Minnesota, and Wisconsin.

The President's Committee is charged with insuring equal opportunity in employment by the Federal Government, by government contractors and on federally assisted construction projects. The Committee also has cooperative programs to enlist non-government contractors in voluntary support of the national program.

Similar regional conferences have been held in St. Louis, Detroit, and Los Angeles.

he said nothing about wanting to help pay our taxes.

Young burglary, robbery suspects released in L.A.

LOS ANGELES.—Six youths, including four Japanese Americans, were arrested May 5 by the police on suspicion of robbery and burglary. It was then alleged the group was driving a "rolling arsenal".

All six were released Monday following investigation by the police showing no evidence that they were involved in any robbery or burglary. The previous press reports were in error, according to Atty. Frank F. Chuman, who represented Percy Mori, 18, owner and driver of the car, one of the detained youth.

Police determined that there were no bombs, no burglary tools or lock picks or other paraphernalia of that nature for the crimes for which the six were arrested, Chuman added.

Sansei urged to keep Japanese heritage

PROVO, Utah.—Students of Japanese ancestry were urged here recently not to Americanize themselves out of existence as a distinct and recognizable culture.

Occasion was the first annual conference of Japanese students on the Brigham Young Univ. campus. Speaker was Dr. A. Ray Olpin, Univ. of Utah president.

He told the delegates that while they should concentrate on U.S. citizenship, they should not lose their language and their culture as "many second generation Orientals have done."

He noted it is ironic that many Americans spend time and money to learn another language, while some Japanese Americans gradually lose their valuable native tongue.

"Instead of trying to pretend you are not Oriental, be proud of it, take advantage of the Oriental study program," Dr. Olpin said.

Institute board member
DETROIT.—Wallace K. Kagawa, longtime Detroit JACLer, was named to the International Institute committee on agency building, where his professional architectural skills are "especially valuable," according to executive director Walter T. Frontczak. Kagawa was recently elected to the Institute board of directors.

H. Ohye takes off on transpacific solo

LONG BEACH.—Henry Ohye zoomed skyward in his Piper Comanche last Sunday afternoon in an epic solo flight across the Pacific before 250 friends and well-wishers on hand at the Municipal Airport here. He seeks to become the first Nisei to fly to Japan solo.

Ohye took 2 hrs. 36 min. to fly to Oakland, his first stop. He left for Honolulu later in the week. Depending on weather, the trip will take approximately 15 days with stops at Midway, Wake, Guam, Iwojima and Tokyo.

Atty. George Shibata, West Point graduate and former jet pilot in the Korean War, emceed the take off ceremonies. He called the undertaking "no joy ride" and one "calling for guts." He said that at the 150 mph speed that Ohye will travel, a slight wind can easily take him off course.

Ohye was accompanied by two escort planes, piloted by Jack Nojiri and Henry Kanegae, to Oakland.

College inaugural

LOS ANGELES.—Downtown L.A. 1000er Taro Kawa, owner of Enbun Co., was named personal representative of Dr. Reamer Kline, president of Bard College, New York, at inaugural ceremonies today for Dr. Franklyn A. Johnson as president of the California State College at Los Angeles.

Kawa is a 1944 alumnus of Bard, a liberal arts institution at Annandale-on-the-Hudson.

Makoto Sakamoto defends AAU gymnastic crown

KINGS POINT, N.Y.—Makoto Sakamoto, 17, of Los Angeles successfully defended his all-around men's title in the National AAU gymnastics championships here last Friday. He compiled a total score of 112.95 pts., edging Air Force Lt. Gregor Weiss who had 112.70 pts.

Sakamoto, living in Highland Falls, N.Y., is training under Olympic Coach Tom Maloney of West Point.

Unsanctioned '300'
SALINAS.—Bob Yamamoto, active JACLer, rolled his first perfect 300 game in the Sunday Evening Sweepers at Valley Center Bowl. His non-sanctioned game is eligible for several prizes including a watch and a $50 bond.
