

Tell your Congressman to approve Committee-version of Civil Rights bill now!

WASHINGTON. — By this week-end, it is expected that the House Rules Committee will have cleared the so-called Civil Rights Act of 1964 for floor consideration, amendments, and vote. It may also be the weekend that the long-awaited debate in the House of Representatives will have begun on this historic and vital legislation.

Next week, civil rights will be the all-consuming business of the House, with some tentative votes on some amendments probable.

The final votes, first for recommending the bill to the Judiciary Committee and thereby killing it for another year and second for final passage, are expected on or before Feb. 11.

It appears that there are enough votes to assure the approval of some kind of civil rights bill in the House; therefore, the motion to recommit the measure will probably be defeated by a substantial majority.

The real question that remains is just how meaningful and comprehensive will the bill that the House finally approves be?

Thus, the actual test of whether a particular Congressman is for or against decency and dignity for all Americans will not be on the final vote, or even the motion to recommit; it will be on the various votes on the several amendments to strengthen or weaken the legislation.

And the reason that Feb. 11 is given as the probable date for completing all necessary action in the House on the legislation is the next day, Feb. 12, is Lincoln's Birthday. The Great Emancipator is the acknowledged founder of the Republican Party, and his birth anniversary is the traditional date for the Republicans to remind Americans of the principles and purposes of their political party. It is hardly conceivable that the Republicans will not join with their fellow Representatives in the Democratic Party from outside the States of the Old Confederacy, in the Deep South, in voting out some form of civil rights legislation for subsequent Senate consideration before Feb. 12.

The Civil Rights Bill
At issue is the Civil Rights Bill reported last October by the House Judiciary Committee, which establishes an Equal Employment Opportunity Commission; provides for registration and voting statistions; authorizes the Attorney General of the United States to intervene in private litigation to prevent the denial of the equal protection of the laws to all Americans; speeds up the desegregation of public schools and facilities; makes the Civil Rights Commission a permanent agency; declares that federal funds shall not be used to assist in racially discriminatory projects and programs; establishes an Equal Employment Opportunity Commission; provides for registration and voting statistics; permits removing civil rights cases from state jurisdiction to federal courts; and approves necessary appropriations to be made by the Congress on an annual basis.

JACL believes that this is the absolute minimum that the House of Representatives should approve.

JACL encourages all Congressmen to vote for any and all amendments that will truly strengthen the minimum bill as reported by the House Judiciary Committee, and especially amendments to extend the public accommodations guarantees to all places and establishments that cater to the public, to enlarge the authority of the Attorney General to institute, as well as to intervene, in all cases relating to all the civil rights of all Americans, to expand the power and the duty to enforce fair employment practices, and to include state and local elections with national elections in the voting sections.

INTERMOUNTAIN TO OFFER OWN QUOTA FORMULA

Details to Be Made Known at Mar. 22 Session at Pocatello

SALT LAKE CITY.—Though details were not immediately available, the Intermountain District Council is currently preparing a formula of its own for determining chapter quotas.

Bill Yamauchi, newly appointed IDC 1000 Club chairman, is reviewing the study and will present it at the next IDC quarterly session set for Mar. 22 to be hosted by Pocatello JACL. If found acceptable by the district council, it would then be presented to the National Council meeting July 1-4 at Detroit.

The first IDC quarterly session last Sunday was hosted by Mt. Olympus JACL with Yukus Inouye, chapter president, in charge of arrangements. It was held at the Ramada Inn. Kiyoshi Sakota of Rexburg presided at the meeting.

The IDYC youth group also held their separate meeting and social in conjunction with the senior meeting. Delegates were also guests at the annual meeting-social of the National JACL Credit Union held the previous evening at the Buddhist Church.

IDC Oratoricals

The oratorical contest to select the Intermountain representative in the nationals will be held by the IDYC at the Mar. 22 meeting. The topic is "JACL and Civil Rights".

National Director Mas Satow brought delegates up-to-date on national JACL affairs in his report and also presented some of the problems, such as on finance, bowling tournament, tax status as a non-profit organization, the JACL Story and History Project.

He explained the latest eligibility rule for the JACL National Nisei Bowling Tournament for non-Nisei members, who now must have participated in one of the previous five tournaments between 1959 and 1963. This is to protect the JACL tournaments from being "taken over by hot-shot non-Nisei who become members solely for this purpose".

Other IDC appointments include: Bob Mukai, youth comm.; Alice Kasai, hist.; Frank Yoshimura, PC; Sam Sakaguchi, recog.; Yukus Inouye, chapter of biennial; Seichi Hayashida, History Project; Abe Sato, Nisei of the Biennial; and Bill Yamauchi, 1000 Club.

Bids for future quarterly sessions were approved as follows: Mar. 22—Pocatello; June 21—Snake River; Thanksgiving weekend—Salt Lake City.

In order to coordinate IDC meetings with the youth sessions, it was agreed to start the next meeting on Saturday, Mar. 21, 2 p.m., and adjourn by noon Sunday. This would allow youth ample time to be home by Sunday evening.

History Project Calls: by Fred Taomae Something to Be Said and Done

Los Angeles have been released before many. I know words are written to be read but I would rather have the reader spend the time it takes to read this column in doing what it attempts to get him to do.

In brief, I would rather have the reader take action in preparing a list of Issei residing in his community and also a list of raw materials for the Japanese History Project. These should be sent to:

Dr. T. Scott Miyakawa, Director, Japanese American Research Project, 360 Haines Hall, Univ. of California, Los Angeles 24, Calif.

So rather than reading on, stop this minute and start making up that list. All of the information needed are given above as they many times. Only if you want to refresh your memory on what it's all about should you read on.

Birth of a New Column

This column, to clear the air, was directed by the Japanese History Project Committee to disseminate information to JACL members and the public on the progress, scope and/or accomplishments of the gigantic survey to search for and to document the Issei in America. Past National JACL president Frank Chuman called me one evening to see if I would undertake the task to keep the members informed on a continuing basis. I was directed

San Francisco JACL 'adops' Osaka orphan

SAN FRANCISCO.—Last April, Noboru Miyamoto, a 7-year-old orphan, was enrolled at Kozu School in Osaka. He is one of the many unfortunate children all over the world left without parents or means of support. He lives at Haguaisa Orphanage, supported by state funds.

But last Jan. 15, a new ray of hope entered his life as the San Francisco JACL began to provide him with a monthly sum of $15—not a worldly sum but enough to enable him to secure a little more comfort, a little more dignity and with the thought that someone in this big world cares for him.

The sum will continue, upon annual approval of the JACL board, until Noboru reaches college age. The program was approved by the 1963 board, headed by Tad Ono. The small contribution, the board felt, is giving one unfortunate child an opportunity to become a better citizen of this world. A child in Japan was selected to help cement closer relationship and understanding between the peoples of Japan and those of Japanese ancestry in America. It was only natural that a child be from Osaka because of the sister city ties between San Francisco and Osaka.

Monthly Correspondence

Plans are being made for a program of monthly correspondence with Noboru by a member of the Chapter to be published in the Newsletter.

Any member interested in participating in any way, should call Ben Tsuchimoto, chairman of the project.

Correspondence will also be conducted by the Japanese Language School of San Francisco, 3872 Sacramento St. A class of the same age as Noboru will write to him under the supervision of the instructor, Mrs. Miyeko Hori. A picture of the boy is expected in the first letter from him next month.

The JACL board acknowledged the assistance of Kanoo Kawamura and the Japanese Consulate General for their cooperation and patience in making this project a reality.

The Chapter would be happy to assist any other group or member who may be interested in establishing a similar program.

Membership march

SAN FRANCISCO.—The San Francisco JACL began its 1964 membership drive last week, facing a goal of 1,200 regular members and 120 1000 Club members. Bill Nakahara, Jr., is membership chairman.

Team captains include: Eugene Sasai, Dr. Jerry Osumi, Kinu Abe, Harlan Hayakawa, Sim Seiki, Will Tsukamoto, Don Negi, Yu Itoye, Jim Nishi, Herb Omura, Yo Hironaka, Steve Ihara, James Sasaki, Ben Tsuchimoto, Sat Iwamura, Koji Ozawa, Marie Kurihara.

Chapter dues are: Single $6, couple $9, 1000 Club single $26, 1000 Club couple $30.

Aiming for 600

SALT LAKE CITY.—As of Jan. 19, the Salt Lake JACL membership drive was short of 200 of its 600 goal for 1964. The official campaign will be concluded this week-end.

Credit union members were reminded to have their memberships renewed.

JAPANESE IN L.A. CONFINED BY RACE DISCRIMINATION

JACL Testifies at State Senate Hearing on Race Relations

LOS ANGELES.—Patterns of Japanese American distribution in metropolitan Los Angeles are the result of discrimination rather than choice, according to a JACL spokesman at the Jan. 16-17 hearings of the State Senate Fact Finding Subcommittee on Race Relations and Urban Problems headed by Sen. John Holmdahl (D-Alameda County).

The JACL spokesman was Atty. Wilbur Sato, civil rights committee chairman for the Pacific Southwest District Council.

Sato described how the Issei, as an immigrant group, moved into areas of least resistance from its geographic center in Li'l Tokio to the outlying areas during the past 50 years. He also noted that other Japanese communities have had their origins in fishing, farming and other industries, such as San Pedro, Long Beach, Picoima, Sun Valley and Pasadena.

"Statistics tell us what we already know from history and experience," Sato declared, "that the Japanese population has been confined by discrimination and prejudice to the older areas of the City; that they have not been able to compete in the housing market for homes that are commensurate with their education, social status and economic standing."

Patterns Breaking Up

Sato also reported that the patterns of Japanese concentrations are slowly being dissipated and that persons of Japanese ancestry are finding housing compatible with their individual needs outside of the segregated areas.

He praised the moral stance of government officials and legislators, the good will and sense of justice of all citizens, for the "great strides" toward the heritage of "essential equality and human dignity unfiltered by racially restrictive housing patterns."

"With the passage of the Unruh, Hawkins and Rumford acts, we stand in the field of race relations on the threshold of victory over fear, hate and oppression," Sato added.

Commenting on the California Real Estate Association's initiative to nullify the effects of these Acts, Sato said "it is time that this mischief was at an end." He urged legislators to publicly support the principles of the Rumford Act.

The Holmdahl subcommittee intends to hold later hearings on employment and education for making appropriate recommendations to the 1965 legislature.

Monterey chapter opens gakuen

MONTEREY.—Exceeding expectations of the promoters, the Monterey Peninsula JACL-sponsored Japanese language school opened Jan. 4 with more than 60 students. As of Jan. 18 there were 96 enrolled in classes conducted by the Rev. K. Ueno and Miss Sugamura.

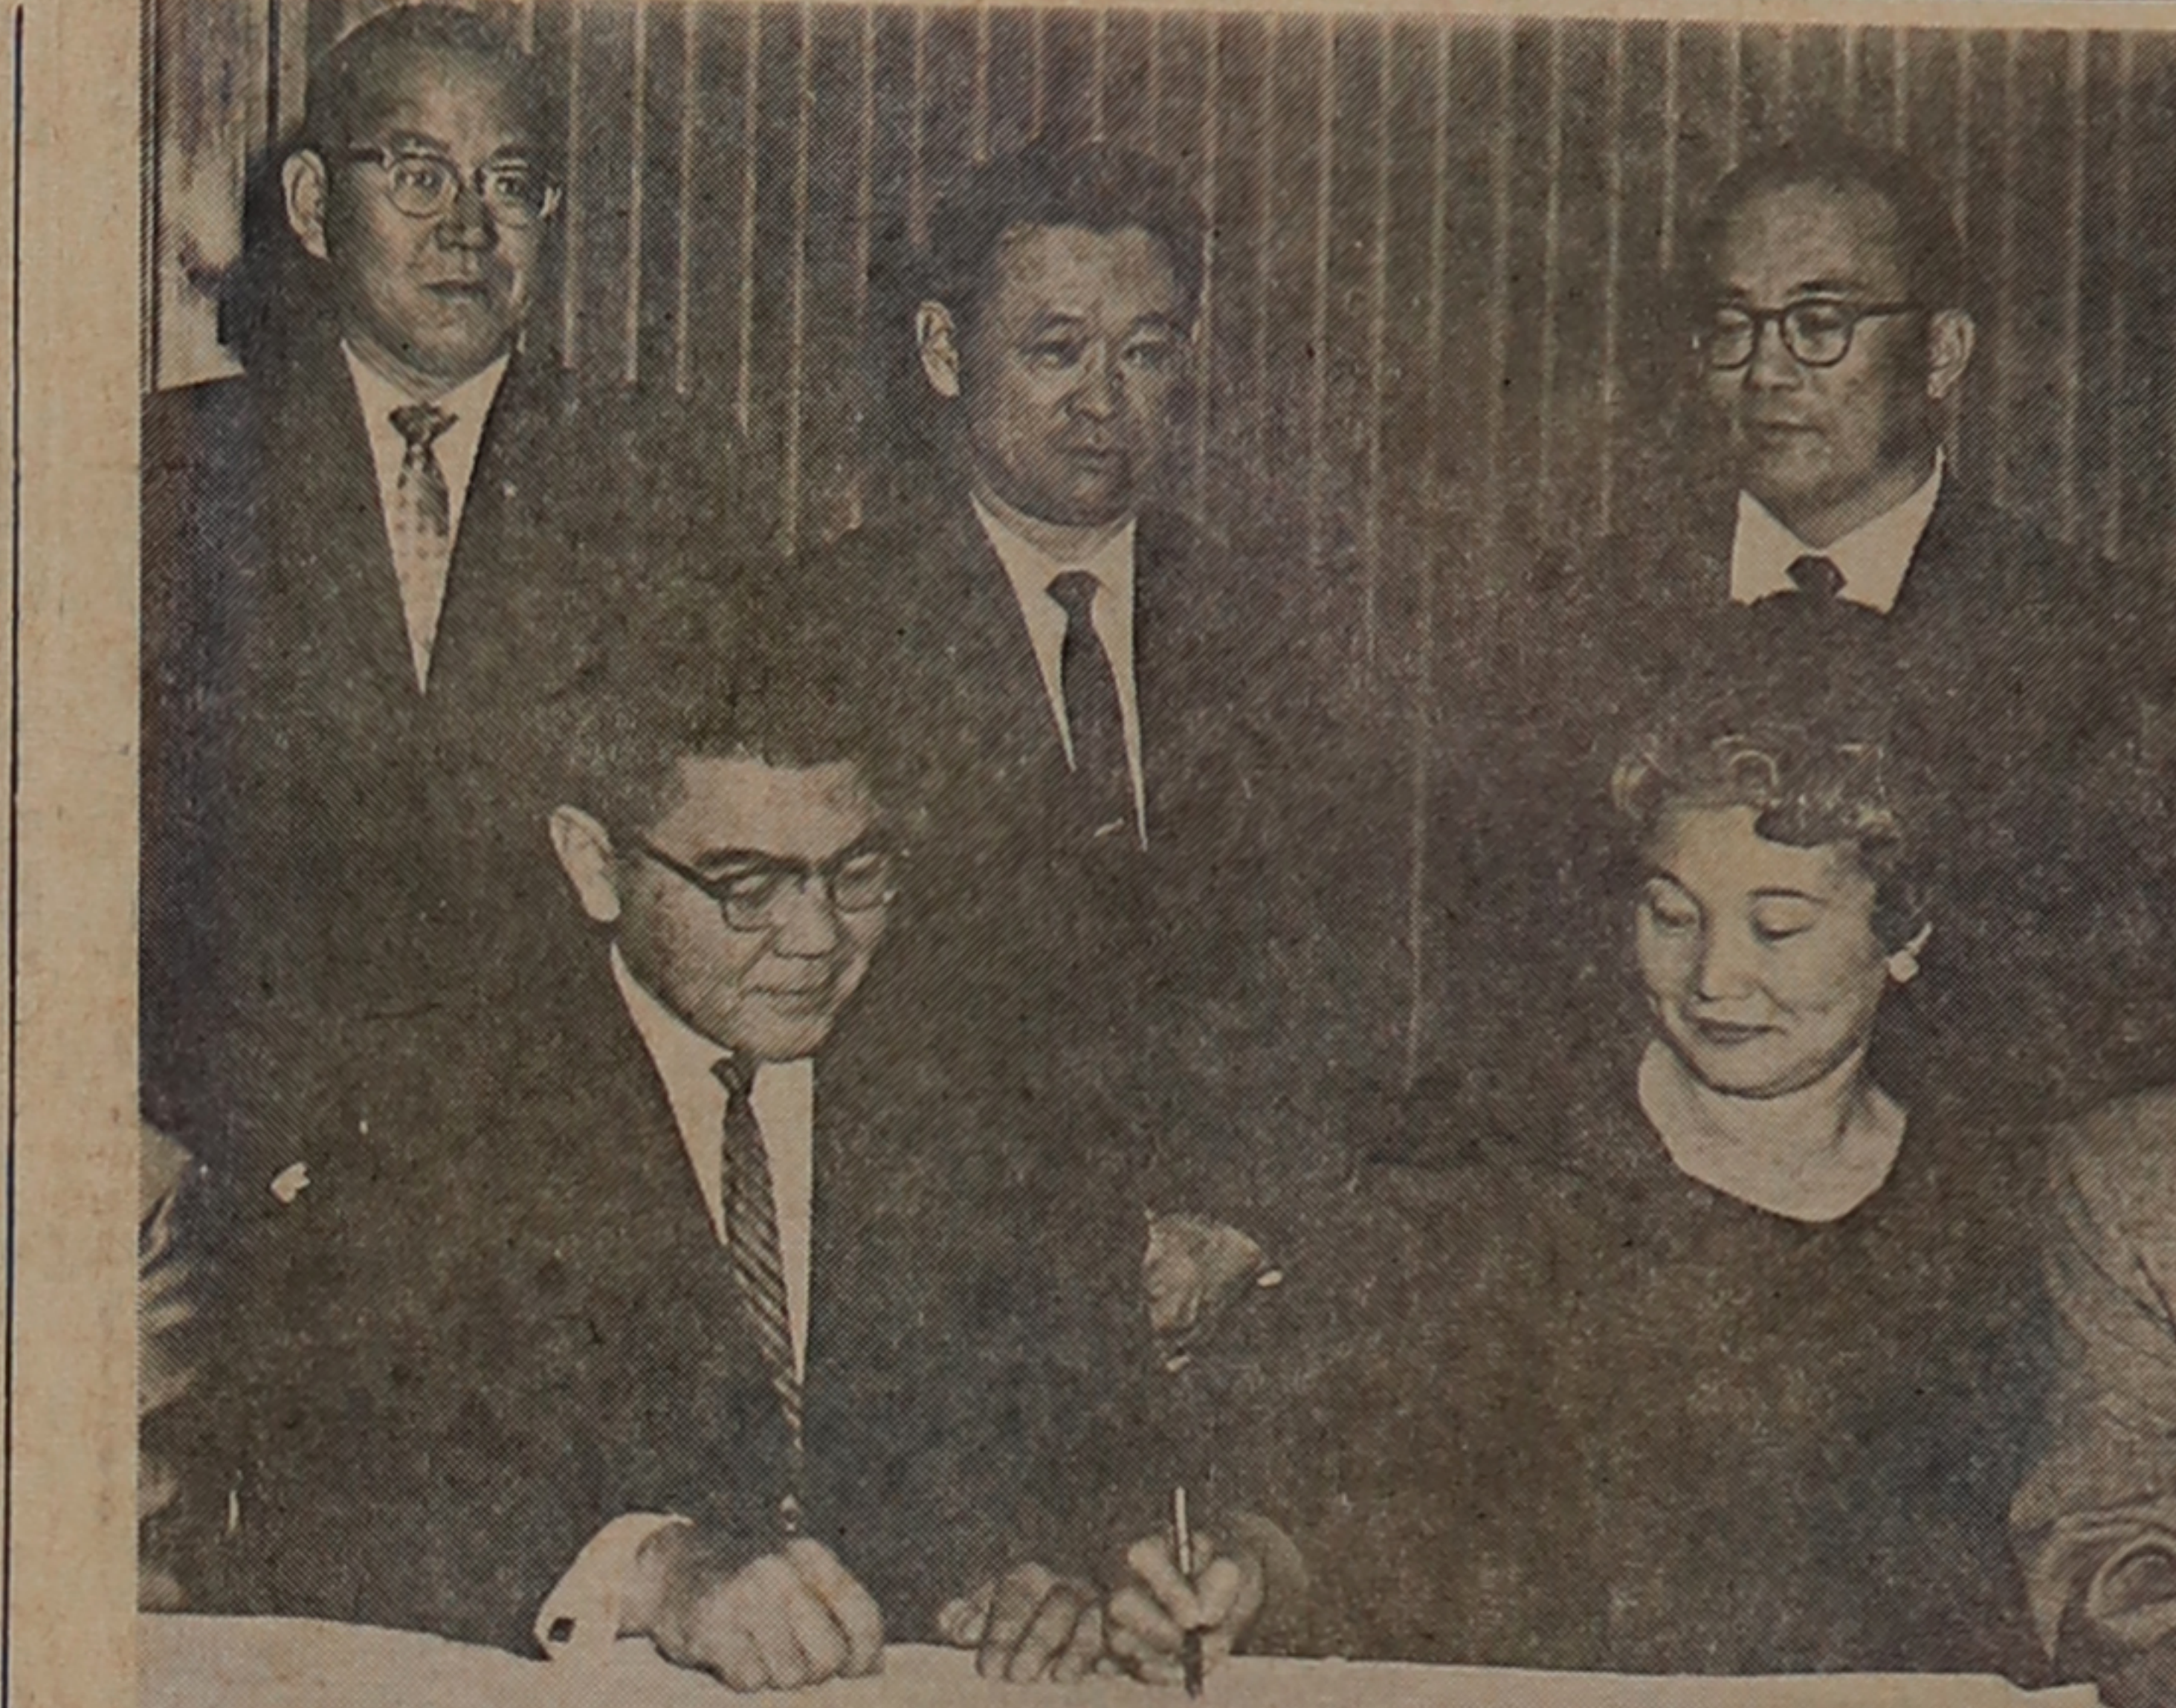

Classes are stressing conversational Japanese as well as the written language.

The non-profit school, under JACL auspices as a community service, is governed by a school board, comprised of:

Gengo Sakamoto, chmn.; James Tabata, treas.; Dr. Clifford Nakajima, sec.; Mrs. Royal Manuko, Mrs. Yoshio Tabata, Otis Kadani and H. Matsuba (JACL adv.).

At its first meeting earlier this month, the board ordered the purchase of 27 chair tables through the Monterey School District and a heater for one of the classrooms.

The board met yesterday to hear from parents of school children and also told them they would be asked from time to time to assist in future projects to improve classroom facilities.

Sheriff lauds law-abiding reputation of Japanese Americans

SALINAS.—A high tribute to the law-abiding reputation of Japanese Americans was paid here by Sheriff Jim Davenport.

A law man for 20 years, Davenport said he couldn't recall ever taking "police action" against a Japanese American youth, other than possible traffic citations for car defects.

"You have a tremendous reputation as citizens in this community," Davenport said at the Jan. 18 installation dinner of the Salinas Valley JACL.

"I'd like to know what your secret is."

Davenport was a speaker at the annual event held at the Hyatt House. David Tatsuno of San Jose, a YMCA official, said that Americans of Japanese descent have come a long way since the grim early days of World War II, when many from the west coast were placed in relocation camps. He was keynote speaker.

"The Nisei has made remarkable progress," he said. He cited appointment of Nisei to judgeships, the space program and other posts.

Tatsuno discussed the interdependence of people in the world of today.

"No man is an island," he said. The sheriff installed Ted Ikemoto as the new chapter president along with the 1964 slate of other officers. He succeeded Tom (Lefty) Miyana.

The recognition committee's award for the year was presented by Kiyo Hirano to James Abe, longtime JACLer and active Buddhist layman.

Councilman Richard Wallace greeted the group on behalf of the city of Salinas.

Outgoing president Miyana in reviewing the past year's accomplishment, lauded Harry Iida and Ted Ikemoto for being instrumental in initiating the Blue Cross hospitalization program to the members.

Dr. Harry Kita gave a report on the 1000 Club and cited the local members in the organization.

Pictorial news coverage of this installation dinner was seen by KSBW (Ch. 8) TV viewers during its regular News Hour Jan. 20.

INITIATIVE TO NULLIFY RUMFORD ACT LIKELY TO QUALIFY AS OVER 644,000 SIGN

FRESNO.—L.H. Wilson, past president of the California Real Estate Assn., was quoted last week by Associated Press that the petition seeking an initiative on the state ballot to repeal the Rumford Housing Act has more than enough signatures to qualify. He said 644,000 signatures have been obtained.

The CREA needs 468,259 signatures of registered voters by Feb. 5 to have the initiative on the ballot. Wilson revealed more than 400,000 have come from Southern California. He hoped there would be 700,000 signatures—to make sure.

Meanwhile results of a California poll on the CREA petition were reported in a copyrighted story by Mervin D. Field appearing in the Los Angeles Times. It shows the public is split—neither side having a majority: 46 pct. disapproving the Rumford Act, 40 pct. approving, 4 pct. qualified, and 10 pct. with no opinion.

By area, Southern Californians are more likely to disapprove the measure, while those in Northern California are more likely to approve, according to the Field survey. It also indicated that those with the highest levels of education supported the Fair Housing Act while those with middle levels more frequently disapproved.

Poll on Initiative

As to the CREA initiative, the Field poll found 41 pct. approving the measure and 40 pct. disapproving. Again the opinion was influenced by the amount of education, those with three years of college or more generally disapproving the measure. Between northern and southern California, there was relatively little difference of opinion: No. Calif.—43 pct. approving, 43 pct. disapproving, 1 pct. qualified, 13 pct. with no opinion. So. Calif.—40 pct. approving, 38 pct. disapproving, 3 pct. qualified, and 19 pct. with no opinion.

The California Committee for Fair Practices (of which JACL is an active member) is spearheading the drive to save the Rumford Act.

The fair housing act was approved by the 1963 legislature and became law last Sept. 20, banning racial and religious discrimination in the sale or rental of some 70 per cent of the state's housing.

Vigorous support for the law and opposition to the CREA petition has been voiced by top government, civic and religious leaders, including the JACL No. Calif. Western Nevada District Council executive board chaired by John Yasumoto of San Francisco.

Proposed Initiative

Among the principal objections to the proposed initiative petition are:

- 1—Since it is in the form of a constitutional amendment, it would not only repeal the Rumford Act but would nullify the earlier Unruh Civil Rights Act and enshrine discrimination in the state's constitution.
- 2—The Fair Housing law is needed and should at least be given a fair trial.
- 3—The initiative would make the seller's rights—and those of the seller's agent—unfairly superior to the rights of the buyer.
- 4—It would grant property owners and their agents alone "absolute discretion" to determine whether the race or religion of a prospective buyer would be acceptable to his neighbors.

NISEI URGED TO BE IN FOREFRONT FIGHTING BIAS

Sen. Fong Addresses Washington, D.C. JACL Installation Fete

(Special to the Pacific Citizen)
WASHINGTON.—U.S. Senator Hiram L. Fong of Hawaii told members and guests of the Washington, D.C. Chapter of the Japanese American Citizens League last Saturday that Americans of Oriental ancestry can be particularly helpful in two very important areas where racial discrimination still exists in America—civil rights and immigration.

"You have demonstrated by your progress in the past that you are capable of great achievements; as individuals and as a group," Fong declared. "You have shown you can overcome handicaps and barriers by hard work and perseverance. You have defeated prejudice; you have conquered discrimination.

"Now you can rise to greater heights by championing the significant causes of our times—civil rights for all, regardless of race, color, or creed; immigration reform that would wipe out racial discrimination in our present laws; and international understanding so that we can build strong and lasting ties with other peoples."

He also encouraged the Nisei to become more active in international affairs through people-to-people contacts in Asia and South America.

"Even as Asia looms large, the South American continent, too, is awakening. Large numbers of Japanese have emigrated to that continent, the largest number—nearly half a million—being located in Brazil. Other Japanese have settled in Argentina, Bolivia, Peru, and Chile," the Senator pointed out.

"Contacts with these people should be made, for they are part of a larger picture of a continent undergoing severe strains and pressures. We need friends in South America, just as much as we need them in Asia."

The occasion was the annual installation banquet of the Chapter, attended by a large group of JACL members, including some members of Chinese ancestry.

School withdraws 'The Golden Road'

LOS ANGELES.—The Los Angeles City Schools has permanently withdrawn from its libraries the book "The Golden Road" by Felix Reisenberg, Jr., the So. Calif. JACL Regional Office was informed today.

The book was withdrawn last October pending the review by the evaluation committee.

The senior high school library book evaluation committee this week recommended against the use of the book, which the JACL found objectionable in parts because it contained some of the lies and rumors impugning the loyalty of Japanese Americans. Everett Chaffee, associate school superintendent, said "those copies which had been previously ordered have been returned to the publishers."

Press Comments:
Facing the Inevitable Changes

Earle R. Vaughan is an apartment owner and member of the executive committee of the Apartment Association of Los Angeles County, which published this article in its publication, "The Apartment Journal" last October.

BY EARLE R. VAUGHAN
On Friday, September 10, 1963, the Rumford "Fair Housing Law" went into effect and will change fundamentally the Apartment House and Tract Owners' overall method of operation. Owners perhaps didn't realize that this was happening. Apart from integration the future never was brighter. Why? Because the inevitable changes bound to take place in the operation of rental property will benefit economically everyone and will place the business or a business basis for mature and professional operation.

For, let's get one thing straight, we in the Apartment business are in a rough, tough competitive business and we will survive only if we regard all problems as businessmen and divorce emotion from our judgments. Just how the operation of apartments will change, I leave to future articles. In this article we will concern ourselves with the bug-a-boo of integration itself. Laying aside scare headlines, fear of change, and wishful wishing, let us as business men consider calmly the record of experience. We, as a trade association, are not concerned primarily with the morals, ethics, and religion of this matter, however much as individuals with individual conscience we may be involved, but we are concerned with the economic effects of the Act.

For many years I have written and declared that the vast majority of owners in California were not 'per se' opposed to integration, but their tenants were. In other words, resistance sprang from economic pressures and fears. I have written that, in my judgment, integration was on the march, was coming, and that there was great need for an educational program to promote its acceptance. That if the tenants would be willing to accept integrated housing the landlords would have little if any objection to increasing their market. That providing the landlord kept his fundamental right to reject or accept on the basis of credit, good moral repute, and conduct (without which there will be chaos in the industry) integration could be made to work. I think this is true today and that an enlightened enforcement of the Rumford Act may well work this way.

But you say, true, let the timid of the business (and like every other business we have our members who want to let the other fellow take the lead and they gain the profit) go their way, defy the law and learn the hard way if they want to, this still doesn't solve the big question of public acceptance. Will our tenants accept this situation or move out? My answer: That no-one really knows for sure whether the events of the last several years, carried in headlines, encouraged by the leadership of major churches, promoted by the leadership of major political parties in their platforms and by their leaders, solidified into law by the Supreme Court, backed by the academic leaders and the world, and accepted by most businessmen, has sufficiently prepared the voter and tenant of California but the signs are that it has. Can anyone really ignore the overwhelming vote of the people's representatives in the Assembly, plus the failure of the Referendum?

In my judgment integration is possible without major disturbance given the following factors: 1. Inundation is avoided. 2. A minimum of enforcement with penalties and a maximum of education is achieved by the enforcing agencies. 3. There is added to the F.E.P.C. Commission one thoroughly familiar and sympathetic with the apartment business. 4. Men of goodwill stand together as they always have in our country with the knowledge that the law is the law and above other consideration. 5. The law eventually will include all housing. 6. The liaison committee now established between the association and the minority groups is given all possible support.

But again I can hear the reader say, how does he know what he is saying is true? How can he judge? Apartment owners here have involved their life savings; can anyone give us assurance we will not be "block-busted", entrapped, or victimized? Let me answer that history is with you and this is the only guide to what is to come in a new situation beyond the average owner's experience. Some years ago we all lived through the integration of two basic industries that might be compared to ours.

First let us consider the Hotel-Motel Industry. You would have heard at the time of the integration if you were in the business, phrases which today sound very familiar. If one Negro moves in, your white tenants all will move out and you will forever lose your trade. All big hotels will close up and if they do reopen they will become Negro ghettos with no Caucasian trade. This type of fear was widespread. What actually happened? Absolutely nothing. Today in all California, and most northern states, hotels, motels, of which I am aware, there is no such thing as discrimination. The "best" people, the intellectuals, ministers, priests, Negroes, Caucasians, and other minorities all use the hotels and there is no disturbance. In the intervening years dividends never have been better and many new and elaborate hotels, such as the Statler, have been built and operated without discrimination.

Then let us look at the restaurant industry. Do you remember that just a few short years ago, Negroes just weren't seen at white restaurants or lunch-counters? I remember vividly as a boy, witnessing a Negro coming into a drug store and the girl behind the counter dramatically removing her apron and announcing she was quitting rather than "wait on a Negro." Such a thing today in California would be far removed as this industry is integrated without loss of business or face of which I am aware. Of course, you can extend this to almost all types of business in California which, in my lifetime have been integrated in California.

'When you said to plan on a trip to the Land of Lions and Tigers this July—how was I to know you meant DETROIT?'

Let me then ask this question: "If all other types of business can prosper under integration, why can't we?" But you still are doubtful this will work in residential housing. It will, if two States in the Union where it does and from which we can learn are any examples. (Fair Housing laws are in effect in other States) I speak of Hawaii and Alaska. In both these States there is little or no segregation in housing. When I was a boy I remember hearing the race problems of Hawaii discussed; now it is one of the freest of any of them. There is in Hawaii widespread integration and it works. I know of no real estate boom anywhere that is presently superior to Hawaii's. The vacancy factor is one we could certainly envy here. I challenge anyone to show that there has been any drop of values or increased vacancy problems as the result of integration in this State.

On a recent visit to Alaska I inquired everywhere as to segregation problems and was told that there were none as there is no segregation of any importance in Alaska. I saw no evidence of any economic loss, vacancies, or low land values as a result of this policy; just the contrary. There are statistics available on New JACL expects that all Congressmen truly interested in civil rights will vote against any and all amendments that tend to weaken, compromise, and confuse the Judiciary Committee civil rights measure.

Attempts to Compromise

It is known that there will be efforts to compromise the minimum bill, and to eliminate certain provisions therein. It is expected that in the House these will be concentrated on efforts to remove the fair employment, public accommodations, and the authority for the Attorney General to intervene in civil rights cases sections of the legislation. Aside from the alleged constitutional questions that will be raised against these provisions, additional suggestions will be made that some "effective" bill can be passed by the House various provisions will have to be either eliminated entirely or "watered down". It will be claimed that those voting for these proposals to compromise and weaken the measure are the real advocates of civil rights, for they are more concerned with some legislation than with the issues, etc.

Beginning immediately—the Washington JACL Office, the National JACL Legislative-Legal Committee, and the National JACL Board join in urging every JACL Chapter, officer, and member, as well as other Japanese-Americans and others of goodwill and decency, to write, telegraph, or telephone the Congressman who represents him, and her, in the National House of Representatives to vote for at least the House Judiciary Committee reported civil rights bill. The respective Congressmen who represent Americans of Japanese ancestry and JACLers among their constituents need to know that those of Japanese ancestry are united in their demand that they vote for meaningful and comprehensive civil rights, and will not tolerate token votes or compromises.

Remember, the week of Feb 3 to 8 will be crucial in this legislative fight, so communications to Congressmen should be sent out right now, as the week of civil rights decision in the House of Representatives begins. As human beings and as Americans, we can do no less. And we need to do it not only because it is the right and moral thing to do and one which will extend the total area of freedom, dignity, and opportunity for all Americans, including ourselves, but also because it will serve to vindicate the faith and the judgment of those Americans who in another time and in other places fought to assure the civil rights and social justice of those of Japanese ancestry in this country.

Housing—

5-Section 35742 of the Rumford Fair Housing law specifically protects the right of every property owner to select buyers or renters on the basis of any criteria he desires as long as he applies the same criteria to all races and religions. "Nothing contained in this part," the Section reads, "shall be construed to prohibit selection based upon factors other than race, color, religion, national origin, or ancestry."

Of this total, $100,000 has already been transferred to UCLA. Naturally, I am glad to try to do my best. I feel that rendering a service, filling a gap, and/or helping a project progress is one of the satisfactions in a man's life. This is the first of these reports, which will come whenever there is something to say to make the members Japanese History Project conscious.

Instructions
At this juncture of the project, response to the directives sent to the chapters has been slow and Akira Yoshimura, chairman of the chapter liaison committee, was reported last week as "disturbed by the wholly inadequate and spotty returns."

The project leaders have been blueprinting the survey to a fine degree and noncompliance at any stage would put the undertaking behind schedule. Chapters have been informed by a series of "instructions" on what to do and while some chapters have completed Instruction No. 3, others have not even started on Instruction No. 1. National Director Mas Satow knows about situations like the above from past experience and I can just hear him saying, "That's people." But several chapters have done outstanding work, according to Dr. Miyakawa.

JACL members and friends as a whole have done creditably in the financial portion of the project. We should follow up on the research angle just as enthusiastically. We wouldn't buy a $100,000 home and not make use of it, would we? But we seem to have invested at least $100,000 in a research project and saying, "We've turned in the money! How about some action?"

The truth is that we've provided the money but we are also expected to help get the material with which we can make use of the money.

Time Is of Essence
Dr. Miyakawa stressed the fact that getting the groundwork off now is most important because the sources are here. Many Issei are still with us and so are documents. Imagine if we were to undertake the task even five years from now. It would certainly be more difficult than it is now. We ought to get the information now while the Issei and their documents are with us. Now. Or, as the saying goes,—"We'll be sorry" to learn that we've missed choice portions of the valiant saga of our Issei forebears.

Notes from Manhattan

NEW YORK—The campaign this year to open more roles in the theater to the Negro actor is bearing some fruit this season and there is a noticeable effort on the part of playwrights and producers to make the non-white a part of the theatrical scene.

The organized drive to create more roles for the non-white actor was started at least two seasons ago when it was pointed out that the New York crowd scenes for the musical, "Subways Are for Sleeping" did not have a single Negro, a situation hardly realistic in Manhattan which contains Harlem. Similarly, the integrated chorus in a musical show was the exception.

The Negro, of course, is the largest minority involved, but any improvement certainly will benefit other groups visibly different from the white majority.

THIS SEASON there are non-Caucasians among the dancers and singers of several Broadway musicals whose racial backgrounds or color are irrelevant to the plot. In plays, of course, the situation is more difficult to change since each character has a definite place in the plot scheme and race or color is often relevant.

In straight dramas the responsibility goes back to the playwright. In Edward Albee's adaptation of "The Ballad of the Sad Cafe" the narrator of the strange and tragic story is a Negro, as is the narrator in off-Broadway's "Telemachus Clay."

The ideal would be to cast non-whites in roles pertinent to their participation in American society until race or color no longer would be a determinant in casting roles. In the past, of course, whites often have played non-white roles but the reverse is still only rarely true.

The opera is far ahead of the legitimate theater in achieving a sort of color blindness in casting. The Metropolitan Opera has presented Leontyne Price as an Italian girl in "Tosca" and George Shirley, the tenor of Negro ancestry, as Lt. Pinkerton in "Butterfly" and as the French painter in "La Boheme." But this commendable policy is confined mainly to the major roles.

A SHOW which closed this past Saturday, "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest," is one of the first in the theater in which a Nisei character appears completely outside the racial context. In the Dale Wasserman play Nurse Gladys Nakamura, played excellently by Michi Kobi, is presented without racial reference. Her distinction in the comedy-drama is that she is the only one of the nurses in the mental hospital presented in a sympathetic light.

"One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest" starred Kirk Douglas in an evening of wild comedy tinged with tragedy which was set in a mental hospital in the Pacific Northwest. It received excellent audience response but closed prematurely in a Broadway season which is one of the best in years artistically, but which is suffering financially.

Douglas, however, has purchased the film rights to "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest."

As for Miss Kobi, who has a good scene with Douglas in the third act, she is a thorough professional with a background of off-Broadway, television, musicals and films.

During the past summer Miss Kobi played and sang the role of Linda Low in "Flower Drum Song" in eastern and midwestern music tents.

She has had the leads in such films as Columbia's "Twelve to the Moon" and Paramount's "Tokyo After Dark" and her most recent movie appearance was in the comedy, "Cry for Happy." Her television appearances include roles in "Playhouse 90" and other dramatic shows.

TIMES SQUARE has just a tinge of Little Tokyo these days. There are at least a half-dozen Japanese gift shops in the Times Square theatrical district and the former Bijou Theater on 45th street west of Broadway, where we saw William Saroyan's "The Cave Dwellers" not too many seasons ago, is now the Toho Cinema. The Toho is currently showing a chamber film, "Bandits on the Wind." The best of the recent pictures at the Toho was Akira Kurosawa's "High and Low," a drama about a kidnapping which Kurosawa adapted from Ed McBain's American novel and adapted to a Japanese setting.

In the streets of midtown Manhattan are a growing number of Japanese-style restaurants, our particular favorite being the Fuji on West 56th near 8th Avenue where the "teishoku" (the last time we were there it included raw tuna slices, stuffed duck, broiled fish, shrimp tempura and some vegetable dishes) is recommended. The two most native Japanese in atmosphere are the Saito, in a new location just off 7th Avenue in the 50s, and the newest of them all, the Nippon, on East 52nd.

The Nippon features a sushi bar and a tempura bar and it caters mainly to the growing colony of businessmen from Japan (about 700 in number and constituting the largest single foreign business group in New York City). The Nippon is reminiscent of a fine restaurant in Tokyo. It is not inexpensive. Dinners start from $5. Then there are such places as

Yamasaki unveils 110-story lower model

NEW YORK—Twin towers 110-story high are being designed by Minoru Yamasaki and associates with Emery Roth & Sons for the $350 million complex in downtown Manhattan to be known as the World Trade Center, according to a preview model unveiled last week for government and civic officials here.

The two towers, 1,350 ft. high (100 feet taller than the Empire State Bldg.), are set on a five-acre plaza surrounded by 70-ft. tall buildings. Construction is expected to get underway next year and be completed in 1970.

The center will be operated by the Port Authority of New York, Jersey City and Hoboken.

Yamasaki designed an unusual system of elevators which will include 11 expresses which rise nonstop to the 41st floor and 12 expresses whose first stop will be the 74th floor. Included in the most of the Japanese were under-serve as change points. This arrangement will preclude the use of the elevator shafts as the chief strength of the towers. This function will instead fall to the metal frame of the buildings, to be constructed of either aluminum or stainless steel.

Eugene Omi of Redwood City was installed as president of the Mid-Peninsula Gardeners Assn., which is comprised of nearly 200 members living between Redwood City and Sunnyvale.

UNI-MAC deadline reset
LOS ANGELES.—The Nisei Committee for UCLA Memorial Activities Center fund drive disclosed the alumni goal of $1,000,000 is short of $100,000 this week. To allow its 2,000 Nisei graduates time to meet the goal, the drive has been extended to Mar. 31, 1964, at which time regent Edwin W. Pauley will also contribute $1,000,000 to match the alumni contribution.

The Nisei have contributed $18,000, according to Marjorie Shinno, treasurer, of 1852 Michielto, Los Angeles 26. Latest $1,000 donors include Raymond Hamamoto, electronic data analyst, and Dr. Robert Watanabe, orthopaedic surgeon and UCLA team physician.

'My Three Sons'
Akiye Hara, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Fukuhara of Long Beach, has a lead role in "My Three Sons" TV series airing Feb. 6, 8:30 p.m. (Ch. 7) titled "My Fair Chinese Lady". Some 200 Oriental girls were interviewed for the role.

the Tokyo, but the most nostalgic of all is the Miyako which predates World War II. We remember having a dinner of kamo-nabe at the Miyako on the eve of the world turned topsy-turvy for Americans of Japanese descent. The date was Dec. 6, 1941.

Sen. Fong

As the first Senator of Oriental ancestry, Fong paid high tribute to the courage and patriotism of Japanese Americans who endured the hardships and prejudice of the World War II period and have since gained acceptance as first-class citizens. He said this fortitude was shown by those who were evacuated from the West Coast to inland camps and by those who made a brilliant war record on the battlefield. "The Japanese American Citizens League has already done much in these areas and will do even more in the days ahead,"

Fong said in conclusion. "You have the background, the education, the training, the leadership, the courage, and the vision to accept the challenge to go forward in the highest tradition of your organization, the Japanese American Citizens League."

Guest Columnist:

Is Jr. JACL Necessary?

Portland Answering affirmatively, the Portland JACL Board is actively supporting and promoting a co-educational Junior JACL group, realizing the responsibility for the good citizenship of our Japanese American Youth.

This undertaking was initiated in response to the request of two youth groups, mainly the Sorells and the Delts, who after a series of joint meetings requested official recognition with the Senior chapter. The combined membership officially petitioned the local and national chapter for recognition. It is almost redundant to focus attention on the excellent records of our Sansei on a local level with virtually no problems of juvenile delinquency, crimes of violence, misdemeanor or moral turpitude, but recognizing that the increasing problems exist in other communities, as responsible senior citizens we cannot afford the luxury of complacency. It is only through active support of such an organization that we can deal effectively in this field.

Further, the social strata of the Sansei differs markedly from that in which the parents have matured and concomitantly sociological needs for communication require a common group participation with others of their own ethnic background. These activities will be formulated in such a manner that there will be no competition with already established programs of activity such as exists on local church or service groups but will serve to complement the National JACL Youth Program.

One vital area that can be improved is to encourage understanding and respect of our cultural heritage and through efforts such as the Issei history project can this aim be accomplished. The Japanese Americans are still an identifiable minority in spite of serious integration motives by individuals. However, an organization that promotes the good image of Japanese American youths will result in a more rapid and lasting integration as attested to by sociological experts.

Official recognition of a youth group will be more effective since the national chapter has an allotted budget and a full time staff member that coordinates the objectives of these groups according to local community need and according to national policy. The benefits accruing to the individual members will be through various outlets such as the JACL National scholarships, oratorical and essay contests, and from (the JACL) youth group manual, which will certainly clarify and focus issues involving Japanese Americans.

The enthusiasm and spontaneity of our youth group have been genuine and attest their sincerity. Our responsibility as senior chapter members and as parents is directly on our shoulders in providing active support and encouragement to provide continued interest, desire and impetus to this most encouraging beginning. LET US NOT FAIL.

GEORGE S. HARA, M.D.

(The above article first appeared as an editorial in the Portland JACL Newsletter, Jan. 22. Dr. Hara is the chapter youth chairman and the Jr. JACL group just organized is comprised of 41 members.—Editor.)

Venice-Culver installs Mike Shimizu

MARINA DEL REY. — Satellite Echo II had just crested the evening sky here last Saturday to signal the start of the 1964 program for the Venice-Culver JACL at an installation dinner-dance attended by some 150 well-wishers of Mike H. Shimizu, new chapter president who hails from Waiuku, Maui.

There was no main speaker billed, but toastmaster George Inagaki paid credit to the personalities and activities of his beloved chapter with humor and spirit as no keynote could. He honored those in the 1000 Club, mentioning each by name and year of membership and those who have the JACL sapphire and silver pin. George Isoda was the latest to be added to this list, being presented the silver pin at the dinner.

Regional director Isaac Matsushige didn't let the opportunity slip by to commend the toastmaster, onetime National JACL president, still active with the chapter he help found, before swearing in the new officers.

San Francisco JACL credit union: 3.4 pct.

SAN FRANCISCO. — The San Francisco JACL Credit Union last Saturday announced a 3.4 percent dividend on all deposits for 1963. The local credit union surpassed the quarter million dollar mark as of the end of the year. This was a 17 percent increase in total assets over the same period last year according to Sumi Honnami, chairman.

Chicago's Dividend

CHICAGO. — The Chicago JACL Credit Union announced a 4 1/2 pct. dividend for 1963 at its annual meeting Jan. 17 at Como Inn. Dr. Jackson Eto installed as St. Louis president

BY ROGER MIYASAKA ST. LOUIS. — In spite of cold, snowy weather Jan. 11, St. Louis JACL's inaugural dinner honoring the 1964 cabinet headed by Dr. Jackson Eto boasted an all-time high in attendance at the Flame Restaurant.

National JACL President Patrick Okura, who was the principal speaker, related JACL's stand on civil rights, how and why it was made, including a vivid description of JACL's part at the March in Washington. He said JACL is going to take a more active role in civil rights than in the past.

The National President also reported on the progress of the Japanese History Project, adding that in the near future interviewers would be sent out to gather data for the history.

Part of the program was devoted to the recognition of St. Louis Issei as Dan Sakahara, local chairman for the History Project, introduced the 15 present with a brief sketch of each person.

Okura installed the chapter board, which includes seven past chapter presidents, and the Jr. JACL officers headed by Miss Kathy Okamoto.

The chapter oratorical contest, with speakers Lois Shimamoto and Kathy Okamoto, was held in conjunction with the dinner. In a close contest, Miss Shimamoto was chosen to represent St. Louis in the Midwest District runoff in April.

Dick Henmi, emcee, introduced Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Barnes, old friends of the Okuras in Omaha.
