PSW youth advisers to continue study on youth programs

LOS ANGELES—Under the skillful direction of school counselor Kats Arimoto, participants illustrated their childhood group experiences in portraying advisorship roles during the third concluding session of the JACL PSW Youth Advisors Workshop Series. Arimoto, who is PSWDC chairman, presented a fact sheet indicating adolescent interest patterns through the ages of 14 to 16 years.

Workshop members further elected to discuss policy and program, its goals and objectives as they relate to this distinct area on Aug. 22 during the PSWDC quarterly session at the Olympian Motel.

Other recommendations included continuation of youth adviser gatherings on a regular basis to discuss such areas as 20-30 year old age group memberships, criteria for establishing new Jr. Chapters, utilization of professional staff to work with youth, etc.

Portland luau hailed for lightening up JACL cameraderie

PORTLAND — Assistance received from many outsiders as well as the work of many members made the recent Portland JACL Luau, the first of its kind here, the success that it was, according to chairman Emi Somekawa.

Cherry Hill Project On the other hand, the Jackson Street Community Council followed its own bootstrap operation from the very beginning. It finds its best expression in the Cherry Hill Project, so named because the run down housing in that area is one that was well populated by Japanese before War II — there were numerous cultivated lawns and gardens with the inevitable cherry trees—hence the name Cherry Hill.

Theater Party SANTA ANA — Another Orange County JACL "first" was scored when 22 members formed a theater group under the co-chairmanship of Karie Aihara and Mas Uyesugi, who arranged for block reservations to see "Oklahoma" at the Melodyland recently.
