contains the MDC resolution which calls upon all MDC Chapters to consider human support for the implementation of human rights activities at the chapter level, and mandate the National JACL to make "human rights activities a requirement for all its chapters and insight on immediate implementation".

The EDC presents a similar resolution, but calls for the assignment of a full time staffer to direct the JACL Civil Rights program. This proposal is in line with a recent recommendation by the Civil Rights Committee that a budget allocation of $20,000 be approved for such purpose.

If okayed this will in effect enable the National JACL to give the kind of staff help to chapters and districts that will enable concerned volunteer JACLers to be more effective. Program consultation and Bill Enomoto named to guidance is what we need.

AN OLD TUNE?

There may be those who get sick of hearing it, and sick of reading it. Yet, it must be increasingly obvious that there is a ground swell developing for greater JACL involvement and commitment on the issues of the day. It may be an old tune, but maybe it's now set to a new beat, and people are hearing it.

Whether it's human rights, poverty, Japan-America relationships, the draft, Vietnam, bussing, crime in the streets. etc. maybe we can no longer retreat behind the safe shield of "no comment", and ration- tunity commission. alize it by saying such things don't affect Japanese Americans, or let individuals speak out on such issues. The __ panel was rounded up by Jr. JACL adviser Grace Kanai and proved to be a very articulate group, with a collective sense of humor. They spoke essentially of their impresions of school experiences, the good and the bad.

The teachers group was very receptive, and it looked like the whole session went by very well. It was another opportunity to communicate a little beyond the superficial, NC-WNDC committee to celebrate about the Japanese American, both individual and group.

JACL & CIVIL RIGHTS

There is little question that, in its strictest sense, JACL has always been a civil rights organization, for it has been in the forefront of the continuing struggle versity in Barnaby, B.C., de- William T. Kimura, 68, of of Americans of Japanese ancestry to eliminate racial discrimination in law, in economic practices, and in social activities against themselves in particular and against all citizens generally.

There is even less question that, in the recent past, the National JACL as such as been far more active demonstrated May 30. in the field of civil and human rights, at least in terms of Congressional and Federal Government activities, than have the local chapters and individual members.

We understand, however, that it is the intention at the forthcoming 20th Biennial National Convention from Fife High School was in San Jose next month to try to correct this lack through sincere and serious effort.

There may be those who will criticize JACL as of the Puyallup Valley JACL, being "too late and too little." But, the important as- where Mr. Fujita is a Vice- Furniture designer Frank Police Liaison Committee. The pect is that, though perhaps overdue, JACL is now President. trying in its own way to motivate and activate its chapters and members to somehow meaningfully contribute to the possible resolution of a crisis that not only threatens the very fabric of our society but also to be with us for many generations yet to come.

According to National JACL President Jerry Enomoto, National JACL Civil Rights Chairman Pat Okura, and National JACL Convention Chairman Tom Taketa, all Wednesday afternoon, Aug. 21, will be devoted to this most critical of all subjects, with the Juniors especially invited to attend and spark the discussions in the light of these challenges as they understand them as contemporary youth.

Coming as this does on the first afternoon of the Convention proper, whatever is discussed and pro- seavatory of Music. Maruposed may well color the rest of the five-day con- moto, 33, has been associate

Our information is that no time is to be wasted on explaining why those of Japanese ancestry should relations work at Whittier be interested and involved in the civil rights move- College, where he served as ment, or its importance as the most demanding do- student body president in mestic issue of the day.

On the assumption that all JACLers are dedicated to the simple proposition that all Americans are entitled to the basic equities, privileges, and opportuni- ations ties that are supposed to be the birthright of every citizen, the afternoon is to be spent in discussions of Tokyo of California following the most interest in dentistry how JACLers individually and organizationally may make their own little contributions to a better community and a more just society.

A "panel" of working experts, representing most of the minority groups involved in the current struggle to help the disadvantaged and the deprived, will examine what may and can be done specifically on chapter and community levels, as well as by individual JACLers.

Thereafter, in order to promote the fullest possible participation, the meeting will be divided into a number of "no-holds-barred" group "buzz sessions," at which time in the give-and-take of realistic questions and answers chapter officers and individual members will hopefully find particular programs and personal ways in which the less fortunate may be constructively helped.

Some chapters, such as San Jose, Chicago, and Seattle, already have meaningful programs under way. Quite a number of individual JACLers are both professionally and privately involved in the civil rights movement. And, JACL staffers like Jeffrey Matsui in Los Angeles are working overtime to initiate some constructive projects among Japanese Americans.

What they have to say about their particular experiences should be most revealing and invaluable. A final summary recommending community, chapter, and individual action will be presented to the National Council by the Civil Rights Committee.

We also understand that a resolution calling for the employment of a full-time, qualified staff worker, adequately financed, to devote himself to the challenge of visiting local chapters and helping the chapters and their members to join in the national JACL effort to contribute to the realization of equality and dignity for all Americans, will be offered to the National Council for its approval.

The outcome of a special meeting held over the Memorial Day weekend in Los Angeles by several JA-CL leaders, the resolution personifies the urge that JACL must become a participant in the greatest internal challenge confronting Americans today.

There is no presumption that the JACL should take the lead in the current civil rights campaign, for JACL is much too small, too poor, and too realistic to be more than just another cooperative and supporting association.

At the same time, JACL does have some guidelines concerning its own organizational participation that may be of interest at this point.

JACL is against black racism and black nationalism, as well as black separatism, just as JACL has opposed white racism, white nationalism, and white separatism. JACL believes in a multicultural society, to which all minorities and nationalities each contributes the best of their respective cultures, traditions, and histories.

JACL also condemns violence and insurrection, including riots and arson, looting and harassment of public officials and the police, and demonstrations that do not have legitimate and specific objectives, are poorly organized and illegal, and are undisciplined and against the general public good.

So far as possible, JACL believes in resort to the legislatures and the courts for the redress of grievances and for the petitioning for the betterment of economic, educational, and social opportunities for all, without regard to race, color, creed, or national origin.

THE HIGH COST OF EDUCATION—In preparation for her matriculation in the University of Colorado this fall, our daughter Christie has been receiving a considerable volume of literature from the school. The latest is a handbook for parents which, among other things, discusses the cost of attending the university.

As a resident of Colorado (where her family pays taxes) she is entitled to resident tuition, which amounts to $416 for two semesters. Board and room in a dormitory ranges from $850 to $980 depending on the quality of the accommodations. In addition there will be Dept. of Parks and Recreation representatives of the State ruled against the anti-misce- would have denied the poor a expenses for books and classroom supplies, clothing, and El Dorado County Hislaundry and cleaning, extra meals and snacks, beauty torical Society proved quite shop, entertainment and sundries, raising the total fruitful and the Northern CL as its National Legal Jose; his attempts to reach the estimated cost from a low of $1,700 to a high of $2,- California - Western Nevada Counsel, submitted a 53-page underprivileged by literally 200. Since Christie has, of necessity, been brought up District Council will assume a amici curiae friend of the walking into their back yards in a frugal manner, her spending is likely to be close to the lower range. Still, a four-year education will cost in the neighborhood of $8,000 which is a pretty silk Colony was founded in therefore a distinct honor cil to best meet their needs. good neighborhood, particularly considering that this is a state-supported institution.

For non-resident students, tuition jumps to $1,-370 for two semesters. Total costs are estimated at from $2,650 to $3,150 a year, which is a fancy price a tea and silk farm is a single to present oral arguments, integrated community whereto pay for an education plus clean fresh air, magnificent scenery and nearby skiing, the last being what the University of Colorado offers that most other universities cannot.

EDUCATION ABROAD — A couple of recent high school graduates, both Caucasian, from this area have just returned from a year in Japan under a Rotary International student exchange program. One lived in the city of Matsue on the Inland Sea side of Japan, the other at Hakodate in the north.
