Registration of Voters

While we have not especially stressed Registration for Voting in this important national election year, we do feel there is room for improvement among Japanese Americans in this basic civic responsibility.

In meeting our fundamental obligation of American citizenship-that every citizen register and vote, every JACL local chapter has a primary responsibility to see that every eligible citizen of Japanese ancestry in the community exercises this obligation and privilege, especially this national election year. In view of the expressed purposes of the JACL and the absence of any other similar organization, a poor registration and voting record of American citizens of Japanese in a community can well be blamed on the local JACL chapter. Japanese names loom prominently on the register of voters. They reveal racial identity. The politicians know who registers and who does not, and despite all our professions of loyalty and good citizenship, our group is judged by our performance at the polls. For those who have not registered and voted in the primaries, there is still opportunity to register for the November election. Check with your registrar of voters for specific information.-M.S.

DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION

Washington As a consequence of last week's tumultous and fractious Democratic National Convention in Chicago, Vice President Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota and Senator Edmund Muskie of Maine will vie with former Vice President Richard Nixon of California and New York and Governor Spiro Agnew of Maryland next November 5 in the presidential sweepstakes of 1968. Incidentally, both Senator Inouye and Congressman Matsunaga are active supporters of Vice President Humphrey and his personal friends.

Californians well known to many Nisei who played prominent parts in the Convention drama last week included San Francisco Mayor Joe Alioto who placed Vice President Humphrey's name in nomination, Congressman Philip Burton who was in charge of the debate of the minority to the Platform Committee's Vietnam War "plank", and Assembly Speaker Jesse Unruh who headed up the huge State delegation that somehow always seemed to be frustrated in its efforts to influence policy and program.

Perhaps in subsequent Newsletters we may comment further on last week's momentous Democratic Convention.

San Jose, Calif. A SENSE OF HISTORY—On the third day of the JACL convention here, the League and its members sat in a three-hour luncheon to do honor to one of its past presidents and most deeply dedicated members, George J. Inagaki. All the League's living past presidents but one — Frank Chuman was out of the country on business-gathered to do Inagaki honor, and one gained a sense of history as gray (but unbowed) old-timers such as Dr. Terry Hayashi and Dr. T. T. Yatabe rose to laud Inagaki.

Both Docs were present at the very conception of the JACL movement a full half century ago. As young men fresh out of college, they met frequently for lunch in San Francisco in 1918 and pondered the destiny of the Nisei in the United States. And out of their concern was founded a fledgling and largely ineffective organization grandly named the American Loyalty League. While the JACL sets its birth a dozen years later, in 1930, the beginnings can be traced to those meetings in San Francisco.

The honors paid Inagaki were made doubly impressive by the citations and resolutions from mayors, city councils, the California State Assembly, and even the Board of Realtors of his home city, all bodies which have not been notably friendly toward the Nisei in the past. That they would sit down and append their names to documents in fulsome praise of a Nisei is a conclusive measure of the high regard in which not Inagaki alone, but the Nisei as a group, are held these

In this convention the photographers have been calling the shots. No citation, no plaque, no scroll could be presented -and there were an enormous number handed outwithout the event being recorded on film. It is likely that this convention will be the best documented event in JACL history.

It is also possible that this was the wordiest one, for despite the good intentions of all concerned, each speaker felt that what he was about to say was too our country was in a time of Chicago Chapter's Human important to be held within the 90-second, or threeminute, or five-minute time bracket allotted for him. And so it was that despite the fine innovation introduced by Toastmaster Mike Masaoka-the one-handclap-in-unison applause in the interest of saving time -the Inagaki luncheon extended over a span of three full hours. This, inevitably, required some of the elder statesmen in the audience to slip out in search of relief before the proceedings were concluded.

One of the greater pleasures of the lengthy festivities here has been the ringing baritone (he has a remarkable range of tone, and he might be a basso for all I know) of Jim Kasahara of the Hollywood chap- books authored by Professor National Council consider the won low net with 45-46-22- with him that persistence and ter. Convention Post-mortem By HENRY KANEGAE

Nat'l. 1st Vice Pres.

Newport Beach Now that we have a few day's rest from the rigors of the 20th Biennial National Convention, we are again inmaking a living. Also we have the time to look back and digest some of the discussions and decision made at the convention.

Surely we all agree there never was a convention quite like the one just finished. Congratulations to the San Jose chapter, Dr. Tom Taketa and his many committees for a job well done.

To be elected as your national first vice president is a great honor that I humbly accept. I shall do my best to fill this position honorably and effectively. Whatever area of responsibility shall be given to this office by President Jerry Enomoto, I shall do my best to discharge it diligently.

Wolea Atoll, Central Caroline Islands of the Pacific. The language is known locally as Haselmathau, the "language of the sea". From the outset it was understood that no English would be spoken. Only after class were we allowed to ask questions, and even then our instructor would repeat his original gesture or pantomime, or make up a new one, in an effort to get across the meaning of the Haselmathau word or expression. He would translate only as a last resort, since the translation could eventually prove misleading it, make it automatic. Particiand would, in any event, be a crutch.

This operates on the underlying, over - simplified theory that the shortest distance between two points is along a straight line. Any deviation from the straight line between the experience and the target language, Haselmathau,-such as via English—is taking the long way to the goal, with the proportionately increased likelihood of pitfalls.

It appears that the same positive approach must be used by JACL to improve rapport to alleviate misunderstandings and deteriorating relationship with other groups, organizations and communities.

At the San Jose Convention, JACLers had the opportunity to personally meet with members of an organization which seems to share much of our interests and goals and with which we've had no communication or contact. This organization is composed some 464,000 Japanese in the mainly of concerned students of Oriental ancestry at the Berkeley campus of the University of California Yet, the majority of people and calls itself the Asian-American Political Alliance. in Japan is not fully aware One of its main purpose is to resist the imposition of the White standards and to gain "the right of selfdefinition and self-determination" for Asian-Americans and all Americans.

Being a student group organization the printed statements found in their flyers and leaflets are full The Brazilian report con- of brimstone and fire and will make the average older Nisei gasp in horror. However, it was my experience in speaking with two of the members of the Asian Alliance on separate occasions that they were girls. Unfortunately, many JACLers did not take advantage of the chance to personally discuss their differences with members of the Asian Alliance and were instead satisfied with reading the printed statements and have their negative stereotype of the student activist reinforced. There were also members from both the JACL and the Asian Alliance who were determined to keep a closed mind and maintain their negative stereotype of the members of the "other" group. This made meaningful exchange impossible and the result, of course, was merely an exchange of accusations and insults. But in spite of these drawbacks something was gained from the contact. But we must change and break out of our small cells and have personal communication with today's world if we are to become relevent partners in the American Community tomorrow.

Happiness is a Second Biennial Junior JACL Convention completed. And now that all is over in San Jose except for evaluation and clean-up, the accounting of funds and expenses, life returns back to normal. But reflecting back on the Thursday, Friday and Saturday of the Convention we possess memories.

Thursday draws the picture of a recognition luncheon with youth and adult together followed by an "What does this say about outing in the wilds. Juniors will recall for years the romantic cruise where all the action was. For three hours youth passed the moonlite hours away, dancing and rocking as they toured the sights of San Francisco Bay on an unusually pleasant and clear night. And it was also during those minutes immediately following the outing that the National youth commissioner and Youth Director took time out to catch a few hours sleep. And the Because of the unseasonal action was fast and furious as bus loads of conventioneers returned not so anxious to fall asleep but innoon, the civil rights panel stead chattered into the wee hours of dawn.

And then Friday came all too soon for the weary the full 31/2-hour schedule travelers. Dr. Harry Kitano, associate professor of social welfare from UCLA, led a session with youth discussing the Generation Gap. The same topic was used in the afternoon following the testimonial luncheon. The input of the morning provided the cues for an interaction designed concept of putting youth and adults together in buzz groups. Response was stimulated from a panel of six consisting of Jerry Enomoto, Russ Obana, Kay Nakagiri, Patti Dohzen, Shig Wakamatsu, and Karen Suzuki who reacted and expanded on their thoughts to questions which were posed by Kitano. Perhaps of all the talk sessions this innovation provided the best venting of expressions in a
