Senate Gives H.R. 442 Final Approval, House Next

WASHINGTON — The day after a conference committee agreed to a reconciled version of H.R. 442, the Senate July 27 gave final approval of the measure with a unanimous voice vote. The House of Representatives was scheduled to vote Aug. 3 for the final passage of the bill, which would provide an official apology and $1.25 billion for educational projects on civil rights and for compensation to surviving Japanese Americans relocated and interned during WW2. Included also is compensation for Aleutian and Pribiloff Islands evacuees. After an expected positive House vote, the bill will go to President Reagan for his signature.

Sen. Spark Matsunaga (D-Hawaii) said, "It is most gratifying to me personally to see this long battle for personal justice come to an end at last."

H.R. 442 After the Conference

The House managers who signed the H.R. 442 conference report were Reps. Peter W. Rodino, Jr. (D-N.J.), Barney Frank (D-Mass.), Howard Berman (D-Calif.) and Pat Swindall (R-Ga.).

The managers signing on the part of the Senate were Sens. Glenn (D-Ohio), Matsunaga, Ted Stevens (R-Alaska) and Warren Rudman (R-N.H.). David Pryor (D-Ark.) did not sign on the bill as a conferee though he had voted for the bill.

Differences in the Senate and House versions resolved under the conference agreement include "full consideration to the findings of the Commission" as

Grand Parade to Close '88 Nisei Week

By Harry K. Honda

LOS ANGELES—The 48th annual Nisei Week Festival, starting this weekend and climaxing next Sunday, Aug. 14, has something old and something new to sustain interest in what is the pioneer among Japanese-American Matsuri celebrations.

Theme this year is "Generations of Pride," it was announced by Tim Itatani, general chairman and the Festival's first Yonsei leader.

The grand parade with KABC-TV Anchorwoman Joanne Ishimine as parade marshal, Businessman Takeo Taiyoshi as grand marshal and Toshiro H. Shimanouchi as honorary grand marshal, featuring ondoists, floats with community queens and court from various cities and foreign countries, bands and civic dignitaries in automobiles, has been switched back—(Something Old)—to the closing day Aug. 14. This parade was the Festival opener inside Little Tokyo in recent years.

The Nisei Week car show—(Something New)—will be staged in the parking lot adjacent to the Nisei Week carnival over the Aug. 13-14 weekend. The show, sponsored by Little Tokyo Leasing and Sales, will display expensive show cars, such as the Lamborghini Countach 5000S owned by Dr. Steve Sakane, a self-made Sansei multi-millionaire, and professional a basis for the review by federal agencies for restitution of a federal benefit to eligible individuals; requirement of investments of the fund to be made pursuant to 31 U.S.C. 9702; and, an authorization of an appropriation to the fund of $1.25 billion for a ten-year period, but the with limits of any appropriation to not more than $500 million for any fiscal year.

Other resolved points include payment of $20,000 to each eligible individual, subject to the availability of funds appropriated for such purpose, with the requirement that the attorney general identify and locate each eligible individual, without requiring any application. The attorney general would use available funds and resources to complete the identification and location within 12 months after the date of enactment; if resources are not sufficient to complete the location and identification of all eligible individuals, the Department of Justice is authorized to seek an appropriation of such sums as may be necessary.

Search to Last One Year

The conferees expect that eligible individuals may submit documentation to the Department of Justice upon the date of enactment; the attorney general would date such submissions, acknowledge their receipt, and compile a roster of eligible individuals without additional funds for this purpose.

Also, the attorney general would designate an individual to receive such documentation from eligible individuals, publishing the notice of such designee in the Federal Register. Subject to the availability of funds appropriated for such purpose, the attorney general

Foley Added to List of Honorees for Convention's Opening Banquet

SEATTLE — Rep. Thomas Foley (D-Wash.) has been added to the list of congressional leaders who will be recognized for their efforts on behalf of the redress legislation at the Opening Banquet of the JACL 30th Biennial National Convention, which began Aug. 4 and runs through the 11th at the University of Washington campus. The Aug. 7 banquet will take place at the campus' HUD (student union) Ballroom.

Foley, a prime sponsor of H.R. 442 during the 100th Congress, joins a lineup of distinguished redress supporters. Honorees include Sen. Daniel Inouye (D-Hawaii) and Reps. Mike Lowry (D-Wash.), Norman Mineta and Robert Matsui (both D-Calif.). Originally scheduled as keynote speaker, Sen. Spark Matsunaga (D-Hawaii) will not be able to attend.

Others who will be cited for significant contributions to the current success of the redress bill, which was approved from conference committee July 27 by the Senate and is expected to pass the House as well, are Mike Masaoka and Grant Ujifusa, JACL-LEC strategies chair. Minoru Yasui, who died in 1986, will receive a posthumous award for his commitment to the redress cause.

Agreement with Sumitomo Bank

JACL Offering Membership VISA Card

SEATTLE — The National JACL has formed a partnership with the Sumitomo Bank of California to offer JACL members a new service—the JACL VISA credit card. The JACL VISA card program will be kicked off at the National Convention, which is being held this week at the University of Washington campus.

Sumitomo Bank representatives will host an informal reception to introduce the JACL VISA program during the afternoon workshop on Aug. 9. The bank will also host an exhibit table in the convention registration area. Applications for the custom-designed JACL VISA card will be available to convention-goers.

According to National Treasurer Alan Nishi, JACLers can now support the organization "simply by holding and using their JACL VISA card."

"At the same time," he says, "they will enjoy the benefits of a major credit card with low interest rates and a low annual membership fee."

Benefits to JACL

Under the agreement with Sumitomo Bank, the JACL will receive 25% of the annual fees for each person that obtains the JACL VISA

Urges House to Approve Bill from Conference

Reagan Letter Favoring Enactment of H.R. 442

WASHINGTON — A letter favorable to the enactment of H.R. 442 was issued Monday to Speaker of the House Jim Wright from President Ronald Reagan. According to the Aug. 1 letter, "The enactment of H.R. 442 will close a sad chapter in American history in a way that reaffirms America's commitment to the preservation of liberty and justice for all."

Reactions to the Letter

Rep. Norman Mineta (D-Calif.), responding to the letter, said, "It is difficult to adequately express the happiness and satisfaction I feel at the culmination of so many years of hard work, struggle and hope. This glorious victory is the result of the dreams and struggles of thousands of people concerned about justice." Mineta felt Reagan's letter is not something only Japanese Americans interned during WW2 should be proud of but "it should also be a proud moment for all Americans, for H.R. 442 touches the very core of what it means to be a United States citizen."

Echoing Mineta's statements was Rep. Robert Matsui, who said, "This is what we've worked for more than a decade to achieve. Our president has told Congress that he will ensure justice is served in this sensitive matter that has affected the lives of 120,000 Americans. The president deserves a salute. In time, today's letter will become a very historic document."

JACL-LEC Executive Director Grayce Uyehara reacted to the news by stating, "We've made our 'impossible dream' come true. The nationwide grassroots lobbying by people who believe in their inalienable right to petition the government for redress has accomplished the difficult task. We salute all who believed and acted on faith that in a democracy the affirmation of liberty and justice comes from the people. We salute President Reagan."

After learning of the letter, JACL National Director Ron Wakabayashi said, "I am thankful to President Reagan for his expression of support for the redress bill. His efforts to indicate his position eases the remaining anxiety regarding the culmination of this community's long campaign to restore ourselves and strengthen the nation. I am personally pleased to have this take place in my mother's lifetime."

Text of the Letter

The text of the letter is as follows: Dear Mr. Speaker:

We welcome the action of the House-Senate conference on H.R. 442, a bill to provide compensation for Americans of Japanese descent interned in the United States during the Second World War. The bill reported from the conference and passed by the Senate on July 27 is substantially improved over the versions of the bill previously considered.

We are particularly pleased that the bill provides for a measured disbursement of the amounts authorized for the trust fund and ensures that acceptance of compensation under the legislation fully satisfies claims against the United States based on the unique circumstances of the internment.

The enactment of H.R. 442 will close a sad chapter in American history in a way that reaffirms America's commitment to the preservation of liberty and justice for all.

I urge the House of Representatives to act swiftly and favorably on the bill.

Sincerely,

Ronald Reagan

The conference committee that worked to reconcile differences in the Senate and House versions of the bill came to an agreement on July 26. The Senate approved the bill's conference agreement July 27 and the House was scheduled to vote on it Aug. 3. Should the measure be approved by the House, which is likely, it will go to the president to be signed into law.

California Assembly Approves Bill to Exempt Redress Money from Taxes

By Robert Tokunaga
Hokubei Mainichi

SACRAMENTO — By a vote of 58 to 7, the California Assembly approved a bill that would exempt from state taxes the $20,000 Japanese American former internees will receive from the federal redress legislation.

The Assembly Bill, AB 4087, would also pay up to $5,000 in reparations to the surviving spouses of Japanese American state employees who were fired in 1942 because of their ancestry.

Under another provision of AB 4087, the federal reparations payment will not be calculated in determining a person's eligibility for any state social service program, such as Medi-Cal

NEWS IN BRIEF

Pasadena City Directors Support Redress

PASADENA, Calif. — The City Directors of Pasadena unanimously passed a resolution at its July 11 meeting urging President Ronald Reagan to sign into law two congressional bills authorizing payment of redress to Japanese Americans who were incarcerated in detention camps during WW2.

The resolution was introduced by City Director Jess Hughston, who stated, "I have long felt that this unconstitutional treatment of loyal Japanese Americans during WW2 should be rectified by monetary payment. I am pleased that my colleagues agreed with me by unanimously and enthusiastically passing this resolution."

Harry Kawahara of the Greater Pasadena Area JACL played a key role in preparing the resolution and making earlier contacts with the city directors.

KAY OKAMOTO MEMORIAL FUND—A memorial fund established by family members and the San Francisco JACL honoring the late Kay Okamoto was recently established to recognize contributions of Bay Area people who perform volunteer service for the Japanese American community. would encourage, through a public awareness campaign, each eligible individual to submit his/her address to the designee.

18 Months to Accept

In Section 105(a) (5), the bill stipulates that eligible individuals have 18 months upon notification that funds are available to accept payment or to pursue a judgment or settlement of a claim against the United States arising from such acts.

Section 105(a) (7) of the conference agreement makes eligible individuals living on the date of enactment eligible to receive payment. However, payments of the vested rights of deceased persons are limited to three categories: (1) a surviving spouse of one year; (2) if there is no such surviving spouse, then payment in equal shares to all children living at time of payment; and (3) if there is no such surviving spouse or child, payment in equal shares to parents living on date of payment.

If there is no surviving spouse, child or parent, such payment shall remain in the Fund for the purposes provided by this act.

The definition of surviving children includes: a natural child whose paternity has been recognized by the parent or the court, a step-child who lived in the household of the eligible individual, and an adopted child.

The conferees authorized as a proper additional use the publication and distribution of the Commission's recommendations. (This agreement removes expenditures for the general welfare of the ethnic Japanese community in the United States but holds on to the authorization to sponsor research and public education activities.)

Eligibility

The conferees agreed to include as eligible individuals those who are living on the date of enactment (the date when the president signs the bill into law). It also requires that eligible individuals are those who were United States citizens or resident aliens during the evacuation, relocation, and internment period. (Excluded from eligibility were those individuals who, during the period from December 7, 1941, through September 2, 1945, relocated to a country at war with the United States.)

Included in the definition of "eligible individual", those citizens of Japanese ancestry and legal alien residents who left the West Coast voluntarily as the result of military orders prior to the mandatory removal and internment of the Japanese Americans population. . . . These evacuees were required to file "Change of Residence" cards with the Wartime Civil Control Administration and such cards were tabulated following the mandatory removal and internment of the West Coast Japanese American population.

JACL-LEC Follow Up

In Section 105 on restitution, the bill states the identification and location of all eligible individuals shall be completed within 12 months after the appropriation of funds for this purpose. JACL-LEC plans to disseminate information to the Japanese American community to speed this process.

Although no one knows when President Reagan would sign the bill, it is possible that H.R. 442 could become law during the second week of August.

Appropriation Process

The final phase of the bill is funding, which must still be appropriated on a yearly basis through the budget and appropriation processes, Uyehara pointed out. "Though no bill is perfect, the resolutions in the issues of vesting, inclusion of "voluntary evacuees" and renunciants who did not return to the country with which we were fighting a war show the balance of the bill." She also referred to the 1978 Reparation Survey by the JACL National Committee which showed that individuals wanted payment directly without going "through a foundation or an organization controlling the disbursement of the fund."

Uyehara said, "This need is being met with this bill. Politics is the art of the possible and compromise—and with the average age of the victims at 65, we cannot wait any longer."

No Disgrace in JACL's Admission of Its Wartime Error

By Clifford I. Uyeda

In June, the NCWN-P District Council heard the Golden Gate chapter resolution to the JACL National Convention calling for JACL to acknowledge it erred in its counsel to the Japanese American community in the early days of the war and in its reaction toward Japanese American dissidents.

Women's Concerns Events Open to All JACLers

By Chizu Iiyama

SEATTLE — The National Women's Concerns Committee is sponsoring events that are open to all JACLers during the JACL National Convention this week at the University of Washington campus.

Dr. Joanne Yamauchi, a professor of communications at American University in Washington, will chair a workshop entitled "Creative Communication for Managing Change in Families and Organizations," which is scheduled for Aug. 7, from 3 to 6 p.m. Nationally recognized in her field, Yamauchi has led workshops with Nikkei organizations as well as with agencies throughout the country.

"This will not be a lecture but a hands-on approach to learn practical skills in communication," says Yamauchi, who will encourage audience participation to illustrate her point.

Caucus Breakfast

Convention-goers will be able to meet candidates for national offices during the Women's Caucus Breakfast, which is slated for 7 to 9 a.m. the morning of Aug. 8. Alice Nakahata, co-chair of the Women's Concerns Committee, is chair of the traditionally popular event. Candidates will focus on women's issues as well as the general program and platform.

An informal luncheon meeting for women active or interested in women's issues will be held the same day, from 12 - 1 p.m. Scheduled highlights include a brief report of some of the activities sponsored by the NCWN-P District and a sharing of ideas and a program on the agenda.

We did not want this resolution to come as a surprise to Mike Masaoka. A copy was, therefore, forwarded to him. We have just received Mike's response, which was published in the Pacific Citizen.

To conclude that Congress passed the redress bill based on JACL's wartime advice to its own people is presumptuous. Under duress, JACL was effectively used by the government in its arrest and incarceration of innocent people. At the time, it was understandable that JACL saw no choice against expulsion and detention when confronted by armed soldiers.

The split in the Japanese American community, which has festered for over 46 years, stemmed from JACL's reactions toward its own people who challenged the government orders. JACL labeled them "disloyal" and "un-American." The actions of the dissidents were also understandable, except to the government and to JACL.

The brilliant achievements of the Nisei soldiers on the battlefields was one reply to the government suspicion. The role of the dissidents was another reaction. We should be able to understand each other's reasons for respective behaviors.

JACL's admission of error in no way diminishes the need for the government to redress Japanese Americans. Aside from material losses, the emotional and psychological damages were enormous and beyond measure. The government had acted in gross violation of its own Constitution.

There is no disgrace in admitting error. The federal government has admitted its past errors. JACL should do the same. Such admission is an act of respect and compassion for the victims, which in turn awards respect for honesty.

The admission of error by JACL is necessary now before more Nisei pass on with their bitter memories unresolved. The Japanese American legacy should not be for the Sansei generation to try to resolve what the Nisei should have had the courage and the decency to do now.

The initial step in healing the Japanese American community should be made by JACL. There is no time like now for JACL to initiate the process for reconciliation.

card. Sumitomo will pay JACL a half of one percent of each card holder's transactions. All funds generated from the JACL VISA program will assist in the operations and programs of the organization.

The JACL VISA card membership is being offered with no first year membership fee and a low $12 for classic card holders and $36 for gold card holders thereafter. JACL VISA members will also enjoy the low interest rate of 17.4% and travel rebates.

Two Years in the Making

Since the May 1986 National Board action accepting the affinity card proposal by the Sumitomo Bank, the JACL staff has worked closely with the bank to develop the card design and promotional materials.

"The card is distinctively designed with the JACL name and logo," comments National Director Ron Wakabayashi.

"In developing this special program with us, Sumitomo has demonstrated its dedication to the needs of our organization and community.

"I want to encourage all JACL members to visit the Sumitomo Bank exhibit of the Convention and listen to the Aug. 9 presentation. I think this program will provide greater visibility and help increase revenue for the JACL."

JACL-LEC Mailgram Hotline to the White House Urges President Reagan to Sign Redress Bill

Call Western Union toll-free (800) 257-4900, ask for Operator 9395 and select either Message "1" or "2." (There have been complaints that this Operator is not there. The P.C. has found this Operator is there.)

After the number of mailgrams exceeds the $20,000 account, there will be a $3.50 charge per message, charged to your phone bill.

The JACL-LEC acknowledges a $10,000 contribution from the Minoru Yasui Memorial Fund toward the $20,000 mailgram account.

EDITORIAL OF THE PACIFIC CITIZEN:

An Interesting Nat'l Convention

LET NO one underestimate the importance of JACL's National Convention in Seattle which opens officially Sunday, Aug. 7.

The person elected to succeed President Harry Kajihara must lead the organization into the post-redress era, predictably a time of stress and change.

The new president will find JACL's constituency in a state of flux as increasing numbers of Nisei oldtimers give way to Sansei and Yonsei. Even though many members of the Sansei generation are approaching middle age, their concerns are substantially different from those that motivated their Nisei parents. The new president, to be chosen from three able candidates, must be sensitive to the changing interests of the new membership if the organization is to remain viable.

Not least among the new president's problems is the selection of a national director to succeed Ron Wakabayashi, who has announced his intention to resign. With its million-dollar budget, with its far-flung membership and its diverse concerns, JACL requires firm leadership from the national director.

The diversity of those concerns is reflected in the resolutions, addressing the organization's policies and activities, which will be taken up by the convention. One would limit the scope of JACL's activity in U.S.-Japan affairs. Another would have JACL taking a strong stand on Japanese internal matters relating to civil and human rights. At first reading these resolutions appear to take contradicting positions.

At a time when the national organization is facing difficult budgetary problems, two of the resolutions call for additional spending. One would require the reopening of a full-time JACL office in Washington, D.C. Another proposes that the executive committee of the National Board meet monthly rather than quarterly. Both are worthy proposals; the question is how this activity can be financed.

The most controversial resolutions are likely to be the Seattle chapter's proposal titled "Time to Heal the Hurt of JACL Acts in World War II," and a somewhat similar resolution which is expected to be brought to the floor by the Golden Gate chapter for special consideration.

Although these are complex proposals, both in effect would have JACL apologizing for its 1942 decision to cooperate with federal evacuation orders, a decision made by the National Council at an emergency meeting in a period of tremendous stress. Both resolutions express the intent of healing community scars that exist to this day.

No one can quarrel with that objective, which is noble and timely. But the membership will seek evidence that these resolutions are the best way to achieve that end. The only matter certain at this point is that the debate is likely to be long, acerbic and possibly inconclusive.

Nonetheless, now it's on to Seattle for an interesting and perhaps fateful convention. As the Japanese would say, gambare.

Seattle: A Place for Regenerating JACL

That noble fish, the salmon, is spawned in the clear, cold waters of coastal streams. In youth, it drifts down to the ocean, where it grows fat and sleek in maturity. Then it answers some mysterious urge and fights across miles of turbulent water to return to the stream of its origin, there to spawn a new generation of salmon before dying.

There is a story, probably true but which I have never confirmed, that decades ago fish scientists at the University of Washington watched over the hatching of the first batch of salmon eggs in their laboratories and released the fingerlings to find their way into the Pacific. Then one day four years later, or whatever span of time it is that comprises the salmon's life cycle, the first of the laboratory fish came home to the campus as the scientists wept in wonder and joy.

Something of this sort is happening this coming week in Seattle, where JACL held its first national convention in 1930. The organization is going home, not to spawn and die, but to seek regeneration in the city where it was founded.

As a protest against the high cost of conventioning, the meeting is being held on the University of Washington campus rather than in a fancy downtown hotel. Anyone who studied at the U. of W. back in the '30s would have difficulty recognizing the campus today.

Back then, there were vast stretches of lawn between the traditional tudor Gothic classroom buildings. Now the open space has been taken over by building after building, attesting to the demands of the soaring enrollment.

But the physical changes cannot erase memories of Nisei activity on this campus.

Just off the campus is, or was, Eagleson Hall, a residence for international students, where Gordon Hirabayashi was living in early 1942. After the 8 p.m. curfew was ordered for Japanese Americans, he dutifully rushed back to his room from the huge University library until one day he wondered why it was necessary that he alone, among the dozens who lived at Eagleson, should be victimized. And that was the start of the thinking and doubting that led to his landmark challenge of the Army's racially discriminatory regulations.

Somewhere on campus would be the sociology department which for so many years was directed by S. Frank Miyamoto, a native son. On the other side of the campus would be the stadium, where once Frank Yama of Wenatchee performed briefly as an end on the varsity football team, and Harry Yanagimachi of Seattle was a promising freshman quarterback. And just beyond the stadium would be the boathouse where the galley slaves of Washington's famous rowing crews worked out, some of them with little Taft Toribara as the coxswain beating out the cadence.

Some Nisei will remember the U. of W. for the Japanese Students Club, a residence for out-of-towners, where bridge was high on the curriculum. Ah, but that was long ago, and now the time has come to return to the campus to refresh fading memories and tackle problems whose solutions were never explored in the musty old classrooms.

CHERRY KINOSHITA

Resolutions Acted Upon This Biennium

Since my initiation to a JACL National Convention as an alternate delegate in 1970, I have attended virtually every biennial gathering. Each of the events has been memorable—some for the glitzy banquets, some for the drama of unforgettable happenings, some for the new friends made.

On the serious business side of the convention, we sit and listen to the reports of committees, hassle over the budget, and set the directions for the coming biennium by way of National Council resolutions. Did you as a chapter member realize the power you have when you sit down and scribble out a resolution for the chapter to approve—sometimes doing so only because the deadline for resolutions approaches and you want the chapter to submit something. Did you also think that it wasn't that important because resolutions get passed and nothing is ever done about them?

Well, at times you may be right. But this past biennium, we paid attention. At least eight of the resolutions were addressed, acted upon, or accomplished within the area of responsibility of the vice president for public affairs—some by chance, some by direct action and some by encouraging others.

Resolutions 4, 10 and 14

Resolutions No. 4, 10 and 14 were passed at the 1986 convention dealing with the Civil Rights Restoration Act, English-only and the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights. Either through joining in with other civil rights organizations, or as a member of the Leadership Conference on Civil Rights, JACL has clearly addressed all of these issues with support provided by National staff and/or National committee members.

Support Provided by JACLers

We have brought to the National Board for approval and authorization numerous civil rights issues, such as university admissions, immigration and nationalization, English plus, universal voter registration and census, to be acted upon by National and regional staff, various committees and chapters who wish to incorporate these issues into their programs.

Under the Washington office representative Rita Takahashi, a legislative alert has been distributed urging support from targeted congressmen on the census legislation. Both Floyd Shimomura, chair of the Anti-Asian Violence Subcommittee, and Regional Director Bill Yoshino have testified at subcommittee hearings on hate-related crimes legislation. The names of two qualified JACL leaders, Jerry Enomoto and Lillian Kimura, have been submitted as candidates to fill the vacancy on the U.S. Civil Rights Commission occasioned by the death of its chairperson.

Employment discrimination cases continue to surface with JACL support given in the Mitsue Takahashi case. Employment Practices Chair Betty Waki and her committee have worked diligently on an insert for the chapter president's handbook, which will provide guidelines for chapter involvement in employment discrimination cases brought to their attention.

An Educational Focus

While under the Ethnic Concerns banner falls the entire gamut of civil rights issues as aforementioned, the selection of educator Mako Nakagawa to head the Ethnic Concerns Committee was specific in intent—to bring to the area of civil rights concerns an educational focus. Through Mako's workshops given at chapter, district and national levels, she has introduced the concept of "cooperative pluralism" to supplement multicultural education as being the key to graduating beyond a "band-aid" approach to achieving an improvement in the racial climate.

In the past biennium, a Subcommittee on Education was approved by the National Board. Citing the record of the past two years and the goals of the committee, the National Council will be requested to endorse the establishment of the Education Committee as a permanent standing committee of JACL.

Building Coalitional Ties

One other area in which we have been involved directly as a national officer is that of strengthening coalitional ties. With an understanding of each other's concerns, the American Jewish organizations have been extremely supportive of our redress efforts and have lent invaluable assistance in our legislative drive. JACL has monitored the growing threat of anti-Semitism in Japan and has expressed its concerns to the Japanese embassy, with a firm opposition to "any form of prejudice or discrimination, whether it be ethnic or religious."

Stemming from a need for issues of mutual concern such as this to be discussed and ideas exchanged, a proposal from the American Jewish Committee to meet with its national officers has been approved by the National Board for some convenient time in early 1989. The ultimate goal will be the inclusion of other ethnic and civil rights groups in these active exchanges with the objective of intensifying coalitional ties at the national level.

Resolution No. 1 and 15

Resolution No. 1, 15 and 16 provided for the promotion of world peace, obtaining medical assistance for the hibakusha and supporting the efforts to reduce world wide tension and a call for nuclear disarmament. The Atomic Bomb Survivors Committee, under chairmen Ken Nakano and Jim Tsujimura, continues its work to provide leadership in these issues endorsed by the National Council. Significant gains along these lines have been made with additional funds being made available from Japanese sources for hibakusha assistance. The most current action taken in support of these resolutions is the committee's co-sponsorship of the Hiroshima and Nagasaki memorial services on Aug. 6, which will keynote a message for peace and nuclear disarmament.

Resolution No. 25

Resolution No. 25 stipulates that the "JACL Washington, D.C. representative position be reinstated and filled at the earliest feasible time." With initial action set into motion by this office, and with the cooperation of the JACL-LEC, the JACL Washington office position reinstatement has been accomplished, effective May 1, 1988, on a part-time basis for this biennium.

Pending National Council approval of the budget, the position will be fully advertised and filled on a full-time basis, beginning January 1989. The report of the Washington office representative will reveal an already heavy

One-of-a-Kind Keepsake

IT IS, INDEED, one of a kind—332 pages in a hard cover binding and detailing the largest of the ten shuyo-sho's, Tule Lake. This camp had a population of some 18,000 inmates, of which I was one for a few months. Starting out with a directory section, the book lists each of the families, the block number, and the hometown from which they were uprooted. I looked up our family name, and there we were; I had not been quite sure of the last digit and letter, but upon seeing it my hunch was confirmed.

• Every inmate should have one, for posterity as well as recalling bitter and bitter-sweet memories.

THE TABLE OF CONTENTS lists the following: Ten Camps and Sixteen Assembly Centers; Shows and Entertainment; Social Highlights; Vital Statistics; Departures; Arrivals and Transfers; Service News; Farm Report;

Hospital News; Church Activities; Sports Highlights; and Education Highlights. The section on "Education Highlights" consists of a photocopy of the senior class at Tule, photographs and all—starting with Joe Abe and ending with Teruko Yumibe (followed by Mei Kitagawa who apparently was missed in establishing the lineup). Based on a quick count, I figured there were about 393 seniors. Among the names of the student body officers that I recognized were Eddie Yoshikawa (now of Twin Cities), president; Mollie Yasutake (now Fujioka), vice-president; John Kanda (Puyallup); Nobie Kodama Chan (Seattle); and Hiroshi Nakanishi (Renton).

Within the book are excerpts of news items from the Tulean Dispatch, the camp newspaper. (Someone called to my attention that there was even an

Violence Against Asians an Important Issue

What Will Replace Redress as JACL's Top Priority?

By Patti Adachi

If the redress bill is signed, what will replace redress as the top priority for JACL? Some see growing anti-Japanese sentiment and violence against Asians as a very important issue. Attacks on Asian Americans are increasing; they range from insults to beatings to murder.

The trade deficit is one factor. But why is the focus just on Japanese products? People buy German and Swedish cars, but autoworkers don't bash BMW's or Saabs. The media adds to the distorted notion that Japan is the cause of U.S. economic problems.

Not too long ago, the Chicago Tribune had a cartoon on its editorial page entitled "Blueprint of a Microship," which was revealed to be a map of Pearl Harbor, complete with the names of ships that were bombed.

A recent Forbes cover said: "How to Invade Japan: How One American Insurance Company Did It!" Magazines don't feature articles on how to invade Europe. They also don't tell us that Japan buys more U.S. farm products than the next three largest customers combined, or that 70 percent of the beef exported by the U.S. is bought by Japan.

Japan and the Third World are accused of taking jobs away from Americans.

Thank God for Jesse Jackson for pointing out on national TV that Third World countries aren't taking jobs from Americans—American companies choose to close plants in this country and open them in Third World countries where they can pay lower wages and make higher profits.

The 'Asian' Factor

Another factor: the last three wars we've been involved in have been with Asian countries. For the last 45 years, Asians have been The Enemy. I watched "Tour of Duty" recently—one of the few shows with any Asian faces. The only Asian faces I saw were Vietnamese guards beating up a blond American soldier and Asian faces looking up at approaching U.S. bombers and screaming before being blown up. (Yay!)

Asian Americans are victims of racial violence. For Sansei, this is new. But racial violence is an integral part of U.S. history since its beginnings. The first targets were Native Americans, then Afro-Americans, then Chinese immigrants. In the 1880s, a Chinese could not testify in court against a White person. You could see your mother murdered and not be able to testify in court.

A 100 years later, two White autoworkers murdered a Chinese American named Vincent Chin. They were let off with probation and a $2,000 fine. The judge said that they weren't really bad boys, and they weren't a danger to society. Whose society?

'White Man's Country'

The problem is this: there is in this country a deeply ingrained belief that America belongs to the White man. Those of us who aren't White are, no matter how long we've been here, not really American, not really wanted, tolerated only if we stay in our place (in the gardens, the kitchens, the laundries, the ghettos).

And those who commit racially motivated crimes believe they can get away with it—if they are White and their victims are not. Law enforcement officers and judges are sometimes as racist as the criminals. Sometimes they are one and the same. How many times does the lynch mob turn out to include the sheriff, the deputy, and the sheriff's brother-in-law?

Worth of One Complaint

The media. Millions watch TV and read the papers. We need to protest racist roles and articles. One letter from a viewer or reader is taken as representing 10,000 opinions.

We need more Asian Americans in the media in every area: writers, newscasters, actors, directors, producers. We need more roles. And they don't have to be as refugees or gangsters. Why can't we be in detergent commercials? We do our laundry. Why can't we be on any of the sit-coms? We have family crises and romances. There are Asian American yuppies. We could be on the yuppie shows. African Americans learned in the '60s that they had to start directing and producing their own shows; otherwise, they'd always be confined to roles as butlers, pimps, prostitutes, or hustlers. Asian Americans need to do the same.

And it would help if one of your typically clean-cut, all-American GI's on "Tour of Duty" was a Japanese American.

Racial violence must not be tolerated. Pressure must be put on law enforcement agencies, from the local level to the Justice Department, to enforce the law fairly and to protect everyone. In the Vincent Chin case, it took a Pan-Asian coalition effort to get the Justice Department to step in and press violation of civil rights charges against the murderers, and to get even a semblance of justice. But that is what we must do at this point if we want equal justice and protection under the law.

RESOLUTIONS

agenda of activity over the two month period.

Resolution No. 13

Resolution No. 13 "demands greater cooperation and communication among the National JACL, its board and its staff, and the LEC, in dealing with the top priority issue of redress..." This can be safely reported as accomplished, with a healing rapport established to the extent that a mental reminder was necessary to recall that such difficulties were present at the end of the last biennium. The national president and the makeup of both boards helped achieve this harmony.

There you have it—eight resolutions that were acted upon. As delegates, when you debate and ponder over resolutions, remember that they are meant to be translated into action by whomever at the national level has responsibility for that particular area. Remember also that resolutions ought to be written in a do-able form, making it possible for its intent to be carried through.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

An Insensitive Action

Over the years, I have been a witness to President Harry Kajihara's energetic involvement with the JACL organization.

He reactivated, almost single-handedly, the long dormant Ventura County Chapter in the early '80s. He conducted himself admirably as the PSWD redress chair and as governor of that district. He definitely is a person of action, but, at times, not always properly directed.

I wish to address just one issue which he mentions in his "President's Corner" column (P.C., July 22-29, 1988), i.e. the Personnel Manual. He refers to the Personnel Committee as a watchdog committee, and he is correct for it had immediately set up an adversarial relationship between the board and staff. (I use "board" in its broadest interpretation).

President Kajihara states that his administration was "most concerned over staff." I am in my 10th year as a staff person for JACL and I was never consulted in the revision of the manual and I believe I can safely say neither was any other staff person. May I quote another staff person's statement: "The entire process, for example, in developing a personnel manual was one in which staff detected a clear feeling of antagonism from the board. To this day, I don't believe staff has had a meaningful role in the process, which I believe has lacked integrity..."

Historically, the revised manual was presented to the National Board in February, 1987, without prior reading by staff or most members of the National Board.

In April of 1987 the PSWD Council in near unanimity, one chapter dissenting, rejected the revised version. Similar rejections took place in other districts. At the June, 1987, National Board meeting, President Kajihara thanked the committee for its work and transferred the function to Vice President of Operations Yosh Nakashima with instructions for completion and presentation at the National Convention in Seattle. Much to my surprise, the personnel manual, with the exception of revising staff benefits, was accepted at the Washington, D.C. National Board meeting held in October of 1987. It was the same revised manual which was overwhelmingly rejected by the "grassroots" JACLers.

This unilateral decision to "push" through the revised personnel manual clearly indicates a disregard for those affected by it and no amount of platitudes and rhetoric will cover up this insensitive action.

Commending Uyeda

I would like to congratulate Dr. Clifford Uyeda and the Golden Gate JACL chapter for introducing the resolution that would admit to JACL's errors made during the trying times of WW 2. at their District Council meeting on June 26.

The adoption of this resolution by the National Council at the National JACL convention in Seattle would add to the stature of JACL as a civil and human rights organization. Organizations, like even democratic governments, can make mistakes as did our government in the issuance of Executive Order 9066. This resolution, if adopted at the coming convention, would remove much of the antagonism that a number of Nikkei still hold against JACL.

I encourage the adoption of this resolution as an old time JACL member dating back to over 50 years.

JACL Needs Money to Fight Backlash

I see that none of the three presidential candidates have a strong position on a U.S.-Japan relations program. I was the 1981 National Treasurer when President Jim Tsujimura was the first JACL representative to visit Japan. Since that time, I have not changed my position.

For JACL to think it can have some impact on U.S./Japan trade relations is wishful thinking. Some so-called experts said the Japanese government was waiting to see what President Tsujimura would do after his return. Basically, the Japanese government has been patting us on the head like little children, and, other than about 20 people being invited over for a visit by the LDP party, that is about all that's happened.

The major reason Japan is interested in the U.S. is to make money. There's nothing wrong with that since that's the primary reason in any business. Unfortunately, Japanese Americans and other Asian Americans are affected by any negative backlash created by objections to the Japanese companies. JACL then has to try and fight this backlash with both time and money. Japan is spending $341 million in 1988 to build their influence and goodwill in the U.S. $140 million is going to corporate philanthropy and another $45 million into public affairs.

I haven't seen JACL getting any of this money—other than a few corporate memberships. I believe JACL should get a million dollars a year or so just like many other non-profit organizations; then we could do an effective job of fighting the backlash that keeps popping up. I advocated this in 1981 when Japan sent a study team over, and it's truer today, except the dollars are much greater.

Free trips for a few does nothing to help the organization fight the problems. Money and business is the bottom line. The figures are from the July 11th issue of BusinessWeek Magazine, which features the topic of "Japan's Influence in America."

Proxy Vote Bylaw Amendment Is Strange

For some unknown reason JACL has refused to recognize that the proxy limitation of three per delegate has been a part of the JACL bylaws since 1978.

This limitation was unanimously passed by the JACL National Council at the Salt Lake City National Convention. It was duly recorded in the National Council minutes.

Again, however, JACL is publicizing "the proxy vote bylaw to be amended" to three per delegate at the coming Seattle convention.

The proposed amendment is a strange procedure after numerous notices had been sent to JACL about the 1978 JACL National Council action.

Belated Thanks

I apologize for this very delayed response to the extremely gracious article you printed about me in your February 5th issue. I did not see the article when it came out, and I only recently got a copy through some good friends in the Japanese American community. Although it is late, I wanted you to know how much I appreciated the things you said.

Working with the leaders of the Japanese American community on this important piece of legislation—which I believe will be on the president's desk by the time you get this letter—has been one of the most pleasant and rewarding experiences of my congressional career.

Thank you for this latest in a series of kindnesses that has been shown to me by those interested in this bill.

article written by this columnist, and darned if that was not so! I only vaguely recall writing it.)

THIS AMBITIOUS PROJECT was undertaken and most commendably completed by Harry Inukai, who was uprooted from Hood River, Ore., where he now resides again. Harry joined the camp newspaper staff just about the time I left for Mitchell, S.D., to attend college. I don't know when Harry first started putting this book together, but he deserves an award for perseverance. The end product is a historical compilation of facts, figures and faces. The various excerpts from the camp newspaper provide a revealing retrospection of what life was like in the camp.

Take, for example, the section labeled "Service News."

THERE ARE SOME 3,600 inmates from the camps in the service, with a total of 150 already killed in action and some 15 missing in action. Four brothers from Minidoka volunteered—Kenny, Ted, Chet and Howard Sakura. A First World War veteran, who had participated in famous battles such as Marno, Argonne and Chateau Thierry, volunteered and was accepted—after he had his teeth put back into shape. It was John Tanigawa, who then had a wife and four children. Talk about commitment.

Then there is a recital of men who came to the camp on furlough. Somehow, I find that particularly and tragically poignant—a fighting man visiting his family, perhaps for the very last time, where his family is incarcerated by the country he is serving.

THE CAMP RECEIVED its first inmates in May of 1942 from the Puyallap and Portland camps. The Pinedale contingent (that's me) arrived in July of that year. And so it goes. It is a book that one keeps to pull out every once in a while to discover something new. It will be a keepsake in this family.

Note: As long as supplies last, the book can be ordered for $29.95 postage paid. Send checks to: Harry Inukai, 4650 Punch Bowl Road, Hood River, OR 97031.

committee, has a provision that would health insurance.

The bill was authored by longtime redress supporter Assemblyman Pat Johnston (D-Calif.).

The federal legislation, currently stalled in a congressional conference exempt former internees from having to pay federal taxes on the $20,000 payment.

"AB 4087 would do on the state level what the federal redress bill would do on the federal level," said Jeff Shelton, Johnston's chief of staff, in regard to the tax exemption provision.

In 1982, Johnston sponsored a bill that paid $5,000 in reparations to Japanese American state employees who were fired in 1942. However, payments went only to those who were still living at the time of the enactment of the bill.

A provision in Johnston's new legislation would pay up to $5,000 in lost wages to the spouses of now-deceased Japanese Americans who were fired by the state during the war. This provision should affect about 16 people, Sheraton said.

Under AB 4087, state programs that base eligibility on a person's income will not add the federal reparations as part of their eligibility formula.

"If the federal (redress) legislation is enacted, there was a concern in the Japanese American community that people who are on Medi-Cal would become ineligible due to the $20,000 they would receive," said Shelton.

The California Department of Health Services, which administers the Medi-Cal program, has indicated that it would count the reparations as income, he noted.

The tax exemption and social services provision of Johnston's bill are directly tied to the signing into law of the federal redress legislation, while the provision concerning surviving spouses of state employees is not, according to Shelton.

The state Senate Appropriations Committee will hold hearings on AB 4087 on Aug. 1.

Death Notices

Professor Roy M. Nakayama, 64, a horticulturist devoted to breeding chilis, died July 11 in Las Cruces, N.M. A resident of Las Cruces, Nakayama taught and did research in agriculture and horticulture at New Mexico State University for 32 years before retiring in 1984. Plants he developed account for 80 percent of the commercially grown chili in New Mexico, according to his wife, Rose.

Surviving are his wife Rose; mother Tome of Las Cruces; brothers Carl and Joe, both of Las Cruces, Willie of Miami, and John of Albuquerque, N.M.; and sister Ann Davis of Many, La.

racing cars in the GT class by Tom Takeda, 25, of Monterey Park.

Among the special events, the Nisei Week fashion show, co-sponsored by the SCAN/NLA JACL chapters, will be held from Sunday noon, Aug. 7, at the Century Plaza Hotel and just hours after the Coronation Ball set for 6 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 6.

Six aspirants and sponsors for Miss 1988 Nisei Week are Lily Miyauchi, 21, (East L.A. JACL and VFW); Kris Kayko Moriyama, 22, (South Bay JACL); Kay Niizawa, 24 (San Fernando Valley JACCC); Renee Reiko Teruya, 23 (West L.A. JACL, Aux'y and Venice JCC); Karen M. Uchizono, 21 (East San Gabriel Valley JCC); and Susan Iida, 23 (Gardena Valley JACL).

Over 30 Japanese cultural exhibits and demonstrations are scheduled during Nisei Week, Aug. 6-14, at the JACCC, Little Tokyo Square, Weller Court, new Union Church, Higashi Honganji, Zenshujii, and lobby of the Cal 1st and Sumitomo banks in Little Tokyo. The kamon-family name exhibit will be held during the week at the JACCC. Rm. 401.

Japanese martial arts and sports events include bowling, volleyball, tennis and golf tournaments plus the 9th annual Samurai 5K run Aug. 7 and the Coors/Nisei Week criterium bike race Aug. 13, in and around Little Tokyo.

For further details, call the Nisei Week Office: (213) 687-7193.

For the Record

The amendment to the JACL Preamble being proposed (page 7, July 5-12 P.C.) by the Nikkei Leadership Assn. JACL inserts "more than three words (which were the only ones underlined in the proposal)" as noted and designates "all peoples" in place of "all Americans". The proposed preamble reads:

We, Members of the Japanese American Citizens League, in order to foster American Democracy, promote active participation in civic and national life, and secure Justice and Equal Opportunities for Americans of Japanese Ancestry, as well as for all People regardless of Race, Creed and Religion, Color, National Origin, Age, Sex, or Sexual Orientation, do establish this Constitution for the Japanese American Citizens League of the United States of America.

Ring of Diverse Opinions Circle Redress

REPAIRING AMERICA: An Account of the Movement for Japanese-American Redress. William M. Hohri. Washington State University Press, Pullman, Wash., soft, 247pp, $15.

By Philip Tajitsu Nash

By his own description, William Hohri's Repairing America, is "an account and not a comprehensive history." The account, however, is a thought-provoking, highly-readable story of the 1970s and '80s phases of the Japanese-American redress movement. Significantly, it is written by one of the key players in that movement, as well as one of its major chroniclers (in the monthly National Council for Japanese American Redress newsletter), so the book continuously brings new insights while walking the fine line between objective reporting and subjective analysis.

Hohri makes an important contribution because the book shows the diversity of opinion within the Japanese American community, serves as an antidote to carefully manicured "official" Japanese American Citizens League histories, and reminds activists and civil libertarians of all backgrounds that justice, while sometimes slow and painful in coming, is worth struggling for.

Repairing America, mercifully, does not try to recreate the scholarly work done by Michi Weglyn, Peter Irons, Roger Daniels and others on wartime Washington, the camps, and early postwar redress efforts. After a few poignant vignettes from his own childhood, summaries of the scholarship of others (supported by an adequate bibliography and an innovative capsulized historical overview), and kudos to a few unsung redress pioneers (James Omura, Joe Kurihara, Kiyoshi Okamoto), Hohri launches into the heart of his story: the Congressional Commission on Wartime Relocation and Internment of Civilians hearings and the formation and work of NCJAR.

Hohri provides a major service to the Japanese American community and to future generations of researchers by pulling together both the facts and the flavor of the various CWRIC hearings. Although he had to rely on the reading of unpublished transcripts for those hearings he did not attend, his thumbnail character sketches and anecdotes for those he did attend provide a story that is more people-focused than the CWRIC's official report, Personal Justice Denied, and more readable than later compilations like the report of the House Judiciary Committee's Subcommittee on Administrative Law and Governmental Relations. Reinforcing this book's importance is the fact that the CWRIC, sadly, refused to publish the transcripts of its own hearings.

As for the NCJAR story, it is one that Hohri and others have helped to chronicle since 1979 in his newsletter and various other Asian American publications. This book is a noteworthy addition from a historical perspective, however, because Hohri has taken the time to pull the story—including the split from the JACL, the dispute between the Seattle and Chicago founders, the campaigning in Congress for the Lowry redress bill, the filing of the class action lawsuit, and the convoluted courtroom history of that lawsuit—into a coherent, generally-available form.

Of special interest to many will be the details of how that historic lawsuit, soon to be returned to the Supreme Court, was conceived, financed and propelled forward by a combination of sacrifice, instinct, faith, insight, hard work, and a few instances of pure happenstance.

The down side of Hohri's book, if it can be called that, is related to its brevity and readability, because it leaves the reader asking for more details. Hohri alludes to but diplomatically avoids explaining in greater detail why NCJAR did not establish chapters outside Chicago, the dispute between NCJAR's Seattle and Chicago founders, and other issues. Given the public pummeling he has received from Mike Masaoka and other JACL stalwarts, Hohri is also unusually reserved in his criticism of the JACL and others with whom he has tangled over the years.

Curiously, however, I also found this punch-pulling diplomacy to be one of the strengths of this book—especially at this critical juncture in both the legislative and judicial paths to redress. By acknowledging that, "It remains for history to judge how effective these (CWRIC) hearings were in reaching the goal of redressing Japanese American grievances," Hohri is both keeping the door open to intra-community dialogue and holding out the possibility of a more incisive analysis once the current phase of the redress struggle has been concluded.

In the final accounting, however, Hohri's greatest contribution in Repairing America is not related to CWRIC, NCJAR, or any aspect of the camps or redress. For, by showing dissident views of history, describing the growth of one person's activism (no one is born to it), and reminding us of the difficult personal dimension of social change, Hohri has written a book that will inspire generations of readers to "protect, . . . improve, . . . and repair" our liberties, our institutions, and—ultimately—America itself.

Nash is a law professor at City University of New York.

AA Business Directory to Be Published

DENVER — The Asian American Foundation of Colorado is producing an Asian/American business directory of Colorado.

The purpose of this directory is to increase the visibility of Asian businesses in both the Asian and non-Asian communities in and out of Colorado.

A minimum of 10,000 directories will be distributed free of charge throughout Colorado, major U.S.

cities, and Asian countries.

The Asian American Foundation is a nonprofit organization established in 1987 to increase awareness of the Asian cultures as well as to raise funds for social and mental health related issues that affect Asians in Colorado.

Iacocca Book Has An Anti-Japanese Effect, Says Matsui

DETROIT— A charge of racism made by Rep. Robert Matsui (D-Calif.) in 1985 had so infuriated Lee Iacocca that he makes reference to it in his newest book, Talking Straight, according to a recent Detroit News review.

"I've been called a lot of things in my life [some I've even deserved], but nobody has ever called me a racist," Iacocca is quoted as saying.

Other passages from Talking Straight have the same anti-Japanese effect, said Matsui.

"I'm not here to defend Japan," said the congressman. "But from an international perspective we shouldn't take potshots at our allies.

"Japanese Americans are always concerned about a backlash, such as with the Vincent Chin case. I would expect a leader of the business world to be more sensitive, especially being from an Italian-immigrant background. That's disappointing."

Iacocca, Matsui stated, should examine his own company's Japanese ties if he is so concerned about the U.S. trade deficit.

Matsui made his accusation after the Chrysler Corp. chairman delivered a foreign trade speech to House Democrats at the Greenbrier resort in West Virginia. The speech, according to Matsui, "was trying to inflame our passions and racial stereotypes and bring up the specter of World War II again."

The congressman said he later received an apology, but that Iacocca did not retract his statements. The News article notes that although one page of the book is devoted to the Greenbrier incident, Iacocca omits the part that most angered Matsui.

Japan, not Russia, Iacocca had said, was to blame for "laying waste to my business and to most of the rest of the business in this country."

Book Chronicles the Experiences of the Yasui Family

SAN MATEO, Calif. — The Japanese American Curriculum Project (JACP), Inc. is distributing The Yasui Family of Hood River, Oregon, written by Dr. Robert S. Yasui of Williamsport, Pa., and edited by Holly Yasui. Published by Desktop Publishing in 1987, the book chronicles the life of the Yasui family beginning with the stories of Masuo and Shidzuyo Yasui, the parents of seven Yasui children, of the most well known of whom is the late Minoru Yasui.

Minoru Yasui spearheaded the drive for redress and fought to have his original decision declared unconstitutional. He worked tirelessly up to his death in late 1986. Even with substantial support, the courts refused to continue the suit after his death.

The book documents the struggles shared by one Japanese American family and their continuing faith in the United States to provide justice for the injustices suffered. In writing this history, Robert Yasui hopes that, "other Nisei readers may find similarities with their own families, and perhaps they, too, will be inspired to write such a journal for their children before our generation passes on."

The 148 page-book is available from JACP, Inc., PO Box 367, San Mateo, CA 94401, for $10.95 (soft) plus $2.71 for shipping. For faster delivery, call (415) 343-9408.

THE JAPANESE OVERSEAS: Can They Go Home Again? Merry White. The Free Press (Macmillan), New York. 179pp, $19.95.

An incisive sociological study offering new perspectives, this is about people who must negotiate the difficult return from an outward-looking economy (U.S.) to an inward-looking culture (Japan). Central to the theme, the Boston University professor introduces the uchi concept as being the most important for family, community and the workplace. If that concept arouses your interest, the problem that is a national issue in Japan will draw sympathetic Nisei-Sansei concern. — H.H.

JAPANESE LANGUAGE AND CULTURE FOR BUSINESS AND TRAVEL. Kyoko Hijirida and Muneo Yoshikawa. Univ. of Hawaii Press, Honolulu, HI 96822, soft, 375pp, $27.95.

Unlike the traditional language textbook, the two Univ. of Hawaii professors of Japanese focus on the specific needs of the travel industry-related businesses and for those who do business with people of Japan. Integrated are discussions on Japanese psychology, philosophy, linguistics, religion, geography, history and business "to develop certain cultural skills" the authors feel must be developed for effective communication. — H.H.

FRANK MOSHER

"I have waited a long time for this book and the story it tells." —From the INTRODUCTION by Mike Mansfield, United States Ambassador to Japan

They Call Me Moses Masaoka

This is the story of one man's crusade that helped to change history. No one has accomplished more for Japanese Americans than Moses Masaoka. As spokesperson for his people, he led a journey through the wilderness of imprisonment and discrimination; made it possible for interned American citizens of Japanese ancestry to serve their country in combat; spearheaded the drive to eliminate race as a consideration in American naturalization laws; and helped—through his tremendous Washington lobbying power—transform a postwar Japan dependent on U.S. handouts for survival into America's largest overseas trading partner.

"This book covers a world of interesting material." —James A. Michener

"THEY CALL ME MOSES MASAOKA is the story not just of one man, but of a people. It should be required reading for all Americans." —Senator Spark M. Matsunaga

"An important and sobering book." —New York Times

"It is an intimate, moving story of broad significance." —Edwin O. Reischauer, United States Ambassador to Japan, 1961-66
