JACL announces 1992 scholarships

SAN FRANCISCO—Applications and brochures for the 1992 JACL National Scholarship and Awards Program will be available after October, 1991, from JACL chapters, JACL regional offices and JACL national headquarters.

The 1992 scholarship program will award more than $70,000 to deserving freshmen, undergraduates, and college graduate students in the creative and performing arts.

Next year's program will also include a new scholarship, the Minoru Yasui Scholarship, which will be awarded to an outstanding graduate or undergraduate student interested in civil rights.

Students interested in applying for the 1992 program should send a no. 10-wide self-addressed stamped envelope to JACL national headquarters, 1765 Sutter St., San Francisco, CA, 94115, attention: scholarship. Students should indicate their level of study when requesting applications. Application forms will be mailed to students after October of this year.

Information: Cheryl Kagawa, 415/921-5225.

Announcing the 1991 scholarship winners

The winners of the 1991 JACL scholarships are featured in this week's issue, beginning on page 6.

'Yellow peril' still with us in journalism, study says

One hundred years later, "yellow peril" bigotry still exists in the nation's media. That's the conclusion of a recent survey of stories printed and broadcast in 1990 and 1991, according to the Asian American Journalists Association (AAJA).

In its study, "The Good, the Bad and the Ugly," the AAJA said that "for journalists, it is distressing that examples of the same transgressions that marked the press during the Yellow Peril campaign continue to crop up in today's print and broadcast coverage of Asian Pacific Americans."

The study is the result of a review of nearly 50 print and broadcast stories released at the organization's Aug. 23 national convention in Seattle.

Some of the transgressions included:

- The use of military and war terminology and metaphors such as a headline in the Daily Breeze (Torrance, Calif.) that read "Asian Invasion." The story was about the changing demographics of Los Angeles' South Bay communities.

- Ethnic slurs uttered over the airwaves. One of the examples cited was the comment by WNTR (Washington, D.C.) radio personality Cliff Kincaid who referred to CBS news anchor Connie Chung as "Connie Chink."

- Inflammatory reporting of topics that stir racial or xenophobic reactions. The report focused on U.S.-Japan economic relations as a topic which could provoke anti-Japanese or anti-Asian hostilities, much of which is directed on Americans of Asian Pacific descent. Some stories focused on Japan-bashing and contained racial overtones and did not provide stories containing facts, expert testimony or historical background.

Examples cited in the report included stories and editorial cartoons that used caricatures and stereotypes, lack of equity in coverage, and inadequacy in the coverage of minorities.

To combat the problem, the report suggests that the news media simply practice good journalism. "The case studies here underscore the need to continue to exhort the print and broadcast news media to stand ever vigilant against the use of racially offensive slurs, terminology, stereotypes and caricatures," the report said.

The survey results were compiled by the Center for Integration and Improvement of Journalism, based at San Francisco State University.

The report will be sent to news directors, editors, and educators. Single copies are available for $2 from AAJA, 1765 Sutter St., Room 1000, San Francisco, CA, 94115; 415/346-2051.

Group petitions to oppose L.A. war monument

LOS ANGELES—A Korean War Vets group has gathered some 1,705 names on a petition to oppose the war memorial monument that was proposed for Little Tokyo by the 100th/442nd/MIS Foundation.

The petition, also supported by a group called the Concerned Nikkei Vets, will present the results to Los Angeles Mayor Tom Bradley in hopes of changing the concept that would have the monument reflect only those who fought in World War II while their parents and families were interned in the camps.

The groups sponsoring the petition seek to have the monument reflect all Japanese American soldiers who died in that and any other war or conflict.

According to a prepared statement by the petitioning group, "the most controversial issue between the Concerned Vets and the Memorial Foundation is that, without authority or full Japanese American community support, the Memorial Foundation has established guidelines to place the names of living veterans and civilian MIS cadre men on the proposed war memorial monument. These names will include only those selected and approved by their name selection committee."

"... It is our contention that the names of Japanese Americans who were killed in action on the U.S.S. Maine, World War I, World War II, Korea (214 killed-in-action), Viet Nam (118 killed-in-action), Grenada (one killed-in-action), and Desert Storm (one killed-in-action) would be more representative of the sacrifices of Japanese Americans during wars and conflicts than to cover the granite monument with names of selected living veterans."

Ethnic exchange

2nd redress round begin

NEW YORK—It's Redress, Round 2.

The first checks of the second round of payments will be presented to six persons from the New York area at a ceremony to be held at the Japanese American United Church at 10 a.m., Wednesday, Oct. 2.

Presenting the checks to the former internees will be John R. Dunne, assistant attorney general for the U.S. Department of Justice, and Robert K. Bratt, administrator of the Office of Redress Administration (ORA).

The program will begin with opening remarks by Cyril Nishimoto, director of Japanese American Social Services, Inc. (JASSI) and coordinator of the event.

It is appropriate that Dunne present these checks since he is a former New York state senator, having represented Long Island's Sixth Senate district for 24 years.

The event is open to the public. The Japanese American United Church is located at 255 Seventh Ave.

Youth meeting set for Nov. 8-10 in Los Angeles

The 1991 JACL National Youth Conference is scheduled for Nov. 8-10 at the Marriott Residence Inn, Torrance, Calif.

The purpose of the conference is to bring together youth, students, and new and old members to learn more about the organization and its purpose, according to Trisha Murakawa, chairwoman of the organization's National Youth Council.

The conference features a welcome reception and small group projects. Workshops are: "Cultural Values and Cultural Awareness/Assertiveness Training," presented by J.D. Hokoyama, executive director of Leadership Education for Asian Pacifics, and "Advocacy Training for the Activist of the '90s," presented by Marissa Castro, director of Asian/Pacific Affairs for Assembly Speaker Willie Brown.

The conference is primarily directed at student groups and organizations but is open to everyone. Cost is $20.

Information: Kim Nakahara, JACL national headquarters, 415/921-5225.

Matsui named treasurer by Democrats

WASHINGTON—Rep. Robert T. Matsui (D-Sacramento) was named treasurer of the national Democratic Party Sept. 4, according to Robert H. Brown, national party chairman.

Reflecting on the job ahead, Matsui said he would do a better job collecting presidential campaign contributions from Sacramento to Bakersfield.

"There are a lot of untapped resources in California's Central Valley," Matsui said. "The Central Valley has been seen as kind of negative by the Democratic Party. The Democrats can't ignore the area any longer."

MATSUI

Matsui also said that Democrats should be able to collect campaign contributions from people in agriculture and small business, who largely favor the Republican Party.

He added that his new duties will not interfere with his responsibilities as U.S. House member from Sacramento.

Guide gives tips for coverage of Pearl Harbor

In anticipation of the media's coverage of the upcoming 50th anniversary of the attack on Pearl Harbor, the Asian American Journalists Association has published a booklet for journalists covering the event.

"We must strive to report the Pearl Harbor anniversary, and the commemorations that will follow, in a manner that does not inflame passions or drive a wedge of hate between peoples and nations," said a spokesperson for the Asian American Journalists Association of San Francisco.

Titled "Air Raid Pearl Harbor: a Guide for Editors, News Directors and Reporters Covering the 50th Anniversary Commemoration of the Attack on Pearl Harbor," the booklet contains facts and figures, a chronology, an article about U.S. limitations on citizenship rights for Japanese in America prior to the passage of the McCarran-Walter Act in 1952, and practical tips about coverage.

The AAJA will distribute the booklet, prepared by the Hawaii chapter of the organization, to publishers, editors, and news directors of all media. For a copy, contact the AAJA, 1765 Sutter St., Room 1000, San Francisco, CA, 94115; 415/346-2051. There is no charge for single copies.

Agenda

Washington, D.C.

A special event each year is the chapter Keiro-Kai dinner, which honors members and guests who are 70 years of age or older and supporters of JACL. The 1991 affair to be held Saturday, Sept. 21, 5 - 8 p.m. at the Bradley Hills Presbyterian Church, 6601 Bradley Blvd., Bethesda, Md., is potluck with Maryland residents being asked to bring salads; D.C. residents, desserts; and Virginia residents, cold beverage. The Toho Koto Society will entertain. The national JACL redress video will be shown.

Salt Lake City

Plans for a 1992 chapter membership directory were announced in July. Intended for the private use of its members to get better acquainted, it will include name, address, ZIP+4 and phone numbers, according to Dale R. Arnold, 11715 S. Nicklaus Rd., Sandy, UT 84092-5867, 801/571-8623. It was explained that because the chapter uses USPS bulk rate services, ZIP+4 will help reduce mailing costs.

Sonoma County

Four chapter-administered scholarship winners were honored at the annual Sonoma County JACL picnic in August. They were Bryan Ito (Montgomery High), JACL; Ryan Miyasaki (Piner High) and Amy Goodman (Santa Rosa High), Petaluma Japanese Sunday School; and Lisa Meyers (Analy High), JACL student grant. Margaret Wallman, who has chaired the scholarship committee since 1985, made the presentations.

Ms. Wallman, it was noted in the chapter newsletter, is taking steps to have her name changed back legally to Matsuyama. Her father, Alvin (Matsuyama) Wellman, had been a teenager interned during WWII and his experience (according to information she had received) resulted in the choice to change his name from Matsuyama to his mother's maiden name Wallman.

Reno

The dates of the chapter's "Big Fish Story" fish fry-potluck has been changed from Sept. 15 to Sept. 22, at the Knights of Pythias Hall. Various entrees of fish will be served as each fisherman participating in the fish fry is expected to provide a fish story during dinner.

The chapter is also gathering recipes and "ancient Japanese secrets" for its APANN (Asian Pacific American of Northern Nevada) cookbook. Sharon Fujii, P.O. Box 71330 Reno, NV 89570-1330, is in charge.

Portland

To draw greater attention to the Japanese American Historical Plaza at Portland's Tom McCall Waterfront Park, the Oregon Nikkei Endowment (ONE) has launched a new book project—"a permanent, transportable version of the memorial for those who want to see it but are unable to visit, or for those who have seen it and want to take a part of it into their homes," explained Henry Sakamoto, ONE president.

The Nikkei memorial commemorates the history of Japanese Americans in the Pacific Northwest and won national and international praise since its completion in August, 1990. Project date of publication is fall 1992, according to project coordinator Mark Sherman, ONE Book Project, P.O. Box 3458, Portland, OR, 97208, 503/228-7404.

Diablo Valley

Twenty members were given a rare treat in July when they toured San Quentin prison, thanks to arrangements made by Eizo Kobayashi, a chapter member and an administrator for the Calif. Department of Corrections. The tour was arranged because of Kobayashi's concern of the growing number of Asian (a few of them being Japanese) inmates and the need for more Asians to work in corrections/social services.

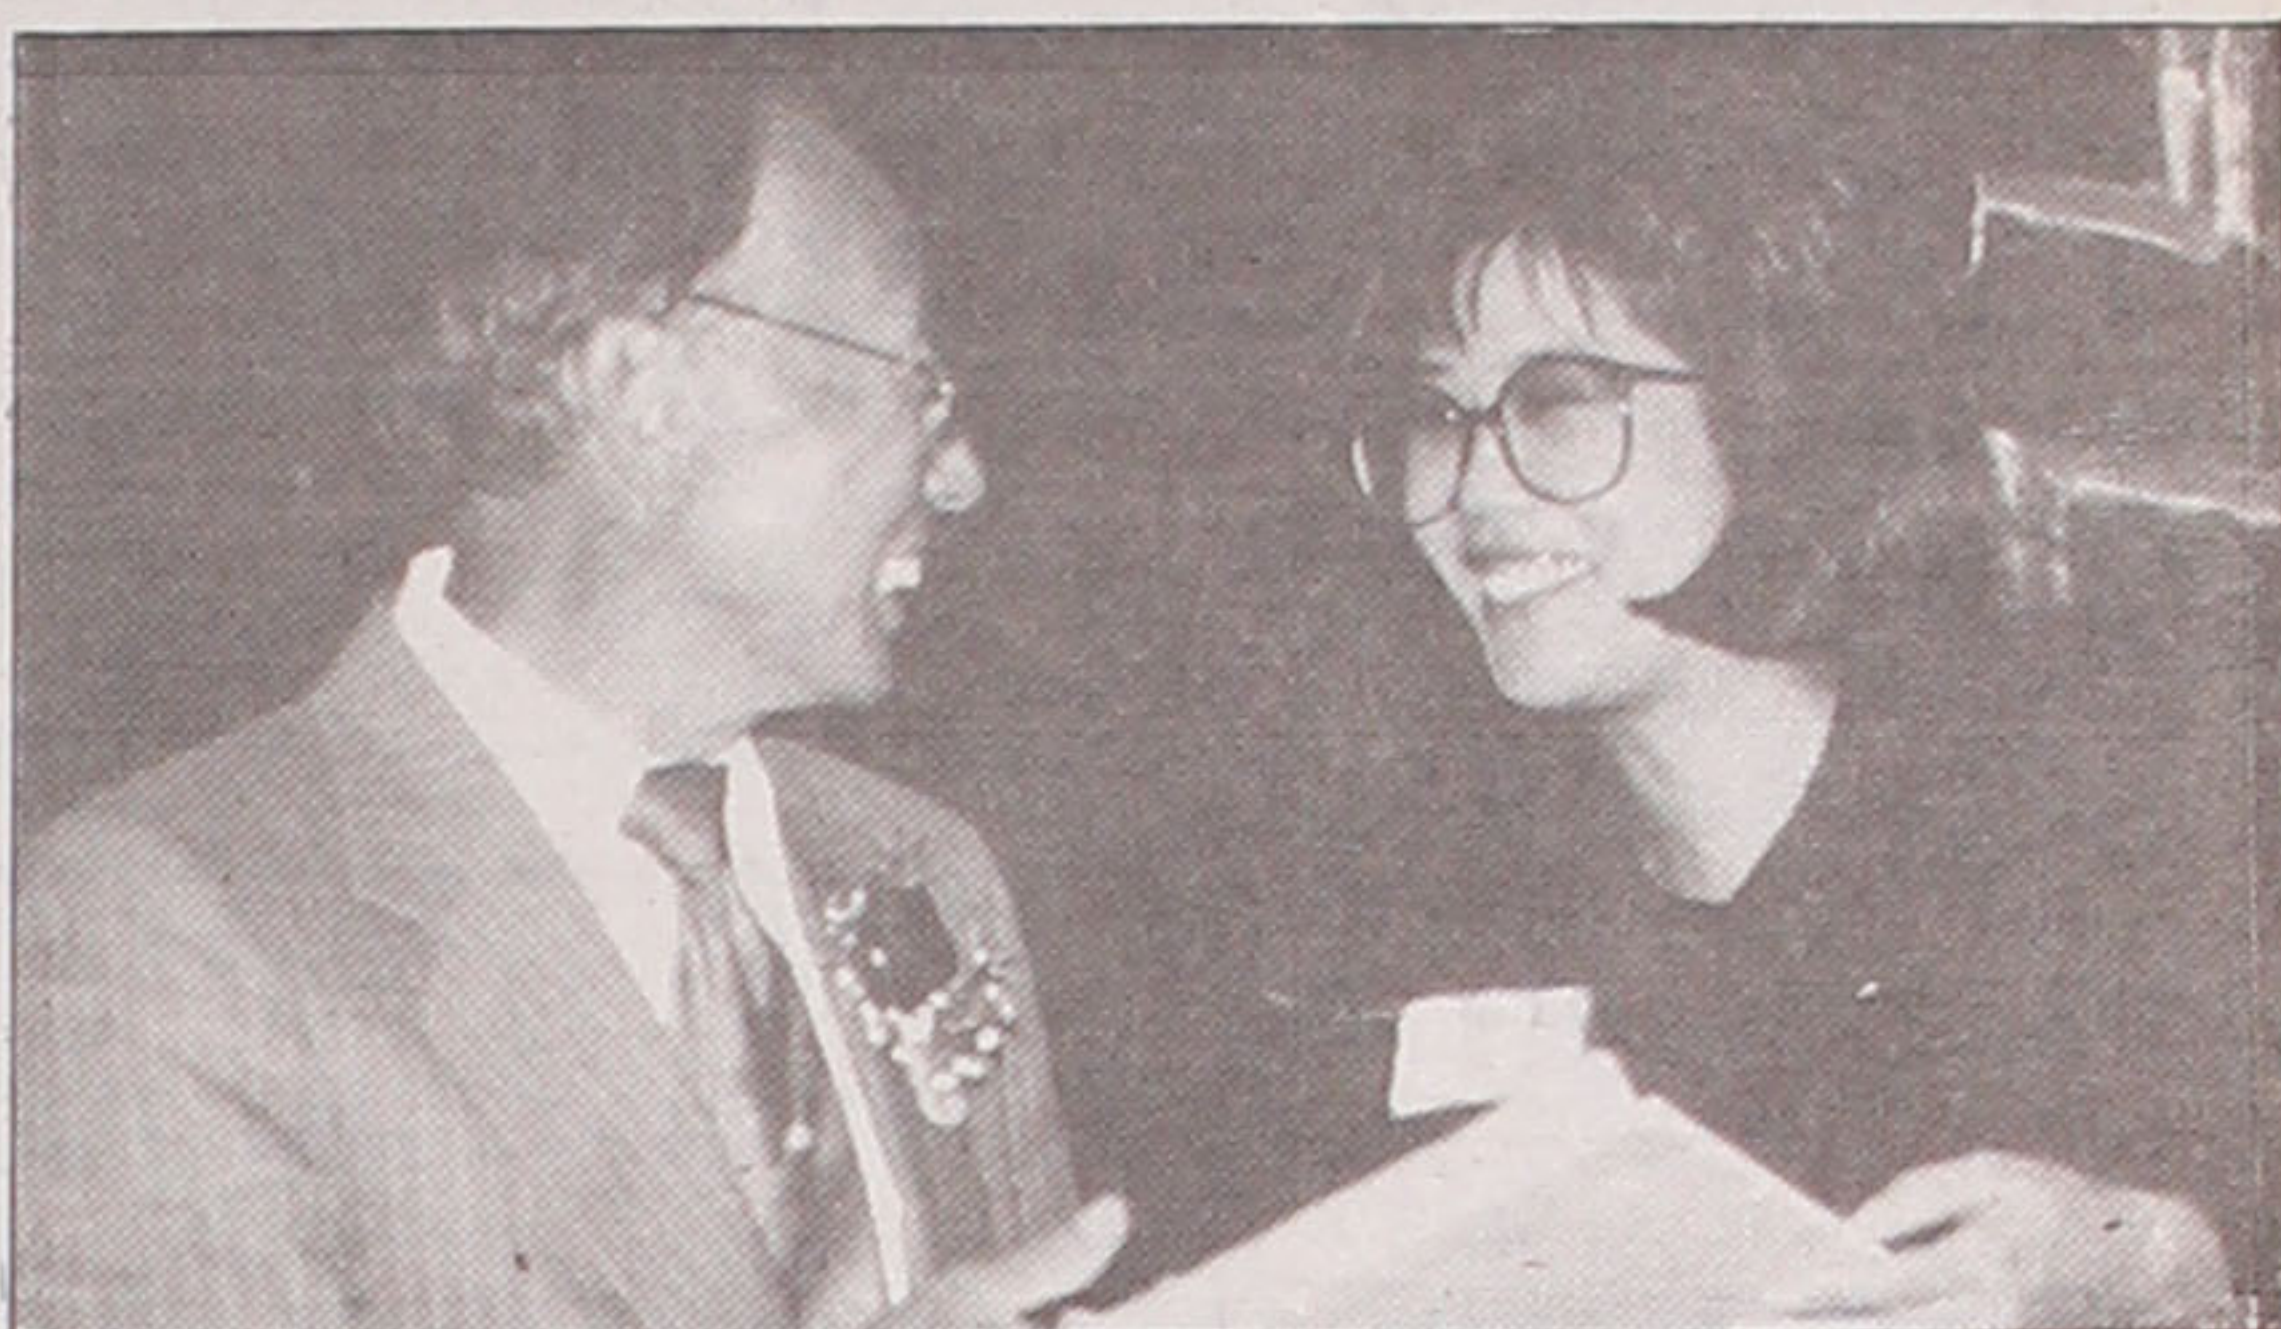

Tour included lunch with the warden, Dan Vasquez, who spoke on the prison's history, statistics on the number and type of inmates, current fiscal and budgetary problems. His assistant, Don Lindsey, and Eizo led the "grand tour—including cell blocks, exercise yards, shop areas and the entrance door to the gas chamber ... except death row."

San Francisco

Progress of the (Feb. 19) Day of Remembrance resolution, initiated in June 1990 jointly with the local American Friends Service Committee and school board member Dr. Leland Yee, culminated in resource guides being placed with each school in the San Francisco Unified School District and a teacher's guide for each instructor. Because chapter funds (about $5,000) were used to have the guides printed in time for the Feb. 19, 1991, observances, the chapter board is seeking donations, earmarked for the Education Fund. Those who desire a copy of the guides or know of someone in the education field who would like a copy, write to San Francisco JACL, P.O. Box 22425, San Francisco, CA 94122.

Lake Washington

Retiring

Tom Fujimoto (left) was honored at a recent retirement dinner in Sacramento for his 41 years of service with the California Water Resources Department and the California Water Commission. He is also a former Sacramento Chapter president, the current president of the Hokka Kumamoto Kenjin Kai, a former president of the MIS of Northern California, and many other organizations. Presenting Fujimoto with a pin is Joy Morimoto, NCWNP regional director.

The sale of Entertainment® books ($40) is the only money-making project of the year for the chapter, as it gets underway in September with Elsie Tokita (206/641-6512) and Yo Yasuda (641-8182) in charge.

The annual Christmas dinner will be held on Sunday, Dec. 8, at Woodmark Hotel in Kirkland.

Dennis Uyemura, former chapter vice president, was appointed to the JACL Legacy Fund Investment Committee by National JACL president Cressey Nakagawa. Very active in the community, Uyemura is executive vice president and CEO for First Interstate Bank and was recently appointed by Gov. Booth Gardner to the Bellevue Community College board of directors.

Puyallup Valley

Endorsed by the local and district JACL, the Hui-o-Hawaii Club of the University of Puget Sound of Tacoma has announced plans for a 50th anniversary remembrance of the signing of Executive Order 9066, the evacuation and internment of Japanese Americans during World War II next Feb. 18-22 at the UPS campus. Club president Scott Higashi, a Yonsei student from Hawaii, is being assisted by PNWDC Governor Bob Sato, PNW regional director Karen Yoshitomi and local JACL leaders including H. Del Tanabe, Joe Kosai, Dr. John Kanda, Robert Mizukami and Tish Sasaki.

Dr. Gordon Hirabayashi has accepted the invitation to be a principal speaker. As other speakers and panelists are confirmed for participation, they will be announced.

In lieu of a dinner honoring graduates this year, the honorees

Personally speaking

On Aug. 23, Toy Kanegai was honored by the West Los Angeles Japanese American Community Center at a recognitions luncheon in Santa Monica. As the seventh resident in the area to be decorated by the Emperor of Japan, she was awarded the Order of the Precious Crown, Sixth Class, for "a lifetime of extraordinary and creative leadership" this past spring.

John Nagata, assistant superintendent for the L.A. Unified School District's information and technology division, received a national award for achievement in managing information technology. Only seven executives received the award this year at the ceremony held in New York City by the American Management Systems, Inc., and the Graduate School of Industrial Administration, Carnegie Mellon University. More than 150 candidates had been nominated. Nagata was cited for his leadership and developing a communications network system intended for the school district.

An English teacher for the Hawaii Community College system, Juliet S. Kono of Honolulu, won the 13th annual James Clavell American Japanese National Literary Award contest and its $1,000 prize for her short story, "Soup." It concerns a young girl who discovers the prejudices in her own family (of Naichi—main islands of Japan—background) when they find out her new best friend is Okinawan. She has published a book of poems, Hilo Rains, and another on the Tsunami Years. Two honorable mentions were recognized this year: Blue House of My Youth by Julie Shigekuni of New Rochelle, N.Y., and Rice Not Sugar by Joanne Y. Yamada of Honolulu. Both received $100. Anyone wishing information about the 1992 contest may write to Clavell American Japanese National Literary Award, 510 Justin, #205, Glendale, CA 91201.

Lenore E. Cohen, M.D., is chief resident at Valley Medical Center, San Jose. Daughter of Diablo Valley JACLers Samuel and Edy Cohen, she is a graduate UCLA Medical School, interned at UC San Francisco Medical Center and completed her residency in internal medicine at Valley Medical Center.

Eiko Nobel

Assisting Asian investors with their Southern California real estate investments the past five years, Japan-born and educated Eiko Nobel of Los Angeles was appointed executive director of the Fred Sands Realtors Pacific Rim division in August. She has been with the firm for more than 12 years and has been its liaison with Sumitomo Real Sales.

Diane Miyeko Matsuda

San Francisco Nihonmachi Legal Outreach added attorney Diane Miyeko Matsuda, a San Francisco native and Hastings College of Law graduate, to its staff. It was announced by executive director Dean Ito Taylor. Fluent in Japanese, she edited a bilingual handbook on redress claims while working as an NLO law clerk. She was also an extern with U.S. District Court Judge Robert M. Takasugi at Los Angeles, was a congressional assistant to the late Sala and Philip Burtons and a law clerk for Minami, Lew, Tamaki and Lee. She matriculated at the University of San Francisco and also studied at Sophia University in Tokyo.

Two Japanese-speaking Maryknoll Fathers who spent their WWII years working with evacuees at the relocation camps celebrated their 60th anniversary of ordination as Catholic priests this year. They are Father Henry Felsecker, 85, of Milwaukee who was in Heart Mountain, Wyo., and also taught Nihongo to naval students at Georgetown University; and Father Leo Steinbach, 85, of Iowa, who was the chaplain at Manzanar and at Maryknoll-in-Los Angeles from 1938. Both were active postwar in Japan. Both live in retirement at Maryknoll, N.Y.

The widow of the Hawaii astronaut, Lorna Onizuka of Houston, said the new memorial for astronauts, the Space Mirror, which was dedicated May 9 at Kennedy Space Center, "brings together the families of the 15 astronauts who had died in the space program." The name of Ellison Onizuka and the other 14 are engraved on the huge granite monument at Cape Canaveral, Fla. The Ellison Onizuka Space Center at Keahole Airport in Kona was formally dedicated July 19, a week after the total solar eclipse.

were presented a gift from the chapter. They included Joey Takada (Bellarmine Prep), Zach Koda (Sumner High), Kelly Uchimura (U.S. Air Force Academy), Kendra Kawaguchi (University of Puget Sound Law School), Rachel Iwamoto (UPS) and Nina Yamasaki (Western Washington University).

Berkeley

JACLers and friends planning to join the 7th Tule Lake Pilgrimage, Sept. 27-29, as a group from Berkeley, leaving Friday night and returning Sunday morning after the memorial at Klamath Falls Cemetery, may get the latest information by calling (415) 241-9818 or 292-6938.

The main Saturday program features a camp tour, workshops, dinner and program featuring writers, musicians and entertainment.

Mrs. Tazuko White, recently appointed head of the Berkeley Nikkei Center, is recuperating from a recent auto accident as Phyllis Ogata and volunteers are filling in for her.

New Mexico

"Champions and heroes for the month" cited for their community involvement appeared on the front page of the New Mexico JACL Newsletter. Listed were 13 names under the headline, JACL Arigato's: Harry Watson, Sei Tokuda, Moss Kishiyama, Randolph Shibata, Susan Tomita and Evelyn Togami. (These six JACLers were mentioned in several cases of involvement to account for the higher number.)

The JACL was represented with its information booth on Japanese Day festivities at the New Mexico State Fair Sept. 11.

And to sustain focus on Japanese American history and memorabilia, the chapter-maintained library—a two-drawer file, which is full—continues its dual role collecting items not commonly found in the local public and college libraries and serving as a repository of newspaper clippings, videotapes, photos, slides, chapter newsletters, letters, etc. The library has some 150 titles of books, journals and other materials on Asian American topics. Trent Kanemaki

Michael Kanda

Susan Minamizono

At the annual meeting of the Twin Cities Chapter, JACL, in December, 1990, the announcement was made that our chapter Scholarship Committee would be asked to select the 1991 National JACL Scholarship winners. Little did we realize what a tremendous responsibility this would be to select 38 winners from more than 250 applicants.

The 38 scholarship awards were awarded to 18 freshmen, five undergraduates, seven graduates, three law students, and five creative arts students.

Criteria used to determine scholarship selection were:

- Scholastic Achievement
- Extracurricular Activities
- Community Involvement
- Personal Statement or Essay
- Letter of Recommendation

The overall quality of the applications at all levels was outstanding, making it difficult to make the final decisions on the winners.

At the graduate and undergraduate levels, candidates showed extreme maturity and seriousness in the progression of their educational pursuit.

Especially difficult was the awarding of freshman scholarships. There were so many outstanding applications the committee took into account one other criterion, that of geographical location. As this was a national competition, we carefully took note of the prominence of the Japanese Americans in their respective settings.

The committee, after hours of deliberation, was totally satisfied with their final selections. The future looks bright. We congratulate the winners and look forward to hear of their continued accomplishments.

The 1991 National JACL Scholarship Committee members are:

Kimi Hara, MNA, retired registered nurse, chairperson; Gladys I. Stone, Ph.D., professor emeritus, University of Wisconsin, River Falls; Tom Ohno, M.A., retired high school math teacher; Sylvia Yasuda Farrell, M.A., elementary education teacher; and Sally Sudo, B.S., elementary education teacher.

FRESHMEN

Trent Kanemaki

The Masao and Sumako Itano Scholarship
Residence: Fullerton, Calif.
Chapter: Orange County
Parents: Randall and Janis Kanemaki
School: UC San Diego

At age 12, Trent Kanemaki became one of the youngest Eagle Scouts. He is still very actively involved in scouting and as a troop leader, he coordinates community service projects at least two Saturdays a month.

Trent is also active in the Japanese American community, participating in SEYO basketball and baseball teams, and coordinating activities with his church. He also attended Japanese school, Kumon (supplemental math lessons), and participated in karate on weekends. In school, he participated in student government, CSF, and the National Honor Society. Trent will attend UCSD in the fall and plans to pursue a career in medicine.

Michael Kanda

The Masako and Sumako Itano Scholarship
Residence: Sunnyvale, Calif.
Parents: Gary and Naomi Kanda
School: UCLA

Michael Kanda plans to major in English and hopes to pursue a teaching career in that subject at the high school level.

Editor-in-chief of his high school newspaper, he placed third overall in the Invest In America national newswriting contest. An Eagle Scout, he has been actively involved in his community as senior patrol leader. Michael also played varsity tennis in high school and participated in community sports programs in the Japanese American community.

Susan Minamizono

The Mr. and Mrs. Takashi Moriuchi Scholarship
Residence: Yorba Linda, Calif.
Parents: Akira and Haruko Minamizono
Chapter: Orange County
School: UC San Diego

Susan Minamizono has received recognition for her work in language arts, Spanish, math, and most notably debate and forensics. She has received many awards in speech and debate, and specializes in dramatic interpretation and original prose and poetry. Susan was active in various campus activities including editing her school's literary magazine, cheerleading, and organizing events for the International Club and National Honor Society.

Gina Stephens

The Mr. and Mrs. Takashi Moriuchi Scholarship
Residence: Des Plaines, Ill.
Parents: John and Tomoyo Stephens
School: MIT

At age four, Gina Stephens began to take violin lessons with the Betty Haag Suzuki Academy of Performing Arts. She has performed throughout Europe with the Suzuki Academy and at age 10 performed at Carnegie Hall. In high school she gave concerts in Korea, Taiwan, and the U.S.S.R., and performed at Kennedy Center in Washington D.C..

A National Merit Scholarship finalist, she graduated with a 4.35 G.P.A., and has received various awards in foreign language and social studies. She scored second in the Illinois State Math League Competition. Gina has attended Japanese school on Saturdays since 1979 and attended elementary school, junior high and high school in Yokohama, Japan during the summers. She received early admissions to MIT and hopes to pursue a career as a neurosurgeon.

Harumi Furuya

The Mr. and Mrs. Takashi Moriuchi Scholarship
Residence: White Plains, N.Y.
Parents: Mike and Atsuko Furuya
Chapter: New York
School: Harvard-Radcliffe

Harumi Furuya came to the United States from Japan seven years ago and considers it the major turning point of her life. "I am extremely fortunate to have had the opportunity to experience both cultures from the inside and to adopt the merits of both." The duality of her life experience has inspired her to work for international understanding. On campus, she founded a Japan America friendship club and founded a publication to publish works by foreign students exploring the themes of cultural and societal differences and similarities. She also participated in a Washington D.C. workshop seminar on diplomacy and global affairs.

A 4.0 student, she has received awards in English, science, and foreign language. Harumi also studies violin, piano and music composition 20 hours a week at Juilliard. She will attend Harvard-Radcliffe this fall.

Denise Nishiguchi

The Kenji Kasai Memorial Scholarship
Residence: Carmel, Calif.
Parents: Setsuko and Morgan Nishiguchi
School: UC Berkeley

Denise Nishiguchi hopes to pursue a career in pediatric medicine or child psychology. She has worked as a volunteer teacher with young children in Monterey County's Lyceum Program, been involved in her church as a Sunday school teacher and youth group leader, and has traveled to Mexico to participate in a mission outreach program.

Denise graduated with a 4.0 G.P.A., and led her school's Academic Decathlon Team to several awards. On campus she was involved in student government, concert band, and played varsity basketball. She will attend UC Berkeley this fall.

Julie Kikuchi

The South Park Japanese Community Scholarship
Residence: Kent, Wash.
Parents: Fred and Sue Kikuchi
School: Stanford University

Julie Kikuchi has received recognition and awards for her academic and athletic work. She was captain of the varsity basketball, volleyball, and softball teams and also participated in varsity track. Julie also maintained a 3.99 G.P.A., and served as president of her school's National Honor Society. In the community she organized several charity drives, including raising funds for Toys for Tots, Food Bank, and Thanksgiving Dinner for the Homeless. For the past three years she has volunteered time at St. Francis Community Hospital, and she hopes to pursue a career in medicine. She will attend Stanford University this fall to major in molecular biology.

Kristine Sakata

The Majiu Uyesugi Memorial Scholarship
Residence: Fresno, Calif.
Parents: Richard and Joan Sakata
Chapter: Fresno
School: UC Davis

Kristine Sakata graduated as valedictorian of her class. A lifetime CSF member she has taken honors and advanced placement classes and maintained a 4.0 average. She was also active in sports. In addition to being selected as team M.V.P. in both tennis and

BILL HOSOKAWA

Oh man! That's not my cup of tea

Every once in a while I get my knuckles rapped for forgetting that "man" words are a no-no these days. The other day I wrote about newspapermen and was reminded forcefully that women also work on newspapers and "journalists" is the preferred word.

On another occasion I wrote that the office was not manned because of a holiday. Tut-tut, I was told. Since women also work in the office, the word I should have used was "staffed".

Okay, I accept those usages if they will make persons of a certain gender more comfortable. But I gag on the use of the inanimate "chair" or the sexless "chairperson" for the individual conducting a meeting. Let's refer to them as chairman or chairwoman as the case may be. (Incidentally, what should be done with manhole? Should they be referred to as "sewer access apertures"?)

Those of us of advanced years are so set in our ways that we find it difficult to adjust to the new de-sexed usages. Imagine, then, the problem that Japanese males—whom there are few more chauvinistic on matters of gender—are having in coping with the feminists in that country.

I refer now to an essay by Senji Kuroi, a novelist, published in the Shinano Mainichi newspaper and brought to American attention of the Asia Foundation's Translation Service Center.

As Kuroi tells it, the tea cups he and his wife had used for many years for sipping green tea had become old and chipped. Mrs. Kuroi replaced them with a pair of gift cups that had been stored away. These were the traditional cups—one large for the man of the family, and the other somewhat smaller for the wife.

"Just as I was about to pick up mine," Kuroi wrote, "our daughter Reiko, who was sitting beside me, asked her mother if she could use one. Given the go-ahead, she reached for the larger cup."

"Wait a moment," I said, "that's mine." I explained that the larger of the pair is for the man and the smaller is for the woman. Reiko, who is in her mid-20s, should know that, I thought.

"If there are two items, one large and other small, why should the man automatically get the bigger one?" she protested.

"I was quite taken aback. Were I a model of the patriarchal authority, perhaps I would have immediately put her in her place: 'Watch your tongue, young lady. That's been the custom in Japan for ages.'"

"But those of us who received a postwar democratic education, unfortunately, just can't do it. There's no way to explain the logic behind such masculine privilege. Even if there were historical reasons, they would hardly justify the practice today."

"I mumbled something, but Reiko clearly wasn't interested in male rationalizations. I suddenly realized she knew all along why the cups were different sizes and made an issue of it to challenge my 'sexist' assumptions."

"Reiko lifted the husband's cup and savored the tea. That left the wife's. I discovered how humiliating it is to be told you can't drink from the larger cup. Perhaps my male ego was bruised and I overreacted, but I did get an insight into how women have always felt."

Perhaps it is no coincidence that all the cups in a Western tea set are the same size.

'Chû-sha-jo'

PARKING FEES which approach the Motel 6 advertised cost of a night's lodging are not uncommon in places such as New York's Manhattan. Leaving the family chariot parked in the street is no alternative if there's no metered parking, and fines for illegal parking can be steep. The last time I was hit with a parking fine (Philadelphia) was about thirteen years ago and the tabback then was $25. Things can be worse; for example, take Tokyo.

THE FINE for illegal parking in Tokyo was ¥30,000 until July of this year. At an exchange rate of ¥140 to one dollar, that fine comes to $214 U.S. which is more like Waldorf Astoria room rates. On and after July 1st, the maximum tab under the recently enacted Vehicle Parking Law, the fine went up to ¥200,000; that's over $1,400 U.S.

Draconian.

THE AUTOTRAFFIC congestion and the parking problem in Nippon can be better understood by some statistics. In 1960 there were 1.4 million vehicles registered in Japan; 30 years later, this number had mushroomed some 41-fold to 58 million vehicles. To house this many vehicles there are 1.6 million garage spaces; this leaves some 97% of the vehicles with no chû-sha-jo (parking lot or space). Something has to give. In a survey conducted in April of last year by the Tokyo Metropolitan Police, it was found that of the some 231,000 cars parked on Tokyo roads, 205,000 (some 88%) were illegally parked. And that was when the parking fine was $214 U.S. (¥30,000). To rent a garage in Tokyo can run about ¥60,000 a month, which comes to about $428 U.S. or $5,140 a year, not cheap but not all that bad.

The trick is to find an available garage. In Tokyo it involves a half year's wait.

THE REVISED LAW requires a purchaser of a new car to have a police sticker placed on the rear window certifying that the vehicle has an allocated parking space. If one does not have a parking space, one can still buy the car but it will simply be given a sticker identifying it as ineligible to be driven. As one can imagine, this situation has given impetus to construction of parking garages. Indeed, the Japanese Ministry of Construction has introduced subsidies and tax-reduction measures for garage builders. A number of big name companies such as Mitsubishi Heavy Industries, Nissan and Honda, are moving into the vehicle parking business. Those who've visited Japan have undoubtedly seen those steel-frame parking rigs by which autos are vertically rotated and parked above another, thereby at least doubling the parking capacity of a space. One of the manufacturers of these rigs, Ishikawajima-Harima Heavy Industries Co., has at least a year's backlog of orders for its parking devices.

WITH ALL THIS headache in owning a kuruma (wheels or automobile), it is also no surprise that the auto rental business, in urban areas in particular, is barely keeping up with demand.

So the next time you're stalled in a traffic jam on the freeway, thank your lucky stars that your kuruma is not subject to Japanese laws.

*Sara KurokawaThe Abe and Esther Hagiwara Financial Aid Scholarship

Residence: not reported
Parents: Janice Kurokawa
Chapter: Chicago
School: not reported

Sara Kurokawa served as president of her school's National Honor Society. A participant in the University of Notre Dame's Women in Science and Engineering Summer Program, she has received recognition for her work in her school's science fair. She has also participated in the Argonne National Laboratory Research Apprenticeship program.

Sara has served as yearbook editor, varsity cheerleading captain, and has held positions in student government. She is active in the Sakurakai Church Youth Group and has participated in many community events. She has also played taiko for the past four years.

UNDER-GRADUATES

*Kim NakaharaThe Saburo Kido Memorial Scholarship

Residence: San Francisco, Calif.
Chapter: San Francisco
School: UC Davis

"It is imperative that the Yonsei be taught the importance of the community now, so that they can learn to use it as a powerful force for support. The need for a strong community is becoming more and more apparent every day, with ever-increasing racism, Japan bashing and frequent incidents of anti-Asian violence," writes Kim Nakahara, UC Davis student.

Kim has been actively involved with the Japanese American community through her work as vice president of service for UC Davis' Japanese American Student Society. She has coordinated student volunteers for numerous community events and was also instrumental in coordinating Asian Pacific Culture Week at the UC Davis campus.

In 1990 she served as an intern at JACL national headquarters and was subsequently selected by NCWNP District Council to serve as a District Youth Representative. Currently she is actively involved on both the NCWNP District Board and the JACL National Youth Council. She has also been selected to serve on a committee to assess the campus climate on the eight University of California campuses.

*Colin WatanabeThe Dr. Thomas Yatabe Memorial Scholarship

Residence: San Rafael, Calif.
Chapter: Marin/San Francisco
School: UCLA

Colin Watanabe is a highly motivated student who maintains an almost perfect G.P.A. in his undergraduate studies in molecular biology at UCLA. His goal is to become a physician and to conduct medical research. For the past two summers he has worked as a research assistant at UCSF's Cystic Fibrosis Research Center.

Despite his rigorous academic schedule, he has been active in numerous community activities. He is an active member of the Nikkei Student Union and works with the Asian Education Project to tutor inner city children. He also volunteers time at UCLA Medical Center and in the summer volunteers at Marin General and the Haight Asbury Medical Clinic.

Michael KahnThe Kyutaro and Yasuo Abiko Memorial Scholarship

Residence: Phoenix, Ariz.
Chapter: Arizona
School: University of Arizona

At age eight, Michael Kahn's family moved from their mainstream community in Phoenix to Japan and he enrolled in a Japanese school system for one year. "The shock and fascination of being uprooted and replanted in the values, customs and behavior of a completely different society was to have a significant impact on the way I view myself and the context in which I live," he says of his experience.

Michael currently attends the University of Arizona and is actively involved in the Asian American Cultural Association. In 1989 he founded a publication which focuses on the issues of multiculturalism from an Asian American standpoint. A psychology major, he is also studying Japanese, and returned to Japan last summer to participate in a speech contest.

Doug Sugimoto, a Yonsei, writes that while growing up he wasn't particularly concerned about his ethnic identity. "When I arrived at UC Berkeley, however, all of that changed. Associating predominantly with other Asians, many first and second generation, I felt out of place... most of my friends could speak their native languages." From that point on he writes that his experience at UC Berkeley has been a search for his identity. He enrolled in a Japanese class and became actively involved in Tomodachi Club, an Asian American fraternity, and the Asian Business Association. He also volunteered to work on several events in the Northern California Asian community. Presently he serves as an officer in the Asian American Students Association.

This fall he will be a junior in UCB's business administration program.

GRADUATE

Jade Hiramoto

The Union Bank of California Undergraduate Scholarship

Residence: Torrance, Calif.
Chapter: South Bay
School: UCLA

"Academics, athletics, and community involvement have always been a trio of top priorities and high achievement for me," writes Jade Hiramoto, a junior at UCLA studying kinesiology.

Jade has been involved in playing and coaching basketball for Japanese American community organizations for the past 13 years. On campus, she plays intramural volleyball and basketball, and is active in the Nikkei Student Union. In addition, she also volunteers at the cardiathoracic surgery laboratory and in the children's clinic at the UCLA Medical Center. Jade maintains a 3.99 G.P.A.

This year she was appointed by the LA County Board of Supervisors to serve as chairperson for the Los Angeles County Commission on Youth.

Miya Gardner

Nisaburo Aibara Memorial Scholarship

Residence: Scarsdale N.Y.
School: Harvard University

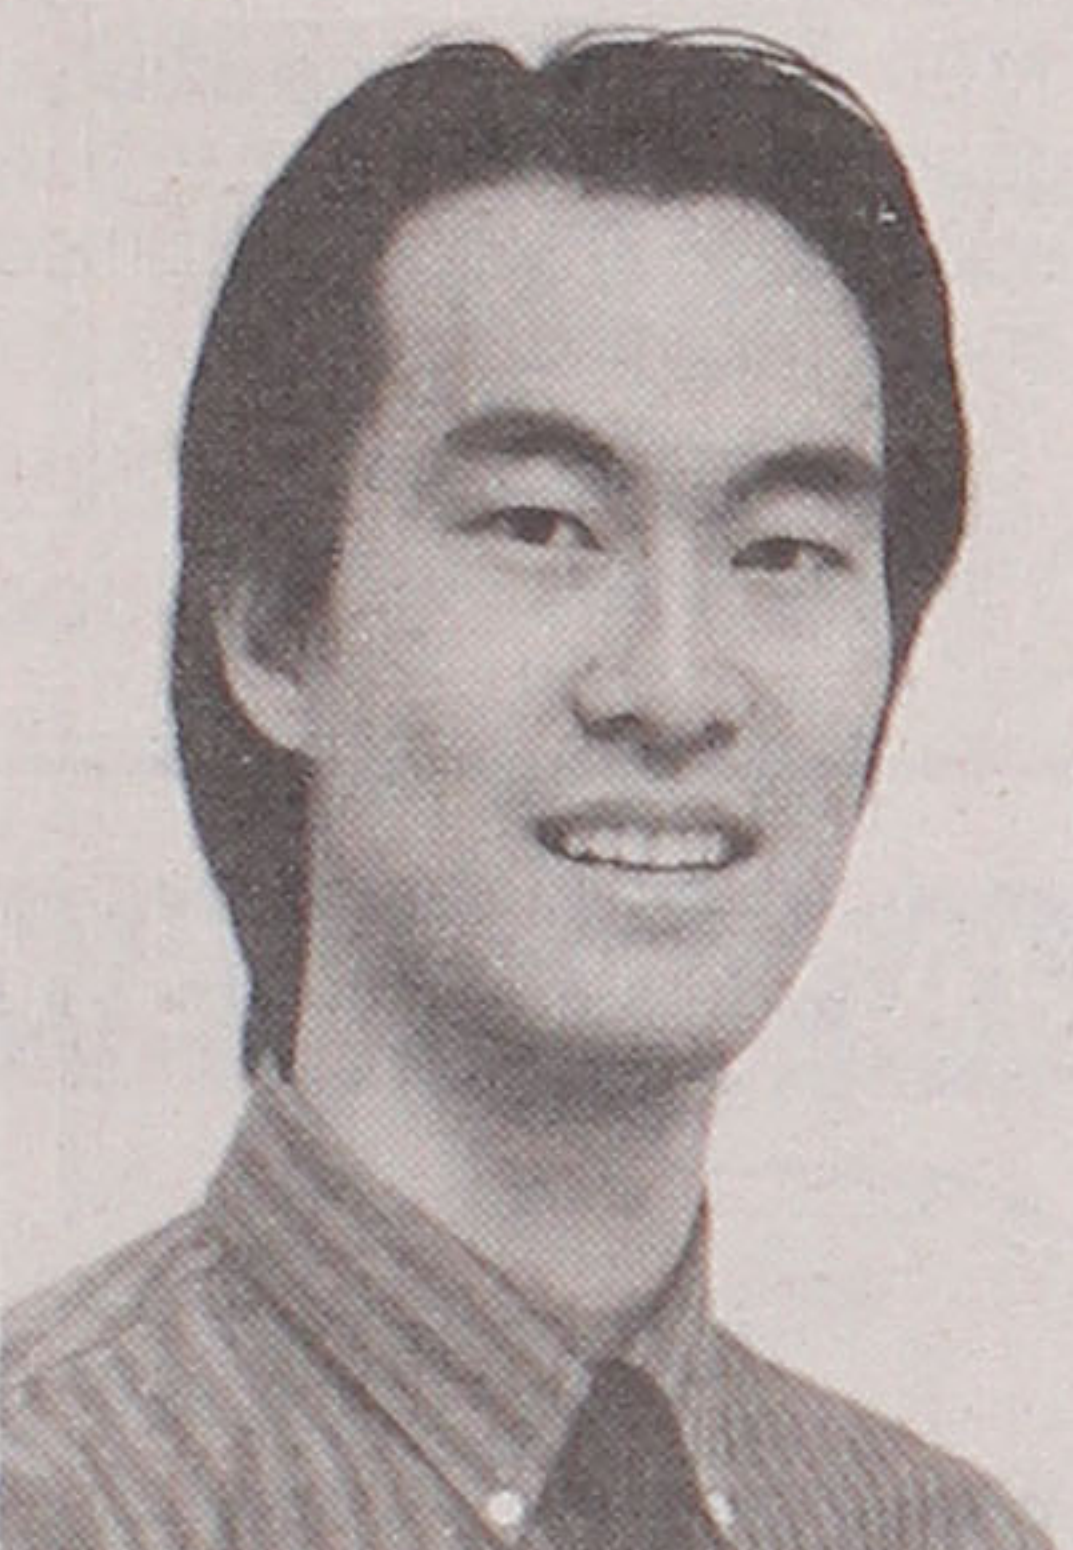

In 1987 Miya Gardner received a Ministry of Education (Monbusho) scholarship to further her Asian Art history studies in Japan. Through her travels, she realized that many of Japan's temples, crafts, and artworks have simply never been documented. Using photographs and interviews, she began to document her studies and extended her travels into China, India and Nepal to visit temples, museums, and other significant sites.

Upon her return, she transferred to Columbia University to continue her art history studies and expanded her studies to include Japanese literature and women's studies. In addition to her work in the Women's Studies Department, she volunteered her time at the New York Asian Women's Shelter. This volunteer experience led to her interest in Asian American studies. On campus, Miya organized lectures and seminars to address the emerging concerns of Asian American studies.

In 1990 she returned to Japan to intern for Tokyo Assemblywoman Mitsui Mariko, translating, assisting, and observing her legislative efforts on behalf of Japanese women. This fall Miya will attend Harvard University's graduate program in East Asian Studies.

Ted Mashima

The Magoichi and Shizuko Kato Memorial Scholarship

Residence: Honolulu, Hawaii
Chapter: Mile-High School: Colorado State University

Ted Mashima, is currently a fourth-year student in the professional veterinary medical program at Colorado State University. A dedicated conservationist, he has tagged endangered monk seals, recorded and banded birds and assisted in research dives in his native state of Hawaii. In 1985 he received a certificate of appreciation from the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service for his volunteer services. In addition to his research, he has also received recognition for his work as a teaching assistant at the undergraduate and graduate levels and has volunteered his time to tutor biology classes to handicapped and academically disadvantaged students.

Kirk Horiuchi

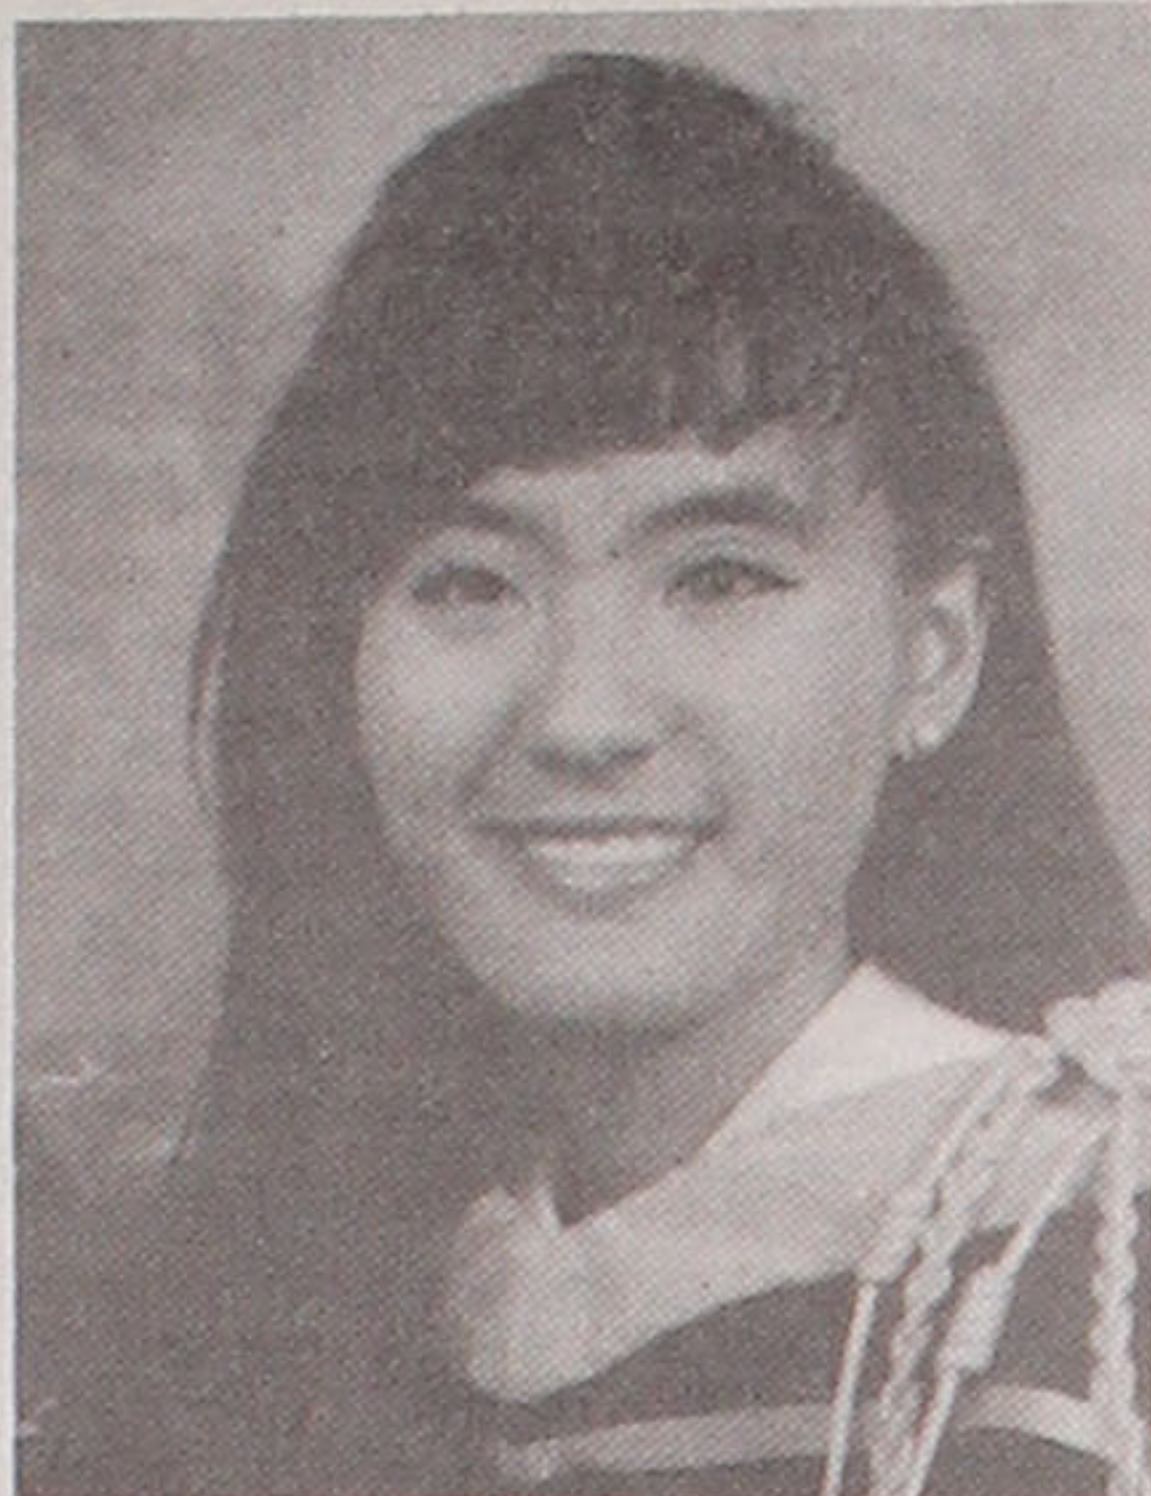

The Reverend H. John Yamashita Memorial Scholarship

Residence: Alea, Hawaii
School: UC Berkeley

Kirk Horiuchi completed his undergraduate studies at the University of Hawaii at Manoa, majoring in accounting and finance. While at UH, Kirk was active in the Phi Eta Sigma, Beta Gamma Sigma and Beta Alpha Psi honor societies, and performed volunteer work in the community with the University of Hawaii Finance Club. After graduating with distinction in 1987, he worked as a senior accountant at Price Waterhouse. He is currently pursuing a MBA at UC Berkeley.

Anne Ichijiuji

The Chiyoko and Thomas Tomotsu Shimazaki Memorial

Scholarship

Residence: Los Angeles, Calif.
Chapter: West Valley
School: UCLA School of Medicine

Anne Ichijiuji believes in individual and collective leadership. As chairwoman of the Chancellor's Student Health Advisory Committee at UCLA, she advocated the health concerns of UCLA's diverse socioeconomic and ethnic population. She was also director of Campus Outreach on the AIDS Awareness and Education Project, and worked with students to develop a year long campus educational program.

Anne is also an advocate for humanistic and compassionate health care and served as co-director of the UCLA Peer Health Counselor Program. In addition to her academic studies, she also conducted cancer research and cardiovascular research through her work with the American Heart Association. Presently, she is a first year medical student at UCLA.

Kristen Boisen

The Sumitomo Bank of California Graduate Scholarship

Residence: Mission Viejo, Calif.
Chapter: Watsonville/San Jose
School: University of La Verne

As an undergraduate student at UC Irvine, Kristen Boisen was actively involved in the Tomo No Kai student group coordinating the group's cultural night and Asian Week. She also served on the Chancellor's Advisory Committee on Minority Affairs for two years.

Kristen is currently employed by Advanced Interventional Systems, and this fall will attend the University of La Verne's MBA program. She plans to pursue a career in the health care industry.

Malia McCarthy

The Union Bank Graduate Scholarship

Residence: Irvine, Calif.
Chapter: New York
School: Albert Einstein School of Medicine

Malia McCarthy graduated from Wellesley College in 1985 as a philosophy major. She pursued broad interests in college, including work as a volunteer in a daycare center for Chinese immigrant children. She continued her education to become certified as an elementary school teacher, and returned to California to teach Vietnamese students in a bilingual classroom in San Francisco.

Strengthened by her success as a teacher, she continued to pursue her dream of becoming a primary care physician and enrolled in a pre-medical program at the University of Pennsylvania. Currently, she is a first-year medical student at the Albert Einstein College of Medicine, and is working on a summer research project in pathology. She is also involved in the development of an integrated curriculum on AIDS.

Tiffany Ito

The Henry and Chiyo Kuwahara Graduate Scholarship

Residence: Los Angeles, Calif.
School: University of Southern California

Tiffany Ito received honors and recognition for her undergraduate work in psychology at UCLA and graduated from the Psychology Honors Program summa cum laude in 1989.

She is currently enrolled in the social psychology graduate program at USC, and has conducted several research projects including researching psychological factors that underlie alcohol intoxication effects. She plans to continue her research, writing and teaching, and will pursue a Ph.D. in social psychology.

Amy Mountcastle

The Henry and Chiyo Kuwahara Graduate Scholarship

Residence: Clifton Heights, Pa.
School: Rutgers University

Growing up in a biracial family in America, Europe and Central America, Amy Mountcastle feels she was given the opportunity to observe cultural differences at a very young age. "I was given the chance to observe a multiplicity of cultures and to participate in a family unit continually reconstituting its own identity."

A mass communications major, she has received awards for work in several Philadelphia-area newspapers. Currently, she is a graduate student in Rutgers University's Anthropology program and plans to study how groups maintain or change their specific cultural identity when living in a different cultural situation. Her focus will be on Tibetan refugees in India.

LAW

Albert Muratsuchi

The Thomas Hayashi Memorial Law Scholarship

Residence: San Francisco, Calif.
Chapter: San Francisco
School: UCLA

Albert Muratsuchi graduated with a B.A. in legal studies from UC Berkeley in 1988. Since that time he has worked as a project administrator for the ACLU and as a field representative for State Sen. Milton Marks. He was also awarded a CORO fellowship, and worked with several agencies in the San Francisco Bay area.

In addition, Albert has worked as a legislative intern for the House of Representatives subcommittee on civil and constitutional rights. He performed research and wrote memoranda on various civil rights issues including university admission ceilings for Asian Americans and redress.

He has contributed articles to the Asian American Policy Review and he wrote an article on affirmative action for the Washington Post. He will attend UCLA this fall.

Lila Fujimoto

The Professor Sho Sato Memorial Scholarship

Residence: Pukalani, Hawaii
Chapter: Tulare County
School: University of Washington, Seattle.

Lila Fujimoto graduated magna cum laude from the University of Washington, and has worked as a newspaper reporter for the past nine years. She has won an Associated Press regional award for investigative reporting for a series of articles on affirmative action and minority hiring in local government.

"Reporters are limited, however, by the profession's necessary demand for objectivity. By studying law and becoming an advocate, I hope to accomplish more."

She will attend the law school at the University of Washington, Seattle.

PERFORMING AND CREATIVE ARTS

Gabrielle Shek

The Aiko Susanna Tashiro Hiratsuka Memorial Performing Arts Scholarship

Residence: Boston, Mass.
School: New England Conservatory of Music

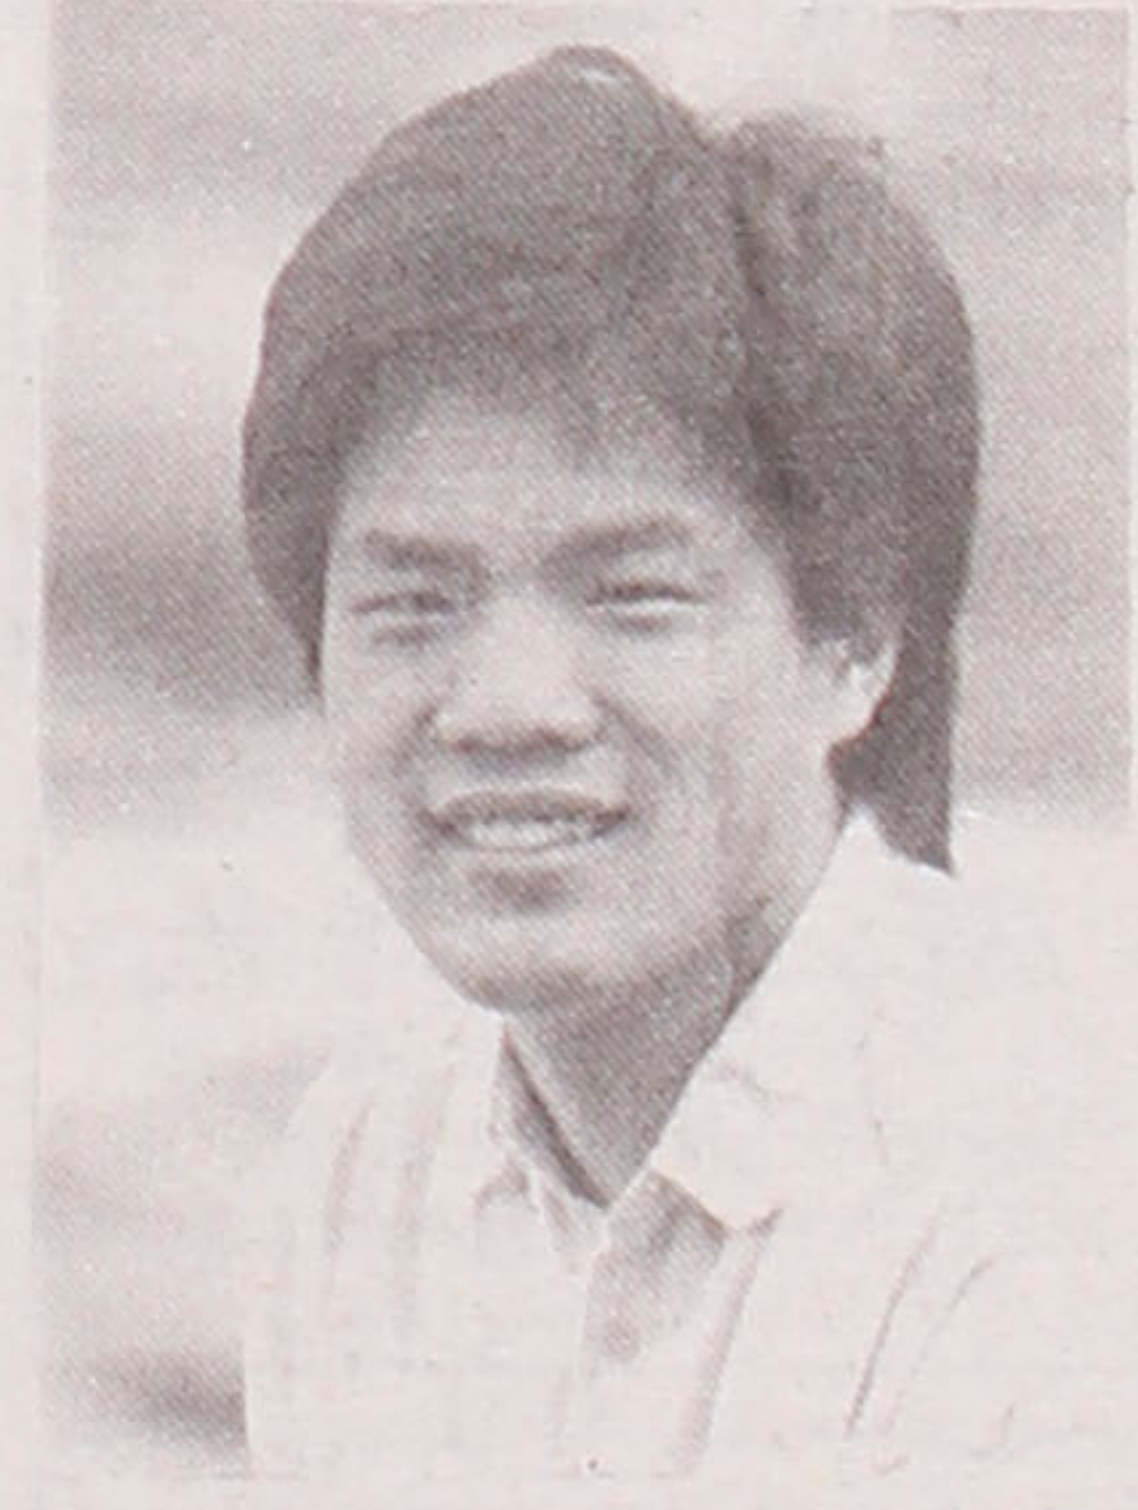

Gabrielle Shek has been studying violin since she was four years old. After graduating from high school she deferred her studies at Yale for one year to study at the San Francisco Conservatory of Music.

She returned to Yale the following year and received her B.A. in music.

While at Yale, Gabrielle was concertmaster for the Yale Symphony Orchestra. She has also worked as assistant concertmaster for the New Haven Symphony. Gabrielle has performed at the Tanglewood Summer Festival, Aspen Music Festival, and the Sarasota Music Festival.

She is currently a second year student in the Master of Music Program in violin performance at the New England Conservatory of Music in Boston.

John Tonai

The Henry and Chiyo Kuwahara Creative Arts Scholarship

Residence: Greeley, Colo.
School: University of Northern Colorado

John Tonai's project involves shooting photographs of the relocation camp sites. "The purpose of this project is to not only honor those people who were interned, but also to help other people understand the historical and psychological aspects of the camps."

John has already visited all of the camp sites and will return to photograph the camps during different seasons. He plans to shoot pictures of various remaining structures and artifacts and especially wants to show the seasonal changes at Heart Mountain and Minidoka. "I would also shoot the surrounding environment to capture the conditions the internees had to endure," he said.

He has already received recognition for his preliminary work and plans to complete this project by March, 1992.

U.S. CIVIL SERVICE CAREER OPPORTUNITIES IN JAPAN

LIAISON/INTELLIGENCE OPERATIONS SPECIALISTS GS-7 THROUGH GS-12 (PLUS ALLOWANCES)

The U.S. Naval Investigative Service is seeking applicants for its Japan and Korea area offices. Applicants must be U.S. citizens who can read and speak Japanese or Korean fluently.

Liaison/Intelligence operations specialists must have experience in one of the following positions or in a directly related area; translator, interpreter, liaison/security officer, analyst, or research specialist. Graduate education may be substituted for experience up to the GS-11 level. Also, superior undergraduate academic achievement based on a bachelor's degree may be substituted for the experience requirement at the GS-7 level.

Final selection will be based on the successful completion of a routine background investigation. All authorized relocations costs will be paid by the Naval Investigative Service.

For further information or to submit resumes, write to the U.S. Naval Investigative Service, PSC 477, Box I, FPO AP 96349-1100 Attn.: IOS Recruiting. Resumes should address language background and experience as well as writing skills and education. A copy of transcripts should be attached. The positions will be available in June 1992.

VICTORIA, B.C.

American Introduces Daily Nonstop Service From Seattle/Tacoma To Tokyo.

On October 1, American Airlines will take off to Tokyo from our newest Pacific gateway — Seattle/Tacoma.

That's when we'll introduce our convenient daily nonstop to Tokyo, featuring our International Flagship Service®. You'll be treated to award-winning food and wine, and authentic Japanese entrees. First and Business Class passengers will enjoy roomy leather and sheepskin seating, and exclusive priority baggage handling.

Our newly expanded service is just one more example of American's commitment to be the very best. A commitment that also includes nonstop flights to Tokyo from two other U.S. gateways — San Jose/Silicon Valley and Dallas/Fort Worth.

Special AAdvantage® Program Offer For Pacific Travel.

If you fly round trip to Tokyo, Auckland, Hong Kong or Sydney between now and December 31, you'll earn 10,000 bonus AAdvantage miles.* In most cases, this bonus mileage offer, in combination with actual miles flown, will enable you to earn enough miles for a free round-trip Economy Class ticket to anywhere American or American Eagle® flies in the contiguous U.S. or Canada.

Discover why we're something special to Japan. For more details and reservations, call your Travel Agent or American Airlines at 1-800-624-6262.

American Airlines®
Something special to Japan.

RESTRICTIONS: *AAdvantage member will earn 10,000 bonus miles per transpacific round trip to/from Auckland, Hong Kong, Sydney and Tokyo, effective September 1 through December 31, 1991. This offer supersedes all existing or previous AAdvantage bonus mile offers for service to Asian and South Pacific markets. Offer not available in conjunction with any American or other airline's discount, coupon or promotional offer, including AAdvantage free travel awards. Other restrictions may apply. AAdvantage is a registered trademark of American Airlines, Inc. American Airlines reserves the right to change AAdvantage program rules, regulations, travel awards and special offers without notice, and to end the AAdvantage program with six months notice. AAdvantage travel awards, mileage accrual and special offers subject to government regulations. American Eagle is a registered trademark of American Airlines, Inc., and is American's regional airline associate. Schedules subject to change.
