TED IWATA REPORTS:

Dear Readers,

For you faithful followers of the Seattle JACL newsletter please check the first edition of the "Pacific Star" for the latest news. This month's general meeting will be held on Thursday, March 24, after the NYC meeting. Our president Eileen Suyama requests that all committee chairmen come to the meeting with a written report including an evaluation on their part with the mixer, basketball tournament, or dinner-dance. It is suggested that there should be duplicate copies made of the reports: one for the chairmen's use, the other for the club's records.

Well, let's create interest in the tournament and the dinner-dance, and we'll make a favorable impression on the other participating cities. Looking forward to see you during NYC week-end and on March 24.

Yours truly,

Ted Iwata

P.S. The general meeting is scheduled at JACL office, 526 So. Jackson St., 8 p.m.

The concept of equal effects and results is closely allied with equal opportunities, provided equal opportunities have injected a human meaning into it.

To be really meaningful, equal opportunity must be the OPPORTUNITY TO BE EQUAL. It is not enough to just eliminate artificial barriers to employment, housing and education, whether the barrier be legal or subtle, for even if these barriers were to disappear today, the American Negro would still not receive full equality.

The distance between the Negro and Caucasian is still far too great in all areas that make up this society. The cause of this distance is centuries of humiliation, discrimination and segregation, and more than equal opportunity will be required to close the gap so that the Negro can take his proper place in society and share in the responsibilities and rewards of the total community.

It is like two men running in a track meet. One runs with track shoes on a cinder track. The other with lead shoes, carrying a heavy pack and running in sand. When the second man is finally relieved of his lead shoes and pack and placed on the cinder track, it is apparent that the pre-existing circumstances left a gap between the men. The second man, being far behind, would require more than being relieved of his handicap, if this is to be an even match.

The burdens imposed on the Negro have weighed heavily and have exacted their toll in human dignity and humanity. To help close the distance between the Negro and Caucasian, part of the answer may be in effective and positive action to include Negroes in all aspects of our total society. Negroes must participate in the planning and determining of their own futures as well as for all Americans futures, rather than having paternalistic planning and determining of programs being made for them.

Another part of the answer may be found in training programs; in eliminating ghettos and in integration of schools. There are, of course, many parts to the total answer. But for the final answer, we must look at the question from a different perspective--that of visualizing this conflict challenging us as a conflict between right and wrong, of justice and injustice, rather than a conflict between races.
