Office of Redress Administration Update

Last payouts in April and June; railroad workers in; Latin American Japanese on hold

by Cherry Kinoshita

ORA is not planning to come to Seattle for a redress workshop in May, as there does not appear to be many cases pending in this area. Any individual needing ORA assistance should contact the JACL PNW District Office at 623-6088.

Processing of some 300 payments is currently under way, which should be ready for an end of April payout. This total will include possibly 150 railroad workers, some from Hawaii, some Ishida cases, other cases which might have been pending completion of documentation. Checks should reach recipients early May.

Tentatively, there is planned another payout in June, and then possibly the very last payout in August, just before the closing date of August 10, 1998. There will be no extension of time; the doors of ORA will close as of August 10, 1998.

Railroad Workers

Clarification of eligibility: Family members of railroad workers are eligible in their own right if they were members of the household at the time the railroad worker was fired and forced to move (whether or not the railroad worker himself was not alive on Aug. 10, 1988). However, heirs (children born afterwards) are not eligible as heirs if the railroad worker was not alive on Aug. 10, 1988.

Latin American Japanese

Settlement talks on the Mochizuki vs. U.S. case stalled on March 18 when Dept. of Justice officials failed to make an offer to the Latin American Japanese. Carmen Mochizuki filed a suit in 1996 to seek redress for thousands of Latin American Japanese who were denied eligibility for redress. Over a month ago, government attorneys had asked for a delay in court ruling so they could consider settlement, but no settlement offer materialized. Chief Judge Loren Smith is expected to announce his ruling on April 13.

President's message

National JACL Board supports campaign against anti-affirmative action ballot initiative

by Janice Yee

On March 28, board delegate Jeffrey Hattori, president-elect Sharon Sobie and I went to the National JACL board meeting to make an impassioned plea for help. We brought with us a letter signed by the Seattle, Olympia, Anchorage, Puyallup Valley, Lake Washington, Portland, Spokane Chapter presidents, PNW District governor and Representative Kip Tokuda outlining our commitment to affirmative action, and our contributions in excess of $10,000. We asked the national board to match our collective resources with $20,000 for the purpose of mobilizing the Asian Pacific Islander community statewide in defending affirmative action, which is threatened by the ballot measure Initiative 200.

We praised them for their past leadership in fighting for our civil rights. We reminded the board of their commitment to affirmative action in their 1996-1998 program for action and the national significance of Washington's initiative. We asked for their help. They extended their hand to the tune of $5,000.

This was the most they could allocate to an unbudgeted line item without asking the national council. We are grateful for their support and we are also counting on them to hold fast to their commitment to identify other resources to augment the $5,000 (e.g., spearheading a fund drive through the Pacific Citizen to address affirmative action at the national level).

We have been working in coalition with the No 200! campaign and the Asian Pacific American Coalition for Equality (APACE) to reach out to the community, to raise funds, and to educate. We are moving ahead, as evidenced by the $15,000 APACE has raised exclusive of JACL's contributions. However, we cannot do it alone. Please join us in this fight. For more information about APACE or No 200!, please contact Karen Yoshitomi, Pacific Northwest District Director, at

- Wage differentials between men and women and domination of many professions by white males persist.
- ♦ Although white men comprise less than 40 percent of the labor force, they are 96 percent of corporate CEOs.

Who benefits from affirmative action?

- successfully bid on public contracts benefit.
- Women and people of color who have been locked out of jobs like police officers and fire fighters benefit.

- · Outreach efforts to women and minority owned subcontractors seeking bids on public contracts
- ♦ Public agencies would no longer be required to do business with women and minority owned businesses
- ♦ Public agencies would no longer be required to reach out to women and people of color to expand the pool of applicants. Fewer women and people of color would then have the opportunity to be hired.
- ♦ Public universities would no longer be able to use race or gender as a criteria for university admissions. Fewer women and people of color would have an opportunity for a college ♦ Small businesses which would not have an opportunity to Doesn't affirmative action require quotas? What if they already have enough Asians?

♦ Legal affirmative action has no quotas. Quotas are already illegal. Defending affirmative action does not mean instituting quotas. It means more opportunities for us all.

'Evening Magazine' looking for owners of Panama Hotel trunks

Mimi Gan of KING-5 Evening Magazine (EM) is doing a story about the trunks of belongings left behind in the basement of Panama Hotel in the International District by Seattle Japanese fa lies prior to being shipped off to the concentration camps.

EM has been searching high and low for owners or descendents of the owners of these trunks. Many of the owners were contacted by Mr. Hori, the previous owner of the hotel, about 12 years ago so that they could reclaim their belongings. Unfortunately, he did not keep a record of the owners.

Gan would like to talk to people about their feelings when they retrieved their family's belongings. EM already shot some footage of the trunks and some of the items (pictures, books, magazines, household goods, etc) that are still in the basement and have not been claimed.

Anyone having any information about the trunks should contact Mimi Gan or Eunice Louie at KING-
